Selectmen Accept Compromise Propoal For Parkhurst Site

By a vote of 3-2, the Board of Selectmen voted Monday night in favor of a compromise proposal by the Finance Committee for the reuse of the Parkhurst School, citing the tax revenue the proposal would bring the town against the protests of neighbors of that area.

"I think we have a responsibility that's broader than any neighborhood," said Selectman Barbara Hankins at the meeting in the Selectmen's Office. She added that the Selectmen have a responsibility to get as much money for the land as is possible.

The compromise proposal would offer eight to 12 condomium units in the Parkhurst building, while the remaining land would be divided into house lots.

At last week's Selectmen's meeting, the neighbors of that area protested a plan to convert the Parkhurst School into a 21-unit condomium after it closes, along with the Washington and Noonan Schools, next spring. The neighbors stated at that time that they would rather see the site converted into house lots or open space.

"It is the concept of multi-family housing in single family house lots that we object to," said Town Meeting member Barbara Pacetti, a resident of the Parkhurst area, at the meeting. "We would actively oppose any zoning proposals for condominium use."

Finance Committee Chairman Carolyn Ward, who presented the proposal to the Selectmen, stated that "we have heard the neighbors loud and clear." However, she added that multi-family use presents the most money return for Winchester and fills a need for alternative housing. "We're very reluctant to eliminate that assest," said Ward.

Mary Brink, another neighbor of that area and also a Town Meeting member, told the Selectmen that they could discuss the money the town would make on condominiums, but "it's very hard to put a dollar amount on the way the Parkhurst neighbors feel."

Hankins was joined in her vote by Chairman Richard Wilsack and Selectman Wade Welch. Selectmen Edward O'Connell and Arthur Dunbar were opposed to the compromise and sided with the neighbors for house lots.

The Selectmen did not take any action on the fate of the Washington School, waiting to see if the Winchester Hospital would be interested in taking it over. The proposal by the Alternative School Reuse Committee suggests a combination of 16 one and two bedroom apartments and condominiums.

The Board did vote 5-0 to accept the proposal that the Noonan School be divided into two lot parcels. On one side the school would be converted to low-moderate income elderly housing, while a mini-park would be built on the other side.

School Committee Gives Final Okay To Alternative Redistricting Plan

By a 4-1 vote the School Committee Monday night gave final approval to an Alternative Plan for redistricting elementary school students next year, following the consolidation of three elmentary schools at the end of this academic year.

The dissenting vote among those present was Committee Chairman Constance Papas who changed her vote in support of the Alternative Plan to support of the plan presented originally by Superintendent of Schools William MacDonald.

Papas said she would change her vote with the following conditions: that more of the Ambrose population be redistricted to Lynch from the Flats area; that all Muraco students originally slated to be redistricted from Muraco to Lynch be allowed to remain at Muraco; and that a bus be employed to transport students travelling by Winter Pond. Papas's plan was not approved.

Papas told the Committee and approximately 50-member audience that despite the safety issue of students walking by Winter Pond and sending a contingent of students from Muraco to Lynch, "otherwise the Superintendent's plan was a good one."

Committee members can't make their judgment now on the basis of what might happen three to five years hence. Safety is an issue that can be dealt with, she said. To transport every child to school safely and provide balance in numbers she said she would be willing to provide a bus.

The Superintendent was asked to come up with a plan of balance, she said. It doesn't make sense to have many students in one school and several empty seats in another. (Under the Alternative Plan Ambrose's expected enrollment is 291).

Before the final vote Committee members and audience alike once again vented their feelings.

Ambrose School Principal Robert G. Forest spoke on how the school will accommodate the 291 expected students through utilization of the school's open space area.

Charles road resident James McGrath, saying that he was representing parents from the Winchester Gardens, told t Committee that it appears the students from this area will be bused to Lynch or some other school.

More kids than necessary are involved in the redistricting program and the basis for the lines drawn are socio-economic, he said. "We as parents feel this is unjust."

Maureen McWilliams of Woodside road made two observations: -that the School Committee completely ignored the Superintendent's plan and in 20 minutes accepted Committee member Roger Bauman's plan. "There must be a road of compromise between the two," she said.

-that opening Lynch is "allowing us to put a feather in Winchester's cap as Ambrose is a feather in Winchester's cap." "The greatest fear," she said," is that your kids would come down Woodside road, meet my children, and that our children may become friends."

Papas, in her remarks supporting the original redistricting plan, addressed McWilliams's comments by saying that "a lot of what Maureen McWilliams said is true. Now we're getting into a philosophical discussion as to how much we want students to be in a small group until junior high. But, it can't be wrong to put kids into a larger neighborhood because Winchester is one neighborhood," she said.

It's not easy to redistrict, but it is easier if one complete school is moved to another complete school, said Catherine Alexander. Committee members, she said, all try to provide equal programs and consistency at all schools. She said she would come out on the side of the the Alternative Plan because she favors neighborhood schools. "I will do my best to insure the best education for all kids involved," Alexander said.

Sandra Rodgers, who proposed a subsequently defeated motion that Wildwood street be used as the line separating the Ambrose and Lynch districts, said the Alternative Plan has merits but she would feel more comfortable if the Committee considered sending more students from Ambrose to Lynch, so as not to overcrowd brose.

A request by area residents that Holton street, not the Aberjona River, be the cut off point for the Holton, Baldwin and Cross street area will be considered by the Superintendent.

Under the Alternative Plan 53 students in the Yale street area who had been designated to what will be the Lynch elementary district will remain in the Ambrose district. This results in a net enrollment next year of 291 Ambrose students against the proposed enrollment of 258.

The Lincoln and Mystic School districts will remain under the present district lines. The Lynch School population will be comprised of all of the present Noonan district and the former Muraco district west of the Boston & Maine railroad from the Woburn line to the Aberjona River.

Muraco School will include all of the present Washington district and all of the present Muraco district not redistricted to Lynch.

The Vinson-Owen School will include that school's present distirctand the Parkhurst area west of 129 High st. Wainwright, Surrey, Wagonwheel and Cambridge (north of Pond) streets were also assigned to the Vinson-Owen district. The assignment of these roads had been deferred one week.

Under the Alternative Plan special needs classes will remain the same as under the original plan. One special needs class of six at Lynch would be transferred to McCall. McCall would then have one class of six plus the one class of eight already there.

Two special needs classes at Lincoln School (a total of 20) will remain there. Two Parkhurst and one Muraco special needs classes would be transferred to Lynch.

As a result of the Alternative Plan the expected school enrollments for September, 1980 are as follows: Ambrose, 291; Lincoln, 293; Lynch, 284; Muraco, 359; Mystic, 233; and Vinson-Owen, 271.

Review Of Twenty Articles In Town Meeting Warrant

The purpose of the following review is to provide a capsulized view of the 20 articles in this fall's Town Meeting Warrant, and to familiarize residents with the reasons behind their submission in the Warrant.

Town Meeting begins Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Article 1. "To see if the Town will hear and act upon reports of Town Officers and Agencies, appropriate a sum of money for the publication of said reports or take any other action in relation thereto." This article is to appropriate the necessary sums of money for the annual Town Report. It is a standard article.

Article 2. "To see if the Town will appropriate a sum or sums of money from general surplus revenue to be added to Fiscal 1980 accounts previously appropriated and for the following purposes:
1230 Board of Selectmen, School Reuse Expenses8
1250 Town Manager, Excess Energy Expenses
8130 Non-Contributory Retirement, Pensions and Annuities
8150 Workman's Comp6nsation
9200 S-2 School Buildings Capital Energy Project or take any action in relation thereto.

The money being sought for item 1230 is approximately $3000, which was recommended by the Finance Committee and requested by the Alternative School Reuse Committee. It will cover such expenses as advertising, drafting, printing, surveying and secretarial costs. Any money appropriated that is not spent would be returned to the town.

The sum being requested for item 1250 is ! approximately $226,000 to handle excess energy expenses that the town has incurred since the energy budget was approved. For fiscal 1980, the town budgeted $856,264, when it will actually spend, according to an in-house energy committee studying the energy situation in Winchester, approximately $1,130,865. The nationwide rise in the cost of fuel oil, natural gas and gasoline are the reasons for the appropriation request.

The total being requested for item 8130 is $15,000, while $70,000 is being sought for item 8150.

Finally, approximately $239,000 will be sought at the Town Meeting for item 9200, which deals with the four energy proposals four Winchester schools, developed by the in-house energy committee.

This item may not be discussed, however, as payback figures on the proposals are scheduled to be delivered to the Town Manager's office by tomorrow and could effect the figures that are being suggested.

Article 3. "To see if the Town will vote to appropriate a sum of money to be added to sums previously appropriated under Article 8 of the 1978 Fall Annual Town Meeting to continue an experimental local suburban transit service in conjunction with the MBTA and take any other action in relation thereto."

This article asks for approximately $20,000 to continue the mini-bus service in Winchester. The mini-bus coordinator has reported that because of an underestimate in the contract rate of the mini-bus service, the system needs an appropriation of $20,000 to continue service for the remainder of the fiscal year.

Article 4. "To see if the Town will vote to appropriate a sum of money to be spent by the Permanent Building Committee to contract for professional services to prepare plans and specifications and to seek bids for the construction and reconstruction of portions of Winchester Senior High

Recycling Plant A "Proven Process" Says Refuse Company Official

With the town considering the prospect of becoming involved in a multi-community recycling plant in North Andover, representatives from the group oganizing the project appeared before the Board of Selectmen Monday night.

"The technology we are offering is a proven process," said Jack Hunter, Director of Environmental Systems for UOP, the Chicago based company that is constructing the refuse plant. "There are no uncertainties, no surprises."

"Basically it's a machine to burn refuse to make electricity," said William Gaughn, Director of the Massachusetts Bureau of Solid Wastes.

The proposed recycling plant, where Winchester would bring its solid waste for a per ton fee, has not yet been constructed. Presently the representatives are seeking communities to subscribe.

There hasn't been a complete contract drawn up yet, though Hunter hopes to have one by the middle of November, but the agreement would basically be that each town guarantees a certain amount of refuse. The revenue generated by the project is distributed among the towns involved in the project. If one community failed to supply the amount of refuse that it guaranteed, there are safeguards so that other communities involved don't lose money.

The rate per ton which each town would pay, depends upon a ruling which UOP is seeking from the Department of Revenue, regarding their tax status. Should they get a decision which would lower their tax rate, the charge to communities would be around $3 per ton. Should they get an unfavorable decision, the cost would range from $10 to $16.

The contract which Winchester and the 30 to 40 other communities UOP is planning on handling enter into, lasts 20 years. This was one area of the project that concerned a number of the Selectmen Monday night, as they are reluctant to lock the town into a contract for that length of time.

Another part of the project that has the Selectmen questioned was a possible guarantee from the state, should the project breakdown. "We are talking to present owners of existing landfills to purchase those sites," said Gaughn. He added that this would be part of the state's responsibility in the contract. As of now, the state has not yet found a backup site.

Selectman Edward O'Connell stated that Winchester's support of the project might depend on whether the state can guarantee a backup site in the event of a breakdown. "If communities were ready to go with the project and that was what was holding it up, I'm sure it would be done," Gaughn pointed out.

According to Hunter, this would be the first refuse plant UOP has ever constructed. It does, however, have 60 years experience in building chemical plants. Hunter told the Selectmen that a refuse plant is "far less" difficult to build than a chemical plant.

The plant is scheduled for completion in about two or three years, with a deadline for joining having been set at Jan. 31 of next year. Any community entering after that date would have to pay a late fee of 25 cents per ton.

The question of whether the town should enter into a contract for the refuse center is Article 9 on the November Town Meeting Warrant.

Ullian Trying For One 'Last Gasp'

Saying that his group is attempting a "last gasp and making an effort" to save Winchester House, the proposed low-to-moderate income elderly housing project, developer Arthur Ullian is looking into ways that might make the project feasible.

Ullian originally tried to obtain state and federal funding for the complex through a Chapter 121A tax break application. This agreement would have set his tax rate on the project at $68,000, instead of the $150,000 the Board of Assessors say he would have to pay without the break.

The Planning Board turned down Ullian's application last month, however, saying the site was not "open, decadent" or "blighted," as it must be to qualify for a 121A. It was believed at that time, that the rejection of the application meant the end of any plans for Winchester House.

"We're trying to investigate alternative arrangements to make this project feasible for HUD (Department of Housing and Urban Development) financing," said Ullian last week. He hopes to convince HUD that Winchester House is not a usual development.

"A building such as this should be taxed differently than a regular building," Ullian pointed out. "What's the value of a property where you don't make any profit? Well there isn't any."

Ullian noted that the project has become more than a business deal to him. He added that if it was, he would have given up long ago. "We've really made a committment to get this damn thing through. We're going to push very hard."

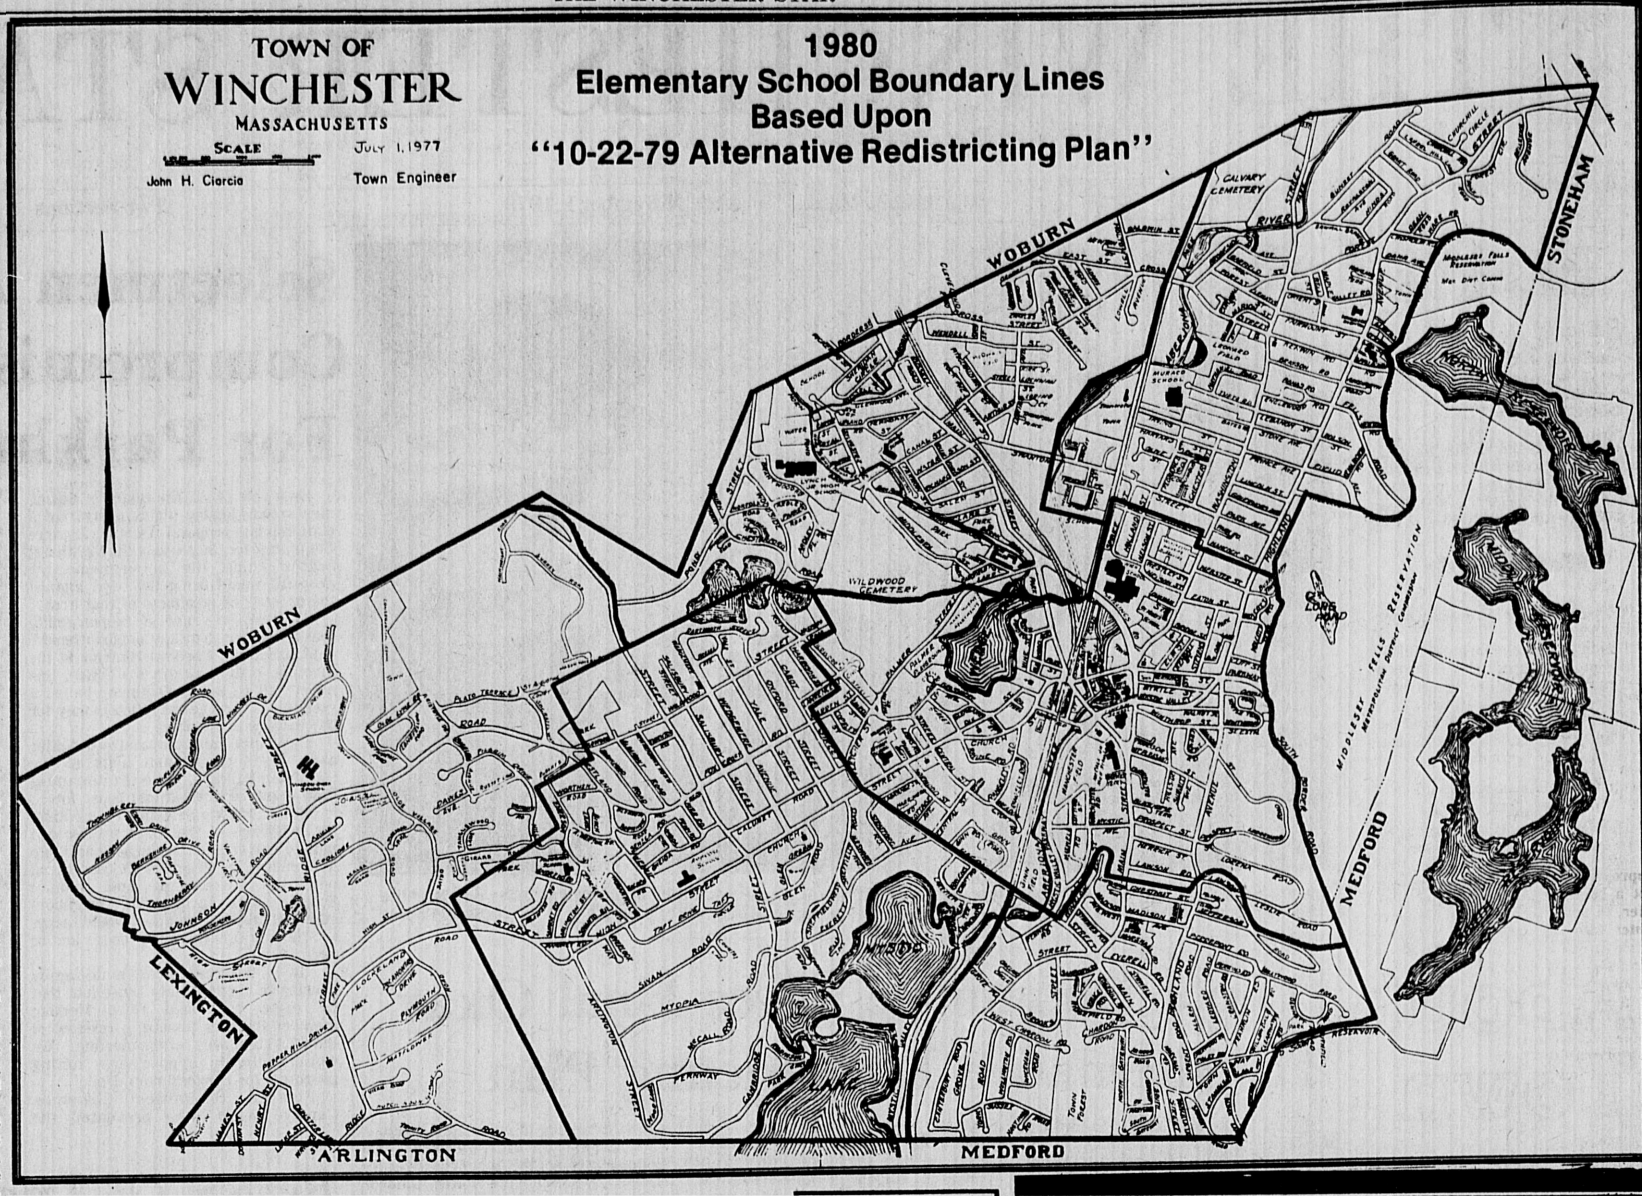
After the Planning Board vote that rejected Ullian's 121A application, the developer was encouraged by a number of residents in Winchester to continue to try and get the project completed.

"I've gotten to know those people in Winchester," Ullian pointed out, "not only the elderly but others who have an interest, like the clergy. They all come out. I mean you just don't see that in a lot of communities. They're just good people."

Ullian continued that "Winchester is the example of a community which needs that sort of housing desperately. But because you get three members of the Planning Board who don't want it, you have 3000 elderly homeless. It's not right."

The proposed project, which would be built at the Waterfield-Rangely roads area, is a 105 unit, $5 million apartment complex.

If Ullian is able to convince HUD that Winchester House should be taxed differently, he may get the tax break he originally sought, without the ties of regulatory agreements he would have had to make with the town in a 121A. Regulatory agreements are constraints which the town could have imposed on Ullian in exchange for the tax break. They include such demands as maintenance of the area and supervision of the type of brick that would be used on the outside of the building.



Local Scouts Pitch Tents

Two hundred Boy Scouts and Webelos from Winchester, Woburn and Arlington pitched their tents at Winning Farm, Woburn, for a camporee recently.

Winchester's Troop 503, with 37 scouts, had the largest number of campers. In the initial inspection of equipment and camp, every patrol in Troop 503 won an award. That troop's Flaming Arrow patrol, with John Kenney as patrol leader, won the overall award as best patrol at the campout.

Tom Raphael, who is the troop's institutional representative and the newly appointed chairman of Musket District, Minuteman Council, joined in the campout.

Troop 503, which is sponsored by the First Congregational Church, also made plans to launch their annual Christmas wreath sale. In two weeks Scouts will be going door-to-door to take orders for wreaths. Chairmen for the the sale are Ray Kenney and Mrs. Thomas Lindsley.

School or take any other action in relation thereto."

The sum of approximately $60,000 to $70,000 is being sought for specifications for the repairs to the roof and walls of Winchester High School. The actual cost of the repairs may run around $1 million.

Article 5. "To see if the Town will vote to appropriate a sum of money to be expended by the Board of Assessors to revalue the assessments on all real and personal property throughout the Town by expert appraisal or otherwise, and to assist in making the necessary revisions in compliance with the lawful orders of the State Tax Commission, and authorize said Board to execute the contractual agreements necessary or advisable in connection therewith or take any other action in relation thereto."

The sum of $70,000 is being sought by the Board of Assessors so that the town can tax by classification at 100 percent of value. This article may be postponed to a later date or to the Spring Town Meeting, as the Selectmen want more time to look into the costs as to what a firm revaluation would cost.

Article 6. "To see if the Town will vote to appropriate a sum of money to be spent by the Town Manager to contract for professional services to conduct a pilot study of alternate treatment methods and improvements to the distribution system of the Town's public water supply, to prepare preliminary designs and conduct field tests and report on same, or to take any other action in relation thereto."

This article seeks an appropriation of $35,000 for microscreening testing as well as other water treatment methods.

Article 7. "To see if the Town will vote to appropriate a sum of money to construct a bikeway in the Town of Winchester, to authorize the Town Manager to enter into an agreement with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts under General Laws, Chapter 90E as inserted by Chapter 356 Acts of 1977 to accept funds from the State to assist in the construction of said bikeway and to take any other action in relation thereto."

Approximately $30,000 is being sought for the construction of the bikeway which would run from Lake street to Pond street in Woburn. Seventy-five percent of the appropriation will be reimbursed to the town by the state. The final 25 percent has already been appropriated as the bikepath was on the original plans for the Department of Public Works Project.

Article 8. "To see if the Town will hear and act on a report by the Board of Selectmen and-or the School Committee concerning collective bargaining procedures and agreements, if any; raise and appropriate a sum of money for any revisions or adjustments of wages and salaries for employees under collective bargaining agreements or otherwise; determine in what manner the money shall be raised and appropriated, authorize the Board of Selectmen to file a petition with the General Court for any authority needed in connection therewith, and take any other action in relation thereto."

This is a standard article, put in as a safeguard in the event that any negotiations involving the town were resolved quickly, in which case the town would be ready for approval. Any funds involved in such a negotiaion would then have to be appropriated.

Article 9. "To see whether the Town under and pursuant to authority granted in General Laws Chapter 40D, Section 21 (g), as amended, will authorize the Board of Selectmen to enter into a contract for operation of a solid waste disposal facility for the disposal of acceptable waste and for the use of by-products resulting from the operation of such facilities which contract will:
1. be for a term of 20 years, more or less;
2. include rovisions requiring the Town to deliver minimum amounts of acceptable waste and requiring that payments for the facilities to be based in a part therein;
3. provide for unit prices for the disposal of acceptable waste that will be graduated and for adjustments thereof, for the use or sale of steam, electricity and other byproducts resulting from the use of the facility, and for credits of payments to the Town resulting therefrom;
4. provide for similar commitments by other communities;
5. provide for the use by the Town, other municipalities or other persons of the uncommitted capacity of such facility;
6. contain other provisions incidental and related to the foregoing general matters; and, to take any other action in relation thereto."

This article concerns the resource recovery project in North Andover. The concerns that have been expressed regarding the town's involvement include whether Winchester should get locked into a 20 year agreement, what safeguard is the state providing the communities involved and how viable is the private organization that is organizing the refuse center?

Article 10. "To see if the Town will vote to accept the provisions of Chapter 639, Acts of 1977, inserting in General Laws, Chapter 71, a new section numbered 71E which will permit the establishment of a revolving account t of funds received by the School Committee in connection with the conduct of adult education and continuing education programs including, but not limited to, adult physical fitness programs conducted under Section 71B, summer school programs and programs designated by prior vote of said committee as community school programs, and in connection with the use of school property under Section 71, which funds may thereafter be spent by the School Committee for such programs without further appropriation by the Town Meeting."

Under the present set-up, the School Committee must allocate a certain amount of money to support the summer school, the adult education program and any of the school building rentals. At the same time, all revenue collected from these operations goes directly to the town. A revolving account would transfer any revenue these programs generate back to the School Committee.

Article 11: "To see if the Town will vote to accept as a gift a sum of money from the estate of Mary Linnane for the Public Library and take any action in relation thereto."

According to Austin Broadhurst, chairman of the Board of Library Trustees, the Board submitted this article because under the law a gift must be accepted by Town Meeting, despite the fact that the purpose of the gift is to benefit a particular department.

To date the town has received an estimated $15,000 from the will of Mary Linnane. The principal amount of the funds, which is under the jurisdiction of the trust fund commissioners, have been invested. The income from these invested funds has been used to purchase more expensive and specialized books, not bought through the library budget.

Article 12: "To see if the Town will vote to authorize the Board of Library Trustees to enter into an agreement with the Public Library of the City of Beverly to authorize under certain terms and conditions to provide for an exchange of library services or to take any action in relation thereto."

Broadhurst says the Board of Library Trustees will explain to Town Meeting members the possibility of having a future exchange program of clerical and technical employees with the Beverly public library. The idea behind the exchange program is to give Winchester library employees exposure to other methods of running a library.

No action will be necessary on this article, Broadhurst says. If a specific plan is worked out at a later date, it will be brought before a subsequent Town Meeting.

Article 13: This article is a lengthy list of conditions which, if approved, will "spell out in black and white what the ground rules are prior to an occupancy license being given to a community residence," says Board of Selectmen Chairman Richard Wilsack.

Wilsack says that the Board's intention in submitting this article was to guard against any possible future misunderstandings in the location of community residences in Winchester. The impetus for this article, he says, was the Cross street community residence.

Although the article, if approved, would not be retroactive it could apply to any alterations or additions to the Cross street residence.

Article 14: This article, also submitted by the Board of Selectmen, is similar to an article deferred by Town Meeting last May which called for the establishment of a Committee For Equal Opportunity.

Wilsack says that although the idea for this committee stems from the work of a School Committee subcommittee, the idea behind the Committee is to have a broad based town committee on equal opportunity "whose focus is not only on the schools." Although the focus has been on what types of educational programs it would make sense for the school to support, at some point the Committee would look at other types of affirmative action programs.

Article 15: "To see if the Town will amend the Personnel Policy Guide and Compensation Plan by eliminating the position of Operations Manager, Buildings & Grounds."

The purpose of this article, which was filed by petition, was "submitted on the basis that it's a superfluous position" according to Vincent Carroll, one of the sponsors of Articles 15-18.

Carroll says there is already grounds and building maintenance positions, and that the salary of the job in question is "thrown away."

Article 16: "To see if the Town will amend the Winchester Home Rule Charter, Article 7, 'Standing Committees,' to further define the powers and duties of the Government Regulations Committee."

Carroll says this article was submitted because it would be a better proceedure to have vacancies filled by an election in a particular precinct, not by the Moderator as it is done now.

Article 17: "To see if the Town will amend the Winchester Home Rule Charter, Article 4, 'Town Manager,' relating to determination of Manager's salary."

This article was submitted to leave the Town Manager's salary to the discretion of Town Meeting, Carroll says. Presently the Board of Selectmen have exclusive rights over this issue.

Article 8: "To see if the Town will appropriate the necessary funding to reinstate the garbage collection program in the Department of Public Works."

This article is a motion for a financial appropriation to reinstate the garbage collection which is being phased out by the town. Carroll says the town should provide this service since several Winchester residents don't have access to an automobile fordisposal at the town facilities.

Article 19: "To see if the Town will provide public garbage collection and under what considerations."

Former Town Meeting Moderator Harrison Chadwick, who spearheaded this petition article, says the town should provide garbage removal. It's a fundamental service, just like schools or water, which is generated in every household every day, he says. "It's really a health measure."

Article 19 differs from Article 18 since this aiticle gives the Board of Selectmen the right to determine the nature and fees of service which would be involved. Article 18 merely restores the item stricken from the budget by Town Meeting last May.

Article 20: "To see if the Town will hear and act on reports of Town committees heretofore established; authorize the appointment of new committee members to fill vacancies or otherwise, authorize the establishment of new committees or the dissolution of old committees; raise and appropriate money for the expenses of any such committee, and take any action in relation thereto."

Wilsack says he thinks there will not be any action necessary under this article. Two items, an in-house energy proposal and report of the Alternate Use Committee, which might have been covered by this article, will be discussed under Article 2.

Star Office To Be Open November 12

The Winchester Star editorial office will be open on Veterans' Day Nov. 12. Although the deadline for news copy will be Monday at 3 p.m., it is advised that releases be mailed early or dropped through the 5 Church st. mail slot during the weekend. The deadline for advertising remains at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

School News

WHS Program

After lengthy discussion the School Committee approved, conceptually, the recommendations of the high school curriculum next year set forth in the Committee's secondary curriculum subcommittee report.

No decision was made, however, on a request by secondary English teachers that instead of teachinq five classes of 25 students, they teach four classes of 20 students.

The reason behind the request, according to staff representatives, is to allow these faculty members an extra period in which to have conferences with other with students, correct papers and meet with other teachers and-or department chairmen. The impetus for the request was that these teachers, with additional writing courses, do not have enough time for these activities, they say.

Sanborn House

The decision as to the disposition of Sanborn House was deferred until an unspecified later date. The Committee received a letter from the Board of Selectmen in which the Board indicated they are willing to wait for the committee's recommendations on the disposition of the school administration building.

Voke School Committee Meeting Tonight

There will be a special meeting of the Northeast Metropolitan Regional Vocational District School Committee tonight at 7 p.m. in the conference room of the school to discuss the Fiscal 1981 budget.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

The House

Beacon Hill Roll Call records local representatives' votes on the only important roll call from last week's session.

Capital Outlay (S 2050) - House rejected 133-15, the Senate version of a capital outlay budget for various construction and improvement projects throughout the state.

While exact final figures are not yet available, it is estimated the Senate version totals some $165 million, while the original version passed by the House had a price tag of roughly $178 million.

The Senate version also contains a provision for a $4.4 billion statutory debt ceiling.

Supporters of accepting the Senate version argued the Senate version is a better one, and noted it is $13 million less than the House version. Many praised the Senate's provision for a debt ceiling and said it was essential.

Opponents argued many Senate amendments were passed swiftly and without debate and noted the House does not yet have the exact figures on the total amount of the version passed by the upper branch. They urged rejection of the Senate version and said the best way to handle the differences would be through a House-Senate Conference Committee.

Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr. voted against it.

The Senate

Beacon Hill Roll Call records local senators' votes on four key roll calls from last week's session.

Energy Reorg (S 2048) - Senate defeated 34-2, an amendment to kill the bill creating a State Executive Office of Energy Resources.

Amendment supporters argued the Senate could best serve the state by increasing funding for emergency fuel assistance instead of spending money creating a new state agency and adding to the bureaucracy.

Amendment opponents defended the energy reorg package saying it will centralize efforts in state government to coordinate and promote energy conservation and alternative energy development.

Sen. Samuel Rotondi voted for the bill.

Emergency Fuel Aid (S 2048) - Senate approved 36-0, an amendment to the Energy Reorganization package.

The amendment hikes from $10 million to $20 million the funding for a program for emergency fuel assistance to the elderly and needy families. The King administration had recently urged the Legislature to handle the fuel assistance issue in separate legislation.

Supporters of the hike to $20 million, however, argued the energy reorg bill was a logical place to add the amendment and pointing to the hike in fuel prices, they defended the $10 million hike.

Rotondi voted for it.

State Archives (S 2050) Senate rejected 28-6, an amendment to the capital outlay budget for various construction and improvement projects around the state.

The amendment would have deleted $11.9 million allowance for construction of a state archives museum near the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library in Columbia Point.

Supporters of the $11.9 million argued the state rents and maintains warehouses all over the state to store records and explained construction of the archives would centralize the storage of these vital records and make them more manageable.

Opponents argued the $11.9 million price tag was outrageous, said there were existing buildings to store records and urged the money be used to help the state's citizens in some tangible way.

One senator suggested the records be bundled up and given to the needy to burn for heat this winter.

Rotondi voted for the archives.

Community Colleges (S 2050) - Senate rejected 26-4, another amendment to the capital outlay budget. This amendment would delete $18 million for construction of a North Shore Community College campus in Lynn and $3.2 million for the preparation of plans for expansion and improvement to the campus of the existing North Shore Community College in Beverly.

Supporters of the $20 million plus items argued the expansion of the community college in Beverly and construction of the new site in Lynn are important and necessary, noting that because of rising costs for private colleges, more students will be going to state colleges.

Opponents said they were not against a community college on the North shore, but argued they were against a $20 million item for two colleges, in Beverly and Lynn, which are only 10 miles apart. Some noted the Lynn campus is being approved because of pressure exerted by House Speaker Thomas McGee who represents Lynn.

Rotondi voted for the two items.

Sanborn House Built In 1892

The Sanborn House at 8 Black Horse ter. a colonial revival type, has been in the Sanborn family since it was built in 1892.

It was originally built by Frederick A. Sanborn, son of Alfred S. and Carolina (Noyes) Sanborn, who was born in 1843 and died April 8, 1911. He came to Winchester in 1884. For 35 years he was connected with the Blackstone National Bank of Boston. Upon liquidation of the bank, he became associated for some years with Redfern of the Winchester Savings Bank and retired in 1907.

For many years he was deacon of the Tremont Temple Baptist Church in Boston and for almost 20 years Deacon of the First Baptist Church in Winchester. He also served the church as Treasurer and Sunday School Superintendent.

His son, Harry C. Sanborn, became the second owner. He was born November 23, 1878 in Boston and died April 16, 1953. Sanborn was prominent in both civic and community activities. He served as a Selectmen from 1914 to 1916 and was also a member of the Building Committee, appointed in 1922 for the Wyman, Mystic, Noonan and Lincoln Schools which were completed in 1924.

He served the Winchester Savings Bank in various capacities for many years, among them president from 1921 to 1935. Also, he was a member of the Building Committee of the Winchester Hospital at the time of expansion and active in the Home for Aged People serving as Clerk and Treasurer in the early 1900's.

Sanborn was a prominent Baptist layman and president of both the Massachusetts Baptist Convention and Boston Baptist Social Union. He was very active in the Winchester Baptist Church serving as deacon for 35 years. He and his family gave the organ to the New Baptist Church in 1929 in memory to his father Frederick A. Sanborn.

The Sanborn House On Black Horse Terrace

On June 12, 1902 he married Carolyn L. (Ellard) in Winchester and both lived to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary in 1951. Mrs. Sanborn was born Nov. 23, 1875 in Woburn and grew up in Rangeley on the Skillings estate. She was active in community and charitable work for many years. She was one of the founders of the Visiting Nurse Association and was among those who started the Winchester Hospital on Washington street, and was an organizer of Winchester Community Relief Committee bringing cheer to the less fortunate at Thanksgiving and Christmas with baskets of food. She was active in the First Baptist Church and a member of the Florence Crittenton League as well as serving several years of the Womens Auxiliary of the New Engand Baptist Hospital in Boston.

Upon the death of his mother in 1954, her son, Robert E. Sanborn became the owner. Born on April 20, 1905, he was educated in the Winchester schools, served in the US Army from 1941 to 1945, and worked at Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis, stock brokers in Boston, for 45 years until he retired in 1970.

In 1942 he married Mary E. Cutter, known as Sue, of Winchester and both are currently living in the old family homestead.

50 Years Ago

(Editor's note: Henry Simonds, a member of the Winchester Historical Commission whose avocation has long been Winchester history, recounts tales of Winchester in 1929.)

The local poilice, who thought they had experienced every request possible for their services, had to revise their opinion last week when two young men arrived at headquarters with what they claimed as a poisonous adder which had fallen from a bunch of bananas.

The reptile was confined in a bottle and was estimated at about three feet in length. Would the police give any advice as to the best way to kill the snake? They would! But, advice was their limit. The young men were obliged to seek an executioner outside the membership of the force.

Hard upon the heels of the snake episode, a youngster arrived at headquarters with the remains of a cat enclosed in a box, which he wanted the police to bury. He, too, drew a blank. Apparently there are limits to what our officers feel called upon to do in protecting the community's life and safety.

The Star welcomes letters to the editor of interest to the citizens of Winchester, written by Winchester residents or former Winchester residents. Letters should be typed, doublespaced, and no longer than 250 words. They must also be signed and accompanied by the author's printed name, address and phone number, in order that we may verify letters. Names and adresses will be withheld on request.

Letters From Readers

Disabled

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

An important law was signed by Gov. King on Oct. 4 (Ch. 600). It will continue Medicade for severely disabled who returned to work.

This will go a long way in breaking down a major disincentive for returning to work as medical supplies, etc. are quite costly. In lobbying S599 of significant impact was a 60M. show on a severely disabled young woman in California who found expenses so overpowering that she finally succumbed to suicide.

A very graphic illustration of the impact and need for financial subsidizing of enormous medical costs.

Maureen A. Winn

Thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Inasmuch as it is not possible for me to express my thanks individually, I should like to take this opportunity, through the columns of The Winchester Star to express my thanks to the nurses, aides and roommates on the second floor of the Winchester Hospital for their kind attention during my recent stay at the hospital.

I am also grateful to my many friends for their flowers, prayers and cards.

Remembers Winchester

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I suppose I shouldn't write about Winchester because I have lived here 55 years or more, but it really is a snob town.

I remember as long as 20 years ago I wrote a piece for the The Star about Thanksgiving and how people should share and do something for our poor. A lady called me and said, Winchester didn't have any poor. In other words, I didn't know what I was writing about, so I told her to come and pick me up and I would take her to one part of Winchester where these folks were. Both ill and elderly and they needed an order of groceries.

Then I was a working person and had a small amount of money but I bought these folks their Thanksgiving dinner. There are an awful lot of selfish people around. They have plenty, and on the holidays could make someone happy if only for a day and also feel better themselves.

There is, whether the have's like it or not, a great deal of poverty all around us. Do something nice for someone is my motto. Whether I can write or not I will do my share.

Louise Chase

Cross Street

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This letter is in response to the written reply of Dr. Robert Okin, Commissioner of the Department of Mental Health, to the Town of Winchester's Board of Selectmen dated Oct. 3.

Dr. Okin does his very best to show that the TOC program had a negative start because of the neighborhood opposition. To quote Dr. Okin, "word of these contracts...generated considerable opposition even before the Area Board and TOC succeeded in reaching the direct abutters."

We, the undersigned abutters, would like to show the people of Winchester the actual timing of events and indicate the real intent of TOC and the Mystic Valley Area Board in this matter. Three of the seven abutters to the property were contacted on Aug. 15 and 16 and told that a mental health residence would be established shortly.

The committee that visited and talked with us consisted of: Deborah Cary, Mystic Valley Area Board member; Sherman Josephson, local realtor and former owner; and a TOC residence counselor from Waltham. What makes this timing unique is that TOC had already applied to the Building Commissioner's office for a Certificate of Occupancy on Aug. 14.

This event indicates their lack of real intent to work with the community and neighborhood people when you realize that the Building Commissioner must act within fourteen days from date of application. TOC and the Area Board did not notify the Board of Selectmen of community intentions until Aug. 20th. It was at this meeting that the abutters and many other neighborhood people responded with a petition opposing such action without any advance and proper notification.

At this point we would like to make you aware of several events and dates that give credence to our contention that TOC never had any intentions of anything but minimal community contact. We have since discovered the property on Cross street in question had unusual timing in the passing of ownership. The Purchase and Sale Agreement was signed in April and the completed ownership was transmitted on July 31st to Sherman Josephson and resold by Josephson on Aug. 2 to Leroy Chute.

To verify that the real intended use of this house was known long before papers were passed to Leroy Chute, we have enclosed a copy of the Fiscal 1980 contract between TOC and the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health dated and signed on May 18 by Dr. Amos Nahor, TOC president, and approved by Dr. Ernest Cook, Mystic Valley Area director, on May 22. It is identified by No.432, Fy 80, region 4-A and directly corresponds to this mental health residence by the exact amount of $126,531.68 given by Dr. Cook to the press for the budget needed to operate the Cross Street residence.

One last comment on the timing of TOC and the Area Board. The open house referred to by Dr. Okin in his letter of Oct. 3 was scheduled for the evening of Aug. 28th, exactly two weeks after the application for the Certificate of Occupancy. Because the house was not ready to meet the educational building codes established for these residences, the actual temporary Certificate of Occupancy was not signed until Aug. 31st.

We feel that the Mystic Valley Area Board and TOC had more than adequate time to "work with community" than the seven to 10 days before scheduled occupancy. What happened to all the time that elapsed after the budget was accepted by Dr. Cook on May 22nd or after Leroy Chute became the owner who, in turn, leased the property to TOC?

Sincerely,
Richard Fiore

Old Photos

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Has anyone noticed the display of "Old Winchester" photos around town in the windows of various businesses?

Susan Keats, the town archivist, deserves a vote of thanks for producing these nostalgic reminders of the past in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce's Discover Winchester promotion.

The past can be most valuable in providing insight for the future, and for most of us, there is a special charm and fascination to be found in seeing "the way things were then."

My sincere thanks to the Winchester Archival Center for this fine exhibit.

Restaurant

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Just a note to let you know how lovely Winchester's new addition is - Randall's Restaurant. As a rule new business openings wouldn't merit a letter, but you see, this is special because I'm wheelchair bound and Randall's is the first accessible facility in the town.

Mr. Drougas, the owner, was nice enough to take me on a tour of Randall's, pointing out the various features that make it come in total compliance with the Architectural Barrier Law. A ramp, accessible rest rooms and a lower telephone. (My thanks also to Dom Serratore, the town's Building Inspector, for his excellent overseeing of the project).

In the late spring I read of the acceptance of the liquor license for Randall's and the proposed starting date for the new mini-bus on the front page of The Star. It was like waking up in 100 years later in Brigadoon, when the town had finally awakened.

Good luck to Randall's.

Maureen A. Winn

P.S. Now, if I had my accessible minibus, I could go down for lunch someday. It will be winter pretty soon. People will wonder why no one is using it.

Nuclear Power

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Last April a great deal of a media attention focused on a demonstration against nuclear power held at Rocky Flats, Colorado.

Press, radio, and television outdid each other in informing Americans that 10,000 persons gathered to support the "anti-nuke" campaign.

Yet, on Aug. 26 over 16,000 Americans gathered at the very same location to demonstrate their support of nuclear energy. Did you hear about this event on radio or television? Did you read about it in your newspapers? I didn't.

What is interesting is that the 10,000 anti-nuclear demonstrators had been recruited to come to Colorado from all over the US (how like Seabrook). But, those who demonstrated in favor of the use of nuclear power were local citizens - working people, veterans and their families who don't make a habit of going to demonstrations.

The American people are not getting all the information they need on the subject of nuclear power - or any other aspcet of our nation's energy situation which they need to make intelligent, informed decisions in this crucial area.

Rupert Kuglin

Parkhurst School

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Parkhurst School is slated to close in June, 1980.

The Alternative School Use Committee (ASUC) has been formed to make recommendations to the Board of Selectmen regarding the disposition of the Parkhurst School property, plus the Noonan and Washington Schools and Sanborn House.

The ASUC has held open meetings at which it repeatedly stressed the sincere desire to consider the wishes of the neighborhoods and to come up with potential reuses of the properties which are compatible with the existing environments of the neighborhoods.

In response to this desire, a group of concerned Parkhurst Community homeowners polled the immediate neighborhood as to what would be acceptable and what would be objectionable for alternative uses of the Parkhurst property.

Every immediate abutter-taxpayer to the Parkhurst School site responded to this poll. Not one immediate abutter gave condominiums as the first choice, and only one gave condominiums as the second choice. All gave either open space or single house lots as their first choice.

The poll was extended to include the fringe abutters who would be directly affected by the usage of the school property. 103 of the 112 homeowners responding to the poll gave open space or single house lots as their first choice and six preferred condominiums, two chose elderly housing and one chose a school.

The poll included a category entitled "Use Most Objectionable." 78 percent of the immediate abutters responding found variations of the multi-family housing most objectionable. 73 percent of the fringe abutters listed variations of multi-family housing as most objectionable.

We have given the results of this poll to the ASUC and to the Board of Selectmen. The choice of single house lots is consistent wtih the ASUC report, dated Nov. 16, 1978, to Town Meeting Members, which stated the Parkhurst neighborhood's positive reaction to house lots. It also reinforces Town Meeting Member Mary Brink's statement at the Nov. 20, 1978 session of Town Meeting that condominiums would not be acceptable because the Parkhurst area is strictly single homes. She stated that house lots would be an acceptable alternative use.

We took the poll to substantiate and reinforce the position we have maintained for the past year. The poll clearly states the neighborhood is opposed to condominiums and favors open space or single house lots.

Washington School

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In the upcoming months and years ahead, all of the taxpayers in "Winchester" are going to be directly affected in the pocketbook by the decision made by the School Committee on a three to two (3-2) vote in the Spring of 1978. I am referring to the decision to close the Washington School rather than the Lincoln or Lynch Schools. Some of the facts and consequences of that decision are as follows:

KEEP THE PARKS OPEN AT ALL COSTS - During a period of declining enrollments, the three larger schools with over 500 pupil capacity (Muraco, Lynch and Lincoln) are to be kept open, while three much smaller schools (Washington, Parkhurst and Noonan) are to be closed. In terms of fuel and maintenance, the taxpayers are going to have to pay more to keep open these large schools. It is ironic, but as projected for next year, two of those larger schools will have under 300 students. It would have been a prudent business decision to close at least one of the large schools to reduce the Town's fixed costs.

CONVERSION OF THE LYNCH TO AN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL - The Town in earlier years opted to convert the Lincoln School from a high school to a junior high and finally to an elementary school. No matter what the cost, that school has always been part of the system. Apparently, a conclusion has been reached to continue with that facility, despite the fact that its fuel efficiency has been questioned.

However, the latest school conversion project will be the conversion of the Lynch Junior High School (600 student capacity) to an elementary school. This massive structure, which is budgeted for $30,000 in fuel for 1979 (two and one-half times Washington School), is scheduled to house only 284 elementary students for fiscal year 1980. In fact, if the School

Veterans' Day Program Planned For November 12

This year's Veterans' Day program Nov. 12 includes the dedication of the new wings of the Town Hall Honor Roll with the names of those men and women who served in the armed forces during the Korean and Vietnam conflicts.

Commanders John Hennelly of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and William Stevenson of the American Legion say that all veterans may participate. Uniform is optional.

Veterans should meet on Laraway road by the Winchester Common at 10:30 a.m. to depart at 10:45 a.m. for the War Memorial at Main street and the Mystic Valley parkway. The parade will then proceed to the Honor Roll at Town Hall before returning to the Winchester Common for dismissal.

Participating in the line of march will be members of the Board of Selectmen, State Senator Samuel Rotondi, State Representative Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr., members of the Police and Fire Departments, members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Ladies' Auxiliary and American Legion. The Winchester High School Band will play taps at the War Memorial and Honor Roll. The Immaculate Conception Drum and Bugle Corps will also be appearing this year.

Rev. George Dufour of the Immaculate Conception Church will deliver the invocation at the Town Hall Honor Roll. Rev. Howard Krueger, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will deliver the benediction.

The veterans' organizations expect that this year's program will be well attended by Winchester residents and veterans.

Noonan School Harvest Hoedown At Lynch Jr. High

The Noonan School Parents Association recently sponsored their second annual Family Harvest Hoedown, held at the Lynch Junior High School under the direction of Gail Powers, program chairman.

Parents and students, alike, promenaded their partners and "hokey pokied" to the liverly music and calling of Mel Dixon.

The finale of the evening was the breaking of pumpkin pinatas, which all the children quickly scrambled for and then enjoyed the contents of. Refreshments were served by Tina McArthur and Carol Hallisey, social chairman.

Winchester Selectmen Edward O'Connell (left) and Richard Wilsack (right) were among the 54 runners who participated in the 5.4 mile road race sponsored by the Employees Association of the New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Woburn. O'Connell, with a time of 35.31, came in sixth while Wilsack placed 13th with a time of 38.26.

Medford Youth Dies From Car Crash Injuries

Mark Tabb, the 18 year-old Medford youth who was involved in a single car accident on Grove street Oct23, died last Friday as a result of injuries sustained in that crash.

Richard Capeillo, 19, of Somerville, was the driver of the Chevrolet Monza which struck an Edison pole at approximately 40 miles per hour, according to Winchester Police. After the accident he was charged with speeding, but that has since been changed to operating so as to endanger, with the death of Tabb.

The two occupants of the car were taken to Winchester Hospital following the accident, with Tabb later being transfered to Mass. General Hospital. He was listed in serious condition there with injuries to his head, shoulder and lungs.

In other police news, a number of illegal entries were reported in town. A Grove street resident reported last Saturday that his house had been broken into and that his 1979 Volkswagen as well as two portable Sony televisions, had been stolen.

According to the police, intruders completely ransacked the master bedroom, dumping cloths and jewelry about the room.

On Friday the Old Colony Gas station reported a total theft of $3,267 in cash, cigarettes and motor oil.

According to the police, a new employee of the company worked alone on the day before, and did not return to work the next day. The police are investigating the robbery.

Medford Police arrested two men in Medford during a house-break on Tuesay, who had earlier broken into a Winchester home on South Border road, according to police reports.

Medford Police report that when they apprehended the two men, property with identification marks for the South Boarder road home were also recovered in the their vehicle.

Police report three Winchester youths were treated at Winchester Hospital Sunday night following a fight with approximately six to eight Medford youths in the K of C parking lot on Mount Vernon street.

Accordintg to the police, the fight apparently started either when a Medford youth kicked the car that the Winchester boys were riding in, or when a Winchester youth insulted one of the girls with the Medford group.

Larceny was reported at a number of sites. On Highland avenue, a battery, valued at $50, was stolen from the owner's automobile as it was parked in his driveway on Monday.

On Thursday, an Emerson road resident reported that a quarter chord of firewood was stolen from his yard, valued at $50. While on Middlesex street, two watches were reported missing from the owner's bedroom. The owner reported that no forced entry was found but the owner feels that someone is getting into his home, according to the police.

Committee had not re-shuffled students from the Muraco School, that massive structure would have a grand total of 157 students. One School Committee member said that we must keep this school open at all costs because there could be a massive influx of students in the community after the year 2000. This type of rationale is very puzzling when one considers the high cost of fuel, electricity and maintenance today.

In addition, it appears that some concerned citizens (Yale Street residents), opted to stay at the Ambrose School, rather than travel to the Lynch. Some citizens felt that sending their childen to Lynch was a safety hazard and a disruption to that neighborhood. Of course, the School C9mmittee immediately voted to give tentative approval to re-shuffle these students back to their original school. The point, of course, is why should we keep open large expensive schools that are apparently unpopular and underutilized? We should close Lynch and keep open the smaller more economical schools.

ALTERNATIVE SCHOOL USE COMMITTEE - This committee was limited to considering only those schools which were preselected by the School Committee for closing. This committee should have looked at ALL the elementary schools and junior high schools, and then made a decision as to which ones were the most advantageous to close in terms of alternative use for the entire Town. For example, this committee might have taken a fresh look at the Lincoln or Lynch School and might have concluded that those schools could add to our tax base and make exellent apartments, condominiums, office buildings or housing for our elderly citizens because of their locations, etc. Unfortunately, this was not the approach taken by this committee.

Sad as it may be, we will all have to pay and pay and pay for these puzzling decisions.

James O'Neil
Town Meeting Member

Grove St. Accident

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Grove street is a pleasant winding road, once an indian trail, shaded by old maples with the remains of an old New England stone wall serving as a front fence for many of the homes. Unfortunately, it is also a death trap. In the past decade, the curve between West Chardon and Canterbury roads has been the site of some 10 (or more?) automobile accidents, as vehicles find themselves unable to negotiate the ill lit and badly banked curve that the road makes here.

Last Tuesday night, we again heard the all too familiar screeching of tires followed by the splintering sound of metal smashing against immovable stone, trees and poles. Once more, a driver had not made it, as his vehicle was torn from the roadway by centrifugal force.

And today we have learned that a young man, the passenger in the car, has died in Mass General Hospital from the critical injuries that he suffered. This senseless death must spur us to act now to remove this deadly hazard.

Some years ago, after one of these accidents, some of us went before you to plead for action on the part of the town. Indeed, police radar patrols were increased for a period (which did do some good) and, more recently, warning signs have been erected.

But, the town has not yet seen fit to address the underlying problem of a dangerous roadway with an improperly banked curve, which leans outward rather than in, literally pulling vehicles from the right of way. There are not even edge markings in the critical area to serve as steering guides to oncoming drivers.

What are you waiting for? That a child walking along the sidewalk be struck and tossed lifeless into our front yards? That yet someone else, perhaps a town resident, end up dead on the pavement? The need for action is clear.

Over the years, an estimate of property damage and medical bills for this hazard must be in the tens, if not hundreds, of thousands of dollars, without accounting for the human suffering to the victims and the anxiety that is produced for us who live on the street. And what risk does the town itself face from suit by an innocent victim, injured because the town has ignored this hazard for years?

We, the citizens of Grove street, demand that the town take immediate steps to correct this continuing peril to our common safety. For you to once again ignore this issue can only be at the expense of your obligations to this town and to the citizens who have elected you.

Eighteen Grove Street residents

Housing

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Now that the "Winchester House" proposals, with all its debatable merits, has been put aside, it surprises me that no one else has yet suggested in these pages that serious consideration be given converting some or all of the Noonan, Parkhurst, or Washington Schools to housing preferentially intended to accommodate the same middle-income elderly that were to have been offered room on the blighted area next to the railroad tracks.

To my mind it is socially advantageous to mix people of all ages fairly evenly throughout the town, rather than to segregate the elderly overmuch. If the schools were all converted to such housing there would be three rather than one new center, and these well apart from one another and other concentrations of older folks in the town. These school locations being distant from the Center, arguably they are better places to live for purposes other than shopping.

For one thing, they're quieter; there is no train to rumble by one's bedroom! A local transportation needs for those without a car. In all locations the surroundings are better places to walk in than down town, and at the Washington School site the Middlesex Fells are just across the street and the hospital a few steps further.

The buildings, having auditoriums already, might retain them as basic facilities for a social center at each building; the grounds might be partially converted to garden plots such as apartment dwellers in Boston cultivate so enthusiastically along the Fenway.

Town ownership of these properties gives it the negotiating strength to make sure this housing would be available to such elderly clientele; and if these school sites can't be seen to promise some of the most interesting apartment housing in Winchester, then let us mourn the passing of imagination!

Compliments Manager

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As many of you probably know, Brigham's is under new management. Papers passed about three months ago, and the new owner and operator is John Morello.

They say experience comes with age, but that certainly is not proved by the turnover of management at Brigham's. Having someone young, enthusiastic and creative, as obviously John is, changes the whole atmosphere there. Compliments to John for his friendly encouragement of a leisurely visit to Brigham's, if only for a cup of coffee.

CENTRAL HUMIDIFICATION FOR HOT WATER HEATED HOME REQUIRES EXPERT INSTALLATION

The words "central humidification" sound like fancy terminology to some people, so we thought we would explain them and a few other things about the need for humidity in your home during the winter.

Central humidification is nothing more than a "compact way" of saying that a humidifier, or equipment that adds moisture to indoor air, is installed in such a way as to provide moisture for the entire house along with the heat from your furnace system.

Every home needs additional moisture indoors during the winter heating season because the air is heated artificially, it is not provided with moisture. The result is too dry air and low humidity levels that can cause your skin and nasal passages to become dry and irritated. Furniture, rugs and even draperies become dry and brittle. Static electricity can be found by simply rubbing your feet on a rug.

"Wet" heated homes without a ductwork system require expert attention and installation work. This is an area, however, where "do-it-yourself" jobs or inexperienced installation work isn't possible. It's often possible, for instance, to find 3 or 4 different methods of application for an individual house. With the APRILAIRE power humidifier a solution has been found that enables us to provide moisture for the entire house.

If you're interested in central humidification with the APRILAIRE, why not call FEDERAL today, and let a number of our engineering staff explain how it can be installed in your home.

For a free survey of your home call FEDERAL HEATING day or night at 623-1515 or 729-6866.

Welch, FinCom Quarrel Over Control Of Energy Funds

A disagreement over who should be in charge of the funds for the town's new energy policy has left Selectman Wade Welch, a member of the in-house committee that drew up the proposal, ready to scrap the whole idea.

"If Town Meeting lets the Finance Committee control the funds then I'm ready to throw down the gauntlet," said Welch on Tuesday. "If the town manager doesn't manage energy, what the hell are we paying him for?"

Welch feels that the funds for the energy policy, which the energy committee has been working on for the past six months, should be under the control of Town Manager Thomas Groux and not the Finance Committee. The town has not had a forceful energy policy in recent years and the first year selectmen feels that the Finance Committee is to blame.

"That's been the problem for the five years," Welch pointed out. "No one's been in charge of energy. The minute you say you can pass it off to the Finance Committee you can forget it."

Finance Committee Chairman Carolyn was not anxious to get into a discussion on the issue before Town Meeting when questioned about Welch's remarks.

"The Finance Committee believes that the responsibility for as large a sum as a quarter of a million dollars and knowing that that number is soft, it can go up or down, that the responsibility should rest with our committee."

Ward added that "since the vast majority of those funds are scheduled to be allocated through the School Department, we see no reason to involve the town manager in the decision making process." Welch admits that forgetting the whole proposal would be a loss at this point. "Of course it would be unfortunate. It'll be six months of work for nothing." However he remains firm in his opinion. "If you're going to run it (the energy policy), run it. A policy that can't be enforced is not a decent policy. I can't tell you how frustrated I feel about this energy policy. Let it go to the Finance Committee and it's sloppy government."

Art Association Meets, Elects New Officers

Newly organized Winchester Art Association will begin the season with the following slate of officers: President-Dorothy Ponti; Vice President - Ralph S. Jacobs; Corresponding Secretary - Mary Jacobs; Recording Secretary - Diane Pearson; Membership - Jean Barba; Treasurer - Frank Barnes, Program - Nancy Watts and Kathy Indigaro; Publicity - Gloria Giello.

A varied program is planned for future meetings. The Association is open to new members, artists and non-artists from Winchester and surrounding areas.

Art is part of life. The Art Association's primary goal is to promote interest in and enjoyment of art in its many forms. Each year the picture lending program enables members to borrow and purchase art - the proceeds from lender's subscriptions are directed toward art scholarship for some worthy student.

Mary Waters Jacobs, local artist, will give a demonstration in pastel portraiture on today in the Rich Room at the public lib4ary from 7 to 9 p.m.

Fight Sends Black, White Students Home From School

Two Winchester High students, a black girl and a white girl, were sent home from school Monday following a fight between the two in an early morning class.

According to Winchester High School Principal Vincent Larocco, the altercation took place in a home economics class when two white girls were told by the teacher to join the black girl at her work unit.

After a moment words were exchanged between the black and one of the white students, but was quieted by the teacher. A short time later more comments were made by each student, and a slight fight broke out which was quickly broken up by the teacher.

According to Larocco, none of the remarks uttered were racial and the argument could have happened between two white girls or two black students.

It was felt by the principal, that it would be in the best interest of the students to send them home for the remainder of the day. Both students met with Larocco and their parents on Tuesday.

Receptions Honor Forte, Retiring McCall Principal

On Oct. 12, close to 300 teachers and friends gathered at the Knights of Colubmus Hall in Winchester to honor Joseph C. Forte, principal of McCall Junior High School.

Forte is retiring in mid November after 34 years in the Winchester Public School system. He served as a classroom teacher, an elementary and junior high principal and as Assistant Superintnedent for Administration.

The invocation was delivered by Howard Niblock, former principal of Winchester High School and former Director of Pupil Services for Winchester. Several plaques were presented to Forte during the festivities: one from the Massachusetts State Legislature, presented by Senator Samuel Rotundi and Representative Sherman Saltmarsh, both of Winchester; one from William Waxman, president of the Massachusetts Junior High School-Middle School Principals' Association, of which Forte is a past president; another from Margaret Hallisey, president of the McCall Parents' Association; and a fourth from the Department of the Army, which was read by Paul G. Davis, treasurer of the Retirement Committee.

Other speakers on the program included Constance Papas, chairman of the Winchester School Committee, who presented Forte with a Video Cassette Tape Recorder, a gift from all those present and from many friends who could not attend this affair; William C. MacDonald, superintendent of schools; Richard Wilsack, chairman of the Winchester Board of Selectmen; Thomas Budrewicz, head of the Winchester Principals' Association; and Stephen Gorrie, president of the Winchester Education Association.

On Oct. 21, at the McCall gymnasium another 400 parents, students, teachers, and friends turned out for a retirement reception in Forte's honor. This event was organized by the Parents' Association with the help of Richard Elliott, assistant principal at McCall, and the McCall Student Council with their advisor, Edward McGrath.

Several gifts were presented to Forte during the afternoon. The McCall Junior High School Chorus, under the direction of Nancy Peterson, and the McCall Junior High School Band, under the baton of Priscilla Miller, presented seveal musical selections.

Forte will retire to Bradenton, Fla. with his wife, Lorraine, who is also retiring as Coordinator of Business Education after 16 years in the Winchester Public Schools.

Children's Film Program This Week At Library

A children's film program will be held in the story hour room of the Junior Library on Sunday, starting starting at 2:30 p.m. and on Tuesday, starting at 1:30 p.m.

The films, which have been provided through the Eastern Mass. Regional Library System, include: "The Band Concert," "Jacky Visits The Zoo," "Curl Up Small," and "Fisherman And His Wife."

It is requested that at least one adult accompany each group of children.

CSA To Meet November 8

The next meeting of the Community School Association will be in the library of the Washington School.

The focus of this meeting will be on the Washington, Parkhurst and Noonan schools which will be closing in June. Speakers include Dr. Martha Grenzeback, Dr. Leonor Rich, and Town Archivist Susan Keats, who will speak on the histories and reminiscences of these schools.

Coffee will be served at 9:15 a.m.

Unitarian Society Plans To Install Rev. Reinhardt Sunday

On Sunday at 4 p.m. Rev. Charles A. Reinhardt will be installed as the 12th minister of The Winchester Unitarian Society at a service in the Church Sanctuary.

Following graduation from Hamline University in Minnesota with a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1947, Reinhardt was awarded a Bachelor of Scientific Theology degree at Harvard Divinity School in 1952. A career of ministries in several Unitarian Universalist churches across the country most recently led to a chaplaincy in The United Ministry of Harvard, combined with directorship of the Cambridge Forum. Reinhardt, with his wife Ruth, and their children, Albert and Ingre, moved to Winchester in April.

The Act of Installation will be conducted by Janet Boone, chairperson of the Society's Standing Committee.

The sermon will be given by Rev. Arthur Foote of Southwest Harbor, Maine, Minister Emeritus of The Unity Church of St. Paul, Minn., who has been a longtime friend of Reinhardt's. Foote is the chairman of The Unitarian Universalist Hymnbook Commission.

Other participants include Rev. Robert A. Storer, Minister Emeritus of the Society, and Rev. Jack Zoerheide, the most recent minister of the Society and now minister of The Keene Unitarian Church in Keene, N.H. He will speak briefly on the transition from the 11th to the 12th ministry of the Society.

Also particpating will be Rev. David Purdy, minister of The Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church and President of The Winchster Ecumenical Association, who will offer recognition to the new minister within our religious community. The town will be represented by Selectman Barbara Hankins.

Ministers of the Massachusetts Bay District, Unitarian Universalist Association, members of The Winchester Ecumenical Association, and The United Ministry of Harvard and Radcliffe have also been invited.

The music portion of the service will be directed by Jonathan Barnhardt, music director of the church. Participating will be the church choir and the Gainsborough Brass Ensemble. The Downs Memorial Carillon will be heard before and after the service.

A reception will follow the installation service.

St. Eulalia's Lecture Series Starts Tuesday

A 15-part lecture series on important aspects of human development is planned by St. Eulalia's Church, starting Tuesday. The lectures are to be given by professionals and will cover such topics as birth, childhood, adolescence, marriage, mid-life, aging, and death and dying.

The Tuesday series is free of charge and will be held weekly in Manion Hall at St. Eulalias from 8:15 to 10 p.m.

The first lecture on "The Birth Experience" will explore how childbirth can be made a more loving experience involving both the infant and the parents. The speaker will be Dr. Peter Rotolo, an obstetrician and lecturer for the Winchester Hospital Prepared Childbirth Program. For more information, call Marie Doyle.

Leaf Disposal

Complex on Swanton street has an area set aside for the disposal of leaves from private property. They must be separated from other trash and removed from bags. Leaves collected will be composted and recycled for use as loam on town projects.

First Congregational Women Plan November Country Fair

The Women's Association of the First Congregational Church are sponsoring the Country Inn Fair Nov. 7 from 7-10 p.m. and Nov. 8 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Winchester Church on the Common.

On Nov. 7 between 5:30-8:30 p.m. the Hamburg Haven of Mrs. Frank Gunby will be open for snacks in Chidley Hall. Dessert will also be served. The Silent Auction of Mrs. Harry Hood, will be located in Chidley Fireside. Items will be sold on the evening of Nov. 7 and Nov. 8. Child Care will be provided during the entire time the Country Inn Fair is open with Mrs. Evander French in charge.

The Marketplace of Mrs. Robert Shirley and Mrs. Edward Haddad will feature many types of handicarafts and painting with 13 area artisans exhibiting and selling their work. The White Elephant table of Mrs. William Burrows and Mrs. Robert Beattie, will again be located in the Henry Room.

The Pantry Shelf and Baked Goods of Mrs. Robert Davis, Prop. can be found in the Music Room, along with cheese, pecans, and fruitcakes of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Goodwin; Candy, Snacks, and the Country Inn Cookbook, of Mrs. Lawrence Becklee and Mrs. Carleton Clogston.

In the Vinton Room Christmas wrapping paper will be found of Mrs. Gilbert Hood and Mrs. Russell Pearl. Also, Jewelry, Old and New, of Mrs. J. P. Barger; SERRV items of Mrs. John McClennan; Christmas decorations of Mrs. Walter Lynch, and Re-cycled Toys of Mrs. Hartley Curtis will be located in the same area.

Hostesses will be circulating throughout while the fair is open. Innkeepers, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Butters Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Niblock will be on duty at the desk in the reception area.

Look for knitted articles of Mrs. Anne Feuss and Mrs. A.R. Brink; Toymakers, for many years called the Grandmothers with Mrs. Donald Rowlingson; Gifts of Mrs. George Connors; and Books of Mrs. Bertha Blanchard, will be in the Vestry area.

There will be a worker's luncheon on Nov. 7 at noon, planned by Mrs. Harold Butters Jr. in Chidley Hall on Thursday will be Morning Coffee, open to the public and served between 10-11:30 a.m. will be held by Mrs. Trudy Rae.,

The Country Inn Luncheon, Mrs. J.P. Eugley, chef, will be held between 12-1:30 p.m. in Chidley Hall. Tickets may be purchased from Hostesses or Innkeepers on Nov. 7 and at both doors to Chidley Hall on Nov. 8. Mrs. Robert Hudson is in charge of tickets and Mrs. Charles Stebbins is coordinating the waitresses.

There will be Beauty Consultants in residence; Mrs. Laura Cochran is the proprietor. A Country Inn Service Station will be operated near the desk of the Inn with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curtis, proprietors. Photographers Robert Hudson and Aram Mouradian will open their shop in the hall by the stairs.

Chairpersons of the Country Inn Fair are: Mrs. Aram Mouradian, Mrs. Virginia Cummings, and Mrs. Nancy Van Roosen. Mrs., Robert Duffy is doing arrangements; decorations are planned by the chairpersons; Miss Ruth Albee is in charge of the coatroom in the Church office; Treasurers are Mrs. A.C. Penna and Mrs. Carl Boerner. Mrs. J.P. Eugley is in charge of publicity.

Jaycee-ettes Meeting Was Held Recently

The Jaycee-ettes welcomed prospective members recently at a membership coffee held at the home of Mrs. William McClearn. Af5er a welcoming speech from Mrs. Esposito, Jaycee-ette president, guests were informed of the activities the organization is involved with and the new projects that are being planned for the coming year.

Following the meeting a demonstration on make-up techniques was given by Linda McGarvey, a representative from John Robert Powers.

The Jaycee-ettes has an open membership for all Winchester women which offers both an opportunity to make new acquaintances and help the community through civic activities.

For further information, or if interested in attending a meeting, contact Mrs. McClearn, director of membership, 4 Dean rd.

Reservations Still Open For November Hospital Ball

Reservations are still available for the gala "Evening With Friends" on Nov. 3.

This is the 28th annual ball sponsored by the Friends of Winchester Hospital, and will be held this year at the Winchester Country Club.

The public is invited for an evening of dancing to the music of Larry Cooper's Orchestra from the new Bay Towers Club in Boston. Music to suit all tastes will be played from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Seating is to be informally arranged and a cash bar will be available.

A contemporary lambskin area rug donated by Koko Boodakian's is one of the many doorprizes that will be given away during the evening. Winners will also have an opportunity to win sizeable gift certificates and other merchandise donated by members of the business community.

Among the donors are Arlene's Fashions, The Black Horse Bootery, Chitel's, The Continental Cow, McCormack's Apothecary, Mahoney's and the Running Racquet from Winchester; Atlas Liquors, Bargain Spot Liquors and Winter Hill Liquors from neighboring communities.

"An Evening with Friends" will give longtime community residents a nostalgic touch of the early dances which were known as "Waltz Evenings" and for years featured exhibitions and hard fought contests to decide each year's best waltzers.

As times have changed, the Friends Ball has also changed, with waltzes only being played occasionally among the fox trots, Latin rhythms, and this year's current disco beat.

The dance is the major fundraiser for the Friends of Winchester Hospital. Proceeds are given to the hospital for needed equipment.

Chairman of this year's Ball is Mrs. Robert Hughes. Mrs. Robert Costello of 179 Washington st. is in charge of reservations, which may be made individually or by large groups.

Parkhurst Sherry

The Parkhurst Parents' Association recently held their annual sherry for the school's teachers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Porter of Mayflower road. Hors d'oeuvres and a champagne punch were served.

The first Town Clerk in the Town of Winchester was Dr. David Youngman who not only ran an apothecary shop but was also a bookseller and stationer.

Ambrose Open House Was October 18

On Oct. 18, an Open House was held at Ambrose School.

Robert Forest, principal, welcomed the parents in the auditorium. Carole Derry, president of the Parents' Association, then introduced the Ambrose board. Chief John P. McHugh of the Winchester Police Department presented the new Neighborhood Awareness Program. Interested citizens in the audience, who were not parents, discussed their concerns while parents were invited to participate after they had viewed the classrooms.

Open House then proceeded with a classroom format. Parents started at their child's home base and then moved through a portion of the students's day. This gave parents an opportunity for informal discussion with the teachers. Classroom materials could also be examined.

The evening concluded in the auditorium where Chief McHugh, accompanied by three other officers, answered questions from the audience on neighborhood problems.

Selectmen's Notes

Article 19

Town Meeting member Harrison Chadwick appeared before the Board of Selectmen Monday night to speak on behalf of Article 19 on the November Town Meeting Warrant.

Article 19 is concerns reinstating public garbage collection in Winchester. Chadwick, who noted this article has some "new concepts" compared to Article 18, hopes to see the service restored by Jan. 1.

"People in all parts of the town that I have talked with are in favor of garbage collection," he told the Selectmen. "In any urban or suburban community it's a must."

Chadwick, who presented a plan which would charge the residents 25 to 50 cents per collection, depending on how often the garbage is picked up, stated that the loss of garbage collection hits the older citizens in the community the hardest because they can't travel around as well as others.

Water System

Saying that the problem with Winchester's water is the distribution system, Maurice DiBlasi told the Board of Selectmen that he is against the $35,000 that the town is trying to appropriate for microscreening. "Filtering out the shrimp from the water is not going to clean the water," said DiBlasi. "Where the problem lies is where we should spend the money."

Hackney Carriage Renewels

The Selectmen renewed the licenses of six cab and limousine services in Winchester, with the understanding that differences between e two cab companies over parking spaces would be resolved.

The two cab companies have been arguing over the question of whether the cab stands in town are open to all cab companies or not. This disagreement has resulted in drivers cutting in front of each other at the cab stand.

Warrant Articles

The Selectmen voted to support Articles four and seven Monday night, while voting against Article 16. The Board also decided to delay decision on Article five and Article 10. A vote was taken on Article 10 with the final tally being 2-2 as Selectman Edward O'Connell held his vote until he could hear the actual presentation. The article deals with revolving accounts.

Globe Film Critic Speaks At Recent Auxiliary Lunch

Michael Blowen, film critic for The Boston Globe, spoke on the movie industry at a recent luncheon of the Middlesex East District Medical Society Auxiliary at Stella's Restaurant.

The organization, which raises funds for nursing scholarships and works to keep members in communication with each other, will be sponsoring stationery and Christmas cards for purchase. Proceeds from these sales will go towards the Auxiliary's scholarships and the Educational Resource Fund.

Those interested should contact Mrs. William Kermond of Winchester. Other Winchester members of the Auxiliary include: Mrs. George Rowan, Mrs. Robert Fahey, Mrs. John McDonal, Mrs. William Kermond, Mrs. Richard Stiles, Mrs. George Hazel, Mrs. Jose Angeles, Mrs. John Carroll, Mrs. Charles Rooney, Mrs. Peter Dillard, Mrs. Donald Chipman, Mrs. Paul Schneller and Mrs. Harris Gibson.

Garden Club Visits Local Cooking School

On Oct. 9, some 30 members and friends of the Winchester Estates Garden Club visited Jeanne Tahnk's Cooking School, located on 910 Main St.

After touring the cooking school, members sat down for an intensive course. The special menu included wonton, curry beef, steamed fish and lemon chicken.

Tahnk has been known for her unique style of teaching and is considered by many to be the best Chinese cooking teacher in the Boston area. After watching her demonstration of skills for two hours and sampling the dishes she made, the members had to agree that the tuition was well spent, and everyone gained a new dimension of knowledge about Chinese cooking.

A few said that they would indeed throw the last harvest of summer's garden into cooking "wok", according to Tahnk's instruction.

Later, a brief meeting was held. Club President Helen Williams reminded the members to turn in their recipes for the new cookbook in planning.

Co-hostess for this October meeting were Lola Chaisson and Eileen Foley.

Friends Of Hospital Hold Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Friends of the Winchester Hospital was held at the home of Mrs. Gustav. G. Kaufmann on Oct. 18th. Coffee and muffins were served at the social hour preceding the meeting with Joy Wooley and Priscilla Morse attending the coffee urns.

Winchester's State Senator Samuel Rotondi, the recipient of several awards in recognition of his service in the areas of health, medical services and municipal government, was introduced by Mrs. Philip Johnson, program chairman.

Rotondi spoke of the plight of hospitals facing the ever increasing costs of quality health care; the consolidation of local hospitals; the need for efficiency in the Determination of Need Program; relationship with the Lahey Clinic; Medicare payments and the timing of them; and the importance of the volunteer services provided by the Friends.

New modes of care were touched on, including care for the elderly at home, the Hospice program, outpatient care, volunteer outreach educational programs and the Patients' Rights Law. In commenting on the law, the Senator pointed out that even though the basic principle on which the law is based is commendable, interpretation of it may result in complex problems demanding solutions reached through expensive litigation. At the close of his talk, Rotondi answered questions from the audience.

A short business meeting followed and service awards were made to Mrs. Robert Costello, 300 hours; Mrs. Donald Erickson, 1000 hours; Mrs. Frederick Walsh, 1000 hours; Mrs. Jospeh Murphy, 3000 hours; and Mrs. Alfred Hewins, 3000 hours.

Mrs. Thomas Craig, outgoing president, recognized board members who had completed three years of service and the slate of new offiers was presented by Mrs. Kaufmann, chairman of the Nominating Committee.

The officers for 1979-80 will be: President Mrs. Philip Johnson; Vice President Mrs. Stuart Carswell; Recording Secretary Mrs. Stanley Hart; Corresponding Secretary Mrs. Stanley Reich; Treasurer Mrs. Robert Grieve; Assistant Treasurer Mrs. Richard Ogden; Directors Mrs. Carl Morse, Mrs. Walter Cutcliffe and Mrs. Frank Gunby' Chairman Volunteer Services Mrs. John Bernard; Vice-Chairmen Mrs. William Merry and Mrs. George Neuner; Reading Chairman Mrs. Leonard Westra; Ways and Means Mrs. Richard Malatesta; Publicity and Newsletter Miss Edna Parks; Hospitality Mrs. John McFadden; Nominating Mrs. Joseph Georgis; Public Relations Mrs. Paul Sweeney; Legislative Chairman Mrs. George Hunter Jr.; Research and Development Mrs. Chester Dawes; Health Education Mrs. Donald Chipman.

Appreciation for the work accomplished by Helen Craig during the past three years was recognized.

Police Chief Suggests Pre-Winter Vehicle Checks

With fuel costs at all-time highs and undoubtedly going higher, Winchester's Chief of Police John P. McHugh reminded motorists today that pre-winter vehcle tune-ups are more important than ever because of fuel conservation problems coupled with the usual winter driving problems -- inadequate traction and reduced visibility.

"In view of continuing concerns about energy conservation and pollution controls, engine tune-ups and good vehicle maintenance are critical to getting through the winter months as economically as possible and without mechanical failures," Chief McHugh contends.

"First and most importantly, have your engine tuned by a competent mechanic. A tune-up, such as the one we give our patrol and emergency vehicles, should include inspection of the electrical system, timing, points (newer cars use electronic ignition systems without points), plugs and the emission control devices on late model cars. This will reduce fuel consumption, while at the same time assure dependable starting at low temperatures and fewer stalls in traffic."

A balky car in traffic and under winter conditions is a sure way to start a traffic tie-up, the Chief contended.

In addition to the basic tune-up, he urged vehicle owners to also heed the following equipment recommendations developed by the National Safety Council and endorsed by the Internatinal Association of Chiefs of Police:

HEATER-DEFROSTER SYSTEM -- must clear fog and frost off your windshield and keep it clear. Check the thermostat or adjustments to the control mechanism. Include the rear window defroster if your vehicle has one.

WINDSHIELD WIPERS -- may have dried out in summer heat. Live replacement blades are inexpensive and do a better job in wiping away slush and snow without streaking. Check your washer solution for adequate anti-freeze protection.

LIGHTS -- must be in perfect working order. Check for and replace burned out bulbs and broken or cracked lenses. Winter grime and road salt corrode sockets and reflectors. Clean all lights fequently during winter.

BRAKES -- poorly adjusted, grabbing or failing brakes can force your vehicle into an uncontrolled skid on slippery pavements. Have them checked and adjusted by a competent mechanic -- before trouble starts.

TIRES -- with good treads are important year 'round, but especially so when pavements are covered with snow and ice. Snow tires are particularly helpful for pulling through loosely packed snow, but offer little advan5age in stopping on icy pavements. Studded tires (where legal) improve both stopping and pulling ability under icy conditions.

TIRE CHAINS -- still remain the best traction aid in deep snow or glare ice conditions. Carry them in your trunk and be prepared to use them for severe snow and ice driving.

EMERGENCY EQUIPMENT -- in your trunk should include: booster cables, sand or rock salt, traction mats, a shovel, safety flares or reflectors, a tow chain or strap, emergency lighting equipment (with fresh batteries), extra windshield washer solvent, a window scraper and paper towels, heavy gloves and extra winter clothing.

"Check your car, then double-check your driving habits," Chief McHugh concluded. "Safe and economical winter driving requires a little extra time, a little slower speed, a little extra care and a lot more common sense."

Protecting Your Home
by Richard L. Sampson

INCIDENT ON SOUTH BORDER ROAD

One afternoon last week, thanks to an alert off-duty police officer, and to brilliant work by members of both the Medford and Winchester police departments, two thieves were apprehended after they broke into a home on South Border Road in Winchester.

Under questioning, they told how they had noticed a woman leave her driveway in her automobile and had planned to "hit" her home. Upon entering her porch, however, they saw an alarm key control and an American Alarm warning decal and decided to change their "target" to the residence next door.

Unknown to them, the daughter of the family in the first house was inside sleeping. Once again, an electronic alarm system saved its owners from an invasion by predators leaving a trail of loss and sorrow in their path while plying their "trade" of daytime burglary. The grim story of the victimization that is going on in our community is reflected in these stark statistics on break-ins just released by the Massachusetts Police Chief's Association:

Community	First Six Months 1978	1979	Percent Increase
Arlington	130	329	+ 153%
Belmont	90	128	+ 42%
Winchester	86	88	+ 2%

Ironically, it is often the families where all members are out working, contributing to society in positive and constructive occupations, who are the most vulnerable to these cruel invasions.

Like the first family on South Border Road, you too can positively prevent an invasion of your home — but only by taking decisive action! Call your police chief and get his recommendation on steps to protect your home and family. Call a member of the National Burglar and Fire Alarm Association and find out how your home can be guarded electronically.

When you care enough to prepare, the burglars will go elsewhere!

WHICH IMPROVEMENTS MAKE SENSE?

How much money should you put into improving your home? As much as you can afford IF you are doing it for your own enjoyment and don't plan to move for a long time. However, if you plan to make major improvements in order to get a better price when you sell, it often is economically unwise. Seldom do such improvements bring more than fifty cents on the dollar spent to make them. And all bets are off if you overvalue your house in relation to other houses in the neighborhood. An old real estate axiom says, in effect, that few people will spend $80,000 for a house in a $60,000 neighborhood. That's virtually true regardless of how large or good a house it may be.

The addition of an extra bedroom, in-ground swimming pool or central air conditioning, will increase the value of your home. But usually at a fraction of the cost. About the only money you should spend on a house to sell it at a higher price is for repairs and decorating that are obviously needed to put your best foot forward.

In all your real estate needs — buying —selling — rentals — appraisals — consultation — please phone or drop in at

One of the most historic addresses in America is available to twenty discerning families.

How distinguished to claim residence along Concord's Battle Road, one of our country's most significant historic sites.

Here, between Lexington Road and a Nature Sanctuary familiarly referred to as Thoreau's Bog, is Merriam Close: a private community of twenty stately three- and four-bedroom traditional homes starting at $142,500.

Bounded by plantings native to the area such as honeysuckle, wild rose and blueberry, and sheltered from civilization by a buffer of white pine, Merriam Close is further testimony to the true value of tradition.

Obituaries

Oscar Anderson

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church for Oscar R. Anderson who died last Friday at Middlesex County Hospital after a long illness. He was 75.

Born in Malden, Mrs. Anderson was educated in the Woburn schools. He lived in Winchester for 32 years. A former Burlington resident, Mr. Anderson was living on Lorring Avenue at the time of his death.

Until he retired in 1967, Mr. Anderson was employed by the Raytheon Manufacturing Company in Waltham and Andover for 2 years. Prior to that, Mr. Anderson was employed by the Boston Stove Company in Reading, the Burlington Highway Dept., and the Burlington Police Department as a special police officer for 15 years.

He was a member of the Woburn Lodge of Masons, The Edmund Viking Lodge of Woburn No. 91, and the Electrical Union Local No. 1505 in Waltham.

Mr. Anderson is survived by his wife, Esther H. (Lawson) Anderson of Winchester; his children, Frederick O. Anderson of North Reading, Evelyn Lloyd of Wilmington, Marjorie H. (Anderson) Maginnis of Woburn, Marguerite M. (Anderson) of Woburn, and Mildred E. Zisa of Maywood, N.J.; one brother, Edward Anderson of Woburn; one sister, Mrs. Anna Smith of Malden; 13 grandchildren; and 10 great-grandchildren.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. David Purdy of the Crawford Memorial Church. Burial was at Chestnut Hill Cemetery in Burlington. Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Home.

Memorial donations may be made to the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church Fund.

Thomas Kearns

Longtime Winchester resident Thomas Kearns, 79, died Oct. 25 at his Grove place home after a short illness.

Born in Caherlistrane, County Galway, Ireland, Mr. Kearns lived in Winchester for 50 years.

Until his retirement in July, 1960, Mr. Kearns was a signalman for the Boston & Maine railroad. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen of America and St. Mary's Holy Name Society.

Mr. Kearns is survived by his wife, Delia (Murphy) Kearns; his children, Mrs. David Barrett of Reading, Mrs. John Regan of Salem, N.H., Mrs. William O'Leary of Winchester, Mrs. Daniel King of Sudbury, and Mrs. Robert Owen of Reading; one sister, Mrs. Annie Naughton of Tuam, County Galway, Ireland; and 10 grandchildren.

A funeral mass was concelebrated Monday at St. Mary's Church by Rev. Bernard Hoy of Sacred Heart Church of Lexington and Rev. Arthur Reardon. The soloist was Rev. Mark Sheehan of St. Mary's. Burial was at Calvary Cemetery, Woburn. Arrangements were made by the Robert J. Costello Funeral Home.

WHS 'Diary Of Anne Frank' Play Tomorrow, Saturday

The Winchester High School Dramatic Society will present their production of "The Diary of Anne Frank." tomorrow and Saturday at 8 p.m. A Pulitzer Prize winning play, it tells the moving story of eight people living in hiding together for two years during World War II.

The Diary of Anne Frank represents a departure from the light comedies that have been standard fare for Curtain and Cue fall productions. Director and Curtain and Cue Advisor Dorothy Santos thinks "that the hard-working cast and crew have risen to the challenge of this touching drama and that the audience will be rewarded with a fine evening of theatre."

The members of the cast are: Lisa Hirschhorn, Robert Hallisey, Anne-Louise Casey, Valerie Kollegian, Daniel Schutzberg, Nan Keller, Jeff Richmond, Peter Gittleman, Brian Milauskas and Claudia McKay.

Tickets may be purchased during school hours through the Music Department and from members of the cast. They will also be available at the entrance to the auditorium on the evenings of the performances.

Town Receives State Grant For Libraries

The Town of Winchester has been awarded a fiscal 1979 Direct State Aid Grant in the amount of $8,502 for public libraries, according to State Rep. Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh.

The public library's operating budget appropirated by the town for fiscal 1978 was $387,403. The Direct State Aid grant, therefore, adds significantly to the provision of library services to the residents of Winchester, Saltmarsh said.

Direct state grants to municipalities for their public libraries are determined by the 1975 State Census on the basis of 37.5 cents per capita when cities or towns have over 2,000 inhabitants. Or by flat grants of up to but not more than $1,000 to towns with less than 2,000 inhabitants, as long as the libraries meet minimum standards established by the Mass. Board of Library Commissioners.

Local Residents Are Junior Winchester Hospital Volunteers

Now that apples are red and leaves are golden, adult volunteers are back in service at Winchester Hospital.

During the summer, however, a junior volunteer was the first person a patient admitted to Winchester Hospital was likely to see.

A junior volunteer greeted patients entering the lobby and showed them to the admitting office. Juniors at the admitting desk directed them to the lab or X-ray for pre-admission, where other juniors were running errands, filing, xeroxing, and completing forms.

After tests, the patient was escorted to his room by a junior messenger, who introduced the paitent to the floor nurses.

In the patient's room the bed had been made by a junior, another junior had supplied a fresh towel and wash cloth, and filled the water pitcher at the bedside table.

Most of the supplies provided by the hospital for the patient's comfort and recovery were packaged and distributed by junior volunteers working six afternoons a week in central supply.

If diagnostic procedures were required the patient was taken to x-ray, nuclear medicine or ultrasound by a junior volunteer. Juniors also delivered flowers and plants to the patient's room and saw that they were cared for.

Visitors to the hospital probably stopped in the coffee shop, where junior volunteers worked mornings, afternoons and evenings. Patients themselves were served mid-morning coffee in their rooms by juniors wheeling the coffee cart from floor to floor.

And when it was time to go home, a junior volunteer escorted the patient from the bedroom to a car waiting outside the patients' lobby.

All Winchester Hospital junior volunteers began training last spring with a three-session orientation program, and ended it with specific on-the-job training provided by members of the professional staff and other experienced volunteers.

"A patient expects to find services that are life-supporting when he enters the hospital," comments Phyllis Hollinshead, director of the junor volunteer program," and hopes for amentities.

"The 156 junior volunteers who worked at Winchester this summer did their best to supply those amenities, and from comments we have recieved, their work and their supportive presence made a difference."

...In 1780 Winchester had to provide 24,078 pounds of beef under the levied "beef taxes" for the revolutionary army. The town, like all Massachusetts communities, was also required to provide as many shirts, shoes and stockings as would cover one-seventh of the town's male population. In Winchester this meant 21 blankets and 42 each of shirts, stockings and shoes.

New Wave Of Smoker Research Just In: MERIT smokers acclaim low tar option as taste alternative to high tar brands.

"Best Tasting Low Tar I've Tried."

MERIT smokers rate low tar MERIT satisfying taste alternative to high tar brands.

New national smoker study results prove it.

Proof: The overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers polled felt they didn't sacrifice taste in switching from high tar cigarettes.

Proof: 96% of MERIT smokers don't miss former high tar brands.

Proof: 9 out of 10 enjoy smoking as much since switching to MERIT, are glad they switched, and report MERIT is the best tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Smokers find the taste of low tar MERIT matches that of high tar cigarettes.

New taste-test results prove it.

© Philip Morris Inc. 1979

Proof: A significant majority of smokers rated MERIT taste as good as—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

Proof: Of the 95% stating a preference when tar levels were revealed, 3 out of 4 smokers chose the MERIT low tar/good taste combination over high tar leaders.

You've read the results. The conclusion is clearer than ever: MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar.

A combination that seems to be attracting more and more smokers every day and—more importantly—satisfying them long term.

For Senior Citizens

"An outstanding success" is how the Jenks Senior Center terms the Fourth Annual Fiesta Fair, held at the beginning of October. To date the Fair grossed $10,000. After expenses it is expected the net amount will compare favorably with the amount raised last year.

Starting Nov. 13 a class in Tai-Chi will be offered at the Center on Tuesdays. Those interested should wear loose, comfortable clothing and flat shoes. Tai-Chi (pronounced "tie-chee") is an ancient form of Chinese exercise that uses a slow, fluid form of movement to develop balance, strength, endurance, relaxation and grace.

--

The Center advises seniors that the Social Security Advisory Council has voted to recommend making one-half of Social Security benefits subject to income taxes. Although the Center believes there is little chance of the bill being enacted, concerned residents should contact representative senators and congressmen.

--

Only one resident responded to the October request for volunteers to assist in the Red Cross solicitation campaign. Those interested should contact the Red Cross or Vin Berger.

--

The Winchester Hospital, Board of Health and W.S.A., Inc. are co-sponsoring a free two-session health series for seniors. The sessions are scheduled for next Wednesday and Nov. 14 at 12:30 p.m. at the Center.

The topics to be covered next Wednesday include: choosing a new doctor, medications, need for physical exercise and patient's rights.

The Nov. 14 schedule includes: emotional needs of an older person, coping with loneliness, need for physical exercise and patient's rights.

The Winchester Cab Co. is offering a 20 percent discount to senior citizens. The $10 coupon booklet, worth $21, has no expiration date.

Local Couple Hosts Swiss Family Recently

One more successful year for the American Host Foundation has ended. This year 600 European teachers came to the United States as part of the program which involved 2,000 Host Families, some of whom are local residents. The European teachers spent a week, 10 days or two weeks visiting their host families.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Covino had as their guests Monica and Johannes Buhler-P. Flander of Berne, Switzerland.

The Buhlers were mostly interested in the American way of life and just being part of an American family. They made use of the public transportation system, doing things on their own. They followed the Freedom Trail, visited the State House, Acquarium, Museum of Science, Museum of Fine Arts, Boston Public Library, John Hancock Observatory and Harvard Square.

Johannes, being an architect, was most interested in the blending of the new buildings with old Boston. Monica, a primary school teacher, was given a tour of the Burlington High School and elementary schools by the Covino's daughter, Janet, who teaches at the high school.

Winchester Center with its library, duck pond, post office and shopping center held a special interest for the visitors.

Hosts and visitors agree that it was a rewarding and satisfying involvement; a building of friendships between peoples.

Mr. and Mrs. Covino, who have been in the program since 1973, are interested in sharing their experiences.

For more information about the program contact The American Host Foundation, 1247 Brookhurst St., Garden Grove, Calif. 92640.

The first major step taken to petition the State Legislature to incorporate South Woburn into a separate town was at a meeting held in the vestry of the Congregational Church Monday Nov. 26, 1849 at 6:30 p.m. Names under consideration for the new town included Appleton, Winthrop, Avon, Channing, Waterville and Winchester.

Melrose Blasts Flat Sachems, 28-6, Ruins Dreams Of Unbeaten Season

Perhaps, from the beginning, it should be stated that an undefeated season, though usually accomplished by at least one team each year, is still a long shot for any club. It means having a weekly blend of talent, attitude, coaching and luck that exceeds all others. It is truely a longshot.

It is in that light that last Saturday's 28-6 victory by Melrose over Winchester should be viewed. For although Melrose outplayed the Sachems, forced them out of their game plan and capitilized on Winchester's errors, the fact remains that the Sachems are very much alive in the race for the Middlesex League title and, with some help, a berth in the Division I Super Bowl.

"I think this is the critical week," said Winchester coach Manny Marshall earlier this week of Saturday's game with Watertown. "I just hope we can get up for it because if we can win our next three games, we're still in it."

In Melrose on Saturday, the Sachems ran into a team that certainly is not as bad as their 2-4 record made them seem. They matched up with Winchester very well, shut down their running game and when the Sachems started throwing the ball, they were ready, intercepting four Gary Errico passes, one of which was returned 57 yards for the touchdown that broke the game open in the fourth quarter.

The Red Raiders opened the scoring in the first quarter as Melrose quarterback Dave Rocha ran 13 yards to give the hosts a 6-0 lead. Red Raider halfback Tim Hickey picked up the two point conversion and Melrose lead 8-0.

Melrose added their second score early in the third quarter as the Sachems opening kickoff was run back to the Winchester 20 yard line. Rocha then threw 12 yards to Steve Keohane for the touchdown as the Sachems looked about in disbelief. Melrose failed on the two-point conversion and it was 14-0.

Winchester finally got on the board later in the third quarter as Errico connected with Steve Wolfe for a 70 yard touchdown play. The Sachems faked the extra point attempt, tried to pass for two and did not succeed, leaving the score at 14-6.

"I think the kids saw what was happening at halftime," Marshall recalled. "But you just can't turn something like that on and off. In the first half we made an awful of lot of stupid mistakes. But aside from their first touchdown, they really only scored on a good runback and two interceptions."

The interceptions coming in the fourth quarter when the Sachems, forced to play catchup with the clock working against them, took to the air. "They put us in a position where we had to throw and that's not our game," Marshall added.

With the ball at midfield, and about four minutes left in the fourth quarter, Errico looked to lob a screen pass to the left side of the the field. As he was throwing the ball, the Winchester quarterback was hit, and instead of holding on, threw it into the hands of Melrose's Koehane, who had an open field in front of him and raced 57 yards for the score.

Winchester came back, but another Errico pass was picked off as the Sachem quarterback was again hit as he attempted to screen the play out to the right side.

"We were flat alright," says Marshall. "Melrose played a good game, you can't take anything away from them. But we weren't ready to play and that's my job."

But the point is, the season is far from over. Winchester is in a position to help themselves. Having fallen from number one in the polls to number five after the loss, the Sachems now look up to see Middlesex League rival Woburn sitting in the top spot. Should the locals get any help and see Norwood or Brockton knocked off, then defeat Woburn on Thanksgiving, they have a good shot at the Super Bowl.

As for Saturday's loss, it was hardly a fluke. Melrose played well, but how do you explain sports? Belmont shut Melrose out earlier this season, then lost to Winchester 23-0. Does that make sense?

The idea now for the Sachems is to consider it a three game season. Go undefeated on that one.

Soccer Club Meeting Tuesday At High School

There will be a general meeting of the Winchester Soccer Club Tuesday in the high school cafeteria from 7:30-9 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting will be to elect the 1980 Board of Directors and to discuss the overall soccer program, including fall and spring activities.

Field Hockey In Finale Defeats Reading

The Winchester High field hockey team wrapped up their season this past week, playing four games, winning one, tieing one and losing two. Their final record stands at 6-10-2.

"We were really good defensively this year," said Sachemette coach Pat Ryser. "We had a lot of 1-0 losses and another that was 2-1. The only game we lost by more than one goal was to Woburn, 2-0."

Last Wednesday, the locals tied Stoneham High 0-0, in an evenly played game. On Friday, the 1-0 losses continued to plague the Sachemettes as they were blanked by Watertown by that score.

Watertown scored on a breakaway in the first half and held on to defeat Winchester. "My defense just got caught up and didn't get back in to time," said Ryser.

On Monday, the Sachemettes took on Middlesex League champ Woburn and lost again by a 1-0 score. "I would say it was the best game my kids ever played,"

Swimmers Split Meets With Lincoln-Sudbury, Melrose

By MARY CRESSE

Following the successes of the WHS girls' swim team, who would have expected a 93-79 loss to Lincoln-Sudbury last Wednesday?

It's simple. They lost because. . . because. . . Well, there's really no excuse. Lincoln-Sudbury beat them fair and square and that was it. But, still. . . it was unbelievable how a previously mediocre team could improve so drastically over one year to take the meet away from them.

In the words of Coach Palumbo, "if we had to lose at all, better a hard, close meet." Maybe a little too close. The loss of the first event came as a complete surprise to the medley relay team of Veronica Karp, Anne Donahue, Jeanne Cresse, and Beth Brickley, placing a very close second. Yet Winchester's attitudes quickly changed when, in the 200 yard freestyle, Carol Schneller, Mary Cresse, and Cheryl Fazio came in first, second, and sixth respectively, gaining 10 points for Winchester.

Lincoln-Sudbury, not to be outdone, pulled off first and third place in the 200 yard individual medley, yet was not prepared for P.K. Porter, winning the 50 yard, freestyle in 27.4 seconds. Since unexpected changes were present in the formation of the diving squad, the new comination of Carla Bulino and Sheila Brough gained desperately needed points for the Sachemettes. In the 100 yard butterfly, Lynn Van Ummersen and Julie DeCarlo came in second and third, while Susan Haggerty placed sixth.

Once again, Porter came through for Winchester, taking the 100 yard free in 1:01.2 seconds, followed by Buckley and Carlson. Schneller also posted her second victory of the day, this time in the 500 freestyle, with Mary Cresse coming in third. Lincoln-Sudbury then delivered the crushing blow, coming back to win the 100 backstroke and later the 100 breastroke. In the latter race, Marybeth Fennell and Jeanne Cresse with personal best times of 1:23.7.

Needing only to break the 1:20.0 barrier, for the Eastern Mass. championships, qualification is in sight for both Cresse and Fennell, the Lindcoln-Sudbury Raiders did just that, capturing the last relay and wrapping up the meet, 93-79.

Winchester vs. Melrose

As with Chelmsford, the desire to beat Melrose was evident as last season's unbeaten rivals succumbed to the Sachemettes, dominating the meet. Tis year, Winchester made ample use of the home court advantage taking three straight events after Donahue, Cresse, Karp, and Brickley took second place in the medley relay.

Porter started if off by winning the 200 freestyle in 2:10.8 seconds, as Cresse came in third. Van Ummersen and Schneller also placed first and third respectively in the 200 I.M., and tri-captain Brickley finished with a winning time of 29.9. Facing harsh judging, senior divers Terry Amoroso and Sheila Brough came through in second and third place behind the Melrose diver earning an unusually high score of 206 points.

Winchester came back when Van Ummersen and Karp swept the 100 fly, and subsequent second and third place finishes by Carla Gulino and Julie DeCarlo in the 100 yard freestyle kept the Sachemettes in the lead. Cresse went on to win the 500 yard freestyle as teammate Fazio finished a strong third.

In the 100 backstroke, sophomores Alison Shugrue and Eileen Conley challenged the Melrose swimmer every step of the race, coming in second and third. Fennell again dominated the 100 breastroke as Beth Milli came in third. At this point, Melrose had no alterntive but to surrender the meet to Winchester, 53-30.

Win. Boat Club Annual Meeting Was October 12

Commodore George E. Dillon chaired the annual meeting of the Winchester Boat Club Oct. 12 at the club.

After Commodore Dillon called the meeting to order, the members heard reports of the secretary, treasurer, fleet captains, and the directors of major club activities. John M. Harrington was thanked for his four years of service on the Board of Directors.

The following members were elected to officer and director positions for the 1980 season. Commodore - George E. Dillon; Vice Commordore - James A. Bowers; Rear Commodore - John A. Mills; Secretary - Gerard P. Donahoe; Treasurer - William A. Wilde; Directors - William J. Brady, Francis P. Furey, Arthur F. Gast, David S. Mortensen, Salvador Porras, Moel A. Thyson, Frank Van Ummerson, Walther Weylman, Richard P. Williamson, and Richard H. Young.

During the evening a portrait of the late Everett D. Littlefield was unveiled. Littlefield's wife assisted Dillon in the unveiling of her late husband's portrait, which will hang over the fireplace as the focal point of the room. Littlefield was a member of the club since 1942 and served as an officer or director for 32 of those years. The seocnd floor meeting area was also named in his honor.

...Winchester was named for Col. William P. Winchester of Watertown, a wealthy Boston merchant who was a Colonel in the Corps of Cadets volunteer regiment.

Red Cross Plans To Offer Two CPR Courses In Nov., Dec.

Several first aid courses are soon to be taught by certified instructors, according to Walter Armstrong, chairman of the Winchester Chapter of the Red Cross.

A cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) basic life support course will be taught at Winchester High School by Janice Dolan. The class will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. Nov. 26 and 29 and Dec. 3 and 4.

An intensive CPR modular course is scheduled for Dec. 10 and 11, from 6:30-10 p.m. at the Red Cross Chapter House 39 Church st.

said Ryser, "Our team defensively gave them their best game. As far as I know, we're the only team that's lost to them by only one and two to nothing. Everything just went well for us."

Except the scoring as Woburn scored early in the game and blanked the Sachemettes the rest of the way. "My kids picked up their play after they scored," Ryser points out.

But the Sachemettes finished the season with a bang, destroying the Rockettes from Reading on Tuesday, 4-0.

"We pretty much dominated the game," Ryser noted on Tuesday. Kathy Heffernan scored two for Winchester, while Caroline Toomey and Kathy Day each netted one goal.

This year's team will graduate many seniors, but Ryser is optimistic for next year. "We'll probably be a very young team but the kids that are coming back are very good players. Hopefully the girls that are coming up will help us out."

(Blown in or Batts)
Cellin insulation can save up to 38% on your heating bill year after year.
Cellin is a superior loose fill cellulose insulation which is blown into walls, floors and ceilings. Only Cellin offers all these advantages:
Safe and reliable. Cellin is non-toxic, non-irritating to the touch, flame-retardant and non-conductive. It meets or exceeds federal specification HH 1-515C, Type I, Class 25, and carries an Underwriters Laboratories labeling.
Natural product. Cellin consists of short cellulosic wood fibers made of selected newsprint which has been processed and chemically treated.
Total coverage. Unlike many insulations, Cellin fills every possible space, giving you even, complete coverage.
Higher R-value. Cellin has a greater R value (resistance to heat flow—the measure for insulation) per inch than most insulations.
Non-corrosive and moisture-resistant. There's no corroding of pipes, no rotting of wood in walls and ceilings.
Other advantages. Cellin is vermin-resistant, reduces noise levels and is long-lasting.

Sachemettes Win, Tie In Soccer, But Lose Driscoll, Maybe McCarthy

The Winchester High girls' soccer team advanced their record to 10-0-1 this week with a victory over Wakefield on Tuesday and a tie with Lexington last Wednesday. However, the tie was a costly one for the Sachemettes as tri-captain and all-scholastic Christine Driscoll damaged cartilage in her knee and is out for the rest of the season.

The Sachemettes have been fortunate in that they have not been hit by any injuries this year until the Lexington game. However, goalie Katie McCarthy has not played in the last two games and may also be out for the year with mononucleosis.

Driscoll, a senior, underwent surgery on her injured knee last Thursday and will not return to action this year. The talented center-halfback suffered the injury after scoring the tying goal in the Lexington game. She came out of the contest, later told coach Chris Scanlon that her leg was not bothering her and then returned to action. "That's the type of girl she is," said Scanlon. "I should have kept her out, but I thought she was okay."

The Lexington game was a "tough game," in Scanlon's words. The last time the two clubs met, the Sachems dominated play and won 7-2. But this time their play was flat, which seems to be contagious among Winchester High sports teams this week.

"I think that the coach sometimes is lucky enough to get some of the glory when the team wins," Scanlon began, "but it is also his responsibility to get his team up for games."

Although Lexington did play a fine game, they were outshot by the Sachemettes 20-5. "I think it was our turn to get the bad luck. We just couldn't put the ball in the goal," said Scanlon.

Lexington scored in the first half and then played tough the rest of the way, surviving two missed penalty kicks by Winchester.

The Wakefield game saw the Sachemettes get back to their winning ways, destroying the Warriors 6-0, in a contest that saw them put 68 shots on the Wakefield goal while not allowing one on their own.

Ann Porell led her teammates with three goals and an assist. Tri-captain Barbara Jacobs had a goal and an assist while Carole Donahoe and Jean Powers also tallied.

The injury to Driscoll and McCarthy's illness are indeed untimely for the Sachemettes and may be the trick needed to hamper them in the upcoming Eastern Mass. Tournament. Tournament play starts next Tuesday.

While JV's Finish Undefeated

Good Lord, when it is it going to end?

As if it wasn't bad enough for the rest of the Middlesex League that the girls' soccer team has been pummeling everyone by scores of 15-1, 10-0, 9-0, waiting in the wings are some anxious junior varsity performers.

The girls' junior varsity soccer team recently completed their season, rolling to a 9-0-2 record while pretty much destroying their opponents.

"We just dominated practically every team we played," said Sachemette coach Donna Tanner recently. "It was a super team to coach. The girls gave 100 percent all the time."

Perhaps the biggest win of the year for the JV's was a 11-1 dismantling of soccer rival Lexington, in Lexington. "The team improved mentally, from the beginning of the season," Tanner noted.

The team, composed of six juniors and 16 sophomores, scored 56 goals all season and allowed only five against them. "We had an outstanding defense," Tanner pointed out. "We never let them get near the goal."

Jeany Powers, in her first year on the team, was the club's leading scorer with 20 points, 12 goals and eight assists. "Her speed is her biggest asset," Tanner feels.

Judy Clinton scored one more goal than Powers to lead the team in that department, while Maura Reese joined Powers as the team leader with eight assists. "She was the person who gave up the ball for the others," said her coach.

In goal, Michelle McCarthy, the sister of varsity goalie Katie McCarthy, had a fine year with seven shutouts and nearly had eight but for a last second goal by Belmont in one of the two games the Sachemettes tied this year.

"I couldn't ask for better girls to work with," said Tanner. "We also had a lot of fun this season and that's important."

Some of the other Winchester players who had fine years were Leslie Koplow, a junior who played field hockey last fall and decided to give soccer a try this year and Myssy Meade, whom Tanner calls the teams most improved player over the year.

Sophomores Chris Schultz, Laurie Carrol, Liz Burke and Cheryl and Sharron Pasquale all played well for Tanner this season. Joining them were Mary Fiorillo, Sisi Symly and Maria Saviano.

JoAnne Maloney played well early in the year, but was then sidelined with mononucleosis.

...Winchester was named for Col. William P. Winchester of Watertown, a wealthy Boston merchant who was a Colonel in the Corps of Cadets volunteer regiment.

Four Residents Complete First Aid Course

Four area men and women recently completed the Red Cross Standard First Aid and Personal Safety course and were awarded three-year certificates by the Chapter. The successful first aiders were: Martha Bett, Catherine Ley, Christine Rausea and Wayne Smokler.

The course was given at the Red Cross Chapter House on Church street and was taught by Robert Gerrity.

Walter Armstrong, Chapter Chairman, announced that an Advanced First Aid and Emergency Care course is tentatively scheudled to start in mid-December. This will include a C.P.R.-B.L.S. course. Persons interested in joining the National Ski Patrol or in joining the Red Cross Disaster Team are urged to consider taking this course. Another Standard First Aid & Personal Safety course will start in late January. Call the Chapter House for further details.

Girls' Cross Country Beats Woburn In Season Wrapup

On Oct. 23, the WHS girls' cross-country team faced their arch rival, Woburn, in an unexpectedly close meet. The improvement of the caliber of Middlesex League girls' running was presented clearest by the Tannerettes, who last year did not have enough members (three) to field an official team. This year 12 Woburn girls conquered the Winchester course. The score was not close; it was 20-35, but Woburn looked much stronger than Coaches Cantillon and Maloney had anticipated.

This quickly emerging strength in the girls' teams in the Middlesex League made the League Meet, held Oct. 31, even more interesting than it had been in previous years. (More results on the League Meet next week).

In the Woburn meet, senior Laurie Redmond took first place with a time of 20:42. On that day, the fluctuating October weather had brought a sudden heat wave. Thus, the times run that day were probably 20 to 30 seconds above those that would have been run on a less humid day. Second in the race was Mary Boland, at 21:07. The third finisher was the first runner from Woburn, at 21:32.

Close behind her, however, was Nancy Monteith, a sophomore who was running one of her best races of the year. Monteith added a bit of personality to the race when she yelled, while crossing the finish line, "That girl cheated! She went the wrong way!" Whether the Woburn runner had actually cheated, or had merely gotten lost, was not settled. However, Monteith's spunk added a light note, to the otherwise dismal meet.

Even though Winchester won, many of the members of the boys' and girls' teams were disapponited at their times, most of which were squelched higher by the weather. Seniors, especially, felt the mood of the day upon remembering that this was their last race in WHS cross-country.

Other finishers were Kathy Welch, in fifth place at 22:28, Diane Franchi in eight position at 23:03, Amy Anderson, 11th at 23:07, Beth Clower, 12th at 23:35, and Laurie Gelason, finishing 13th at 24:35. Other Winchester runners who completed the course were Leslie Keats, Sandy Earlam, Margaret Brown, Susan Wheeler, Valerie Ewing, Laura Consales, Maureen Hollohan, Nancy Lane, Christy Davidson, Adena Schutzberg, and Cindy Howland.

The State Meet

On Oct. 27, some of the top members of the team traveled to Franklin Park to compete in the State Class Meet, in which towns from all over Eastern Massachusetts were represented. Winchester ran the 2.9 mile course in the Division II race, and did well enough to place sixth overall as a team.

Laurie Redmond was the top finisher for Winchester, placing 37th out of the field of over 200 runners. Mary Boland and Barbara Myers were 38th and 39th respectively, demonstrating solid running depth by finishing together as three in a row. Kathy Welch was 54th in the race, Nancy Monteith was 62nd, and Pam Brickly was 72nd, and Beth Clower was 107th.

Running at meets such as this one are essential for runners learning to run competitively in a large crowd. This state meet was extremely useful for the underclassmen and new cross-country runners in preparation for the league meet. Although Winchester's two competitors in the Middlesex League — Reading and Wakefield — both did better in the team standings than Winchester did, many variables were involved, and any of the three teams could be the winner of the League title; all have solid talent and depth.

Reading emerged as the top victor in the League standings, being undefeated, but its inconsistency in power makes it less than perfect. Winchester clearly should have no dobuts about its 1979 season, for the team did perform outstandingly. Next year's squad, too, should be strong.

Puppet Theatre Entertains Noonan Students Recently

On Sept. 26 the Poobley Greegy Puppet Theatre entertained the students at the Noonan School with an adventure entitled "Going, Going, Gone Whaling."

The theatre company, consisting of two people, satisfied the curiosity of children by explaining their different techniques and showing a few of the main characters of the story, including small, medium and LARGE whale, octopus and shark.

Emily Smith, enrichment chairman, chose the program which held the children's suspense through the end.

...With the signature of Gov. George N. Briggs, Winchester was incorporated into a separate community from its original status as South Woburn.

Barbara DiVitto Marries MIT Student In New Hampshire

Barbara Ann DiVitto, daughter of Mrs. Martha M. DiVitto and the late Judge William P. DiVitto, and Christopher Boyden Alt, son of former Winchester residents Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Alt, were married Sept. 15 at the Chocorua Community Church in Chocorua, N.H.

Rev. Robert A. Storer, minister emeritus of the Winchester Unitarian Church, officiated at the 2 p.m. double ring ceremony. A reception followed at Brookland Farm, home on the bridegroom's parents, in Tamworth, N.H.

The bride wore an original Japanese water color design dress and carried a spray of cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Ann Gordon of Charlottesville, Va., cousin of the bride, was the matron of honor.

Edward Melton Alt of Brussels, Belgium, twin brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. William P. DiVitto and James Boyden Alt, brothers of the bride and bridegroom respectively, were ushers.

The bride is a graduate of Mount Holyoke College. She received a master's degree from Tufts University and a Ph.D. in psychology from Brandeis University.

The bridegroom is completing his doctorate in applied economics at the Sloan School of MIT. He graduated from Bowdoi:n College and received a master's degree in public administration from the Wharton Graduate School of the University of Pennsylvania.

Following a trip to France, the couple will live in Arlington.

Van Aken Son

A second child, David Eric, was born Oct. 1 to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Van Aken of Winchester.

Grandparents are Mrs. Marion Van Aken of Winchester Winchester and Ocean Point, Maine, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Gustafson of Portland, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis D. Mawn

Kathleen Rhubart Marries A Winchester Firefighter

Immaculate Conception Church was the setting for the marriage of Kathleen Ann Rhubart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Rhubart of Rhubart, to Francis David Mawn, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Mawn.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Rev. Benedict Mawn, uncle to the father of the bridegroom. Assisting him was Father George DuFour.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white contessa gown made of knitted chiffon and venise lace. The lace flowed freely at the bodice and trimmed the bishop sleeves, cuffs, hem and sweetheart neckline.

Her matching picture hat was accented with pearls and a veil. Her bouquet was made of blue and white carnations with baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Dorothy M. Reid of Medford, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a pale pink qiana gown. The bodice was knitted with a scalloped neckline and three quarter length sleeves. In her hair was a single pink rose bud. Her bouquet was made up of blue and white carnations accented with daisies and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Elizabeth and Karen Reid of Medford, nieces of the bridegroom. They wore matching identical gowns to the maid of honor in pale blue. In their hair they wore a single silk blue rose and carried identical bouquets.

Mary Louise Mawn of Dale City, Va., sister-in-law of the bridegroom, attended to the guestbook. She wore a pale yellow paintsuit with a corsage of tea roses with baby's breath.

Best man for his brother was Jack Mawn of Dale City, Va. Ushers were Joseph Mawn of Springfield, cousin of the bridegroom, and Philip Reid of Medford nephew of the bridegroom. Junior ushers were Stephen and Ronald Reid of Medford, cousins of the bridegroom. Ring bearer for his uncle was Keith Mawn of Dale City.

A reception followed at the Winchester Knights of Columbus.

The bride is employed by Alpha Industries in Woburn. Her husband is a firefighter for the Town of Winchester.

The couple took a trip to Boothbay and Bar Harbor, Maine, Virginia, Washington D.C. and Pennsylvania.

TIP TOP® CHIMNEY SWEEPS

The Recognized Professionals of Suburban Boston

Energy conscious Americans are turning to their hearth for heat in increasingly large numbers; however, many are forgetting about essential chimney maintenance. So while fireplace useage is on the increase, so are tragic home fires. In response to this, the National Fire Protection Association recommends that home owners have their chimneys cleaned or inspected once a year.

Immaculate Conception Church was the setting for the marriage of Ruth Irene Haggerty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger C. Haggerty, to Emery T. Graves, son of Mrs. Grace Graves, Sept. 22. Rev. DuFour officiated at the 6 p.m. ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Bonnie J. Haggerty, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Philip Spears of Burlington was the best man. The couple are living in Woburn.

Carolynn Cooke Weds Robert Getz In September

Carolynn Inez Cooke, daughter of Inez Cooke of Winchester and Claude T. Cooke of Connecticut, was married Sept. 8 to Robert R. Getz Jr., son of Robert and Allelia Getz of Waterloo, N.Y.

Rev. John Swensky officiated at the 10 a.m. ceremony held at St. Eulalia's Church. A reception was held at Lombardo's in East Boston.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an empire gown of white matte jersey with a fitted bodice and stand-up collar. The yoke and long fitted sleeves of English net were trimmed with appliques of silk venise lace. The full A-line skirt swept back into a chapel train and the hemline was edged in tiny blossoms of silk venise lace. Her matching Camelot headpiece of silk venise lace and seed pearls held a fingertip mantilla of illusion.

She carried a cascade bouquet of all red roses with a touch of white baby's breath.

Maureen McNulty of Somerville was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Ruth Ribeiro of Gloucester, Kathleen Olivadoti of Milford and Kathleen Donahue of East Boston. The attendants flowers were the same as the those of the bride.

They wore empire gowns of polyester knit with A-line skirts of sunburst pleats. The bodice was edged in Venise lace and had spaghetti straps. A short chiffon capelet, split at the shoulder and caught with tiny bows completed the ensemble. The maid of honor's gown was pink while the dresses of the three bridesmaids were burgundy.

Richard Getz, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

Richard Getz of Waterloo, N.Y., brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Ushers were Brian Manigan of Fairport, N.Y., Anthony Ribeiro of Gloucester, and Timothy Wojcik of Rochester, N.Y.

Andrew Deskur of Lowell sang and played a 12-string guitar before and during the ceremony.

The bride is employed at Computervision in Woburn. She attended Winchester High School and Woburn Business School.

The bridegroom is an electrical engineer at Computervision in Bedford. He is a graduate of the Rochester Institute of Technology.

The couple are living in Woburn after a trip to Bermuda.

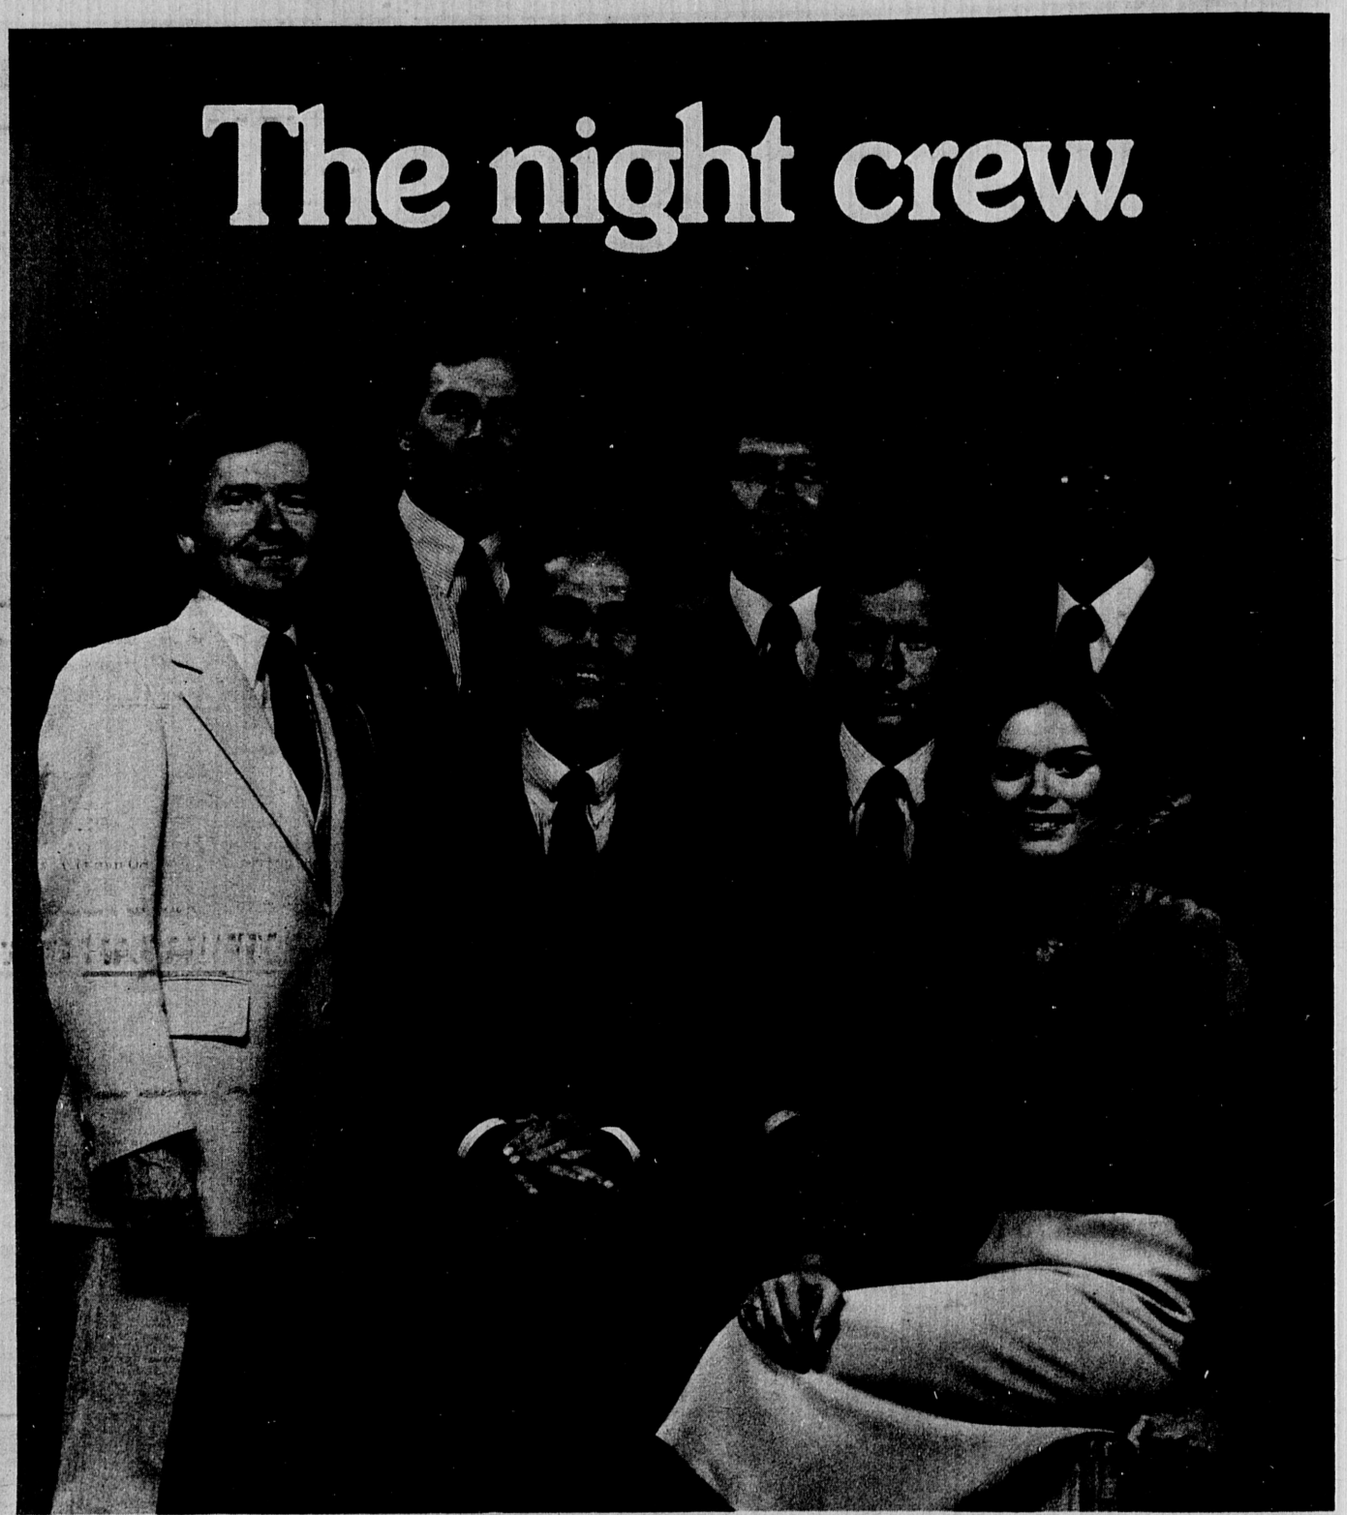
JUST ADD GUESTS AND SERVE

Volume 3, Number 2, November 1/7

The night crew.



Turn to TV4's Eyewitness News at 11.

WE'RE 4 YOU

New England's nighttime news team. If you demand the excitement of LIVE location reporting, the best of sports and weather coverage, and a lively approach to entertainment and the arts, we're the ones to turn to. We are New England's nighttime news. If you haven't seen us lately, watch for us tonight.

Guidelines

THE YOUNGEST member of our staff came back from lunch the other day buzzing with excitement. "I've just seen a six-foot bumblebee, singing," she said, "and we exchanged cards."

"Of course you did. Who wouldn't?" we said, and except for a few cautious looks in her direction from time to time, we thought no more about it until, along in the afternoon, the telephone rang and we picked it up and a voice on the other end said, "Hello, I'm in charge of the singing bumblebees."

It was Christine Milo. She is the director of the Boston office of Music To Go, the Singing Telegram Company. She explained that the company, which was founded by Al McKittrick, an opera singer manqué in Denver, Colorado, was in business to deliver songs for any occasion. The staff is composed of professionally trained singers, many with operatic backgrounds. Dubbed the Singing Bees, the staff sometimes trades in its bee suits (black and yellow plush with bobbing antennae) for penguin disguises or giant carrot costumes. There is also a set of Santa Claus bee suits, for seasonal use. However they are dressed, the Singing Bees have a repertoire of about 250 songs, many set to operatic tunes ("Get Well Soon" set to La Donna E Mobile, and things like that). All of the songs are intended for happy greetings, even, according to Milo, a "hate song," which is conceived as a joke.

Music To Go also holds the local franchise for Famous Amos Cookie Grams. Famous Amos cookies, imported from San Francisco, are considered by many aficionados as the best thing going in chocolate chips. When you send a Cookie Gram, one of the singers will dress up as a Famous Amos cookie and deliver a box of real cookies, while singing a cookie song. Or a kooky song.

In addition, to door-to-door domestic delivery, Music To Go will do promotional work for your business, and they will deliver messages all over MetroBoston. Call 787-9236. Within a six-mile radius of Brighton, the standard fee is $25, $30 if you write your own song and one of the bees sets it to music and learns the words. For a custom-made song, the fee is $32.50. Beyond the six-mile zone, there is a $3 surcharge for delivery as far as ten miles; ten to 15 miles from Brighton, the surcharge is $5. Delivery farther afield can also be arranged, and you can even have the singing bees serenade a friend in New York or New Mexico or Colorado, where there are Music To Go offices. For long-distance delivery, Christine Milo will call her counterpart in another city, and the singing will be done by a local agent.

"Just like a telegram," we said.

"You got it," said she.

We apologized to the youngest member of our staff and promised to believe all her wild stories from now on.

Now, an item from the department of miscellaneous news, and what could be more miscellaneous than a jackass penguin? The jackass (spheniscus demersus) is a special sort of penguin whose innate stubbornness and sense of purpose allow him to survive in temperate waters too warm for others of his order. One jackass penguin (a permanent resident of the New England Aquarium) will be on display next Saturday (November 10) at the South Shore Natural Science Center in Norwell. Call 659-2559 for more information. □

A CATERED AFFAIR

JUST ADD GUESTS AND SERVE

By Steve Raichlen

It used to be that the mere mention of the term "catered dinner parties" brought visions of either a ritzy Beacon Hill affair or greasy chicken wings, gluey pineapple pork, and blah Swedish meatballs at your basic suburban cocktail party.

That was before the recent culinary revolution transformed the American food scene, making quiche lorraine a household word and putting a coq au vin in every pot. Today's catering services, which are growing rapidly all over MetroBoston, have become a lifesaver for the harried dinner-party giver, offering everything from hors d'oeuvres and special dishes to pre-prepared gourmet masterpieces which you pick up, warm, and serve yourself, and magnificent eight-course banquets cooked to order in your kitchen by a master chef, served with all the raised-pinky aplomb of a fancy French maitre d'. There are even caterers these days who will deliver to your doorstep a romantic breakfast in bed for two.

With more and more husband-wife working teams, there is less interest, and time, for the lengthy dinner party preparations that can run to a day or two. Too, the skyrocketing cost of fine food these days makes catered fare seem reasonable, if not a downright bargain. But most important of all, the caterer, whatever his offering, frees one from the myriad and hectic last-minute kitchen tasks so that the host and/or hostess can enjoy the guests. "That's the point of a dinner party — to see your friends, not to get raves over your artistry as a cook," says one frequent user of caterers in Quincy. "Now I get the raves and have a good time at my own party."

There are now dozens of specialty caterers in Metro-Boston. How to pick the right caterer depends on the nature of your particular affair and the timing — long planned or spur of the moment. The first step is to count the names on your guest list, then consider the kind of food that's appropriate.

The dips-and-finger-food approach makes the most sense for large numbers of people (25 or more), and professionals recommend a minimum of six different kinds of appetizers for a typical cocktail party. Smaller gatherings enable the host to offer more elaborate fixings. For 20 or fewer people the buffet table is ideal. But put something exciting in those chafing dishes, like a vinous beef burgundy or tangy curry of chicken. Intimate gatherings (four to 12 people) lend themselves to the most serious dining. Here's where the full-course caterer comes in.

To find the right caterer for your affair, check the Yellow Pages, local cooking schools, or fine restaurants for leads. The following caterers are among the new breed and set the standards for special fare, services, and price in MetroBoston.

FROM SOUP TO TORTES

French housewives know the secret to marvelous last minute meals and memorable entertaining: they turn to their neighborhood charcuterie — gourmet delicatessen — which, sells all manner of aspics, stove-ready soups, main dishes, pâtés, hams, and sausages, plus those fabulous mustards, nuts, pickles, and coffees. One such institution west of Boston is the brain child of 34-year-old Newton resident Florence Scherz, whose place has the appetizing name of Nibbles.

Nibbles opened four years ago to provide Newton residents with carry-out fine food from soup to nuts. Business burgeoned, and today Nibbles offers elegant appetizers, soups, salads, main dishes, pastries, plus a full line of gourmet accompaniments, and even fresh flowers. But unlike with most caterers, at Nibbles you don't have to order ahead of time.

Unexpected visitors? Nibbles always stocks freshly made pasta, chicken tarragon, quiche of the week, and mouth-watering Viennese pastries. The store is open till 8 pm on weeknights, so that customers can pick up the fixings for a fabulous dinner after work and still serve guests that evening. With longer notice Nibbles will impress company with a menu that includes caviar soufflèed artichokes, country pâté, individual beef Wellingtons, salade Niçoise, and Russian rum torte for dessert. Fare for serious feasters, a meal like this would run $22 per person, but Nibbles can also provide a supper of fresh fettuccine with tomato sauce, homemade bread, salad, and cake, for as little as $3 per person.

The Newton Centre shop is located at 841 Beacon Street and is open 9:30 am to 8 pm weekdays, till 9 pm Thursdays, and from 9:30 to 5:30 on Saturdays. To order, dial 527-1862.

GOURMET GERMAN

The Germans call it aufschnitt, and it's guaranteed to gladden hungry hearts after a football game. The English translation, "cold-cuts," doesn't begin to do it justice, yet that's in a nusschale, what aufschnitt is all about.

Aufschnitt is a sampler of German cold-cuts — those wonderfully smoky hams and meaty sausages. The aufschnitt at Karl's Sausage Kitchen in Saugus fetches a Best of the Wurst award for tasty, easy

'Now I get the raves and have a good time at my own party.'

THE FULL TREATMENT

"We're very fussy about our clientele," says fine-food fanatic Nancy Gilman, owner of the Fatfingers School of Fine Cooking in Marblehead on the North Shore. But then again, the 17-year food veteran is very fussy about what she serves her clients. Take her crudite platter, for example, a toothsome assortment of fresh seasonal vegetables served with a curry dip and creamed avocado, which allures the palate without offending the waistline. Her escargots in puff pastry, on the other hand, are rich and buttery enough to make a round-bellied epicure sigh.

Gilman opened Fatfingers (named for a French larder chef in the charming gastronomic memoir of Nicholas Freeling) last December to bring the gustatory gospel to the North Shore in the form of cooking classes, a quality cookware shop, and expert, imaginative catering.

For hors d'oeuvres, which range from a $5 to $10 per person Gilman proposes country pâté, individual quiches, crab-filled mushrooms, Greek cheese triangles, and feta-stuffed celery hearts. For more serious appetites Fatfingers has hearty stews like coq au vin, chicken chasseur, or sauté of beef Stroganoff. Fresh buttermilk rolls or French bread accompanies full meals. The desserts, such as pear Bavarian or praline mousse, are simply out of this world.

Gilman serves on her platters or yours, and on request will provide full service and clean-up. She asks for at least 48-hours notice for elaborate dinners. You can watch Gilman prepare your meal in Fatfingers' spacious classroom kitchen and/or learn how to make these fabulous creations yourself in her cooking classes. Open 8 am to 6 pm Monday through Saturday, 1 to 5 Sundays, Fatfingers is located at 126 Washington Street in Marblehead. The number to call is 639-0521.

HOME ENTERTAINING

What feinschmecker wouldn't like to sink his teeth into a smooth, livery braunschweiger, smoky Thueringer, or a meaty jagdwurst — a rich cooked salami? Karl's makes all the sausages, following Old World recipes, right on the Saugus premises. Aficionados of German fare know that smoky Westphalian ham rivals the best Italian prosciutto, while German lachsschinken, "lox-ham" (so called because the bright pink slices look like smoked salmon), exists in a delectable class all its own. A taste of Karl's juicy frankfurters and knockwurst is guaranteed to turn you off supermarket wieners forever.

Karl's has all the fixings you need for a perfect home Oktoberfest party, which, by the way, tastes just as good in November or December: homemade potato salad, imported sauerkraut, mustard pickles, fish preserves, German-style pumpernickel, and a full line of Central European chocolates and cookies. All you supply is beer.

Located at 142 Broadway, off Route 1 in Saugus, Karl's is open Monday through Thursday 9 am to 7 pm, Fridays till 9 pm and Saturdays 9 to 5. Call 233-3099 for details.

A SPECIAL OCCASION

Breakfast in bed for two? What better way to celebrate your birthday or anniversary? What more romatic way to tell someone that you really care?

That's what prompted Newton cooking teacher Peggy Glass to launch the Magic Rabbit, a unique catering service that brings boxed gourmet brunches to your doorstep Sunday mornings. Who wouldn't be thrilled to wake up to a fabulous weekend brunch just for two?

"I'm very flexible," says Glass, who tailors her meals to suit her clients tastes and to what's in season. Her garden furnished much of a recent menu, which included orange pumpkin squares, a quiche of harvest vegetables, and fresh fruit salad with mint dressing. Other Magic Rabbit brunches have featured homemade chicken pâté with ham and pistachios and a cool mousse of cucumbers and salmon. Glass also regals her clients with homemade jams on homemade French rolls, and the fresh honey comes from the family's own bee hives.

The $35 Magic Rabbit brunch for two includes flowers, champagne, a three-course meal with all the trimmings, and to feed the intellectual appetite, a Sunday New York Times. Glass delivers on Sundays only to most places in Newton, Wellesley, and Brookline. For information and orders, call the Magic Rabbit at 964-1922.

TURKEY DELIGHT

Ask Ed Gawle what's the secret of his roast birds and he'll tell you, "It's in the turkey." Ed's Farm Kitchen in Brockton roasts only fresh native New England turkeys, raised right there in Plymouth county. Of course, there's also the Gawle family slow-bake roasting method, which guarantees a moist bird every time, as well as the peerless bread stuffing and rich giblet gravy which accompany all Farm Kitchen roast turkeys.

Fresh roast turkey makes great party fare, because everyone loves it. But for those who don't have an oven large enough to roast a bird for 30, the Farm Kitchen is the place. It can roast as much or as little turkey as desired. Let Gawle know when you need the bird and the chances are good it will still be warm when you get it home. The Farm Kitchen turkeys run $1.89 per pound, and, figuring on a pound per person, a fresh roast turkey platter proves one of the most economical ways to serve and sate your friends.

Roast turkey of course has to have the traditional trimmings and Gawle carries homemade potato salad, cole slaw, cranberry sauce, and extra stuffing. Chicken fans will find a barbecued fryer worth crowing about and a chicken salad sure to send you back for seconds. Farm Kitchen made-righ.-here pies include apple, blueberry, mincemeat, and pumpkin.

Ed's Farm Kitchen is located at 316 North Pearl Street, Brockton, on Route 27 at the Brockton-Stoughton line. Call 588-0615 for further information.

GRAVLAX AND GATEAU

Provisions may sound like it serves up pretty basic dishes, but the name is something of an understatement. The three-year-old catering establishment, run by James Bush, specializes in gravlax, a dill-cured salmon similar to smoked salmon; coulibiac, filets of sole or salmon with mushrooms, a fish mousse, surrounded by a pastry crust; and stuffed breast of veal (stuffed with wild rice, pine nuts, and rosemary).

Provisions also provides hors d'oeuvres including beignet, deep-fried cheese puffs, and spinach and festa strudel. A special seasonal salad of watercress, fennel, and water chestnuts is another favorite.

When it comes to desserts — and there are 12 to choose from — the most popular of Provisions' sweets is the gâteau chocolat (chocolate cake) which, according to Bush "gets raves" because it's sooo rich. A special Christmas dessert, croquembouche, is a Christmas-tree-shaped collection of cream puffs.

Provisions, located at 574 Tremont Street in Boston (742-4195), delivers throughout MetroBoston and provides service and dishes if required. Dinner for 200 costs about $12 per person; dinner for ten is about $24 per person. If you're thinking of a cocktail party, a party of 40 will run $6.50 per person and about $8.50 per person for less than 40. Provisions' brochure lists 20 entrees and 30 hors d'oeuvres. □

The Official 1979 Bethlehem Christmas Bell

- A strictly limited edition. Absolute worldwide limit: just 10,000 Bells.
- Individually crafted in the translucent beauty of fine porcelain.
- An original work of art—painted in 12 jewel-like colors.
- Hand-decorated with pure 24 Karat Gold.
- Official issue price $23.95. Fully refundable after 15 days' examination.

Shown considerably reduced in size. Actual height: 6".

This is your invitation to acquire the only collector's Christmas Bell authorized to bear the prestigious Bethlehem hallmark. It will be created in a single, limited edition, restricted to just 10,000 bells—worldwide. Moreover, each Bell will be individually fired—at a temperature of 840 degrees—in the timeless beauty of fine, translucent porcelain...and then decorated by hand with pure 24 Karat Gold.

The immortal theme of the Magi—the visit of the Three Kings to Christ's birthplace...The beauty of an original work of art...The timeless appeal of fine porcelain...The assured rarity of an extremely limited edition...All combine to create a family heirloom of growing value to each succeeding generation.

The Bell will not be offered through stores. It may be acquired only by direct application to Calhoun's Collectors Society, sole distributor for the Bell in this country. Moreover, the official issue price of just $23.95 is fully refundable, upon request, after 15 days' examination. There is an absolute limit of two Bells per applicant—and only those collectors whose orders are received by November 26th can be guaranteed delivery in time for Christmas.

Since superior Christmas collectibles have always tended to register exceptionally dramatic gains in value, you are advised to respond while the attached application is at hand. Calhoun's Collectors Society, Inc., Calhoun Center, 7275 Bush Lake Rd., Mpls., MN 55435

THE EMPRESS

The Empress is heads and shoulders above every brunch in Boston.

This Sunday, try our unique Oriental Buffet Brunch. Even getting there is something special because a glass elevator whisks you to the 14th floor Empress Restaurant. This elegant room is beautifully tiered to provide each table with a spectacular view of the Charles River and the Boston skyline. And as you feast your eyes, you feast on such incredible Szechuan, Mandarin and Cantonese delicacies as Oriental crepes, almond chicken, spare ribs and beef and vegetables, just to name a few. And for those who want to start their brunch with something a little less exotic, The Empress even offers endless amounts of scrambled eggs with bacon and ham. The Oriental Buffet Brunch. There's absolutely nothing like it in Boston. Sundays 11:30 A.M. to 3 P.M. Reservations are accepted.

NEW! OM10
So little money never bought so much SLR

Here's a 35mm SLR compact with features you'd expect from much higher priced cameras. Or never expect from an SLR at any price!

The fully automatic OM-10 features "off-the-film" direct light measurement (OTF). It measures the light that actually reaches the film surface during exposures from 2 seconds to 1/1000.

During self-timer operation it beeps and blinks, with super-bright LED.

A viewfinder LED signals full flash charge and confirms correct flash exposures.

Come in and find out about the many other features—including the OM System of over 300 lenses and accessories.

Take a good look at that price—we'll bet you're as surprised as we were!

Answer to Puzzle #100

Thanks. A Lot.

The lot had 39 cars and trucks in it. Pay close attention and we'll tell you how to get the black one out.

Move 36 and 37 left; 31 and 32 down; 30 right; 23 and 24 down; 25 left; 17 and 18 down; 19 and 20 left; 11 and 12 down; 10 right; and the black car down one. Now move 3 and 4 right; 9 up; 15 and 16 left; and the black car down one. Move 10 left; 11 and 12 up; 19 and 20 right; 17 and 18 up; 25 right; 23 and 24 up; 30 left; 33 and 34 left; 26 and 27 down; 25 right; and the black car down one. Now move 15 and 16 right; 13 and 14 right; 21 and 22 up; 28 and 29 up; 30 left; and the black car down one. And finally (whew!), move 25 left; 26 and 27 up; 33 and 34 right; 31 and 32 up; 36 and 37 right; and the black car out.

That's 59 moves, 60 if you count the two-length move at the end twice.

#102 The Happy Medium

By Don Rubin

Ludwik Lazar Zamenhof was a born linguist. His father, Dr Mark Zamenhof, was a professor of languages, and his mother, Dvoshi, talked a great deal. By the time he was 18, yong Ludwik spoke Latin, Greek, Hebrew, German, Yiddish, Russian, Polish, English, French, and a smattering of Spanish. And a year later, he created his own language — Esperanto — as sort of a happy medium.

Needless to say, Esperanto, as an international language, never really caught on, and, despite some rather enthusiastic promotion (in the person of Count Leo Tolstoy), fewer than one million people speak the language today.

"Ahh, but I'm not one of them," you say.

Fear not. Since the Esperanto vocabulary consists of words that are internationally known, the average English-speaking person is said to recognize between 70 and 75 percent of the words without ever having studied the language.

FOOD & FUN FESTIVAL

The First Annual Food & Fun Festival

The First Annual World Food & Fun Festival, an innovation in family entertainment, education and excitement, will have its New England premiere November 7 through 11, Wednesday through Sunday, at the Commonwealth Pier Exhibition Hall.

Headed by the Stop & Shop Supermarkets with demonstrations of food market techniques, customer relations, coupon practices, and a graduate course in budget buying, all segments of the wholesale and retail food industry will be present to demonstrate their wares and services to the public.

Wrapped around the food spectacular will be rides, shows and games for the kids. A reincarnation of "Law West of the Pecos," will feature Judge ("the Hanging Judge") Roy Bean, his court, saloon and the notorious gunfighters who frequented the bistro. Lovely actress Lilly Langtry, Judge Bean's fantasy sweetheart, will also be in the company, as well as a troupe of American Indian dancers. Several times daily the gunslingers will do battle in the dusty street outside the saloon.

Stars of the New England Patriots and their high-kicking cheerleaders will make guest appearances.

Among many other attractions will be Gus Saunders and his "Yankee Kitchen," a daily cooking school, culinary college teachers demonstrating vegetable carvings, famous chefs from leading Boston restaurants making their favorite dishes on stage, and live WBZ radio broadcast showcasing the talents of Bob Raleigh, Bruce Bradley and Len Thomas. Awaiting each visitor will be free food coupons, free samples of a dozen delicacies, topped by the drawing several times daily of $100 worth of merchandise at the fascinating "School of Meat."

Admission is $3.50; children under 12, with an adult, will be admitted free at all times.

"The Elf" whose appearances on Keebler cookies TV commercials have made him (or her) a family favorite will be on hand at the World Food & Fun Festival, November 7 to 11, at Boston's Commonwealth Pier Exhibition Hall, on the waterfront.

Stop & Shop...and Sample

A major attraction at Boston's first World Food and Fun Festival will be the exhibition presented by the Stop & Shop Supermarket Company.

Stop & Shop's presentation will be the first of 575 exhibits displayed at the festival.

"We've designed our exhibit to not only be an introduction to Stop & Shop Supermarkets but to the entire concept of food and fun," said a company spokesman. "The Stop & Shop exhibit is a place where people can sample fresh fruits, bakery products, pizza, juices and deli products, watch a film explaining exactly how food is delivered from seed to table, get personalized consumer advice from Stop & Shop consumer specialists, and relax on conveniently placed benches before moving on to the other exhibits."

Highlights of Stop & Shop's exhibit will include:

THE GREEN SCENE—A complete variety of all Massachusetts-grown fruits and vegetables, plus pre-arranged fruit bowls and floral arrangements—for sample and sale.

THE GROCERY CORNER—Stop & Shop's three private label value choices featuring: Stop & Shop Brand, Sun Glory Brand and Economy Brand—Stop & Shop's generic line of grocery products.

EAT OUT AT HOME—Featuring the "Stop & Shop Pizzeria," with items for sample and sale.

THE BAKERY—Featuring Stop & Shop brand items including a wide variety of muffins, holiday cakes and pies—for sample and sale.

THE JUICE BAR—All Stop & Shop brand juices including: cranapple juice, apple cider, holiday punch and eggnog—for sample and sale.

STOP & SHOP'S ELECTRONIC SCANNING DISPLAY—Demonstrating cash register scanning equipment designed to improve efficiency, inventory control and stock rotation and to provide valuable data on consumer preferences and purchases.

THE VISITORS' CENTER—Featuring "The Endless Harvest," a 27-minute film, which illustrates food processing from seed to table. Plus, representatives from Stop & Shop's Consumer Affairs Department will be available to discuss the Company's pioneer nutrition program.

Stop & Shop will have available a variety of free brochures and provide information on how to shop the supermarket and other consumer issues.

The Stop & Shop Supermarket Company is one of The Stop & Shop Companies, Inc., which operates 153 Stop & Shop Supermarkets, 78 Bradlees Department Stores, 45 Medi Mart Drug Stores, 48 CB Perkins Tobacco Shops, 24 Off the Rax women's specialty stores, 14 Photo Stop kiosks, and the Stop & Shop Manufacturing Company.

FLOOR PLAN
THE FOOD AND FUN FESTIVAL

Lisa Jean Matta, Miss Massachusetts of 1979, will be helping the US Marine Corps kick off its annual Toys for Tots campaign at the Food and Fun Fair.

Toys for Tots

The US Marine Corps is getting off to an early start for the Toys for Tots campaign at the Food and Fun Festival at Boston's Commonwealth Pier.

The annual campaign, which begins in November and runs until mid-December, is designed to aid needy families and those children who aren't lucky enough to have parents or guardians. Old and new toys, donated by people throughout the nation, are collected, repaired, and then presented to the needy children for Christmas by Marines.

This year Marines will be manning the Toys for Tots barrels at booths in the large hall at Commonwealth Pier from noon to 10 pm each day and for those who stop by there'll be a few surprises.

"Miss Massachusetts, 1979," Lisa Jean Matta, is helping the Marine Corps on the Toys for Tots campaign and will appear at the Corps' booth.

Governor Edward King has endorsed this year's campaign on behalf of the citizens of Massachusetts and has sent a personal letter to the Marine Corps and its Reserve, "extending encouragement and support for this worthy event."

At the exhibit, visitors will also get a chance to see a display of original Marine Corps Combat Art pieces which were completed by Marine artists during actual combat. In addition, there'll be a display of United States Historic Flags (reproductions), including the Betsy Ross and the "Don't Tread on Me," flags. There'll also be literature on the Corps itself and films on how Marines are trained.

Celebrities on Hand

Among the several personalities and attractions at the World Food & Fun Festival, November 7 through 11, at Boston's Commonwealth Pier Exhibition Hall, will be Red Sox slugger Jim Rice and Red Sox broadcaster Ken "The Hawk" Harrelson. Rice will appear November 7, 5 to 7 pm, and Harrelson on November 10, noon to 2 pm.

Along with giving autographs and predictions, the two stars will be pitching Fenway Franks, one of the exhibitors at the show.

A New Way to Cook

The speed and convenience of microwave cooking join together with the ease of frozen foods at the Food and Fun Festival.

Boyd Corporation will be on hand with a staff of Home Economists and Demonstrators to explain the newest Amana Touchmatic Radarange with the "Rotawave" Cooking System. The exclusive system with its shower of powers cooks more evenly and cooks more foods faster than ever before. Live cooking demonstrations will be presented all day long illustrating the principle along with two major food companies' frozen food products that work well in the microwave oven.

Both Swanson and Stouffer's have several products that serve you your meals quick to meet today's fast pace living. Microwave instructions are printed right on the backs of these products so there is no longer any guesswork in cooking.

HOW IT WAS—"Hanging Judge" Roy Bean, with shotgun, is surrounded by the infamous gunslingers who enforced the "Law West of the Pecos." Re-enactment of this legendary page from the Old West will be a feature of the World Food and Fun Festival, November 7 to 11, at Boston's Commonwealth Pier Exhibition Hall. The frequently brawling gunslingers will stage shoot-outs, and Judge Bean's fantasy sweetheart, Lovely Lilly Langtry, will lend some glamor to the scene. In addition, there will be a group of native American Indians demonstrating tribal dances.

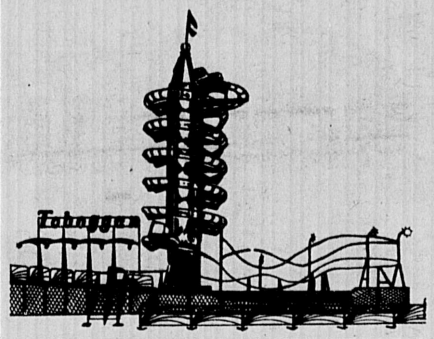
Local Produce Featured

"A Taste of Massachusetts" will be one of the gustatory highlights of the World Food & Fun Festival at the Commonwealth Pier Exhibition Hall.

Produced by the state's Department of Food and Agriculture, the harvest-time show will include lavish displays and frequent demonstrations of exciting ways to cook apples, eggs, dairy products, cranberries and various seasonal vegetables. Leading growers in the State will participate with specialized crop exhibits and samples for consumers.

The major retail food role will be played by Stop and Shop Supermarkets on a spacious red-carpet front replete with an intimate portrayal of marketing procedures, coupon practices, introductory preparation and sampling of new foods, and a graduate course in budget buying.

A fascinating "School of Meat;" several culinary college teachers demonstrating vegetable carvings; famous chefs from leading Boston restaurants making their favorite dishes on stage, and a daily cooking school, will be other shopper's treats.



New England's Foremost Fun Firm Fiesta Shows, will Provide Thrills, Rides and Shows at the World Food & Fun Festival at Boston's Commonwealth Pier Exhibition Hall.

A Fiesta of Entertainment

Fiesta Shows are synonymous with fun and frolic on the midways of New England's major fair and expositions. Produced by the firm of Dean & Flynn, who have been furnishing family entertainment for 30 years, this attraction represents an investment of more than $2 million in spectacular rides including roller coaster, the breathtaking Scrambler, Tilt-a-Whirl, Dodge 'Em cars and a full complement of kiddie thrills.

Skill games will also be a part of the Fiesta Shows' presentation at the World Food & Fun Festival.

Fun on Wheels

Mac-Moran Chevrolet Inc, Route 1, Norwood, sponsors a 1980 Fun on Wheels exhibit as part of the Fun section of the Food and Fun Festival at Commonwealth Pier Exhibition Hall. The exhibit features the lineup of Chevrolet's on-and off-the-road pleasure and recreational vehicles.

Bob Richards of Mac-Moran says he expects to have about eight vehicles in Chevrolet's sales-promotion area, a 120-foot-square area near the exit of the Exhibition Hall. Among them he will include a truck with a small boat, a couple of custom vans, and a station wagon with camping equipment.

WBZ Radio's new 29-foot Barth station wagon, which will be traveling "all about New England" in the coming months, will make an appearance at Boston's Food and Fun Fair. Shown with the new vehicle are, left to right, Bob Lobel, Bruce Bradley and Upton Bell. The air-conditioned vehicle has full studio facilities including the capability for doing two-way talk programs.

And now a word to our sponsors . . .

Thanks.

Even before it's opened, the response to the Food & Fun Festival has already been nothing short of tremendous.

It's no secret that organizing a show as massive as this one has taken the time and talent of many more companies than we can name here.* We also have a great list of individuals who have generously given of their efforts, so because of space and the fear of leaving anyone out we'll thank all of them as the group who made it all possible.

Our thanks to one and all. You made what's about to happen, happen.

Rotondi, Saltmarsh Feel Raise Shows Trend To Full-Time Lawmakers

By WILLIAM DONOVAN

It was called a trick on the taxpayers and a treat for the state legislature after the Senate and House of Representatives voted themselves healthy raises last week. But an explanation for the pay hike and a trend that seems to be building behind it have left Sen. Samuel Rotondi and Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh with differing opinions for the future of Massachusetts' governing body.

"They're trying to make the job full-time and I don't think it was meant to be," said Saltmarsh, who voted against the raise, earlier this week. "I just don't think there's that much work there."

Rotondi, who voted for the pay raise, feels there is a slow swing towards full-time legislators taking place, but thinks this will eventually benefit the people. "I'm not going to apologize for it," he said on Monday. "I still think the people will ultimately get a better qualified legislature for it."

The pay raise bill increased the rank-and-file legislator's annual salaries from $18,000 to $20,200. In addition, in what has perhaps infuriated taxpayers the most, House and Senate leadership salaries were hiked anywhere from $3200 to $17,550. Finally, the governor's salary was increased from $40,000 to $60,000.

Rotondi, chairman of the Public Safety Committee, added that although the position of state senator or representative may not have been planned as a full-time occupation, it has become just that. "We are probably one of the poorest paid legislatures around. I was strictly full-time in my first term with no outside income at all."

Rotondi also pointed out that he established a law practice last year, but because of his senatorial obligations, he has been to court only once. "My income comes almost completely from my senate salary. I have three children, I have a home, in my case it became a matter of compensating me for the services I perform."

But Saltmarsh feels that, rather than attract more qualified candidates, the trend towards full-time positions will narrow down the type of individual who runs for public office and "professionalize" the legislature.

"I think you're going to change the whole representation," said Saltmarsh, who is in the insurance business in private life. "What I'm afraid of is that they're going to restrict the outside interests." He added that this might reduce the range of backgrounds that now exist in the state legislature.

On the pay raise itself, which increased Rotondi's salary as a committee chairman, to approximately $26,000 and Saltmarsh's to $20,200, the two men disagree.

"The concept of the pay raise, I think," began Rotondi, "was a sound one. With the increase it still represents an awful lot less than I could be making as a full-time attorney. I love my work, I'm not complaining because I take pride in it. But it's about time we started getting paid for what we're worth."

"I think there have to be pay adjustments," said Saltmarsh. "I think we're entitled to a cost of living raise like everyone else. But the pay we were at was fair."

Rotondi pointed out that all facets of the cost of living in Massachusetts were reviewed before he could vote in good conscience. After doing so he still felt that the raise was merited. "For the duty that I perform, or for the time I put in, I don't have any qualms about what I'm receiving."

"I just think to give this amount of increase...," Saltmarsh began shaking his head. "We tell the cities and towns to operate on a four percent cap, then we turn around and vote ourselves a raise."

Both legislators agree that the raise came at the wrong time. "I don't think any legislature should vote an increase while they're in office," said Saltmarsh. "I think we should stand election."

Rotondi concurred. "The whole thing should never have taken effect until the next legislative sitting." He added that it's inappropriate for the legislature to be voting on their own pay raises and in the future the state constitution could be changed. Rotondi is looking into alternatives.

Saltmarsh stated that he thinks the raises for the leadership positions were "excessive. Rotondi, however, feels that $40,000 for the governor is not an extraordinary amount.

The senator again noted that he has no misgivings for the way he voted and if there had been a roll call vote in the Senate as there was in the House, he would have gone on record for the raise. He pointed out that his colleagues in the Senate who could afford to vote against the raise because of outside income or for other reasons, "still pick up the check," as a result of votes like his.

He added that if anyone in the Senate really wanted to stop consideration of the bill, they could have easily done so within the rules and regulations of the constitution. But yet no one did, despite objections after the vote.

Saltmarsh pointed out that with the raise, which elevated the legislature from grade 19 to grade 21 on the state employees pay scale, the lawmakers may also be eligible for a further pay increase next year when those employees already on grade 21 are up for a raise. Rotondi was unaware of this possibility but stated that "if that is the case, I would try to make sure that we were not a part of that increase."

Saltmarsh is also considering filing legislation that would force the lawmakers to finish up their business in six months time. "Unless there is an emergency, you shouldn't go past six month sessions. You still have constituent work afterwards. But once we're out of session the work load goes down."

He agrees that his legislation might be difficult in that legislatures would be making at least $20,000 for only six months of official session and the public may not stand for the idea. But it is a prospect that is worth looking into he feels.

Rotondi says he has only a slight drop in his work once the Senate has gone into recess. "I represent about 150,000 people, coupled with my chairmanships, there is no way in the world I could finish my work in six months." He added that, now that the legislature is in recess, he will be devoting almost five days a week to the civil service committee he is on.

Town Meeting Votes Energy Article At First Session Monday

Three articles, including an appropriation to meet the excess energy expenses incurred between now and the end of this fiscal year, were voted Monday night in the opening session of the November Town Meeting.

Town Meeting Moderator John Sullivan opened the session, where 129 members were present at one point, by saying he has been impressed by the majority feeling that Town Meeting be conducted with dispatch and yet allow sufficient time for debate. In that light he said he would act accordingly.

Board of Selectmen Chairman Richard Wilsack noted that the November Town Meeting will be a significant one, the articles of which will impact the future, not just present, direction of the town.

Wilsack then commented on several articles submitted in the Warrant. He noted that with the proposed reuse of three schools slated to be closed at the end of this academic year, the town has an opportunity to broaden its tax base.

The Selectmen, Wilsack said, are "pleased with the vitality put forth by the Energy Task Force," and with the work of the Assessors in stabilizing the tax rate. The Holton street trucking ban has effectively worked so that application has been made for a permanent ban. He also noted that eight Cable TV applications have been filed.

Finance Committee Chairman Carolyn Ward said, in talking about the number of articles seeking financial appropriations, that Town Meeting "must weigh the necessity or desirability of the programs now." Unless the tax base can be expanded, Ward said, it's clear that the future, with respect to services, "is gloomy."

Ward said that in the total of $400,000 in requested appropriations, 16 percent were required by law, 5 percent are programs already started which must receive additional funds to continue, 24 percent is required before the spring Town Meeting, and the balance are energy related issues. If all these appropriations are approved, which must be added to next spring's appropriations, the town can expect to be over the levy cap next year, she said.

Articles

By a vote of 110-2 Town Meeting voted $18,500 to continue the town minibus program through June, 1980.

This article (number three), had originally requested $20,000 to continue the program in conjunction with the MBTA. However, the main motion was reduced $1500 after Ward said the handicapped vehicle, originally included in the request, would most likely not be in use this year.

Recreation Director Ken Cereghino told members the appropriation had been requested since the hourly bid price of vehicles was $15.24 against the projected $13. The appropriation was also to add an extra month so the program would end at the end of the fiscal year.

Wilsack, in noting the Selectmen's support of the article, said that in the early months of the program's operation, the bus was "almost too successful." In the last few months there has been a more balanced program, he said, and suggested "let us continue with this innovative program."

Article seven, which requested an appropriation of $22,500 to construct a bikeway from Lake street to Horn Pond Brook road, thereby connecting the Aberjona Bicentennial Bike Path with the Woburn bike path, was approved.

It is expected that the appropriation, which will pay 75 percent of construction costs, will be reimbursed by the state.

A request in the amount of $70,000 was transferred from general funds to cover workmen's compensation costs.

Articles eight and 12, which dealt with collective bargaining agreements of school personnel and a future exchange of library personnel with the City of Beverly, received indefinite postponement.

In other areas: Town Meeting voted to postpone Article six, which requests a pilot study of the town's water supply, until after Article 19; and postponed Article four, money for services to prepare plans and specifications for reconstruction work on Winchester High School, until after Article nine.

The Rules Committee will meet tonight at 7 p.m. to discuss the forfeiture of office of those members who have not attended one half of Town Meeting sessions, as set down in the Town Charter.

The first order of business will be school reuse expenses and the school buildings capital energy project, listed under Article two, when Town Meeting convenes at 7:30 p.m.

Energy Funds Approved By Town Meeting

Town Meeting Monday night, by a vote of 89 to 40, approved $200,000 to be transferred from existing funds to finance energy expenses incurred between now and the ned of this fiscal year in all town departments.

The $200,000 approved was an amended version of the $225,000 originally requested. What the appropriation, under Article two, originally

Unhappy With Reply From DMH, Selectmen Write To Them Again

Unhappy with the letter they received in early October from the Department of Mental Health regarding the community residence established on Cross street, the Board of Selectmen have written a reply, clarifying a number of areas where they feel DMH is not clear.

In a related letter, the Selectmen also sent a letter to Dr. Ernest Cook, area director of the Mystic Valley Mental Health, a division of DMH, asking assistance in clarifying some rumors that have surfaced from the Cross street residence.

The letter the Selectmen received from DMH, written by Dr. Robert Okin, commissioner of DMH and dated Oct. 3, upset the Board who termed it a "whitewash" and a "political response," because it did not deal with the concerns they expressed in a letter to Okin on Sept. 10.

In the Selectmen's recent letter, the Board stated that "at the outset it should be noted that our perspective of the timetable of events leading up to the opening of this residence differs materially from the sequence of events as presented in your letter."

The community residence on Cross street was established by Task Oriented Communities of Waltham, which is funded by DMH. The community residence is an attempt to reorientate former patients of Metropolitan State Hospital into society. Approximately 10-12 former patients, according to TOC, have been transplanted in the home where they stay when not at a workshop in Waltham during the day. The former patients are chronic victims of schizophrenia and other emotional disorders.

The residents of the Cross street area say they were never fully informed by TOC as to what community residences were all about. According to the neighbors, in August they were suddenly told that TOC was moving in and that because of a special zoning exemption for educational facilities, which community residences are classified under, they could not stop them.

As a result of this action, the Selectmen dispatched a letter to Okin protesting the "shoddy treatment inflicted on the Town of Winchester and its residents" by TOC. Okin's reply came almost a month later.

In his Oct. 3 letter, Okin stated that the representatives from TOC and their Area Board, approached the abutters on Cross street to gather their views on the proposed occupancy before they informed the Selectmen of the site they were considering. He went on to say that "I believe the Area Board and TOC were acting in good faith, and had every intention of working with you on the development of the program; however events moved more rapidly than they had expected."

The Selectmen expressed a different point of view in their recent letter. "First, we note that the Selectmen's minutes of Oct. 23, 1978, reflect a promise by Mystic Valley and TOC representatives to keep the Board informed of all progress in the indentification of a potential site. Unfortunately, as the timetable of events appended to your letter indicates, the Board was advised of TOC's interest in the Cross street site by letter dated Aug. 14, 1979, although TOC had identified this location as a potential site in May of 1979."

The Selectmen go on to say "second, at the meeting in October, 1978, the Board was advised that after a suitable building has been located the neighbors would be involved and 'if there is hostility in the neighborhood, they do not consider this location...' According to TOC's letter of Aug. 14, 1979, the neighbors of the 87-89 Cross street residence were not contacted until after the property had been purchased by Mr. Chute for lease to TOC."

The Selectmen also addressed a point raised by Okin that TOC agreed to delay occupancy of the house by two weeks after they learned of the neighbors distress.

"It should be mentioned that at the time TOC agreed to this delay, it lacked its initial occupancy permit, a permit issued on Aug. 29, 1979. Thus, as a practical matter some delay in TOC's opening was required in any event," the Selectmen's letter reads.

The Board also went on to state that there would not have been any unnecessary delay or additional "red-tape" if they had been kept advised as to the progress of the planned occupancy.

requested was an adjustment in overall accounts for an approximate 26 percent increase. The amended motion reduced this increase to 10 percent.

Town Manager Thomas Groux said that this money noramlly would have been appropriated last spring, however, skyrocketing increase in energy costs necessitated this request. With a series of slides and graphs Groux outlined to Town Meeting members how prices in all areas of energy consumption have remained fairly stable over the last four years, and yet will increase dramatically in fiscal 1980.

One example cited was that the price per 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas in fiscal 1977 was $1.75; the fiscal 1980 price is $4.28. The largest percent of energy consuming buildings are schools. An example is that 84 percent of fuel oil is consumed by schools, six percent by the Department of Public Works, 4.5 percent by the library, and 4.3 percent by public safety.

Selectman Wade Welch, a member of the Energy Task Force, in explaining the "nuts and bolts" of the work done, said there were three aspects to the task force's work: constructing a policy to cover all town departments, a way to measure and monitor the policy, and a way to enforce it.

To save on energy there had to be a policy in which all departments could participate. Enforcement of the policy, is most criticial, however, Welch feels that with department heads making and enforcing the policy it will work.

Finance Committee Chairman Carolyn Ward, in stating the Committee's majority opinion that the Article be approved and the funds be under the authority of the Town Manager, said the question as to who shall administer the funds (Finance Committee or Town Manager) received much Committee debate.

The request, even the amount, Ward said, came as no surprise, recognizing the inability to predict energy costs. She said, however, the Committee expects the monitoring and data gathering to continue, and will ask the Town Comptroller to keep the Committee informed.

FinCom member William Zettler, in delivering the five-member minority report, said the "amount of money needed is extremely nebulous."

Zettler also discussed that the Task Force has set its own goals and is comprised of people with a direct interest in the money. "How will the hand of conflict of interest go?" Zettler questin questioned. There can't be a committee which monitors and controls itself, Zettler said, in advocating that the Finance Committee control the funds.

The vote, which required a two-thirds majority approval, received three votes more than necessary.

Selectmen Plan Cable TV Hearing For Early December

An open hearing has been planned by the Board of Selectmen for Dec. 4 at 7:30, perhaps at the Jenks Senior Center, to seek any further input from town residents regarding cable television in Winchester.

The Selectmen, who established the date at Tuesday night's meeting, did so as the latest step in the procedures which the town must follow in granting a community antenna television license, established by the Massachusetts Community Antenna Television Commission.

On Oct. 31, the Selectmen received the report of the town's Cable Advisory Committee, as well as eight proposals from various cable television companies interested in a franchise in Winchester.

According to William McCarter, chairman of the Cable Advisory Committee, after the hearing the Selectmen are obligated to submit a report on what they feel the needs of the town are concerning cable television. This report will be sent to all of the companies who submitted proposals. The companies then come up with amendments to their proposals, if they feel any are necessary.

The eight companies who have submitted proposals to the town are; Warner Cable, AR Telecommunications, Colony Communications, Contintental Cablevision, American Cablesystems, Colonial Cablevision, American Cable Comm. and AM Video Corporation. Licenses will be given out on a provisional basis, according to McCarter.

In assessing the needs of Winchester for cable television, the Cable Advisory Committee noted in their report that "there are certain areas of Winchester where television reception is poor, particularly areas on the west side of Town that are blocked by hills."

The report also states that "public interest in cable television has increased considerably during the past year or two. Cable systems in neighboring communities provide an increasing variety of programming enhanced by the development of satellite broadcasting. Pay TV movie packages are attractive to many and increase the likelihood of operating a profitable cable system in Winchester."

As a final assessment, the committee added that locally originated programming would be "well received" in Winchester, based partly on the success of the Winchester High School radio station.

The committee also established a guideline of current rates and charges for cable companies to follow. These guidelines include; installation charges that vary from $15 to $40, second set installation charges that vary from free to $15, economy service (12 channels) that begins at $5 to $6 per month and mini-movie packages that range from $3 to $5 per month. Full movie packages (Home Box Office, Star Channel, etc .,) would stretch from $7.50 to $9 per month.

The committee also recommended that companies apply for licenses of 10 years, though the maximum is 15. Included in that license, the committee suggests that the cable system "include capacity to provide for communication services of the future, such as security and fire alarms, medical alert devices, surveillance, educational feedback, utility meter readings, marketing services, audience surveys and other two-way services as they are developed."

On Tuesday night, the Selectmen expressed their satisfaction with the report of the committee. Selectman Barbara Hankins termed it "excellent," while Chairman Richard Wilsack told McCarter that "We're extremely pleased with the vigor your committee has showed."

Selectmen Withdraw Article On Community Residences

The Board of Selectmen, feeling that their article will not accomplish what they had intended it to, voted Tuesday night to withdraw Article 13 from the Town Warrant, the proposed by-law amendment for community residences, and will attempt to establish a committee to study community residences in Winchester under Article 20.

Article 13 was originally submitted by the Selectmen as a result of the actions by Task Oriented Communities (TOC) and the manner in which they established a community residence at 87-89 Cross street st.

The Selectmen felt they had to propose some sort of amendment to protect the town from organizations "sneaking in in the middle of the night," as Selectman Wade Welch put it. However, according to Town Counsel Douglas Randall, who drew up the article, he never thought it would go through Town Meeting in its present form.

Randall told the Selectmen that Article 13 was "developed solely upon my philosophy because of a shortage of time." He expected Town Meeting to amend it somewhat.

The idea to look at the community residence situation in Winchester by committee was suggested at an open hearing on the article last Thursday. Welch agreed to withdrawing the article and establishing a committee, who would report to the Planning Board, mainly because "I got direct assurance from Dr. Cook (Dr. Ernest Cook, director of Mystic Valley Mental Health) that there are no other projects planned for Winchester in the immediate future."

However, earlier in the meeting, Welch stated that he has little faith in Cook or anyone else involved in community residences. "I have no trust at all in TOC. I have no trust at all in Mystic Valley Health. I have no trust at all in the Department of Mental Health." He went on to say that "I'm hot and I'm getting hotter. I don't trust them."

Article 20, under which the study committee will be established, is a general article which gives the Selectmen the power to authorize new committees among other things.

School Committee Approves Five - Street Redistricting

With little discussion the School Committee Tuesday unanimously approved Supt. of Schools William Macdonald's recommendation that the 18 elementary school students on Holton, Cross, Lowell, Newton and Baldwin streets remain redistricted to Lynch School next year, instead of allowing them to remain in the Muraco district.

However, the Superintendent's recommendation stipulated that those requesting open enrollment to Muraco be allowed to remain there, regardless of space or staff allocations. MacDonald noted that although space is available at Muraco next year for these students, staffing allocations are not yet known.

School Committee member Catherine Alexander posed a question as to what would happen with the siblings of these students in subsequent years; would they automatically be allowed to remain at Muraco under the open enrollment policy.

MacDonald said that once a student becomes a member of a school under the open enrollment policy, that student is a bona fide member of the school population. However, for those students not yet in kindergarten next year, he would subsequently recommend that space be allocated to them.

On a general question of open enrollment, MacDonald said, "Open enrollment should be addressed as in the past. Each year the School Committee should annually vote what school schools would participate. I am opposed to any action taken earlier than April." Macdonald said that the April decision gives parents time to adjust to new district lines.

Hearing Last Week On Community Residences

A public meeting held last week by the Planning Board and Board of Selectmen to discuss possible zoning by-law amendments for community residences, listed under Article 13 of the Town Meeting Warrant, fostered considerable discussion on the Special Permit proposal.

According to previous statements by Richard Wilsack, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, Article 13 "is an attempt to spell out in black and white what the ground rules are prior to an occupancy license being given to a community residence."

The impetus for the zoning amendment, Wilsack said, which would require that community residences obtain a Special Permit from the Board of Appeals every two years, is the controversial Cross street community residence, sponsored by Task Oriented Communities (TOC).

If the amendments are passed, future community residences would be subject to the following criteria: the community residence must be less than 2600 feet from another existing community residence; the community residence shall provide 300 square feet of gross floor area (excluding basement and unfinished attic) for each person; each community residence shall house no more than 14 persons; and each residence must provide one parking space for every four bedspaces.

Although the by-law amendments, if passed, would not be retroactive, they could affect future alterations of the Cross street residence.

Speaking in opposition to the Selectmen's proposals, Dr. Edward Cook of the Department of Mental Health was confident that the Massachusetts courts would protect the TOC residence from the Special Permit proposals.

Cook referred to Section 2 Chapter 40 of the state law which says that "no zoning ordinance shall restirct the interior (use), or prohibit or regulate the use of the land if it is being used for educational or religious purposes, provided they do take into consideration the zoning ordinances of the town."

The Cross street residence has already complied with those zoning requirements pertaining to bulk, height structure, yard size, lot area, open sapce, parking and building coverage, he said.

Selectman Edward O'Connell repeatedly pointed out that the new zoning proposal "is not to put the Cross street residents back into the street, but is to regulate the creation and maintenance of the community residences in Winchester for the health, salfety and welfare of its people."

O'Connell questioned the handling of the TOC residence though, stating that "no genuine concern was shown by TOC towards the Selectmen of Winchester nor for the residents where the TOC home was to be located."

Albert Sculli, who lives directly behind the Cross street home, said that he wasn't even notified of the TOC residence until Aug. 15, just a few days before they moved in.

Other Cross street residents complanined about the "secrecy" of the TOC operation. As one abutting neighbor put it, "We would like to know what goes on in there, for our own good, and for the protection of the patients that live there."

Paul Galvoney of ABC (A Better Chance) House and Bill McCarter of the Mt. Vernon Home were concerned with the applicability of the proposed two-year Special Permit to their own groups. "Supposing ABC House burned down, as it almost did last year," Galvoney asked, "would we be subject to the proposed zoning amd amendments?" The ABC residence presently houses 14 persons in very close quarters, he said.

Galvoney felt that certain aspects of the proposal were inappropriate to the realities of the ABC House. "Why should we supply one parking space for every four bedspaces when none of the kids even have their driver's license, let alone a car?"

Planning Board Chairman Charles Tseckares said he was quite pleased with the overall response to the hearing, however, the complexity of the issue indicated that further discussion might be necessary before the town could vote on such a proposal.

Organ Recital Sunday Night

An organ recital at the First Congregational Church will feature John Skelton, church organist, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Skelton, frequently heard on WCRB radion, is a member of the faculties of the Unviersity of New Hampshire and the University of Lowell. He received his music degrees from the New England Conservatory of Music. Skelton studied with Donald Willing, Danile Pinkham and with the performer and teacher, Anton Heiller, in Vienna. Skelton has performed at conventions of the American Guild of Organists and the Organ Historical Society.

The program will include works by Bach, Bohm, Mathias and Dupre.

The organ at the First Congregational Church was bulit in 1969 by Charles B. Fish of Gloucester. It has 27 stops, three manuals and pedal and is voiced in the classic tradtion. The organ is quite versatile for its size.

..On March 20, 1853 the Town of Winchester experienced its first serious fire when, on that Sunday morning, the 12-year-old Congregational Church burned to the ground.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

The House "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on three key roll calls from last week's session.

PAY HIKES (S 2062) - House gave final approval 83-62, to the bill granting pay raises to legislators and the six constitutional officers of the Commonwealth, including the Governor.

Under the measure, the Governor's salary would be hiked from $40,000 to $60,000, with substantial but lesser hikes for the lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Treasurer, Auditor, and State Secretary. Rank and file legislators in both the House and Senate now receive $17,800 a year and are scheduled for an automatic hike to $18,400 on Jan. 1 since two years ago they adopted a salary schedule tying them to current employee pay scale grade 19.

This bill upgrades them to grade 21, lifting their salaries another $1,800 to $20,200. The bill also provides a hefty pay hike of $17,550 for House Speaker McGee and Senate President Bulger by boosting their salaries from $38,000 to $55,550. In addition, other legislative leaders would receive hikes of up to $6,400.

Supporters offered a variety of arguments for the hikes. They noted the high inflation rate, said many legislators are affected like everyone else, and noted legislators are asked to give raises to other state employees. Some noted they are full-time legislators and did not think the hikes were outrageous in light of the many hours they devote to their job and the out-of-pocket expenses they often have to absorb. Others said the issue is but in the open, noted representatives are going to be recorded on a roll call vote on the hike, and simply said legislative pay scales are too low.

Opponents called the hike, outrageous and an insult to the taxpayers. They said the House has no business raising their own salaries when they are asking everyone else to tighten their belts. Many pointed to the thousands who may not be able to pay for fuel this winter and said the money can be better used in areas like that.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted against the pay hike.

LEGISLATORS' EXPENSES (S 2036) - House approved 123-22, the Senate version of a bill increasing legislative expense and travel allowances. House had passed its own version of the bill in July. Both versions hike general expense allowances from $100 to $200 a month. The bills differ, however, in the travel allowances for each legislator.

Supporters of accepting the Senate version argued it was a reasonable one, noted no revisions have been made in these expenses since 1969, and pointed out that district sizes have been expanded. Many said the hikes were justified because of increased costs for gas, hotels, telephones, postage, etc.

Some opponents said the House version was at least far more equitable than the Senate one. Many, however, opposed both versions and said they simple were pay raises in disguise. They said the increases were an outrage and would simply cost the taxpayers more money.

Saltmarsh voted against the Senate version.

THE SENATE "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local Senators' votes on four key roll calls from last week's session.

It is important to note that the Senate did not hold a roll call vote on the controversial pay raise bill for legislators.

Senate rules require a roll call vote to be held if one fifth of the Senators present request one. Despite several attempts, opponents of the pay raises could not get enough senators to request a roll call vote on the hikes so that the voters would have the opportunity to see how their senators voted. All votes on the matter were either on a standing or a voice vote, so it is impossible to record local senators' vote.

FUEL ADJUSTMENT (H 6215) - Senate approved 32-3, a bill abolishing the automatic fuel adjustment clause on utility bills, which allows companies to pass on higher fuel costs to consumers without requesting it and having it approved by the state.

The bill would allow the companies to recover the costs from consumers, but only after the company goes through a regulatory process in which the state must approve the increased costs. Under the measure, the companies would have to prove that they used "all reasonable means to obtain the lowest cost possible" for the fuel in question.

Supporters argued the bill would provide an incentive for utilities to buy low cost fuel, noting there is no incentive now because they just automatically pass the cost onto consumers. They said the measure is not anti-business and does not prohibit hikes, but simply requires a hearing before the DPU before fuel costs can be passed onto consumers.

Opponents said the companies already are required to prove to the DPU monthly that they are purchasing fuel judiciously. Many noted that while the companies go through these lengthy request hearings and have to delay charging customers, they will have to borrow money to buy fuel and the borrowing costs will eventually be passed onto the consumer.

Sen. Sameul Rotondi voted for the bill.

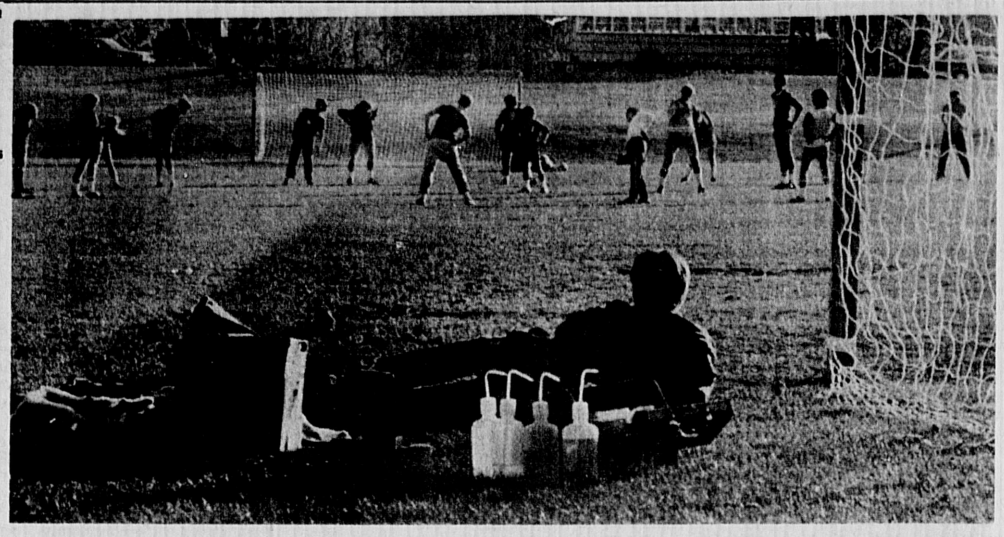
(Editor's note: Henry Simonds, a member of the Winchester Historical Commission whose avocation has long been Winchester history, recounts tales of Winchester in 1929.)

Announcement was made this week of the merger of the George F. Arnold Florist Store with the Winchester Conservatories, Inc. The store, which is now conducted by Arnold on Common street will be known as the Arnold Store. It will be moved to 8 Common st. in the store formerly occupied by the Post office, and will be a branch of the Winchester Conservatories.

Arnold has conducted a florist store in Winchester for the past 30 years. He will continue as manager of the new store.

With the exceptional facilities of the Winchester Conservatories, combined with Arnold's years of experience, Winchester will have one of the finest flower stores in greater Boston. The new store will be open for business about Dec. 1 after extensive alterations and renovations have been made.



As the McCall Junior High soccer team works out, Scott Burtnett takes it easy. Winchester saw some fine weather last week, causing many residents to relax in the outdoors. (Staff Photo)

Letters From Readers

Animal Death

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I just can't imagine the existence of any human being in such animal loving our Town of Winchester, hitting my cat on Oct. 23 just before 8 a.m., just across from the house where he lives, with a collar on his neck indicating his name, address and telephone number, leaving him bloody, motionless on the street.

What happened to humanity? What are we rushing for? When are we going to learn our human responsibilities to fellow citizens: to each other, and to our beloved animals?

Whoever you are, while not forgiving you as a guilty thief running away, an assailant; I wish the best chance to you to become a human being, one day, if you can make it.

Ismail Ersevim, M.D.

Thanks Panel

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A panel discussion was recently held at the Jenks Senior Center sponsored by Church Women United in Winchester, to acquaint youth and their parents with the services that are available to them in Winchester.

We, as coordinators of the program, would like to thank Dr. Donald McLean who served as Moderator for the panel and the following participants; Jean Dillon, speaking as an educator, Kenneth Cereghino, director of recreation for the town, June Austin from the Inter-Agency Council, Rev. Kenneth Orth for Church Youth Groups, Chief John P. McHugh and Juvenile Officer, Richard Beaton from the Police Department and Tony Johnson, vice-president of the Student Union at Winchester High School.

While the panelists indicated a broad spectrum of services now being offered to the youth in Winchester, there were questions raised as to how future needs might be met.

Berta Swanson, president of Church Women United in Winchester, in her closing remarks, thanked the panelists and audience for their participation in this very enlightening evening and added that Church Women United in Winchester would continue to focus on the needs of youth in Winchester.

As Rev. Orth so succinctly stated in describing the pleas of youth in distress.

Don't question me!
Don't touch me!
Stay with me!

School Spirit

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

What ever happened to school spirit? For a long time, I've noticed that school spirit is not what it was when I was in high school. Then, everyone went to Saturday football games and all other sports, and also supported other school functions, drama performances and music concerts.

A lot of things contribute to the lack of school spirit. Many students now work plus a general disinterest in school itself, and anything involving school especially after the last bell. I have begun to see changes in the last few years in Winchester. More students are attending functions involving their peers.

The biggest and most appropriate is the Winchester High School Marching Band. You really had to be at the night game last Friday night played beween Winchester and Wakefield to see it and feel it. Everyone seemed to know that something special was going to happen. Most important, people stayed in the stands during half time to watch the band. The spirit of this group and their leader, Pricilla Miller, has passed on not only to the students but the whole town, who loudly stomp and cheer after each half-time show.

The band performed to a standing ovation from both sides of the field. I have a friend who lives in Wakefield. She called me after the game to tell me how the spirit could really be felt and that all of Wakefield was talking about e half time show and the spirit.

The music department has had it's ups and downs over the last few years with directors coming and going and the schedule reduced to a seven period day that just about killed the band. In 1977 the band varely had 56 on the field. This year there are about 88 marching and 150 expected next year with a four-year high school.

There are several students marching without course credit. Orchestra students because they want to and others who want to but cannot fit band into their schedule. Three days a week the band gathers at 7:15 a.m. on the field for marching practice and Saturday mornings at 9 to prepare their half-time show.

The credit has got to go to second year director, Pricilla Miller and a new asset, the two drum majors, Terese Murray and Jose Rios. Ms. Miller has turned the spirit of the whole group in just one year and drum major camp has helped Terese and Jose perform their duties and lead the band.

Yes, school spirit is alive and well in Winchester. I only wish more people would attend the Saturday games and see for themselves.

Mary Lou S. Leach

Education Bill

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I congratulate you on your supporting vote of H.R. 2444 which establishes a new Federal Department of Education. Our country's hopes do rest with our developing and maturing children. The state of the art in the field of education is at a crossroads in our country. Strong leadership is an absolute necessity to direct and support our efforts in the continuing development of meaningful and truly basic curricula during the critical maturing years of our nation's youth.

This leadership must look to the future for its definition of basics for the present. Children entering our schools during the 1980's must be prepared for a productive and fruitful adult life in our country's third century. The current call to "return to the basics" is more a plea to return to that which was "basic" in preparing one for adulthood in the forties and fifties of this century.

The word "basics" will be redefined only when our educational leaderhip is stimulated by a vision of the possible future for the youth of today. Only when once redefined will meaningful, preparatory curricula be presented to our children in the classrooms throughout the United States.

I thank you for supporting the passage of this bill. I urge you, now, to remain closely identified with its implementation. Too many important bills on education are successfully passed through our legislature and then fail because their political supporters pass on to other concerns and do not remain to support their successful implementation.

Our own Ch. 766 in Massachusetts is perhaps an example of the most wonderful humanistic legislation ever designed to meet the educational deficiencies of our "special need children. Implementation, however, has been an up-hill struggle for most communities because original legislative designers and political supporters have turned their attention to other affairs.

Francis X. Curran

(Editor's note: A copy of this letter was sent to Congressman Edward J. Markey).

Curtain And Cue

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Let me be the first to admit it: I was prepared for disaster. Instead, Dorothy Santos pulled off some sort of miracle, and the production of "Diary of Anne Frank," which played Friday and Saturday at the high school auditorium turned out to be a triumph.

After so many years of light-hearted autumn delights such as last year's stylish "You Can't Take it With You," the Curtain and Cue Players took on Goodrich and Hackett's dramatic adaptation of Anne Frank's heart-rending chronicle of her years spent hiding with her family from Nazi tyranny in occupied Holland. Many an amateur theatrical group has been shipwrecked by the demands of this play.

There is little action, high dramatic demands on the actors, a tension which can exhaust an audience. Well, the results turned out to be a tour de force of acting, directing, and stage design.

For whatever reason it may be, Winchester has been singularly blessed with high school acting talent. At no time in recent years was this talent called on to such a degree as in this play, and never has the response been as professional.

Lisa Hirschhorn in the title role was the perfect combination of ebullient precocity and sensitive child-woman. She never overacted, kept the tough role always under control, and dominated the stage. Robert Hallisey and Anne-Louise Casey, as Mr. and Mrs. Frank, can only be described as throughly professional. These two graduating seniors will be heard from again, rest assured.

There is dramatic talent here in abundance, and their careers are not going to end with graduation from Winchester High School. The tensions of life in confinement get focused by the characters of Mr. and Mrs. Van Daan, played by Dan Schutzberg and Nan Keller, and the dentist Mr. Dussel, played by Peter Gittleman. These are especially difficult roles, because the actors have to demonstrate some meanspiritedness as well as the terror they feel.

Schutzberg and Keller played off each other with extraordinary style, and Gittleman took a potentially eccentric character and gave him humor, warmth, and sympathy. Jeff Richmond, another graduating senior, played the role of Peter van Daan, Anna's friendly enemy and eventually Platonic lover with such elegant understatement that any sense of distinctions between amateur and professional acting simply disappeared.

The cast was remarkable in the quality of acting, even in the supporting roles. Valerie Kolligian, as Anna's older sister, was mature, tragic in her own right, and stately; Brian Milauskas and Claudia McKay, as the kindly Dutch who hid the families, brought just the right touch to parts which often are overwhelmed.

The set took on a life of its own, as the audience began to feel the oppression of people locked up for years in an attic, waiting for the unseen enemy to come.

As the program said, if Anna Frank were still alive, she would be 50 years old now. With productions like this, one can be certain that her courage and humanity will never die.

Sol Gittleman, chairman
Department of German & Russian Tufts University

Soccer Posts

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Just a note of thanks to the few mature people who were thoughtful enough to tear down the soccer goal posts at West Side field No. 1. I am sure that the seven and eight-year-olds find it much easier to make goals now that the goal posts are not in their way. Of course, the two by four's being used in place of the goal posts leave a great deal to be desired.

No doubt, you few who tore down the goals are among the same small group who have done such a fine job decorating the highways and byway of Winchester with beautiful crystals of broken glass. It's a wonder that the joggers and cyclists don't write to The Star more often to thank you. To say nothing of your fine paint job in the center of town this past spring and on the high school.

You should really consider declaring yourselves as an organization. Then, you could apply for non-profit status and get a tax exemption for your next annual meeting. This would allow you a tax write off for your beer and paint.

May I be so presumptuous as to suggest a name for your organization? How about something catchy like the Winchester Association to Redecorate the Town, (W.A.R.T.)? We taxpayers could simply refer to you as the WART's.

Darryl G. Smith

Medical Insurance

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Now, you folks who say National Health Insurance is no good should have some problems like this friend of mine has.

She recently had her insurance cancelled because she was a class two medical risk, a chronic condition she has had for years.

Don't you think it is mean to cancel her insurance. Now she has no insurance and the hospitals can't afford to take her in because of it and she has to suffer along year in and out.

The embarrassing questions asked of you when you sign yourself in are bad enough if you have insurance. I hope Ted Kennedy can get some kind of insurance for our unfortunate people.

If you go to Canada or any of our foreign countries you go to the hospitals without the third degree. There must be plenty of people in the same situation in our area. How many people need care and can't get it because of no insurance.

A Strange Sport This Soccer, Yet A Hater Finally Gives In

By WILLIAM DONOVAN

It was during a freshman phys. ed class in high school that I decided the game of soccer was simply beyond my understanding.

The moment flashes back to me every time I see a soccer game. I took a pass from the kid who never took off his leather jacket in class as I stood alone about 15 feet away from the goal. Without a second thought I awarkwardly booted the ball towards the top corner of the goal.

The shot had "score" written all over it. No one was near the net. And then, from out of nowhere, came the kid in class who was from Greece. He made this incredible save, destroying my glory, with his face. He stopped the ball with his face. On purpose!

Well that was all it took for me to decide that the game just didn't make sense. "My face may stop clocks," I said to myself, "but that's as far as I go. Soccer balls are where I draw the line."

That experience, coupled with the fact that the upper torso can't had handle the ball, made me a confirmed soccer resister. And I did resist the slow but persistent growth of the game. I almost cracked when my seven year-old nephew headed a basketball I passed to him one day, but I regained myself.

Until now.

I must admit, I've become somwhat of a soccer fan. Not of the game itself, but of a team, the girls' team at Winchester High.

The fall sports season has generally been a successful one for the town of Winchester. The football team puts out 100 percent each week, the boys' soccer team suffered about every illness and injury but the plague this year and still made it to the tournament and the girls' cross country team showed that the program has become a solid one.

But this girls' soccer team is so good it's ridiculous. As they enter this Saturday's post-season play with Needham, their record stands at 11-0-1 and they've demolished everyone they've played.

Seeded second in this year's tournament, the Sachemettes, in only their second season of league play, are the product of an .outstanding soccer program in the lower grades. In fact, the junior varsity team probably would have won their share of varsity games this year.

They pass well, they shoot super, they score like crazy. And yet, despite crushing everyone they've played, the girls haven't gotten caught up in themselves. They keep working and they won't let up.

They play like a machine, yet they have a coach who realizes that he isn't leading a bunch of muscle bound jocks. He tries to go beyond the athlete in his players and reach the feelings that will unite them as young women, not just soccer players.

Early in the year there was a communication gap, a void that existed between the coach and team that came to a head. In a head clearing session that later had some of the players calling the coach at home to tell him how much it meant to them, an emotional bond was established that made this team complete. At the next game, the coach presented each of his players a red carnation.

And so they've responded with a level of play that has fans expecting the exceptional. A level of play that's been both exciting and yet, sometimes downright boring. I mean, 62 shots to zero in one game. Let's be serious.

So on Saturday they approach another phase of what many coaches call an experience, rather than a season. It will be a chance to push the character that the coach and team have developed, that much further. There are winners and there are champions.

Whether they win or lose in the playoffs that are ahead, it's been a season that both the coach and the team will not soon forget. In fact, it will not be the record that carry when it's all over, but the times they've had.

As for me, well I still refuse to stop anything with my face. But the next time my nephew heads a basketball, I won't break down in tears.

Presidential Candidate John Anderson: Trying To Shed The 'Who' Image

"Who?" asked the information operator when Century Publications called for the number of the Anderson for President headquarters in Boston.

That question represents a major problem which Illinois Congressman John Anderson has as he campaigns for the office of President of the United States.

Last week he was meeting editors of Century Publications as he brings his campaign to Massachusetts. He plans to enter the primary elections here, in New Hampshire, Illinois and Wisconsin on the Republican ticket.

"What I am banking on is that all of the other candidates will be pretty well grouped at the right end of the political spectrum and I will be able to attract the moderates," he explains. Anderson feels that he could attract the votes of all segments of society, the blue collar voters, the ethnic groups and minorities.

Just last week The Berkshire Eagle in an editorial noted that he defies "the neat categorization that is hand to the press . . .Mr. Anderson is a fiscal conservative, but on a wide range of foreign policy issues and other matters, he is a spokesman for that moderate wing of the party that is better at winning . . . .

"He is for the SALT treaty and does not make the mistake of many of the critics of that treaty who confuse the Soviet Union of 1979 with Nazi Germany of 1939. Unlike many so-called fiscal conservatives, he applies the principles of frugal spending to the Pentagon's budget as well as HEW's and opposed the B-1 bomber boondoggle and anarchronistic proposals for new nuclear carriers. He favors giving poor women the same right to abortion as wealthier women through the use of Medicaid funding."

The editorial noted New York Times attention to Anderson and concluded that he is a moderate alternative who "will probaly never become president, but his party and the whole nation would benefit if they were compelled to give serious attention to the immoderate wisdom of his views."

Anderson has had plenty of practical experience in shaping his views. For 10 terms he has served Illinois in the House of Representatives where he is secretary of the Republican conference.

He is not worried at this point about what he calls his "low recognition factor," pointing out that at this time in 1975 Jimmy Carter had the support of only 1 percent of the Democrats.

Anderson thinks he has the record and can convince Republicans that he is "electable" against a Democratic candidate. He doesn't believe any of the Republican candidates will win a majority in the primaries, but that it will be the man who has the larger fraction who will have the possibility for nomiantion.

One problem is that money is hard to raise when there are so many candidates and some attract corporate money. He says he is determined to raise enough to get through the early primaries. If he can do that and emerge as the candidate that he says he thinks he is, then he expects to be able to raise funds more easily.

In Massachusetts, Anderson feels that he is in the tradition of Elliot Richardson, Frank Hatch, Josiah Spaulding, and Ed Brocke, "traditionally progressive." He says if he is correct he has to beleive that there are a lot of Republican voters who will see him as reflecting their attitudes.

On specific sissues, Anderson supported the Panama Canal treaties. Given the right to defend the canal, he says the treaties are consistent with American security and would enhance and improve our image.

He supports the SALT treaty, and notes that he is alone among the candidates in publicly favoring that treaty. This brings Anderson to one of his major themes.

"I'm not going to surrender the peace issue to Mr. Carter," he says. Anderson expects the Presient to campaign heavily on the peace issue in view of his "extremely bad record of performance" with the economy. "I am determined not to let him monopolize that issue," vows Anderson.

He thinks Republicans would make a great mistake if they ignored the strong sentiment for maintaining peace and for working out our problems with the Soviet Union.

At a time when the economy is being ravaged by inflation and when we are suffering from an energy crisis, to talk of increases of spending on defense without being willing to accept the burden of higher taxes is to continue deficit spending which has brought us to the poor economic state we are in, says Anderson.

He believes the first priority has to be to improve and strengthen the American economy by bringing a balance between expenditures and revenues. "We are relying too much on high interest rates to break the psychological backbone of inflation. It is going to do longterm economic damage to the economy and ruin the dream of the average young couple to own their own home," he says.

Anderson has proposals for economic relief. One is an exemption from taxation of the amount of money a couple puts aside annually for a down payment on a home.

He feels that the first $1500 earned in interst on savings accounts should be exempted from income taxes. The government ought to be selctive in its approach to savings and tax relief and should encourage saving, accumulation, investment and reinvestment in the country, he says. Economic and tax policies must encourage investment rather than consumption.

He would form an international purchasing authority through which nations would bargain as a unit for oil with OPEC rather than competing with each other.

He would cut the Social Security tax in half by imposing an excise tax of 50 cents a gallon on gasoline. This sounds shocking, he admits, until one stops to realize that such a tax would produce enough revenue to cut Social Security taxes in half and provide $6 to $7 billion that could strenghten the Social Security fund.

Even more, this proposal would do something about energy by encouraging people to change their patterns and use less fuel. By cutting their Social Security withholding, it would give people more money to spend.

With Cong. Morris Udall he co-authored the Alaskan National Intersts bill. Anderson supported campaign finance reporting and public funding of Congressional senatorial elections.

He says that he has been a leader in the reform movement in the House to make the House more democratic. He is the co-sponsor of a bill to provide $30 million in Cambodian relief.

Anderson says he likes to be specific on issues and where he stands, adding that this is his greatest criticism of President Carter. "As a President he is literally wringing his hands. He said inflation is incontrollable, there is nothing we can do about it. I don't believe that is so. I don't think the President can deliver that kind of statement without causing people to lose hope."

A "leader who is rudderless" is how Anderson characterizes Carter. He doesn't know which way to go. He does not pursue a solid concise, coherent course in one direction.

Anderson is 57 years old. "I feel I'm in my prime," he says. "Not in the sunset or twilight."

"I'm not so concerned if people call me a liberal, which some do, or a conservative, which I am on fiscal policy. What I want them to see is that there are still some good ideas out there.

"We have to build and strengthen the country and get it back on the right track.

He feels that the worst thing a candidate can do through a campaign is to not expose the voting public to new ideas. He doesn't intend for that criticism to be made of his campaign.

Presidential candidate John Anderson, (right) and his wife bring his campaign to the Century Publications offices. They were joined by Anderson's state coordinator Josiah Spaulding.

Chief McHugh To Speak Tonight At Vinson-Owen

Chief John P. McHugh of the Winchester Police Department will present the new Neighborhood Awareness Program at a meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Vinson-Owen School Auditorium.

The Neighborhood Awareness Program is designed to bring together the residents of a local district to informally discuss their different problems and concerns. Chief McHugh and four of his officers will briefly explain their roles and then will respond to questions from the audience. The meeting is intended to be an open forum in which information can be exchanged and problems aired. Similar meetings have been held in other schools throughout town.

The Neighborhood Awareness Program offers an opportunity for Winchester residents to discuss with the police concerns such as juvenile, crime prevention, vandalism and traffic problems. This meeting has been arranged through the cooperation of the Community Schools Association.

The first Town Clerk in the Town of Winchester was Dr. David Youngman who not only ran an apothecary shop but was also a bookseller and stationer.

Garden Club To Meet Next Wednesday

The Winchester Home and Garden Club will meet at the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church on Wednesday at 1 p.m. when tea will be served. At 1:30 p.m. a business meeting will be held, followed by Mrs. Robert Richards who will speak on "Christmas in New England."

She is a nationally accredited master judge who has lectured at the Museum of Fine Arts and has made several TV appearances. Mrs. Richards has written articles for Horticulture magazine and the Christian Science Monitor as well as for other publications. She teaches flower arrangement for several garden clubs throughout Massachusetts as well as other New England states.

A workshop will be held at the Church at 10 a.m. the morning of the meeting. There is a guest fee.

Infant Saviour Plans Bazaar November 15

The Winchester Chapter of the Guild of the Infant Saviour is holding its annual Christmas Bazaar in Gifford Hall of the Crawford Memorial Church Nov. 15, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Coffee and doughnuts will be available for the early morning shoppers.

Mrs. Frederick Connor, president, is general chairwoman aasisted by a lar;e committee which has been working during the past months preparing for various tables with hand knits, aprons, home-baked goodies, jewelry, and Christmas gift items, as well as the popular attic table.

Mrs. Charles McLaughlin, chairwoman of the Luncheon and Snack Bar, has arranged a luncheon menu, which will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Mrs. Albert Marasca is chairman of the Attic Table, assisted by Miss Mary McLaughlin and Mrs. William Wadden as co-chairmen. Mrs. Andrew Guthrie Jr. is chairman of the Christmas Table, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Pallotta as co-chairmen. The Rise And Fall Of Winchester Theatre

By PEYTON FLEMING

Less than three years ago the Winchester Theatre aired its final movie. Most people probably think the movie theatre closed before then since few went to the theatre during its last years.

Like most theatre closings the theatre's final show was a sad one. According to Richard Drohan, the theatre's resident manager for 27 years, there were only 30 spectators that night. He could neither remember the exact date of the closing nor the title of the movie that was shown that night.

Although Winchester's memory of the theatre has diminished, its loss is still evident. To the town's older residents the theatre reminds them of a past too quickly forgotten.

Few of Winchester's participants in that era can forget the glorious opening of E.M. Loew's Winchester Theatre Dec. 20, 1938. Clad in tuxedos, 870 of Winchester's most distinguished residents attended the gala evening affair. Congratulatory telegrams from Shirley Temple, E.M. Loew and Winchester's own Bette Davis were read by the Master of Ceremonies Willaim Parsons. Peter Lorre movies were shown as well as assorted movies and musical ceremonies.

The script couldn't have been better written for a Hollywood Oscar Award ceremony. But, beneath the extravagance of the theatre's grand opening was a high pitched tension. Only a handful of Winchester's residents had any idea of what they were getting into when they decided to support a movie theatre.

For over 15 years the film industry had been vehemently opposed by local residents. In the 1920's Catholic and Protestant ministers clamored that Winchester could ill-afford "the over sensationalism and immoral suggestions of movies."

While neighboring communities conceded to that urge of the times, "to give things a try," Winchester proudly recognized itself as a lone moral bastion against the film medium. Only in 1936, when Winchester's Board of Selectmen saw Woburn and Arlington still standing despite the presence of movie theatres, did they license a permit to E.M. Loew to build a theatre for Winchester.

The Winchester Movie Theatre

Since receiving harsh cirticism during the 1930's the film industry seems to have legitimized itself to both the American public and the residents of Winchester. Increasingly movies are shown today for larger audiences. And in considering the industry's tremendous growth in popularity and profitability over the last 20 years, the closing of the Winchester Theatre in 1976 seems ironic.

According to Arthur Viano, owner of the two Arlington theatres, Winchester's theatre never functioned as efficiently as it might have.

Drohan feels that the increased competition from new movie theatres in the surrounding area was the primary cause behind the Winchester theatre's downfall. He argues that the theatre building and quality of Loew's ownership were never seriously scrutinized until other nearby thea theatres appeared 15 years ago.

The most damaging competitors he pointed out were the two Burlington Mall theatre theares theatres and the five theatres in Woburn.

Also, beneath the Winchester Theatre building's attractive colonial decor with its spacious foyers and rest rooms was an interior immensely difficult to heat.

Rising costs of heating oil, and harsher environmental restrictions on the types of oil that can be used, have forced many of E.M. Loew's theatres to close. "How could a theatre that is three—quarters empty operate profitably now when its estimated heating costs during the winter months were $200-250 a week?" said Drohan.

Besides it its inefficencies and inability to monopolize the film market, the Winchester Theatre was also disadvantaged by its location in a daylight town. Most people would rather see a movie in an environment that offered more nightlife, not a town that closed at dusk.

Even though the Regent and Capitol theatres in Arlington have been handicapped by the antiquity of their buildings, and by the increased competiton from other theatres, they have managed to survive.

Viano credits much of their success to the few local restaurants that remain open at night. Despite having to show second-run movies lately, Viano is positive about the business that his theatres continue to generate.

Besides lacking in nightly entertainment, Winchester has proved less accessible to abutting communities than neighboring theatres.

Viano credits much of his weekday business to the proximity of the theatres to the MBTA Red Line. A large percent of his customers during the week come from outside of Arlington.

Cinema malls are also conducive to the needs of the consumer. A number of malls, with vast parking lots that the Winchester Theatre couldn't match in size, were purposely located on Route 128 to attract the consumer.

Born of the glitter and pomp of a byqone era, the Winchester Theatre has proved to be an anachronism in 'a period of energy conscious practicality.

..Approximately 40 men from South Woburn, as Winchester was originally known, served in the army during the Revolutionary War.

Honor Roll To Be Dedicated Veteran's Day

This year's Veterans' Day program Nov. 12 includes the dedication of the new wings of the Town Hall Honor Roll with the names of those men and women who served in the armed forces during the Korean and Vietnam conflicts.

Commanders John Hennelly of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and William Stevenson of the American Legion say that all veterans may participate. Uniform is optional.

Veterans should meet on Laraway road by the Winchester Common at 10:30 a.m. to depart at 10:45 a.m. for the War Memorial at Main street and the Mystic Valley parkway. The parade will then proceed to the Honor Roll at Town Hall before returning to the Winchester Common for dismissal.

Participating in the line of march will be members of the Board of Selectmen, State Senator Samuel Rotondi, State Representative Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr., members of the Police and Fire Departments, members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Ladies' Auxiliary and American Legion. The Winchester High School Band will play taps at the War Memorial and Honor Roll. The Immaculate Conception Drum and Bugle Corps will also be appearing this year.

Rev. George Dufour of the Immaculate Conception Church will deliver the invocation at the Town Hall Honor Roll. Rev. Howard Krueger, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will deliver the benediction.

The veterans' organizations expect that this year's program will be well attended by Winchester residents and veterans.

Head life guard Cathy Leonard and young members of the Winchester Country Club relax after swimming in the recent swim-a-thon held to beneift the Kidney Foundation of Massachusetts.

Somerville Man Arrested For Armed Robbery And Assault

A 20 year-old Somerville man was arrested for armed robbery and assault with a dangerous weapon on Sunday, after he attempted to rob a Melrose man with a broken beer bottle while parked in a car on Agawam road, according to Winchester Police reports.

The report states the Somerville man picked up the 39 year-old Melrose resident as he was hitch-hiking along Storrow drive in Boston. The driver drove to Winchester, got out of the car at Agawam road and when he reentered the vehicle he pointed the broken bottle at his passenger.

The police, who were called to the scene by a neighbor who heard someone breaking glass near her home, found the broken bottles in the back seat of the car.

A number of illegal entries were reported in Winchester this week. On Saturday, the owner of Taylor Rental on Swanton street reported a break-in, as intruders escaped with four house clapboards sanders, valued at $150 each and one vibrator sander, valued at $100.

On Sunday, a Canterbury road resident reported his home illigally entered as intruders ransacked all of the bedrooms in the house. The owner is unsure what is missing at this time. Also on Sunday, an undetermined amount of jewelry and money were taken from a Cliff street home.

On Monday, police report a Pond street residence illegally entered as intruders ransacked the second floor. Missing at this time are a Nicko stereo receiver, and a tape recorder.

A Thornberry road resident reported his home broken into on Monday, as intruders searched through the master bedroom and two upstairs bedrooms. According to the owner, a sterling silver set, color television, Bell-Howell movie camera, Kodak 35mm camera, two Sony speakers, a womens diamond ring and two mens wrist watches were all stolen.

..The first Winchester baseball game was reported on Oct. 10, 1868 between the Eagles of Woburn and the Clippers of Winchester. The Eagles won 31 to 26.

Minibus Coordinator Says Bus System Working Well

By MARGIE McCARTHY

The Winchester Community Transit has proved to be a success. As well as being popular, the minibuses are also efficient and dependable.

"Problems have been very minimal. On the whole the system is running very well," according to Community Transit Coordinator John Henriques. If buses do break down, emergency replacement buses are brought in almost immediately, and usually only one or two runs are missed. Several residents have expressed their appreciation for the system through letters and phone calls to the Recreation Department.

Plans are being made to alter the minibus schedule so that it coincides with the train schedule. "Those people who do use the minibus depend on it a lot," Henriques said. This revised schedule will serve in making the minibus an even more efficient and dependable form of transportation.

Statistics about Winchester's Community Transit system are being compared with those of the Needham and Natick systems. "Our minibus is running more cheaply than the other buses in the system" Henriques noted.

"The average cost per person is cheaper in Winchester and the total ridership is consistently higher. Our population is an average of 20,000 persons smaller than those of Needham and Natick and our buses are still used more."

A study will soon be done comparing Winchester's minibus system to those in various parts of the state and country. The net cost of this service is funded equally by the Metropolitan Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) and the Town of Winchester.

The amounts that each will pay have been estimated at $42,200. Passenger fares, which offset the overall costs, differ according to age groups. Children and senior citizens pay 10 cents, while persons 6 to 62 pay 25 cents.

Youth, ages 7 to 17, comprise the largest group of minibus passengers, an average of 45 percent. Adults comprise an average of 22.5 percent; senior citizens, 15 percent; and children, an average of 5 percent.

The most frequently used route varies, however, it is predominantly the east route, which heads both into the Highlands and toward the Medford line. The west route, which covers the Johnson road area, is second in popularity. The central route, which covers the Main street, Swanton street, Cross street areas, as well as the Everett avenue, Cambridge street, and Pond street areas, usually has the fewest number of passengers.

There are two peak times daily when the minibuses receive exceptionally heavy use. The busiest hours are from 7 to 8:30 a.m. and from 2 to 6 p.m. These hours are busy primarily as a result of commuter traffic and students going to and from school.

The west bus was used a great deal during the summer months as children travelled to and from playgrounds and town beaches. But, ridership on all buses picked up in September as children used the minibuses to get to school.

The future of the Community Transit system lies in the hands of Town Meeting members. In November, Town Meeting will vote whether to approve the minibus system through the end of June, 1980.

(Editor's note: Margie McCarthy is a senior at Winchester High School who is working at The Star under the school's Max Ed program).

Firefighters Union Holds Banquet,

The Winchester Firefighters Local 1564 of the International Association of Firefighters held their Installation—Retirement Banquet Nov. 2. The social hour was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Winchester, and was attended by approximately 200 people.

The new slate of officers for the two years include: Lieut. John J. Regan, president; Firefighter Kevin Yore, vice president; Firefighter George J. Moran, secretary-treasurer; Firefighters Hub Cogan and Louis Cappello, and Capt. William O'Leary, board of directors. This is Regan's second two-year term as president.

Among the invited guests seated at the head table were: Rev. John O'Donnell, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church and Fire Dept. Chaplain; Chairman of the Board of Selectmen Richard Wilsack and his mother; Fire Chief and Mrs. Robert McElhinney; State Representative Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh; and Senator Sam Rotondi, who was presented an honorary membership card in Local 1564 by Regan. Lieut. Robert Swymer served as Toastmaster for the evening.

Winton Club Plans Christmas Fair November 14-16

The Winchester Hospital Gift Shop Christmas Fair, sponsored by the Winton Club will be held in the Hospital Lobby Nov. 14-16.

According to this year's chairman, Mrs. Frank F. Oddi, and her assistant chairman, Mrs. Paul Anderson, a special feature will be "Winton Created" Christmas arrangements as well as decorations for mantles and front doors. Several inexpensive items have been selected. These added to the merchandise already in the gift shop will provide a wide selection for those on the holiday gift list.

Along with the tables of toys, jewelry, gifts, cosmetics, baby items, Christmas wrap and cards is the Friends of The Winchester Hospital "Friend-ly" table which will have handmade boutique treasures plus hand knits. The Friends table is co-chaired by Mrs. Edward McLaughlin and Mrs. James Ryan.

Hours for the fair are Nov. 14, noon to 9 p.m.; Nov. 15, 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Nov. 16, 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Red Cross Seeks Car Drivers For Cancer Patients

"Volunteers are needed to drive cancer therapy patients to area hospitals for their treatments," said Mary Fowle, vicechairman of the Winchestser Red Cross. Drivers would be able to use the Chapter vehicle and are covered by National Red Cross insurance.

"We have a special need for drivers between mid November and mid December as we've received several new requests which will involve daily treatments," said Mrs. Fowle. "We also must meet our on-going commitments to Winchester residents at the same time that several of our regular volunteers are away for a few weeks. Even if you would be able to do this driving on a one-time basis only, please let us know when you would be available by calling the Chapter.

Fowle added that those people who are in need of rides should call a week or two before the appointment. This allows the Chapter enough time to schedule its drivers.

Testimonial For Haggerty Set For Tomorrow Night

A testimonial for retired Winchester Police Lieutenant William T. Haggerty will be held tomorrow night at the K of C Hall at 8 p.m.

Lt. Haggerty, a native of Winchester, was born Sept. 6, 1915 and is a graduate of the Winchester school system. During high school he was active in sports, playing varsity football.

The son of a blacksmith, Haggerty inherited his father's strength and energy. He is a member of a large family prominent in business and government in Winchester. His early training and employment was as an automobile mechanic in the garage of his brother Charles and other garages. He became interested in law enforcement and joined the Winchester Police Department as a "special" in April of 1942.

During World War II he volunteered for service in the United States Navy, enlisted Dec. 31, 1943, served with the Pacific fleet as a Motor Machinist's Mate 1st Class and was honorably discharged on Jan. 11, 1946.

Haggerty took an early interest in photography and police fingerprinting techniques. He studied at the Spada Fingerprint School in 1947 and also benefited from FBI instruction and technical manuals. Practical experience was gained by working in the Winchester Police identification laboratory and from association with fingerprint experts and professional photographers. In the meantime he acquired formal training at the Applied Institute and University Extension Courses.

He was assigned as Police Identification Officer on Feb. 17, 1955, and served in that capacity until Jan. 1, 1963. During that period of service he employed fingerprint and photography techniques in all cases of breaking and entering and other major crimes occurring in the town.

He was appointed sergeant on Nov. 6, 1967, and assigned as inspector-sergeant on March 16, 1970. On Dec. 1, 1971, he was appointed acting lieutenant and made a permanent lieutenant on Feb. 20, 1972. He served as prosecutor in the Woburn District Court and acting chief between the terms of Chief Bowler and Chief McHugh.

Haggerty has been commended many times informally by judges, police chiefs, attorneys, journalists and citizens in all walks of life, and formally by the various Boards of Selectmen under whom he has served. His first commendation was in 1943 for an arrest in a case of breaking and entering.

The Selectmen commended him in 1946 for his work on a case of rape in which fingerprints were decisive in apprehending the perpetrator; in 1953 for an automobile theft investigation; in 1958 for solution of a kidnapping armed robbery investigation; in 1970 for investigation of a case of breaking and entering and assaultingg the occupant of a house; and in 1976 for his supervision of a widespread investigation of numerous thefts of oriental rugs which led to the apprehension of a gang of housebreakers and the recovery of property valued at several hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Haggerty is married to the former Vivian Hogan and has two sons and a daughter, as well as four grandchildren. He retired in this past July.

Jaycee-ettes To Host Speaker On Silversmithing

On Wednesday at 8 p.m. the Winchester Jaycee-ettes guest speaker will be Linda Atwood, who teaches the ancient art of silversmithing, at the home of Mrs. Rober Joyce, 17 Lloyd st.

Silversmithing is a skill in which precious metals are used in making coins, jewelry and fine ornamental wares. The craft of silvermaking was highly developed in early Egyptian culture as far back as 2000 B.C.

Atwood will give a lecutre on women interested in starting their own business and the art of silversmithing through which handmade items can be created. She will also give a demonstration on the procedure used. There will be a display of the various items she has made which may be purchased.

There will also be a display of a variety of handmade craft items from the recent Jaycee-ette Flea Market which may be purchased in time for the holiday season.

Those interested in attending should contact Mrs. William McClearn, director of membership, 4 Dean rd., or Mrs. Lloyd Franke, 12 Stone ave., to confirm attendance.

...The first Winchester baseball game was reported on Oct. 10, 1868 between the Eagles of Woburn and the Clippers of Winchester. The Eagles won 31 to 26.

Strong enough to bend those bars of steel was at least one of the many monsters that showed up at the Jaycees Haunted House on South Border road last week. The annual haunt is the Jaycees major fund raiser for their organization. (Staff Photo)

Schools Increase Awareness For The Academically Gifted

Within the last decade, an increased awareness of the needs of gifted and talented (G-T) children has been initiated at the federal and state levels. Educators, as well as parents, have sought to develop programs which provide appropriate educational experiences for G-T youngsters.

The problems of identification and planning academic programs are complex. Identification procedures must accommodate not only those youngsters who are readily identifiable but those hwo have "hidden" talents as well.

Traditionally, the group IQ score was the only measure used to identify a gifted child. It is now apparent that the group IQ score is a small part of a complex picture and should not be considered as the single criterion of "giftedness." Teacher recommendations, achievement test scores, parent assessments as well as any information available about a given child should be considered in the identification process.

Any program for the G-T should reinforce and be compatible with the overall philosophy of the school system. The program, in whatever form, should not isolate or segregate students but should provide appropriate learning experiencs while meeting their academic needs.

The Gifted-Talented Committee of the Winchester Public Schools is being reformed. Teachers and administrators are being notified that their participation is encouraged to explore the situation. A separate committee has been formed and participation on it by those persons in the community with an interest, relevant past experiences, special qualifications, etc., is encouraged by writing of their interests, no later than Friday, Nov. 16, to: Catherine Alexander, School Committee, Winchester Public Schools, 15 High St., Winchester, c-o G-T Committee.

The purpose of this committee is to study and make recommendations to the staff committee concerning the future services for the G-T as seen from a parent's perspective. Meetings will be held on a regular basis throughout the school year.

The Winchester Star news copy deadline is 3 p.m. Monday for the following Thursday edition. Copy may be dropped off at our office, 5 Church st., during regular business hours or through the mail slot on weekends.

Local Youngsters Attend McCall Nursery School

Several Winchester youngsters were recent graduates of McCall Junior High School's nursery school.

The three-week program conducted by the school's ninth grade home economics students under the supervision of Virginia Laats and Janet Daniels.

The children participating in the nursery school took part in such activities as Clown Day, Indian Day, story time, a trip to the duck pond, finger plays, art projects and, on their last day of school, graduation complete with a party cake and cookies which were baked by the student teachers.

The children include: Carter Browning, Monique Boudreau, Holly Sayess, Nicole Nacomuli, Julie Doucette, Deirdre Murdock, Kevin O'Brien, Douglas Cronin, Brian Stevens, Matthew Storygard, Sean O'Brien and Anthony Pyro.

DEPRESSION STUDY
At McLean Hospital, a drug treatment experiment in depressed individuals is being conducted. Side effects are possible and may include dry mouth, sleepiness or jitteriness. Candidates for the study should have depression or sadness plus 5 of the 8 symptoms listed below:
1. Sleeping too little or too much.
2. Eating too little or too much.
3. Agitation or being slowed down.
4. Loss of interest or pleasure.
5. Self-reproach or guilt.
6. Difficulty thinking, concentrating or making decisions.
7. Fatigue or loss of energy.
8. Life not worth living.

Treatment benefits and risks will be explained. No charges for psychiatric evaluations, medical screening or medication required for study. Transportation costs for study visits reimbursed. Outpatient Psychopharmacology Program, McLean Hospital, 115 Mill Street, Belmont, Mass. 02178. Replies confidential. Call 855-2902 from 2:00 - 5:00 P.M. Weekdays.

Long live Queen Ann.

TIP TOP CHIMNEY SWEEPS
The Recognized Professionals of Suburban Boston

Energy conscious Americans are turning to their hearth for heat in increasingly large numbers; however, many are forgetting about essential chimney maintenance. So while fireplace useage is on the increase, so are tragic home fires. In response to this, the National Fire Protection Association recommends that home owners have their chimneys cleaned or inspected once a year.

& Engineering Company Inc
Dear Home Owner
We are writing to explain a service that will help you reduce your fuel costs.
With the price of fuel going up, we are all looking for new ways to save energy. We have decided to do something about it. We want everyone to have their heating equipment tested to determine how to save energy.
We call this free service an "efficiency test." To make sure your heating equipment is examined professionally and competently, we have trained our representatives to use the most modern methods and equipment available. We are offering this valuable service free as our contribution to the energy crises.
After we have examined your heating equipment, we fill out a complete report telling you what actions, if any, are necessary to reduce your fuel costs. On the average we are able to help our customers reduce their fuel costs 10-15%.
The first step in saving energy is knowing what to do. The test will take only about 45 minutes of your time and it's worth it!
Sincerely
A. LaPointe

REAL ESTATE

THINK TWICE BEFORE RENTING OUT

The bomb has dropped. You are told to transfer out of state post-haste. Your first question is — "Shall we sell our home or rent it out?"

On the plus side, you count the money coming in from rent which will help pay off the mortgage plus a little extra on the side for profit. Sounds good, but every coin has two sides.

To keep the house rented, you'll have to pay advertising costs or fees and commissions to a broker. Maintenance costs take a bit out of the rental income. Each time there is a turnover it will have to be cleaned out and redecorated. A vacancy can result in a loss that will take years to recover. A big apartment house can absorb some unoccupied units, but when your house stands idle, the costs continue with nothing coming in. And, if you are gifted with a non-paying tenant, it may take six months to evict him.

Dollar-wise, you are better off selling a single-family home and using the money to move up to a bigger and better home for your family.

In all your real estate needs — buying —selling — rentals — appraisals — consultation — please phone or drop in at

WINCHESTER REALTY RECEIVES EXCELLENCE AWARD

The Consumer Research Bureau announced today that Winchester Realty Company was presented the 1979 Excellence Award for Customer Relations. This annual award is given to business establishments for providing the highest levels of consumer satisfaction.

Organized in 1964 for public service, the Bureau is dedicated to monitoring and raising the standards of Real Estate firms who serve the public. Each year, hundreds of thousands of survey questionnaires are mailed to recent home purchasers requesting their evaluation of the services they received.

Winchester Realty Company has merited the 1979 Award because of their continuing efforts to attain and maintain an excellent consumer relationship.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis O'Mailey

Bernadette Montuouri Wed To Lawyer September 16

St. Mary's Church was the setting for the marriage of Bernadette Montuori, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Montuori, and Dennis M. O'Mailey, Medford resident on Sept. 16.

A reception followed the afternoon ceremony at Montvale Plaza in Stoneham.

The bride is an administrative assistant for the Metropolitan District Commission, legislative office, in Boston.

The bridegroom is an associate partner with the Boston law firm Grant & Artesani. He is a graduate of Medford High School, Boston College and Suffolk University Law School.

The couple are living in Woburn after a two-week trip to California.

Mrs. David Scotten

Wendy Helen Dillon Marries David Scotten In Annisquam

Wendy Helen Dillon, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Dillon of Winchester and Normans' Cay, Bahamas, was married Oct. 27 to David MacGregor Scotten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scotten II of Grosse Pointe, Mich., and Paget, Bermuda.

Rev. Gary Ritts officiated at the afternoon ceremony which was held at the Annisquam Village Church. A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Davis Pearce in Annisquam. Mrs. Pearce is the sister of the bride.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a Priscilla gown of ivory silk finish satin. The empire bodice of Alencon lace was fashioned with a squared neckline and long tapered sleeves. The skirt, which was deeply bordered at the hemline with matching lace, swept into a cathedral train. A lace camelot cap held the long veil of ivory silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses, white daisies and baby's breath. Maid of honor was Candace Elizabeth Dillon. She wore a pale coral embossed silk gown fashioned with a round neckline, empire bodice, long tapered sleeves, and a matching ruffle at the neck and wrist.

Bridesmaids were Cynthia Mary Dillon, Anne Lloyd Scotten, and Mrs. Chandler Davis Pearce. They wore rust embossed silk gowns in the same design as the maid of honor. All of the attendants carried yellow, white and rust chrysanthemums.

Thomas Olney Scotten was the best man. Ushers were Chandler Davis Pearce, Malcolm Kirtland Barit and Thomas Nathaniel Wadson.

The bride is a graduate of the Stoneleigh-Burnham School and Skidmore College. She was a debutante of the 1973-74 season and was presented at a dance given by her parents at the Harvard Club of Boston.

The bridegroom is employed by Pitney Bowes in Waltham. He attended Tabor Academy, Albion College and Northwood Institute. He is a member of the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club.

After a trip to Bermuda, the couple will live in Annisquam.

Nazzaro Boy

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Nazzaro announce the birth of their second child, Geoffrey Roy, who was born Oct. 24 at Winchester Hospital.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Nazzaro of Revere and Mrs. Gillespie of Romsey, England.

Margaret McCabe Marries Engineer In Medford

St. Joseph's Church in Medford was the setting for the marriage of Margaret R. McCabe, daughter of Mrs. Rita M. McCabe and the late Edward J. McCabe, to Thomas A. Palasek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Palasek of South Weymouth, Sept. 14.

Rev. Richard Gosselin officiated at the evening double ring ceremony. A reception followed at the Towne Lyne House in Lynnfield.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Robert, wore a Bianchi ivory chiffon gown with a Queen Anne neckline, Bishop sleeves, a Venetian lace bodice and chapel length train. The floor length veil was of French illusion. She carried a presentation bouquet of a dozen white roses and wore a combination of white roses in her hair.

Marianne McCabe, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore an orchid quiana gown. She carried a single white rose and wore baby's breath in her hair.

Ushers were Edwin Palasek of Weymouth, brother of the bridegroom, Edward McCabe of Boston, brother of the bride, and Thomas McCabe of Boston, brother of the bride. Ronald Palasek of Billerica, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

The bride is a certified speech and language pathologist at Shore Collaborative in Medford. A 1970 graduate of Winchester High School, she received a bachelor's and master's degrees from Northeastern University.

The bridegroom, an electrical engineer with Raytheon in Burlington, is enrolled in a master's degree program in electrical engineering at Northeastern University. He received a bachelor's degree from Northeastern University.

The couple are living in Medford after a trip to Bermuda.

Mrs. Thomas Palasek

St. Eulalia's Church Setting For Marriage Of June Ferrera

St. Eulalia's Church was the setting for the marriage of June Marie Ferrera, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Ferrera, and Michael D. Harrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. D.M. Harrell, on Sept. 15.

A reception at the Sheraton-Tara in Braintree followed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of Chapel Hill - Chauncy Hill School in Waltham. She attended Flagler College in St. Augustine, Fla. and is employed by Great Scott Food Markets in Canton.

The bridegroom, who is employed at Cole Graphics Inc. in Canton, is a 1977 graduate of Hawthorne High School in Florida.

Janet M. Ferrera, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Jennifer Howe and Christina Cooke were junior bridesmaids.

James Hindall was the best man. Walter J. Ferrera Jr. and William Callahan were ushers.

The couple is living in Canton after a trip to Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Harrell

Nicholas Baby

A son, Robert Edward Jr., was born Oct. 25 at Winchester Hospital to Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Lindmark of Winchester.

School News

On or around Christmas all elementary after school activities will be relocated to the Washington, Lincoln and Ambrose schools, with the caveat that these schools remain open to 4 p.m.

This action was taken in view of the energy program. It was made, according to school department personnel, in order to save on energy costs, not reduce the number of programs.

...In 1780 Winchester had to provide 24,078 pounds of beef under the levied "beef taxes" for the revolutionary army. The town, like all Massachusetts communities, was also required to provide as many shirts, shoes and stockings as would cover one-seventh of the town's male population. In Winchester this meant 21 blankets and 42 each of shirts, stockings and shoes.

As An Area Advisory Board Member
Are you concerned with human services? Able to volunteer two to four hours of your time each week? Able to attend meetings with other citizens and state officials?
THE MASSACHUSETTS DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL SERVICES is seeking volunteers to serve on area advisory boards. The Department, a new state agency, will begin full operation on July 1, 1980, to deliver human services to adults, children, and families throughout the Commonwealth. DSS will be responsible for child protective services, foster care and adoption, day care, children in need of services (CHINS), individual and family counseling and similar social services. Area board members will participate in planning, advise on departmental policies, help establish budget and program priorities, and assist in the selection of the Area Director.
Interested residents of ARLINGTON, BURLINGTON, LEXINGTON, WILMINGTON, WINCHESTER and WOBURN, please write by November 16 to:

'The Diary Of Anne Frank' In The Talents Of Curtain & Cue

By MARGIE MCCARTHY

There was some feeling of skepticism regarding the ability of high school students to handle such a deep and serious drama as "The Diary of Anne Frank." However, as the 10 able actors and actresses so clearly proved during the two performances on Nov. 2 and 3, high school students could not only handle such a production, but they could do so with the utmost success.

Under the direction of Dorothy Santos, the play went smoothly and professionally, catching the audience's attention from the opening lines and holding it through the duration of the performance.

The play opens at the end of WW II, as Mr. Frank returns to the Amsterdam attic where he, his family and a group oif his frineds had hidden from the Nazis. There he finds his daughter's diary and the play proceeds via flashback to the events that occurred during the years of confinement.

The starring role of Anne Frank was brilliantly portrayed by Lisa Hirschhorn. Her broad range of acting abilities enabled her to depict this most versatile character, whose moods changed so frequently and drastically throughout the course of the play.

Robert Hallisey, who has always been cast in comical roles in previous Curtain and Cue productions, proved himself to be a fine serious actor as well as he played the role of Mr. Frank. He was most convincing in playing the part of a man, his life destroyed by the prejudices of others, who was constantly struggling to ease the tension that grew so fierce within the confines of the hiding place.

Robert was at his best at the closing of the play when he related to the audience the tragic deaths of his family and friends at the concentration camps.

Anne-Louise Casey was simply superb in her role as Mrs. Frank. For the most part calm and stern, Mrs. Frank burst into a fit of emotion when she discovered that Mr. Van Daan, one of the other people hiding in the attic, was stealing bread. This was Anne-Louise's best performance of the production. The other Frank daughter, Margot, was played by Valerie Kolligian. She did a fine job in portraying this serious young woman who supported her mother through the trying times and of whom Anne was so very jealous.

Also sharing the attic was the Van Daan family. Dan Schutzburg played the role of Mr. Van Daan. He realistically portrayed this very human character who eventually let his self-indulgence get the better of him. Nan Keller did a splendid job in her role as the flirtatious Mrs. Van Daan.

The humor she added to the performance quickly won her the affection of the audience. Peter Van Daan was protrayed by Jeff Richmond. Jeff was excellent as he illustrated the personality changes this adolescent experienced during his stay with the Frank family. The scene in which Peter gave Anne her first kiss was truly touching.

Another delightful performance was - that of Peter Gittleman in the role of Mr. Dussel, yet another occupant of the attic hideaway. Peter's presentation of this grumpy, complaintive old man received many a chuckle from the audience.

The supporting roles of Miep and Mr. Kraler were played by Claudia MacKay and Brian Milauskas respectively. Claudia and Brian were most realistic in their roles as sympathetic firends adding a touch of hopeless optimism to the desperate situation of these oppressed people.

The set, designed by Kira Hirschman, was appropriately drab and cluttered, portraying visually the dismal years these people passed in hiding. The costumes, too, were fitting for the era in which the play was set. They also helped in bringing across the personalities of the characters.

The production was a great success. All those involved should be congratulated on a truly exceptional performance. Hopefully, the successful outcome of this play will lead the way to the production of other serious dramas at WHS in the furture.

(Editor's note: Margie McCarthy, a Winchester High School senior is working at The Star under th school's Max Ed program.)

Monday, - Holiday schedule will be in effect. There will be no mail deliveries, and area Post Offices will be closed. All collection boxes will be picked up beginning at noon.

Bloodmobile Planned For Sunday Afternoon

The Masonic Lodges, Mount Horeb of Woburn and William Parkman of Winchester at Woburn will sponsor a second annual community bloodmobile Sunday from 1-5 p.m. at the Masonic Hall, 17 Arlington rd., Woburn, on Sunday.

It is one of the regular bloodmobiles run by the Red Cross, which is desperately in need of blood all blood types at the this time.

Officials sponsoring the bloodmobile say that a bloodmobile held in conjunction with Armistice Day should make residents reflect on the importance of this day. For all the veterans who made the supreme sacrifice, a donation of blood would seem insignificant. That one pint of blood which could help save a life is not too much of a sacrifice when so many young men gave so much more, officials say.

To qualify to be a donor, a person must be between the ages of 18 and 65. A person 17 years can give with written parental permission. Donors must be in good health and weigh at least 110 pounds.

MacMillan Shelved With Broken Jaw As Sachems Take Watertown, 30-0

It was a crucial win, as they say. After getting their heads handed to them in Melrose last week, the Winchester High football team needed a big victory last Saturday and they got it, defeating Watertown 30-0.

Yet at the same time, it was a game that may have hurt their title hopes as much as the Melrose game could have ever done. Late in the second half, with the game clearly in hand, Winchester halfback Don MacMillan was knocked out of the game with what was assumed a slight concussion. It was later learned that the fleet senior's jaw had been broken and so MacMillan will watch the rest of the season from the Winchester sideline.

"We lost one fine halfback," said Winchester coach Manny this Marshall earlier week. "Donny really gave us that outside threat. We're really going to miss him."

It is indeed a tough loss for the Sachems who'll now look to Bob Fiore, Dave Criscione and a returning Billy Rogers to bolster Winchester's outside running attack. "If we're a football team, there's no one guy," Marshall pointed out.

The game in itself was a breeze for the Sachems, although Marshall really wasn't that happy with his club's performance. "We would have liked to have our first team score one more touchdown. And there were too many fumbles. I mean we fumbled on the one-foot line one time."

The Sachems scored early, following a Watertown fumble, as Gary Errico, bouncing back from a tough game in Melrose, scored the first of his two touchdowns on a 10-yard run on an option play to the right.

Errico scored Winchester's second touchdown in the second quarter,as he ran 15 yards to make the score (with Bruce Campbell's extra points) 14-0.

Brad Cowen made it 21-0 later in the quarter as he snared a 33-yard scoring strike from Errico. The Sachems went into the locker room with that lead at halftime and looked like they might make the game a complete rout.

But the first team would not score again, as penalties and fumbles hurt the Sachem offense. The locals picked up two more points in the third quarter when Doug Goodlatte nailed Watertown quarterback Mike Wood in the end zone for a safety. Goodlatte played a fine game on defense as he also blocked a punt on the visitors one foot line (which was promptly fumbled as Marshall noted).

The final Winchester score came in the fourth quarter as the second team decided they wanted to get in on the fun. Fullback Rich Mood took a pitchout and ran 20 yards around left end to make the final 30-0.

"We were kind of worried about this game," said Marshall. With good reason at that. If there was any week that the locals could have folded, this was it.

The game also reminded Winchester fans of what is surely the team's number one weakness; pass defense. Watertown didn't exactly fill the air with footballs, but they did make some gains against the Sachems with the pass. When that's considered in light of the bombshow they've been holding in Woburn each week, it presents a problem.

Marshall doesn't feel that his pass defense is all that bad. "That's probably the most difficult thing to teach on any level. The pros pass pretty well and you've got some of the finest athletes in the defensive backfield. There is no real defense against a well timed pass. We've intercepted quite a few passes this year."

So the Sachems travel to Burlington this Saturday and if they don't look past the Red Devils to the Thanksgiving Day showdown with Woburn, they should tack on their eighth win.

PorcuPINS Pick Up Points In Bowling Recently

The trailing PorcuPINS picked up a point over the PINguins and the DolPINS on a Saturday night which saw many pins fall before the ball.

Guy Pollino had two outstanding strings of 210 and 220; the women's high string of 205 was bowled by Floy Stryker. Mimi Walters continued her hot streak by bowling another 77 pins over her average and all are asking whether she can keep up the pace. Her PINguin teammates say there is no problem but opponents doubt that she can withstand the pressure of next week's turkey bowl-off. Competition, which is always vigorous, will intensify because there will be a bird on the line.

After-bowling libation and food were served at the home of Dirck and Floy Stryker.

Lynch Field Hockey

The Lynch Jr. High girls' field hockey team ended their season with one win, seven losses and three ties. The season, stacked up as follows:

Sept. 17 - at Stoneham - 0 to 2
Sept. 19 - vs. Clarke - 0 to 3
Sept. 24 - at E. Watertown - 1 to 1
Sept. 27 - at Kennedy - 0 to 1
Oct. 3 - vs. Muzzey - 1 to 3
Oct. 5 - at Joyce - 0 to 5
Oct. 16 - vs. W. Watertown - 0 to 0
Oct. 17 - vs. Wakefield - 1 to 0
Oct. 18 - at Melrose - 1 to 1
Oct. 23 - vs. Diamond - 1 to 4
Oct. 31 - at McCall - 0 to 1

The Lynch team consisted of 18 ninth graders, four eighth graders and six seventh graders. Co-captains were Sheila Connolly and Susan Ferry.

Basketball Group Starts Saturday At Lynch Jr. High

St. Eulalia's C.Y.O. basketball program opens another season Saturday at Lynch Jr. High. All Winchester residents between the ages of 11 and 16 are eligible to participate.

Throughout the season kids learn fundamental basketball skills and get a chance to enjoy playing the game. St. Eulalia's teams have often qualified for the end of the season state C.Y.O. basketball tournament. Several players from the program have gone on to play high school and college basketball, others have just enjoyed learning how to play. Everyone involved in the past is looking forward to a strong new season.

There are teams in the program for three different age groups, all playing at Lynch on Saturday. Eleven and twelve-year-olds will practice from noon until 1:30 p.m.; thirteen and fourteen-year-olds from 1:30 to 3 p.m.; those who are fifteen or sixteen should report at 3 p.m.

St. E's teams represent Winchester and all are eligible, regardless of religion, the program is for all youths. Games take place on weekends during the winter.

St. Mary's Team Hockey Tryouts Sunday Morning

There will be try-outs this Sunday and Nov. 18 at 7 a.m. at the Burlington Ice Palace for boys interested in playing hockey for St. Mary's CYO hockey team.

Boys' Cross Country End Season With Losses To Woburn, Lexington

By MARK COSTELLO

The WHS cross country team closed its 1979 dual meet season with a pair of crushing defeats at the hands of Middlesex League co-champs Woburn and Lexington. The loss on a Friday afternoon of near-perfect running weather was to a classy, strategy conscious Lexington team that is built around it's senior co-captains Adam Rubin and Mike Walsh, two of the top ten school boy distance runners in the State. The following Tuesday they succumbed to the ragged, unpolished depth and racing enthusiasm of the Woburn squad. The Sachems end their season with a record of three wins, six losses.

Though infinitely predictable, it was the loss to Lexington that seemed most unfair. Buried underneath the bloody, ominous, Lexington-dominated meet results was the basic fact that there were several remarkable performances by the Sachem varsity seven.

First and foremost of these was sophomore Pat Kennedy's blazing, sophomore course record 16:58, to lead Winchester's varsity in. The effort cleaved well over thirty seconds off Kennedy's fastest time of this, his rookie season. A small, none-too-graceful runner, Kennedy competed against Lexington in his usual manner. He loitered around the middle of the pack for the first half of the three mile race and then cruised foreward over the last circuit of hills, stalking those ahead of him on the down hills, off of which Kennedy throws himself recklessly-looking like a scarecrow strung up on a wire. On this occasion, to use Kennedy's words, he "felt no pain" and simply kept running faster and down more hills until the race was over. It was one of those days of grace in cross country running when, for some reason or another, the sport is really quite simple.

There were other fine performances among the varisty. Dave Demars took seventh overall and third for the team (behind Kennedy at fourth and Mark Costello at sixth) with one of his fastest times of his career, 17:31. Demars, a senior, has been one of the more consistent members of the Sachem seven this season. It was his steady, potent kicking over the final half-mile in Belmont that laid the groundwork for a Sachem victory there. He finished third for Winchester that day, as on this one, and as he has most of the season.

Right behind Demars, in seventh, was sophomore Joe Callahan whose superb 17:34 jolted him out of a two race slump and gave further meter to his potential. Coming in just behind Callahan was Winchester's ailing senior co-captain Joe Flynn.

For the JV team, senior Steve Quinn ran one of the truly remarkable races run in Sachem red and black this season by running a trim Minuteman harrier into the ground with a red hot 17:28. Quinn, knowing he was up against the steepest competition in his season of JV leadership, ran his own race. Taking the lead early, running with nothing front of him but open trail, setting his pace and seeing who could keep up with it. That he did on this day, but found that after a mile of very fast running there were still footfalls very close behind. So Quinn kept on past the halfway mark up the hills and down them. When he finally came in, he had taken fifty-three seconds off his best, won his fifth JV race in a row, and beaten all varsity times save two. Quinn had exited from the world of JV athletics with a mushroom-cloud bang.

Losing to Lexington is all the more irritating for the fact that the Minutemen harriers don't seem to enjoy their victory. They expect to win. They finish their race and don their sweats with the deportment of Confederate staff officers. "Is this not what we ought to do?" they seem to ask as you approach them after the race to offer congratualtions. "Of course it was a magnificent showing. Are we not Lexington cross country runners?" They are, of course, but you still wish they would get on their bus and go away, and not come back until next year when it's absolutely necessary.

The one meet the Minutemen have lost in the past two years was earlier this season. They thought they had a second consecutive league title sewed up when they solidly bettered their only real competition, Woburn, in Woburn. It was an odd meet, with the number five Tanner man somehow losing his left shoe half a mile into the race. He borrowed the shoe of Woburn's number eight man who then attempted to finish the race in his socks. Up with leaders - where histrionics and slap stick humor fall on deaf, very tired ears - Mike Wals ran away from Woburn's Mike Flynn over the final mile to win big. The Lexington team settled back to sail through the rest of the dual meet schedule. Reading, always dangerous, was beaten with an almost artistic flourish. Wakefield, the Middlesex League darkhorse, was punished for premeet bragging.

Then a funny thing happened.

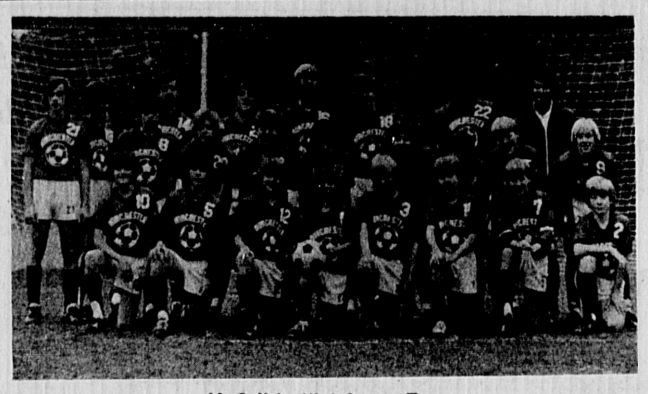
A Melrose team that gets up for meets by listening to the radio and scaring sophomores on other teams with exaggerated tales of their now-legendary mountainous, bush-whacking piton-and ropebridge, home course, went into Lexington and there defeated the reigning league champs at the very wire, 28-28, taking it by special tie-breaker scoring. Lexington's win streak was snuffed out at eighteen, Woburn moved into a tie for the lead and (this I have on very good authority(several Lexington runners actually swore.

I wish I was there.

If runners from Lexington are the Confederate staff officers then those of Woburn are Union soldiers who spend their spare time warming their hands by a stove and putting bawdy limericks to the tune of "Johnny Comes Marching Home Again." They have spirit. They are talkative. They wear hats that say "Tanner Pride" on them. On Tuesday, October 23rd, they routed a Winchester team, already in disarray due to petty injuries and race fatigue, 18-39.

Times were slow on this warm, indian summer afternoon. Mike Flynn, the legendary sophomore state champ who became a junior and is finding life a bit more difficult, was an easy winner in 16:53. Bob Dabrieo, the deadly accurate, unfailingly consistent pace-runner and Tanner team captain was second with teammate Bill Stukie a stride to the rear. Joe Flynn finished first for Winchester, outdistancing Pat Kennedy in the latter stages of the race. Dave Demars came in and Joe Callahan and Steve Quinn, running well for the varsity.

The meet was finalized very quickly, and the results were posted and the stragglers were found and brought in. The dual meet season was over and the stakes were pulled up from the course this year - as in those before - in late Autumn. On this Tuesday the bees were buzzing and the sun was out and it seemed to be September again. But the busses were gone, the runners were gone, the course was quiet, and winter was on its slow way.



McCall Jr. High Soccer Team

Beverly Knocks Sachems Out Of Soccer Tourney

It was just one of those things. At another time, another place the score might have been completely different. In fact, according to -. Winchester High soccer coach Gene Bouley, it probably would have been. "I thought we were ready. On another day I think we would have beaten them and beaten them badly."

But the fact is they only had one day and on that day a club from Beverly completely outplayed the Sachems and booted them right out of the Eastern Mass. soccer tournament, 3-0 on Tuesday.

"We played very poorly," Bouley said Tuesday after the game. "I thought we'd do pretty well today. We were the better skilled team but they hustled more than we did."

And so a season that began so promising for the Sachems, a season that slowly eroded as injuries mounted unbelievably, a season that saw the Sachems qualify on the last game of the year, comes to an end.

Two of Beverly's three goals probably shouldn't have happened, according to Bouley. On their first goal a throw in from the side made it over a leaping Winchester goalie John Brosnan to an open Beverly player, who had an unguarded net to shoot on and it was 1-0.

Beverly got their second goal when a pass back to the Winchester goalie was mishandled, with a Beverly wing standing only a few feet away. When the ball was bobbled, the Beverly player made the most of his opportunity and blasted the ball into another open net.

"We never mounted an offense," said Bouley. "They worked hard for it, but we've beaten better teams this year." He went on to add that Beverly compared with Belmont or Stoneham in the Middlesex League, "both of whom we've beaten."

The size of the field, smaller than what the locals usually play on, also hampered their play. Winchester's ballhandling was effected as the Sachems had to hurry their passes. "We seem to have a horrible problem when we go onto small fields," Bouley pointed out.

Injuries were indeed the downfall of the Sachems this season. Brosnan was out for a while with a leg injury, other starters were out with knee, shoulder, foot and nose injuries. But it did allow Bouley to play his second team more, giving valuable experience to his underclassmen.

McCall Soccer Finishes Fine Year At 9-1-2

McCall Junior High School's Spartans soccer team concluded its 1979 season with a record of nine wins, one loss, and two ties.

In the season's final week, McCall tied Wakefield, 2-2 and beat Muzzey Junior High of Lexington, 4-1.

In the Wakefield game McCall twice had to come from behind to gain a tie. After Wakefield scored in the first period, Ed Brickley nudged in a pass from Josh Keller to tie the game.

Wakefield went ahead, 2-1 in the second period. The lead stood up until there were only forty-five seconds left in the game. Then John Myers went high in the air to head in a corner kick from Kevin Scully. The well-played contest ended up 2-2

Last Friday McCall finished out its season in style by whipping Muzzey Junior high, 4-1. Muzzey socred first but Josh Keller got the equalizer for the Spartans later in the first period. Keller took a pass from Bill Thomas, streaked down the left win, and fired a high shot that nestled just under the cross-bar. The first half ended, 1-1

Chip Triglione got the eventual game-winner for the Spartans in the third period when his low rocket caught the far left corner of the twine. John Myers and Ed Brickley socred in the last period for McCall to ice the victory.

Over the course of the season McCall outscored its opponents by a margin of 45-10. The tri-captains of this year's team were Roger Baldacci, James Kirkpatrick, and Chip Triglione.

Unitarian Players Fall Production Is 'The Heiress'

For their fall production the Winchester Unitarian Players are presenting "The Heiress," a powerful, moving and suspenseful drama based on Henry James' novel "Washington Square."

Directed by Henry Szafarz and produced by Robert Storer, performance dates will be Nov. 8-10 at 8:15 p.m. in Metcalf Hall. The cast includes Winchester residents Wendy Klug, Sydelle Pittas, Connie Blanchard and Karen Barton; former resident Bill Fallon of Weston; Fran Richard of Wakefield; Nancy deMarneffe and Paul Matteo of Arlington; and James Bright of Dorchester.

The Players is Winchester's only community theater group. Those interested in attending should contact Alice Gross.

The Winchester Unitarian Players dress rehearsal of "The Heiress" which will be performed Nov. 8-10 at 8:15 p.m. in Metcalf Hall of the church.

...On March 20, 1853 the Town of Winchester experienced its first serious fire when, on that Sunday morning, the 12-year-old Congregational Church burned to the ground.

Swimmers Split Final Two Meets, Improve Last Season's Record To 6-4

By BETH BRICKLEY

Seasons come and seasons go but somehow this 1979 Swim season seemed more important than any other. The desire to improve last years record of 5-7 certainly contributed to this feeling as did special circumstances on the team, which members recognized and tried to compensate for the entire season.

It was imperative that the Sachemettes not only have a winning season in 1979, but a winning team with a winning attitude. High expectations? maybe, but too high for the 1979 Swimming squad...no way!

Obviously, in order to achieve these expectations changes had to take place, some changes that were expected others that came as a total surprise. With the beginning of the season came two initial changes in the coaching staff and team personnel. Notice the word staff, for seven years there has been one coach, Mr. Palumbo, whose involvement in swimming has affected many Winchester residents.

Suddenly, the Sachemettes found themselves with three coaches, a real staff, assisting Palumbo this year were his son, Vincent, and Brian Connolly, making it possible to concentrate on not only endurance but technique and strategy training as well.

In high school sports team rosters change annually, sometimes for the better and sometimes for the worse. This year was definitely a "better;" the 1979 Sachemettes could rival any handpicked squad. Complementing the talent of the seniors and juniors was a group of unbelievably talented sophomores.

The trio of Carol Schneller, P.K. Porter and Lynn VanUmmersen quickly established themselves as the Sachemettes old dependables, continuously swimming and winning. This fabulous three was expected since their reputations preceeded their actual arrival, other sophomores provided the surprise.

It took a while for these girls to be "discovered" but once the talents of Alison Sugruhue and Beth Melilli were recognized they were put to good use. Joining established backstrokers Anne Donahue and Eileen Conley, Alison proved herself especially valuable in the 200 medly relay and Beth, whose 100 Breaststroke performance rivaled some of the best in the league joined Jeanne Cresse, Linnea Carlson and Marybeth Fennell formed a dominating foursome.

The sophomore class, however, didn't contribute the only surprises. Seniors Sheila Brough and Terre Amoroso, both of whom only began diving this season, found themselves the only divers on the team as Carla Guilino opted for swimming. These neophytes to diving appropriately rose to the occasion scoring as high as seven (out of a possible 10) at the season's last meet.

A team cannot survive on surprises alone, consistancy is the foundation. The consistently good performances of tri captain's Veronica Karp, Beth Brickley and Julie DeCarlo as well as Mary Cresse and Cheryl Fazio were irreplaceable. Lastly, the considerable as well constant support of all the team members whether swimming or not, supplied the ncecessary fuel to carry on regardless of some very stiff competition. There was no escaping work on this team as spirit and enthusiasm were regarded as highly as a first place finish.

The change, the surprises, the expectations and the consistency paid off as the Sachemettes finished the season with an impressive 6 and 4 record.

The only decided losses the Sachemettes experienced were against league contenders Belmont and Lexington. Every other meet was close, frequently coming down to the last relay.

One such close meet was last Tuesday's meet against a much improved Medford team. Coming down to the 400 relay, Coach Palumbo depended on the relay of Schneller, Brickley, VanUmmersen and Porter to pull out a first place finish and win the meet.

With each Winchester swimmer equally matched by a Medford swimmer leaving the anchor swimmer Porter with the chore of pulling ahead. Exploding through the water P.K. just touched out the Medford team, achieving the victory as well as earning Winchester front page sports coverage in The Boston Globe.

After the valiant Medford victory plus the impressive publicity Winchester was ready for anything, even the Middlesex League powerhouse, Lexington. A win in this meet was considered virtually impossible but an impressive Winchester showing was absolutely probable and that's exactly what happened.

The score of 60-112 in favor of Lexington is not indicative of the closeness of a number of the races. As usual P.K. Porter performed with the determination and talent of a very promising swimmer, winning the 50 Free with an excellent time of 27.4. Senior Veronica Karp, in her last meet of her high school career, placed second after working her way up from a fourth place in the 100 yd. Butterfly. Also performing with great spirit and ability were the Breastrokers, Linnes Carlson, Marybeth Fennell and Jeanne Cresse.

In both meets Winchester's performance was commendable. A tremendous improvement over the times of the first meet against Bedford is the proof of the success of the 1979 Sachemettes Swim team. That added to the feeling of Pride which each member of this team and staff have for doing a truly excellent job. However, all good things come to an end and so does the swimming season, but quite honestly who could last another week of 4:30 wakeups. We had it all, spirit, enthusiasm and a winning attitude as well as a winning season.

Public Ways

The Public Works Department advises residents that it is unlawful to place, or cause to be placed, any leaves upon a public way within the town, as stated in Chapter II, section 2 of the General By-laws of the town.

Tune-Up For Saturday's Tourney: Sachemettes Beat Ipswich, 7-0

Well now that we've gotten the formalities out of the way, let's get down to some serious soccer. The season, though necessary if only to qualify for the tournament, was basically a bore competition wise. Starting Saturday it's prime time.

The Winchester High girls' soccer team, all 11-0-1 of them, tuned up for this Saturday's tournament action with defending eastern Mass. champion Needham, with a 7-0 shutout of Ipswich last week in Ipswich.

"I think they're really strong right now," said Sachemette coach Chris Scanlon earlier this week. "Their spirits are really high."

And so have their scores been all season, defeating teams 15-1, 10-0, 9-0. So why should the regular season finale be any different? "It was just one of the best games I thought we have played this year," said Scanlon. "This being the last game the girls really played well. It's like we all died and went to soccer heaven. We played as well as we could play."

Heaven they may be from, but thein play has hardly been the work of angels, this team's for real. Tri-captain Barbara Jacobs and Carole Donahoe split the Sachemettes first four goals, Jacobs getting the first and fourth and Donahoe squeezing two in between, as the locals jumped out to a 4-0 first quarter lead.

The second quarter brought out a different Winchester club as Scanlon put in his second team for the entire quarter. Jean Powers, recently brought up from the junior varsity, made the score 5-0 at the half, taking advantage of her varsity play.

It is the play of girls like Powers that has given Scanlon more confidence in his team's depth as they enter the tournament. "I know now that, with two important players injured (Christine Driscoll-knee, Katie McCarthy-mononucleosis), we have some players who can plug holes."

Jacobs added her third goal of the day in the third quarter, unassisted and Allisin McPhail finished he the scoring at the outset of the third quarter, finishing off some fine ball control by the Sachems in which they held the ball for at least two or three minutes without any Ipswich player breaking up a pass.

"We're trying to keep the pressure off us and hopefully have some fun," said Scanlon. He admits that losing Driscoll and McCarthy could make it tougher for his team in the tourney. "What it means is that the girls are going to have to be sharper and tougher."

So the Sachemettes travel to Medfield on Saturday for a noon contest with Needham, a team they defeated 2-1 in a preseason scrimmage this year.

Lincoln Parents' Association Has Open House

The Lincoln School Parents' Association recently held an open house in which parents were able to become more familiar with their children's classroom environment.

Many parents took advantage of the opportunity to meet with the Lincoln staff; several signed up for a formal conference in November.

Parents were encouraged to purchase Lincoln School hats. Room mothers were available to collect the annual dues. Coffee was served in the main foyer.

McCall Field Hockey Splits Final Two Games Of Season

In the final games of the season the McCall field hockey team, coached by Jan Keefe, was defeated by Diamond (Lexington) by a score of 3-1 But McCall came back and defeated Wakefield 2-1 and Lynch 1-0

In what initially turned out to be quite a defensive duel, McCall and Diamond were tied at the half 1-0; the game was quite open with neither team penetrating the defenses that often. Diamond scored first, with McCall center half back, Maria Montuori coming back and scoring a goal to tie the game. In the second half, Diamond successfully penetrated twice, defeating McCall 3-1.

In the Wakefield game, McCall's offense, led by centerforward Beth Miara, got off to a fine start, with inner Jean Romeo and wing Laura Weylman scoring goals in the first half. Adding to the offensive strength were Kim and Karen Brown, Nancy Flaherty, Jana Furey, Julie Gibbons, Jenny Parker, Karen Serieka, Maryellen Sullivan and Patty Taylor.

Containing the Wakefield offense in quite an effective manner through tackles dodges and effective passes were halfbacks Martha Davis, Linda Doucette and Maria Montuori, and full backs Lauren Amico, Kim Bellino and Barbara O'Leary. As Wakefield pressed in the second half, goalie Barbara Hallissey did a great job in blocking numerous shots on goal.

In the final game against Lynch, McCall aggressively moved the ball down the field and scored a goal early in the first half, with center halfback Maria Montuori getting off a shot at the top of the circle; this was the only goal of the entire game. Both Lynch and McCall penetrated the striking circle several times, but were foiled by fine defensive efforts of both teams; much credit goes to goalie Barbara Hallisey who made a beautiful save in the final minutes to insure McCall's win.

Forwards (Kim and Karen Brown, Linda Doucette, Nancy Flaherty, Jana Furey, Julie Gibbons, Beth Miara, Jenny Parker, Karen Serieka and Maryellen Sullivan) passed, dodged, and takcled aggressively in McCall's many attempts to score.

Also, fullbacks Lauren Amico, Kim Bellino, and Barbara O'Leary did a fine job of clearing the ball to halfbacks and wings. Halfbacks Martha Davis, Kim Donlon and Maria Montuori did a great job in supporting the forwards by passing the ball many times out of the striking circle to the forwards.

Managers Kristine Davis, Jackie Gorrasi, Sara Hebb and Julie O'Callahan are to be congratulated and thanked for their tremendous support, enthusiasm and organization.

Also special thanks to Cathy Nagle, Boston State College student teacher, who worked so diligently with the McCall field hockey defensive units.

Senator Rotondi Named Civil Service Commission Chairman

Winchester State Sen. Sam Rotondi, who was recently named chairman of the Special Commission on Civil Service, has announced that the Civil Service Commission has officially begun. Senator Rotondi called the first meeting of that body Oct. 24th. The Special Commission on Civil Service was created by legislation approved late last summer.

Rotondi commented on the caliber and diversity of the membership. "I feel that the expertise and enthusiasm of this particular group will lend itself to a comprehensive study resulting in equitable and sensible reform measures for the Massachusetts Civil Service System. Of the 21 members named to the Commission, 10 were named by Governor King."

Rotondi outlined the agenda and some of its goals. "The Commission will review in great detail the Massachusetts Civil Service System, review other systems across the country, look closer at the personnel system for cities and towns, and then propose a complete system to address these needs."

"The Massachusetts Civil Service System needs a complete study and careful consideration of a personnel system that will address the present problems that have manifested themselves in a backlog of some 2,700 civil service exams, the hundred proposed changes submitted this legislative session, the extremely long delays involving exams and filling positions, overlapping protections of Civil Service and collective bargaining, and many other important areas. There was a definite need to establish this Special Commission."

Rotondi also announced a state wide schedule of public hearings. "Input from the cities and towns and individuals involved in the Civil Service System is an important aspect of our study," commented the Senator.

"The Commonwealth can no longer afford to operate its employment system in its present manner. The purpose of this Commission is to make the system more effective and efficient. The benefit of a better Civil Service System will go to the employees and the ultimate winner will be the taxpayers of this state," he concluded.

Local Churches Provide Cambodian Relief Funds

Ten Winchester churches are cooperating with Oxfam-America, the international self-help agency, in providing $50 million in aid to the approximately three million starving peoples of Cambodia.

Two events are planned locally for this purpose. The Ecumenical Association is sponsoring a Day of Fasting (Oxfam Fast for World Harvest) Nov. 15. The community is asked to fast from the evening of Nov. 14 and to meet in a Community Breaking of the Fast at 6:30 p.m. in Manion Hall at St. Eulalia Church Nov. 15. Participants are asked to bring their fast offering from money saved by fasting, and also to bring bread, cheese and beverage to share with others. Contributions may also be mailed directly to Oxfam-America, 302 Columbus ave., Boston, 02116.

A second event, an Arts Festival, is planned for Nov. 17 at Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church from 2-6 p.m. There will be exhibits of the work of local artists, while music students play chamber music. There will be a performance of "Dance Pro Musica" by a group from Greenfield, accompanied by Robin Stone, pianist. Admission is free, but those who attend are asked to make a donation to Cambodian relief.

Rotondi Re-Election Reception Friday

The Committee to Re-elect Sam Rotondi as state senator is sponsoring a reception in his honor Nov. 9th, to be held at Caruso's Diplomat, Route One, Saugus from 8 p.m. to midnight. The $15 donation per person includes dancing and a buffet.

Those invited to Rotondi's reception include Sen. Ted Kennedy; Sen. Paul Tsongas; Speaker of the House Tip O'Neil, Congressman Edward Markey, whose district includes Woburn and Winchester; Congressman Jim Shannon, whose district includes Lexington. Also invited are Gov. Edward King, Lt.Gov. Thomas O'Neil and Attorney General Frank Bellotti.

Rotondi represents the Fourth Middlesex District in the Massachusetts State Senate, a seat he won in 1976 in a victory over then incumbent Senator John Bullock. He was recently returned to Beacon Hill by an overwhelming margin by defeating political novice Diane Porter and first term Arlington School Committeeman James Lyons.

Rotondi, a graduate of Brown University and Suffolk University Law School, is chairman of the Committee on Public Service which handles public employee matters. He also serves as vice chairman on the Committee on Taxation, as well as serving on the Health Care, Transportation, Judiciary, and Counties committees.

Rotondi was recently named chairman of the Special Commission on Civil Service Reform. This commission will spend six months looking at the Civil Service System to make the system more effective and efficient.

In 1978, Rotondi was named "Legislator of the Year" by the Massachusetts League of Cities and Towns and the Massachusetts Selectman's Association for his work on legislation which would benefit the taxpayers and citizens whom he represents.

In addition, Rotondi was recently honored by the Massachusetts Hospital Association as "1979 Legislator of the Year" for work on Health Care issues. As a member of the Health Care Committee, Rotondi has been worked on legislation which has had an effect on hospitals and patient care.

Tickets to this event will be sold at the door. Contributions to the Committee to Re-elect Sam Rotondi may be sent to 54 Sunset rd., Winchester.

...In 1914, four years after the Boy Scouts of America was started, a troop was organized in Winchester by Robert W. Fernald who then became the troop's scoutmaster. On different occasions four of that troop's members later each rescued a drowning person. Girl Scouts in Winchester began on May 18, 1917 at the home of Mrs. Addison R. Pike.

3 Fire Department Employees Honored At Retiring Banquet

Over 200 relatives, friends, coworkers and dignitaries paid tribute Nov. 2 to three members of the Winchester Fire Dept. who recently retired.

The combination Installation-Retirement Banquet was held at the Winchester Knights of Columbus Hall. Honored were: Lieut. Joseph Connolly, who served as the Fire Prevention Officer and had 32 years of service; Firefighter John Robert Wyman, who was assigned to Engine 4 at the West Side Station and had 31 years of service; and Firefighter Robert C. Sullivan, who was also assigned to Engine 4 at the West Side Station and had 20 years of service.

The evening started with a social hour, followed by dinner and dancing. Lieut. Robert Swymer served as master of ceremonies. Among the guests at the head table were: Rev. John O'Donnell, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church and Fire Dept. Chaplain; Chairman of the Board of Selectmen Richard Wilsack and his mother; Fire Chief and Mrs. Robert McElhinney; Senator Sam Rotondi; and Representative Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh.

Citations were presented to each retiree by the two legislators. Winchester Firefighters President John Regan presented each of the guests with a Union Citation and Gold Retireee Card along with a gift. McElhinney also presented each retiree with a Gold Badge engraved with their appointment and retirement dates. Wilsack conveyed the greetings of the town and thanked each retiree and their families for the years of dedicated service to the town in the public safety sector.

Among the guests in the audience were former State Senator John Bullock, members of the Woburn and Burlington Fire Departments and Woburn Police Department.

The committee which planned the evening included: George Moran, Kevin Yore, Peter Plachowicz, Hub Cogan, John Hennelly, Robert Swymer, T.P. McDonough and John Regan.

...With the signature of Gov. George N. Briggs, Winchester was incorporated into a separate community from its original status as South Woburn.

High School Music Students Raise Funds

Through October 29 members of the WHS band, orchestra, and chorus will be knocking on doors all over Winchester to ask residents to buy cheese and-or sausage. With the help of the Friends of the Music Department, these groups have undertaken a special sales effort to raise money for the projected exchange concert trip to St. Catherines, Canada. Previous exchange concerts have been held in Glassboro, N.J.; Westbury, Long Island; Madison, N.J.; and Bennington, Vt.

Students will be taking orders for 20 ounce crocks of Wisconsin sharp cheddar cheese spread and for 20 ounce Wisconsin summer sausage. These products are usually available only through special mail-order catalogs and make excellent hostess gifts for the upcoming holidays.

Orders will be taken only through Oct. 29. The cheese and sausage will be delivered before Thanksgiving.

For further information on this project or to place an order, call the music department at WHS, or contact any member of the WHS band, orchestra, or chorus.

Transfer Station

The Winchester Transfer Station will be closed Monday in observance of Veterans' Day.

Guidelines

AS THE DAYS grow shorter and cooler, and as the price of home heating oil gets more and more nerve-wracking, you may find yourself in the position of being able to pay your mortgage or your fuel bill this winter, but not both. The most extreme solution to this problem would be to burn down the house and in so doing heat it, but we are not all so Machiavellian. Saner minds might turn to wood as a partial relief to the heating crunch. You can buy it, or get it free.

You can expect to pay between $80 and $120 for a cord of wood. As a rule of thumb, the farther into the country you go, the cheaper the price, so it's worth your while to shop around. As a rule of law, a cord must measure 128 cubic feet; make sure you get what you're paying for. To adequately heat a medium-sized house through a New England winter, you will need 12 to 15 cords. And that's using wood-burning stoves, because no matter how charming your open hearth, it's not the most efficient way to heat.

Happily, a number of places have wood you can get free (or almost free, since a permit will cost $4), and all of them require you to do some cutting, splitting, and hauling logs. The Cut-A-Cord program, administered by the state Department of Environmental Management, is open to residents of the Commonwealth. About 5000 cords of wood in state forests and parks have been marked for cutting through November 18. On Fridays, Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays, you can buy a $4 permit and chop, saw, and split to your heart's content. Thursdays are reserved for the handicapped and people older than 62.

Unfortunately, each spot has a limited number of daily permits, and demand is high. You can't reserve a permit, but you can call ahead and get some idea of how the wood is going. And you can remember that the early bird. . . .

Here are some of the parks where wood is available, along with the number of daily permits, and the telephone number.

South of Boston

Freetown State Forest, Freetown. Ten daily permits. 644-5522.
Wompatuck State Forest, Hingham. Ten daily permits. 749-7160.
Nickerson State Park, Brewster. Five daily permits. 896-7695.

North of Boston

Harold Parker State Forest, North Andover. Ten daily permits. 868-3391.
Willard Brook State Forest, Ashby. Ten daily permits. 597-8802.
Georgetown-Rowley State Forest, Georgetown. Ten daily permits. 887-5931.
Lowell-Dracut-Tyngsboro State Forest, Lowell. Five daily permits. 452-7191.

West of Boston

Spencer State Forest, Spencer. Ten daily permits. 885-2320.
Leominster State Forest, Fitchburg. 20 daily permits, 874-2302.
Douglas State Forest, Douglas. 20 daily permits. 476-7872.

Berkshires

October Mountain State Forest, Lee. 50 daily permits. (413) 243-1778.
Savoy Mountain-Florida State Forest, North Adams. 50 daily permits. (413) 663-8469.
Beartown State Forest, Monterey. 50 daily permits. (413) 528-0904.

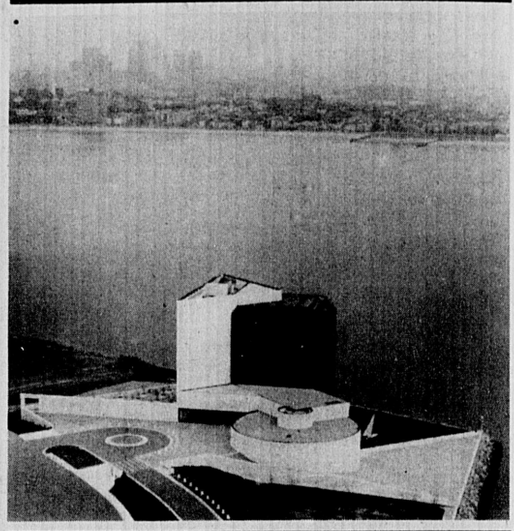
THE KENNEDY LIBRARY



Overlooking Dorchester's Bay on Columbia Point, the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library contains an exhibit level of personal and administrative memorabilia and an archive section of documents, films, photographs, tapes, books, and other resources.

The John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library, newly opened at Boston's Columbia Point, is more than just a commemorative repository or institutional edifice. By its architecture and displays, it is as vibrant, vital, and comprehensive in scope as the man it honors. In a city full of major historical and cultural attractions, the JFK Library ranks among the best.

A tour, lasting at least two hours, begins in the building's theatre lobby, which is decorated with poster-size photos and words of the poetically quotable President. Then into one of two theatres, seating about 250 people, each of which show a 30-minute introductory film of the exhibit. The show shouldn't be missed.

Exiting down stairs to the main exhibit level, the visitor begins a tour of the nine main areas: a timeline with appropriate exhibit items from The Formative Years, A Career in Congress, and The Kennedy Administration; a short videotape of JFK's wittiest replies at press conferences; a large display of items reflecting his personal interests (such as ships), cultural affairs (such as the White House's decoration), and family life (such as Mrs Kennedy and the children); a slide presentation of Kennedy's schedule on a typical day during his tenure; a replica of JFK's desk in the Oval Office, with windows explaining 12 of the president's official functions; and an exhibit of Robert F Kennedy memorabilia and films.

Interest is kept high by the use of alternating media: floor-to-ceiling lighted photographs adorn the halls between exhibit areas.

The Library is also a scholarly center, with millions of pages of documents, millions of feet of film and thousands of photographs, taped interviews, books, and other resources stored in the archives section, which is open to the public. Any of the blue-coated attendants will direct the visitor to the archives.

Hours are 9 am to 5 pm daily, except Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's Day. Admission is 75 cents for adults; children 16 and younger are admitted free.

By its architecture and displays, it is as vibrant, vital, and comprehensive in scope as the man it honors.

To reach the JFK Library by car, take the Southeast Expressway (Route 3) to the JFK Library exit, as marked, and follow the directional signs to the site. By public transportation, take the Ashmont train of the Red Line to Columbia station; a shuttle bus to the Library runs every 15 minutes. □

ANTIQUARIAN BOOK FAIR

The third annual Boston International Antiquarian Book Fair, with more than 100 antiquarian dealers exhibiting and selling printed and manuscript materials, begins this evening at 6 at the Copley Plaza Hotel, Copley Square, Boston. Some of the more interesting items at the fair include letters by Ezra Pound, a letter written by Thomas Paine regarding the US Bank, a 1777 letter from George Washington to General Glover, and a first edition author's presentation copy of HG Wells' The Time Machine. The show is on from 6 to 10 pm today, noon till 8 pm tomorrow, and Sunday from noon to 6 pm. Admission is $3 each day, or you can purchase a special $7.50 ticket this evening that entitles you to unlimited attendance each day. Call 267-5300 for additional information.

BIG BAND BASH

Glen Gray and the Casa Loma Orchestra, one of the top bandleaders and swing orchestras of the Thirties and Forties, are immortalized in a collection of music and memorabilia at Northeastern University's Special Collections Room in the Dodge Library, Huntington Avenue, Boston. A special musical tribute to Gray and his orchestra is held tonight at 8 in the university's Alumni Auditorium at 360 Huntington Avenue, when Dick Johnson and his Orchestra recreate the band's arrangements by performing from copies of original musical scores from the collection. Admission is $3.50. For additional information call 437-2192.

CONCERT DANCE COMPANY

The Concert Dance Company, the modern dance ensemble, begins its new season with Rosalind Newman's Dances, Strange and Familiar, Antique and New, Festive and Otherwise. The performance is a work-in-progress, and a discussion follows. It's at the Joy of Movement Center, 536 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge. Tickets cost $5, and the performances are at 8 tonight and tomorrow night. For additional information call 923-1709.

THE EMPRESS

This Sunday, try our unique Oriental Buffet Brunch. Even getting there is something special because a glass elevator whisks you to the 14th floor Empress Restaurant. This elegant room is beautifully tiered to provide each table with a spectacular view of the Charles River and the Boston skyline. And as you feast your eyes, you feast on such incredible Szechuan, Mandarin and Cantonese delicacies as Oriental crepes, almond chicken, spare ribs and beef and vegetables, just to name a few. And for those who want to start their brunch with something a little less exotic, The Empress even offers endless amounts of scrambled eggs with bacon and ham. The Oriental Buffet Brunch. There's absolutely nothing like it in Boston. Sundays 11:30 A.M. to 3 P.M. Reservations are accepted.

MC	Master Charge

We suggest making reservations, whenever possible, to avoid disappointment.

HUB

Adams House–533 Washington St, Boston, 542-6999. Calvin Coolidge's favorite restaurant, next to the new Modern Theatre downtown. Lobster a special. Full bar, reservations recommended. Hours: 11 am–9 pm Mon–Sat. Closed Sun. BA/V, MC.

The Ground Round–Prudential Center, Boston. Also in Natick, Framingham, Danvers, Peabody, Andover, Cambridge, Braintree, Norwell, Cohasset, and Norwood. From half pound hamburgers to sizzling steaks, a wide variety of foods at easy prices. There's also live entertainment, large screen TV, old time movies and cartoons. Hours: Daily from 11:30–2 am. No reservations except for children's birthday parties. Full bar. No credit cards.

Jimbo's Fish Shanty–245 Northern Ave, Boston, 542-5600. Grilled seafood and beef, including stickfood (kebabs); amaretto pie. Full bar. Hours: Daily 11 am–9 pm. No credit cards, no checks.

Locke-Ober–3 Winter Pl, Boston, 542-1340. For more than a century, Locke-Ober has been a bastion for local politicians and businessmen. Even today, ladies may feel more comfortable upstairs. Continental cuisine: everything is a la carte, impeccable service; expensive but not extravagant. Hours: 11 am–3 pm and 7–10 pm Mon–Sat. Closed Sun. Full bar, reservations. AE, BA/V, MC.

99 Restaurant–125 Pearl St, Boston, 423-4792. One of a number of branches, sandwiches and burgers in a saloon style setting. Inexpensive, fully licensed. Hours: Daily, 11:30–1 am. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

Peking on Fresh Pond–307 Fresh Pond Pkwy, Cambridge, 354-0850. Cantonese, Schezuan, Hunan, and Peking dishes, like Mystic Special soup, scallion pancakes, and chicken velvet. Full bar, reservations recommended. Hours: Daily, 11 am–11pm. AE.

NORTH

Andover Inn–Chapel Ave, Andover, 475-5903. On the grounds of Phillips Andover Academy, but a far cry from school fare. Some of the far-flung favorites are Loempia, scampi flambe. Make sure that the pastry cart rolls past your table. On Sundays, the dinner feature is Rijstaffel, a Dutch-Indonesian buffet. Moderately priced, elegant. Full bar. Open Mon–Sat, 11:30 am–3 pm, and 5–10 pm. Sun, 10:30 am–3 pm, and 4–9 pm. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

Proctor House–373 Lowell St, Peabody, 531-1598. In 18th-century surroundings, the menu is Yankee con brio, American and Italian specialties. Moderate prices, full bar. Hours: 11:30 am–10 pm, til 11 pm Fri–Sat. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

WEST

Le Bellecour–10 Muzzey St, Lexington, 861-9400. Now open under new management, Le Bellecour offers French cooking with some other touches, like soft-shell crabs, smoked trout, and medallions de chevreuil, which is venison. Full bar, reservations are recommended. Hours: Mon–Fri, 11:30 am–2 pm and 6–10 pm; Sat, 6–10:30 pm. AE, BA/V, CB, MC.

Legal Seafoods–Rte 9, in the Chestnut Hill Shopping Center, 277-7300. Legal's outpost on the western front is sometimes less hectic than the Cambridge branch, especially if you are willing to eat early or late. Otherwise, the set-up is pretty much the same: the crowds, crowds, crowds are offset by the fish, fish, fish. Reservations for large parties. Full bar. Hours: Mon–Sat, 11 am–9 pm; Sun, 1–9 pm. AE, and personal checks.

SOUTH

Cafe Rosa–521 Washington St, Canton Center, 828-3940. Beef, seafood, and Italian cuisine: chicken Giuseppe, steal al' McGinty, veal. Full bar, not expensive. Hours: Daily except Mon, 5–10 pm. Lunch served Tues–Fri 11:30 am–2 pm. AE, BA/V, MC.

Casa Berrini–Main St, Marshfield, 834-8765. Italian, continental, and traditional cuisine: veal, prime rib, fresh seafood, and salad Gazebo. Moderate prices, full bar. Hours: Daily except Mon, 11:30–1 am, Sun from 11 am. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

CONTINENTAL CONTENTMENT

Dutch owners, and a French restaurant make for a delightful alternative in dining with a three star rating (Gus Saunders). Unusual, changing specialties like wild boar steak, venison, rattle snake picata and regular items like sauteed softshell crabs, smoked trout, duck with peaches, individual rack of lamb and Beef Wellington.
All items freshly made on the premises. Outstanding home-made soups, sauces and pastries.
Charming atmosphere. Full bar, exceptional wine list.
Reservations a must. Lunch 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Dinner 6 to 10 p.m.

"To get all the action from start to finish I make Minolta my automatic choice."

—Bruce Jenner, world record holder, Olympic decathlon

XD-11

The ultimate automatic 35mm SLR. For virtually unlimited creative versatility, the XD-11 offers aperture or shutter-priority automation or metered manual operation. The electronic viewfinder shows what you've set and what the camera is setting automatically. It's easy to see why Modern Photography called the XD-11 "incredible."

XD-5

The world's least expensive multi-mode automatic. Here's multi-mode automation at a surprisingly low price. Like the Minolta XD-11, the XD-5 features the brightest viewfinder in all 35mm SLR photography. And it has the same multi-mode exposure system. The XD-5 costs less because it has a few less conveniences.

XG-9

Point-focus-shoot simplicity with total electronic control. Use the XG-9 automatically or set it yourself for creative control. The bright electronic viewfinder shows what you've set and what the camera is setting automatically.

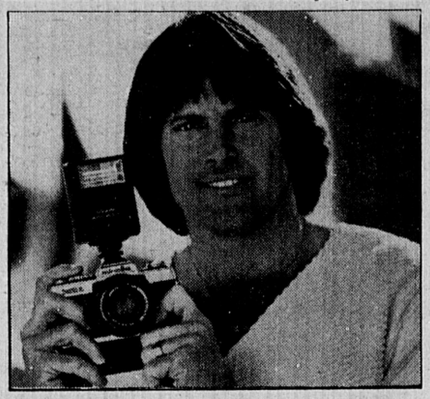
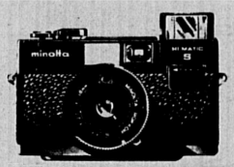
XG-1

The most economical automatic 35mm reflex Minolta has ever made. In its price class, only the Minolta XG-1 offers fully manual operation plus the simplicity of aperture-priority automation. It may be low priced, but the Minolta XG-1 has many of the features of the Minolta XG-9. The major difference: a simplified viewfinder display.



minolta

Hi-matic 35mm Cameras. They combine easy automatic exposure and Minolta lens quality for super-sharp prints and 35mm slides.



There are 6 Hi-matics, including the Hi-matic S, with built-in pop-up electronic flash, and the Hi-matic SD, with pop-up flash and a date-recording feature.

minolta

Auto Winders and Auto Electroflash Units. Auto Winders advance the film in single frames or sequences at about two frames per second. Auto Electroflash units can automatically set Minolta automatic 35mm SLR's for flash operation, cause a flash-ready signal to pulsate in the camera viewfinder, and operate in synch with Minolta auto winders.

minolta

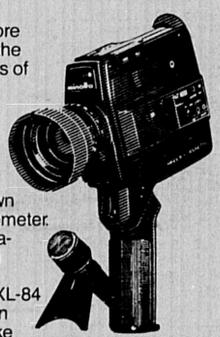
Pocket Autopak® Cameras. Point-focus-shoot cameras with easy 110 cartridge loading and Minolta quality. The economical Pocket Autopak 430E has a built-in electronic flash with Flashmatic exposure. The Autopak 460T adds a telephoto lens. The deluxe Autopak 470 features a clip-on electronic flash, close-up lens, completely automatic operation and shutter speeds up to an action-stopping 1/1000th of a second.

minolta

Interchangeable Lenses. There are more than forty, from fisheye to super-telephoto. The Minolta system has some of the most exciting optics available today, including the new 250mm mirror lens which is about the same size as a 50mm standard lens.

minolta

Movie Cameras. Get more interesting movies with the many automatic features of the Minolta XL series of available-light super-8 movie cameras. The XL-401 features a 4-to-1 power zoom, a built-in self-timer so you can get into your own movies and an intervalometer. The XL-601 has an extra-long 6-to-1 power zoom lens.



In XL-42, XL-64 and XL-84 sound cameras, you can choose from features like up to 8-to-1 power zooms, built-in macro lenses for extreme close-ups, through-the-lens viewing and focusing.

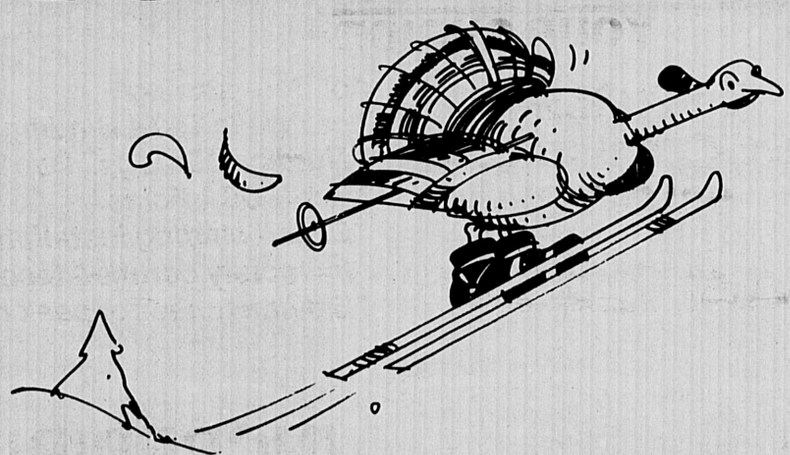
9 Finding out where to ski

10 What's New in Ski Equipment?

STOWE talks turkey.



NOW SKI STOWE FROM TOP TO BOTTOM FROM THANKSGIVING ONWARDS.

What a wonderful way to start your skiing season, to spend the Thanksgiving weekend at Stowe. And from now on you can do it. Because now Stowe has added new snowmaking to over 7 miles of trails. So look forward to great Stowe skiing earlier—and spring skiing till late April.

There's a lot more good news from Stowe, too. Including a new 5000' double chairlift, some new trails, expanded cross-country facilities, more.

Plus some terrific new packages. Our early and late season Super Saver, from November 17 to December 21 and March 24 to April 27, gives you (for example) 4 days skiing for only $48. Imagine skiing Stowe for just $12 a day! Regular Season packages available, too.

For reservations, brochures, and complete package and lodgings information, write Stowe Area Association, Box 1230 V, Stowe, Vermont 05672 or call toll-free 800-451-5100. If busy or in Canada, 802-253-7321. Or ask your travel agent.

Skiing New England A Banner Year Expected

While New Englanders were sunbathing, ski resorts were making vast improvements to insure a banner season.

By Bill Hoffman

Thanksgiving isn't even here yet, but ski area operators already are predicting how the upcoming season will stack up to previous years. With that early October snowfall (Killington recorded its earliest opening ever, October 10), optimism for a spectacular year is running high.

In fact, a METROGUIDE survey of the operators of the top five New England resorts (Killington, Vermont; Waterville Valley, New Hampshire; Sugarloaf/USA, Maine; Stowe, Vermont; and Sugarbush Valley, Vermont) brought unanimous expectation of a superior year. "This could be the best ski year yet," says Tom Corcoran, Waterville Valley's president. "The sale of season passes at this point exceeds any other year in our history. Reservations, too, far exceed other years." Adds Tom Hildreth, marketing director of Sugarloaf/USA, "We built an additional 32 condominium units this summer, and all of them have already been sold."

While many New Englanders were sunbathing this summer, these ski resorts were making vast improvements to insure a banner season. Everything from availability of snow to availability of gasoline has been taken into consideration to make the winter of '79/'80 the best ever. Here's how the top five resorts look:

KILLINGTON

The undisputed King of New England ski resorts, Killington was the first area to open its 1979-80 ski season on October 10. But before you pack up your skis and head for the slopes, call ahead—fall weather is known to be fickle. Biggest news here this winter is the acquisition of Bear Mountain, the fifth of the Killington peaks. With pitches up to 62 percent, it offers the steepest skiing in New England. As a Killington spokesman puts it, "This is the kind of terrain that novices will want to gander at—from a chairlift—but they sure won't want to tackle it."

If this doesn't sound like your cup of tea, there's plenty at this enormous resort to keep you occupied. There are 67 trails (72 including Bear Mountain) offering the widest range of skiing experiences possible. The "Killington Community" houses 36 restaurants and 48 night spots, and there are 90 lodges in the area, for those who have time to sleep. Killington is always coming up with something new to bring skiers to its slopes—this year, they'll offer "Learn-to-Race" weekends and a three-resort pass that encompasses Killington, Mount Snow, and Sunday River in Maine. The resort also has the distinction of being the training site for the US Alpine Ski Team before they head for Lake Placid and the Olympics.

Lift tickets are priced at $17 (weekends) and $16. Lodging ranges from $9 for a dorm room for the night to $300 for a chalet for the weekend.

SUGARLOAF/USA

A giant peak snuggled into Maine's Carrabassett Valley, this area has seen some substantial changes over the last few years. It all started when Tom Hildreth and Larry Warren (who has recently been named President) had the idea of developing a complete ski village at the base of the mountain. They bought the condominiums and shops housed at Valley Crossing (down the road a few miles) and had the entire complex hauled piece by piece up to the base of the mountain. This became the Village Center. Village Center West followed, and new this season is Village South. The development now contains seven restaurants, six pubs, a grocery store, a home made fudge shop (it's delicious), two gift shops, a ski shop, three clothing boutiques, a disco, a health club, an interior design shop and a bank, affectionately nicknamed the "Snow Bank."

To enable Sugarloaf to continue to provide a quality skiing experience, the Sugarloaf Mountain Corp has purchased more than 1000 acres of land adjacent to the resort from the Scott Paper Company. "The Loaf" already has 44 trails and an open snowfield for schussing, but this acquisition could mean an additional five lifts and 15 to 20 trails sometime in the future. Also new this season is a special area for racing and free-style training. This 1200-foot-long trail will be open for training only, but the management felt there was a definite need to separate the competitors from the general skiing public.

Shuttle bus service connecting all mountain properties will be available this winter to enable a car-less vacation at "the Loaf." If you are driving, however, Tom Hidreth assures that there will be plenty of gas available in the Carrabassett Valley for the return trip.

Lift tickets at Sugarloaf/USA are $13 ($18 for lifts and lessons). Lodgings from $35 for two nights.

SUGARBUSH

Sugarbush made great strides with its acquisition of neighbor Glen Ellen two years ago (now Sugarbush North), and the operators have been expanding and improving ever since. This season they have added a million-dollar base-to-summit snowmaking expansion on Sugarbush North and put the finishing touches on the Sugarbush Sports Center, an impressive facility that offers indoor and outdoor tennis and swimming, racquetball, handball, squash, whirlpool, sauna, massage, and a gym. All this, and it's just a short walk from the heart of Sugarbush Village. Add to this more than 70 trails, a host of fine eating places in the Village and on the Access Road, plus superb accommodations in lodges or condominiums, and it's no wonder why those who ski Sugarbush keep coming back for more.

Two-day packages including lodging, meals, and lift tickets start at $68 per person double occupancy.

WATERVILLE VALLEY

Once referred to as "the Vail of the East," this area located in the scenic White Mountain National Forest is large enough to offer great skiing variety, yet small enough to be warm and friendly. With two mountains (Snow's and Mount Tecumseh), a total of 35 trails, three restaurants, and nine places to lodge, Waterville has all the amenities. This year they have made a good thing even better with the addition of a triple chairlift, unlimited lessons for ski weekers, a dine-around meal plan (when you stay at one of the lodges or condominiums, you may eat at any of the Valley's restaurants for a special price), and guaranteed gas to get home for those who spend five to seven days at the resort. Also offered is a special weekday lift package of six all-day, all-lift tickets for $49, a savings of nearly $30 off the regular price.

In keeping with the merger fever that has spread like wild fire throughout the ski industry, a group of investors, headed by Waterville Valley's President Corcoran, has taken over the defunct Bobcat Ski Area in southern New Hampshire's Francestown. The new management group, led by Corcoran and Ski Crotched's President Tim Gannett, will operate Crotched Mountain and Bobcat (now called Crotched Mountain West) as a joint venture. The complex will have seven lifts and 20 trails and will be able to accommodate 3500 skiers per day, making it the largest ski area in Southern New England.

Lift tickets at Waterville Valley are $15 and $13 (Mount Tecumseh) and $9 (Snow's). Ski weeks range from $51 to $91 (lifts, lessons and rentals) and accommodations are priced at $167 to $405 for a five-to-seven-day week. Ticket prices for the Crotched Mountain complex have not yet been announced.

MOUNT MANSFIELD/STOWE

A favorite of the college crowd from the University of Vermont and surrounding schools, Stowe has made its reputation on its superb skiing and warm hospitable atmosphere. This year the operators have improved the facilities so the ski season will be longer and presumably better than ever. Snowmaking has been added to over seven miles of terrain on the mountain, so there will be top-to-bottom skiing from Thanksgiving on.

There's a new double chairlift on Mount Mansfield accommodating 1200 skiers per hour and servicing two new trails along with several existing ones. This virtually doubles the uphill capacity on the main mountain. However, the big surprise from Stowe this season is the decision to hold the line on daily ticket prices. Lift prices will remain at last year's $16 level, and special super-saver seasons will be added with all-day lifts just $13.

Lifts $16, $13 during super-saver periods (Thanksgiving through December 21, March 24 to closing). Lodgings range from $11 to $50 per person per night.

"A Winter Olympic Adventure"

One of the best ways for New England ski buffs to gear up for winter 1979-80 is to visit a ski show. Why? A ski show, like the one in Boston November 8 though 11, is an opportunity for manufacturers of equipment and apparel, ski area operators, and dealers of all kinds to present their wares to the skiing public. Each merchant rents booth space and sets up snappy displays to attract consumers, giving them sneak previews of the technology, design, and style of the upcoming ski season.

The largest of these consumer shows is produced by the Harry Leonard Company and each fall, the show winds its way across the country, with stops in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, Detroit, New York, and Boston.

This year's Boston Ski Show at the Hynes Auditorium promises to be the best ever. With the 1980 Winter Olympics so close at hand, the show's theme is A Winter Olympic Adventure. And if you can't make it to Lake Placid for the big event, you can catch much of the excitement right at the show.

For starters, there'll be a replica of the Olympic Village, where you can find representatives from many of the official suppliers for the Lake Placid Games. An 18-minute multi-media "dek" show (a dek is a simulated ski hill, a moving rug taking the place of the snow) starring 1964 Silver Medalist Billy Kidd will highlight the Olympics, past and present. Members of the US Ski Team will be on hand at the show to answer your questions.

SKI PLACES TO STAY

Finding the right skiing, travel, and accommodation package can be like searching for a needle in a haystack. It's hard to pick a destination from a brochure filled with glossy photographs and fine print. That's why a host of ski area operators will be in evidence at the '79-'80 show. Representatives from the major resorts as well as the smaller, family-oriented areas will personally answer questions on package plans, lodging, food, transportation, and of course, skiing. Since energy conservation is on the minds of many this year, area operators will stress public transportation (there are shuttle buses to many destinations from airports and train stations), car pooling, and availability of gasoline for the return trip. The emphasis will also be on saving money on the slopes, through mid-week and special rates, lift and lodging packages, and off-peak-season skiing.

After all this walking around your feet may be getting a bit sore, but the ski show has the answer for that. A base lodge serves alcoholic libation; you can sample wine and cheese at the Folonari/Mont Austria Wine Cellar, or just relax at the Samsonite Film Festival, a continuous showing of award-winning presentations.

The Boston Ski Show is truly a skier's (and nonskier's) delight. The show runs from November 8 to 11 (Thursday 6 to 11 pm, Friday 4 to 12 pm, Saturday 1 to 11 pm, and Sunday 1 to 7 pm) at the John B Hynes Auditorium in Boston's Back Bay. Admission is $4 for adults, $3.50 with discount coupon, and $2.50 for children 12 and under. There's plenty of parking available in the Prudential underground parking lot and the Cheri Theater lot across the street, or take the MBTA Green Line to the Auditorium Stop.

ABUNDANT APPAREL

Fashion plays a big part in the '79-'80 show. Besides the many apparel representatives in attendance, SunGer will sponsor The Great Race and Fashion Fireworks, a wild and crazy fashion show/ski extravaganza that includes pro racers Stephany Lyn LeMay and Susie Patterson plus free-style skiers, dancers and trampolinists. This splashy dek show is narrated by a pro in the ski fashion field, Skiing Magazine's Barbara Alley.

Those who prefer the "skinny skis" can try them out on a cross-country track that snakes its way through a portion of the hall. Venerable expert Sven Wiik will offer guidance and advice on Nordic skiing.

Unique to this year's show is the Women in Skiing booth. Gone are the days of "men only" sports, as coordinator of Women's Professional Ski Racing Jill Wing will tell you. Jill and her colleagues will discuss fitness and conditioning for women, and present specially-designed women's ski equipment. On hand also will be Elissa Slanger, founder of Women's Way, a week-long ski seminar that teaches women to get the most from their skiing through a combination of technique, relaxation exercises, and goal-setting. It's an exciting concept, and Elissa will be available to talk about her program and its results.

Lebar Irwin and Chuck Ellis dance at the Ski Show.

Finding the right skiing travel and accommodation package can be similar to searching for an elusive gold nugget. Ski package rates, resort prices, and transportation costs are often buried among glossy photographs, lengthy restrictions, and occasionally, fine print.

The Olympic Ski Show offers an overview of almost every aspect of ski-travel planning available. It will feature representatives from various airlines, ski resorts, charter groups, and ski clubs to personally answer visitors' questions about where to go and how to get there most economically.

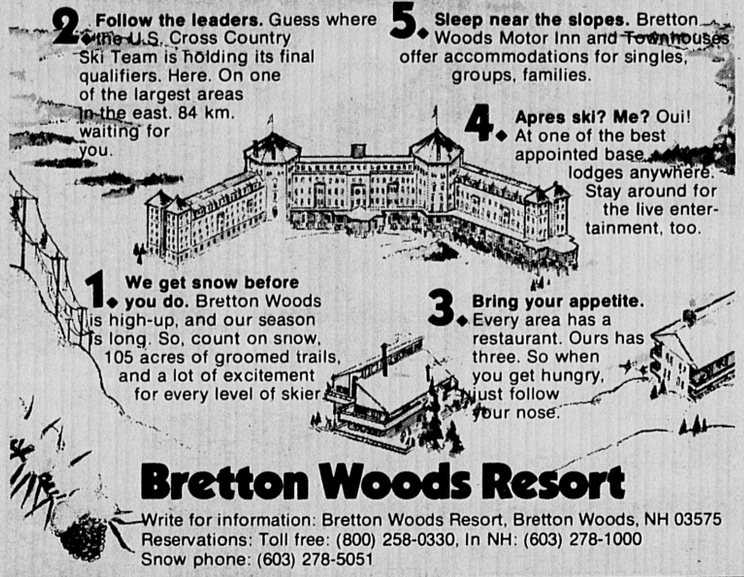
Representatives from many destination resorts will explain to ski show-goers how to ski in the Sierras, British Columbia, the Rockies, as well as New England. Destination resorts can generally be reached entirely through public transportation—first via airline to a major "gateway" airport such as Salt Lake City, Denver, or Burlington, Vermont, then via bus or airline shuttle right to the resort itself.

Local weekend resorts in southern California, the Midwest, or parts of southern Vermont, New Hampshire, and New York, which are more dependent upon adequate gasoline supplies, will emphasize discounts for carpooling skiers, private stocks of gasoline for the trip home, and increased charter bus tours.

Besides the energy question, Ski Show travel exhibitors also intend to concentrate on a variety of money-saving lift and lodging package plans, including dorm or hostel accommodations and midweek special rates.

Almost all travel exhibitors will place a greater emphasis this year on midweek skiing. The benefits to the midweek skier in terms of reduced lift and lodging rates, and uncrowded slopes, will make any avid skier want to sneak away from school or work.

Bretton Woods. The next best thing to Mt. Washington.



2. Follow the leaders. Guess where the U.S. Cross Country Ski Team is holding its final qualifiers. Here. On one of the largest areas in the east. 84 km. waiting for you.

5. Sleep near the slopes. Bretton Woods Motor Inn and Townhouses offer accommodations for singles, groups, families.

4. Apres ski? Me? Oui! At one of the best appointed base lodges anywhere. Stay around for the live entertainment, too.

1. We get snow before you do. Bretton Woods is high-up, and our season is long. So, count on snow, 105 acres of groomed trails, and a lot of excitement for every level of skier.

3. Bring your appetite. Every area has a restaurant. Ours has three. So when you get hungry, just follow your nose.

What's New in Ski Equipment?

By Gary Provost

Maybe in a few years, if you really get into skiing, you'll get a kick out of buying ski equipment with an electronic calculator in your hand. You'll need it. The variety of skis alone, with such considerations as torsion index, flex distribution, and flex index, can have more permutations than the daily lottery number. Then, when you realize that boots come in leather, plastic, and rubber, before you've even begun to think about fit, and that bindings arrive with such mind-boggling features as diagonal release heels, spring-loaded cables, and scissor-style toe cups, the whole process starts to sound like buying a new Ferrari with all the options.

To go skiing the first time you could also deck yourself out in all the latest ski fashions from thermal-insulated socks to designer face masks. After all, stylish clothes are a big part of the skiing mystique that has become a weekend lifestyle for thousands of New Englanders. But the truth is you don't have to dress like a Romanian Count to go skiing. You can do it in everyday clothes, as many veterans do.

So forget all the trappings for now. If you're a beginner, all you want to know is can you afford the equipment and will it help you to remain vertical when you start to slide down a snowy hill.

What you really need to start skiing are basically four things: skis, ski boots, bindings, and poles.

SKI BOOTS– Ski boots are unique and can't be substituted for. In fact, just walking around in them will soften the boots and reduce the control you have over your skis. Fit is critical, especially for safety. When you go out to buy boots don't rush. Try on several pairs. Consider all the variety (one new twist this year is "floating" insoles, allowing feet to move with turns). Ski boots should fit comfortably, and all of the inside surface should be in contact with your feet. They should be snug but should not induce pain. Depending on what the boots are made of they will stretch various degrees from the dampness and stress of skiing. Because of considerations like this, you should buy your boots and all vital equipment at a ski shop, where the people know about skiing. Also, when you try on ski boots make sure you can bend your knees at least as far as the tip of the boots. Without that ability to lean forward you could be hampered when you start to ski.

BINDINGS– If remaining in one piece is of importance, then bindings are perhaps the most important piece of equipment. Bindings are devices that hold your skis to your boots when you're skiing and release them when you're falling. It is extremely important to have good-quality bindings that are properly mounted and adjusted by an expert. Cheaper skis are sometimes sold with bindings already on them. If you buy these skis make sure the release settings are right for your height, weight, and skiing ability. Also pick up some runaway straps for a couple of bucks. They attach to your bindings and keep your skis from setting a new record for the giant slalom when you're not on them.

POLES– Poles, which help the better skier maneuver, and the beginning skier to maintain his or her balance, are relatively uncomplicated. The newest models have shock-absorbing springs in the handle. Poles should be light and comfortable and, most important, of the proper length. Let the expert fit you with the pole size that is right for you.

SKIS– Skis come in a great variety of materials, lengths, widths and styles—more than 370 models this year. The beginner should stick to the standard type, and keep in mind that it is easier to learn on shorter skis, although the trend is to longer skis for better stability. They should be your own height or shorter. You'll probably want longer skis when you learn to ski fast, but you don't have to throw the old ones away; you can trade them in.

Wooden skis require more care and don't usually last as long as fiberglass or metal. Skis should have sharp steel edges for turning. Also look for skis with plastic bottoms; painted bottoms require frequent waxing. There are many other considerations, such as the curve of the ski and the size of the groove, depending on the skier's ability.

WHAT'S IT GOING TO COST?– SKI magazine recently took a poll and found that its readers last year spent an average of $154.50 for a pair of skis, $113.80 for boots, $66.10 for bindings, and $22.80 for poles. But these figures represent people who are enthusiastic enough about skiing to subscribe to a skiing magazine. For the beginner all the basic equipment can be purchased for around $175. You can get boots for $40, bindings for $40, poles for as little as $7, and the rest of the money will go into skis.

It would be unfortunate to spend so much and then discover you hate to ski. So you might consider renting all of the equipment for a weekend, at anywhere from $22 to $36 depending on the local ski shop, or you can rent at the ski site for somewhere around $10 a day.

In any case yo 're not going to enjoy skiing if your equipment doesn't feel right. So be fussy, even if you're buying cheap or second-hand equipment. You're the customer. Keep trying things on. Ask questions. Demand adjustments. Don't leave the store until it all feels right.

$73,000 Voted Tues. For Specifications, Bids On High School

With a favorable Master's decision regarding the town's court case involving Winchester High School behind them, the Town Meeting voted to appropriate approximately $73,000 Tuesday night to cover legal costs and prepare specifications on any reconstruction of that school.

Ronald Milauskas, chairman of the Permanent Building Committee, appeared before the Town Meeting members, stating that the appropriation of $73,681 would pay for $23,681 in legal expenses that weren't previously appropriated for, and $50,000 to contract professional services to prepare specifications and to seek bids on the repair of the high school.

The town has been involved in a law suit against the contractor of the high school for almost three years, due to the faulty construction of that building. According to town and school officials, the roof and windows leak.

"We have reached the point now of two n milestones," Milauskas told the Town Meeting members. The first milestone regards the engineering of the school and the second being a favorable Master's decision which Milauskas informed the members of Tuesday night.

According to Milauskas, the town has been awarded $668,001, contingent upon the decision of the construction company being sued whether they will take this case to a jury trial and then, should the ruling still be against them, exercise their right of appeal.

Milauskas estimated that the further expense of $25,000 would be necessary if the town is forced to go through the jury trial and then appeals court.

"We're looking for the money to pay our legal bills to date and bring back specifications to you in the spring," Milauskas told the members present, concerning the proposed appropriation.

The Town Meeting also voted Tuesday night to appropriate $23,500 for account 9200-S2 of Article 2, for the installation of insulation at the Mystic, Lincoln and McCall schools, though the work on these buildings could not begin until sometime next spring.

The insulation project, part of a larger energy renovation project conceived by the Energy Task Force in town, was placed on the fall Warrant so that the town would be able to apply for 50 percent matching federal funds. To qualify for this aid, a community must have approved the project proposed, and then get in line for federal handouts.

Selectman Wade Welch, a member of the in-house energy committee who drew up the renovation project, told the Town Meeting that the payback figures, the amount of time it would take Winchester to make back in energy saved the amount of money being spent, is approximately 1.7 to 3.1 years.

Finance Committee member William Zettler, noting the present energy crisis the nation is experiencing, stated that the town has a responsibility to save as much a energy as it could now, and recommended that the insulation be put in immediately.

However, Town Manager Thomas Groux pointed out that if construction was begun, it could jeopardize the federal payback. "I think that kind of money is worth taking the risk of waiting," Groux told the Town Meeting.

Welch agreed with Groux, urging the Town Meeting to vote the funds but hold off on beginning the project. "There's a good likelyhood as of Feb. 1 we will have the a leg up in the matching federal funds. If you vote now to authorize this expenditure, we can put in for immediately for federal funds."

Welch urged the members for this payback. "You shouldn't be afraid of taking advantage of sharing in these federal funds," he pointed out. "You're paying taxes for them."

Town Meeting member Otto Schaefer agreed with Welch and Groux. "Here's a simple opportunity for us to do something about the energy problem."

Board of Health Director Michael Saraco asked if any other funds which may have been appropriated at the spring Town Meeting, but not entirely spent, might be transfered to the insulation project. Saraco then suggested that the town would not have to appropriate as much now.

But Groux pointed out that for the town to be eligible for the matching funds, Winchester must appropriate the full amount for the cost of the project.

When the motion was put to a vote, it easily received the necessary two-thirds with a total of 105-4 in favor of appropriating the funds.

In the matter which took up the majority of time Tuesday night, but produced the least, the Town Meeting voted to postpone Article 9, the resource recovery article, until Nov. 29, by which time the Finance Committee will have had sufficient time to study the cost factors for the town, and then present a report to the Town Meeting.

Ahti Audio, a consultant for the engineering firm of Mitre Corp., contracted by the state for the resource recovery project planned for North Andover, appeared before the Town Meeting, along with other state and UOP, the company constructing the waste reuse plant, officials.

Following a 12 minute film on a resource recovery plant similar to the one which would be built in North Andover, Audio presented a number of slides to the Town Meeting, explaining what the recovery center was about, costs for communities involved and the advantages of the proposal.

The waste disposal plant in North Andover would contain two giant, non-polluting incinerators, which would convert the waste into electricity. The New England Power Co. presently has a

Town Meeting Votes Money For Disposal Of 3 Elementary Schools

After an eleventh hour amendment to one of the three recommendations of the Alternative School Use Committee, Town Meeting last Thursday approved $3,000 to solicit proposals for dispensing with the Parkhurst, Noonan and Washington School sites, all of which are slated to close at the end of this year.

The Committee recommended that: Washington School be converted into 16 condominiums within the shell of the building; that the Noonan School be converted into 14 rental units for low and moderate income persons (dividing the existing open space into a parking lot and building); and that the Parkhurst School be changed to three units of single family residences plus 12 condominiums within the shell of the building. (The three family units were to be located in the back area of the site while the condominiums and open space would be in front).

The Alternative School Use Committee's recommendation on use of the Parkhurst site, according to Chairman Charles Tseckares, was a compromise version of the recommendation set down by the November, 1978 Town Meeting. That recommendation had stipulated Parkhurst should be converted into 21 condominiums within the shell of the building.

However, by a 67-60 vote last week, Town Meeting Members voted an amendment, suggested by Meeting Member Mary Brink, that the three single family residences and 12 condominiums be changed either to all single family residences or to open space.

Whatever the Selectmen subsequently decide, to convert the area into open space or to leave it as open space, the Parkhurst School will be torn down, Tseckares said.

Debate last week centered on the suggested amendment.

Mark Abkowitz, a resident of the Parkhurst area, said that the study last year "suffers from a series of erroneous decisions," one of which is that the per pupil cost is $2200, he said. Abkowitz said that according to his calculations the cost per student is $68.

Tseckares later called this figure "absurd" and noted that no one had opposed the Committee's recommendation during the time when the Committee solicited neighborhood input through hearings.

Agawam road resident Lois Kusik said that Parkhurst neighbors don't feel the Committee's proposed plan is best for that neighborhood. Although the school building has little significance, Kusik said, the "land is an asset" which has unique features for the Town of Winchester.

In addition to scenic and recreational values, it has historical significance in its association with Squaw Sachem and the purchase of the land area from the Indians.

Town Meeting Member John Cheever said that the past policy of Town Meeting Members has been to approve the requests of area residents. He said he is opposed to apartments in single family areas and believes Town Meeting, in this instance, should go along with the neighborhood requests.

Prospect street Town Meeting Member Sally Kincaid voiced what appeared to be the only opposing voice to the Parkhurst amendment. She said Winchester is paying a high cost to keep the town as it was 30-40 years ago. The whole town is paying the cost of keeping the tax base narrow by agreeing with several areas which don't want construction there, she said.

Tseckares, who is also the Planning Board Chairman, said that although the Board had no voice on the amendment, the concept that once the area is rezoned it will not be controllable is erroneous. He noted that because the town owns the property it is in a unique position to control what will be developed subsequently.

The Planning Board's recommendation on the main motion was unanimous on approval of the $3,000 and on the Washington and Noonan School recommendations. However, the Board was split 2-2 (one member absent) on the Parkhurst recommendation, he said.

Selectman Edward O'Connell, in delivering the minority view of the Selectmen's 3-2 recommendation on the main motion, noted that he was in favor of the amendment because of the "incalculable social costs if condominiums are inflicted on the Parkhurst community."

Just prior to the vote Finance Committee Chairman Carolyn Ward noted that under the present zoning restrictions the Parkhurst site could be converted to a library, church, swimming pool, cemetery, police station or other municipal use. Ward, who is also one of three members on the ASU Committee, asked the Town Meeting not close the

Local Residents Take Part In Day Of Fast

Local residents paritipating in a Day of Fast today will meet in a Community Breaking of the Fast at 6:30 p.m. in Manion Hall of St. Eulalia's Church.

The Fast, which began last night, is one of two locally sponsored events to aid the approximately three million starving peoples of Cambodia.

Participants are asked to bring their fast offering from money saved by fasting, and also to bring bread, cheese and beverage to share with others. Contributions may also be mailed directly to Oxfam-America, 302 Columbus ave., Boston, 02116.

A second event, an Arts Festival, is planned for Saturday at Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church from 2-6 p.m. There will be exhibits of the work of local artists, while music students play chamber music. There will be a performance of "Dance Pro Musica" by a group from Greenfield, accompanied by Robin Stone, pianist. Admission is free, but those who attend are asked to make a donation to Cambodian relief.

The events are sponsored by 10 Winchester churches which are working with Oxfam-America, the international self-help agency, in providing $50 million in aid to Cambodia.

Winchester Star Plans To Publish Next Wednesday

The Thanksgiving Week issue of The Winchester Star will be published on Wednesday instead of Thursday. News deadline for the issue will be tomorrow. Advertising deadline is Monday at 4 p.m.

Manager Thomas Groux Speaks On Town Meeting

By the time The Star goes to press, the Town of Winchester will be completing the second week of a national tradition, the roots of which can be traced to the roots of this nation — the rite of Town Meeting.

Unfamiliar to larger municipalities, the business conducted at Town Meeting affects and directs the subsequent course of local government for the coming year. Budgets are scrutinized, committees are established or disbanded and local authorities receive direction as to what business should receive subsequent action, all through the deliberation of Town Meeting members.

Since the adoption of a Charter in March, 1975, Winchester has had two regularly scheduled Town Meetings — one in the spring and one in the fall. To have two such scheduled meetings, Town Manager Thomas Groux said in a recent interview, is "somewhat uncommon." However, Groux sees several advantages in the semi-annual meetings.

A fall Town Meeting, according to Groux, provides an opportunity for debate when the town is not burdened by fiscal issues, even though these issues may be important to the town's "fiscal health." It also allows the town to take advantage of federal and state programs in a more timely fashion.

Groux cited Warrant Articles six, seven and nine as examples.

With regard to Article six, Groux notes that several towns are now faced with a water supply problem. If Winchester wants to be able to conduct experiments of the water supply next summer, approval must now be received. Spring Town Meeting would be too late to apply for related funding since other towns would already be "in line for the money."

Article seven, which received Town Meeting approval for construction of an extension of the Aberjona bike path, is another example of an article which must receive early approval for state reimbursement.

In order for Winchester to participate in a future North Andover based resource recovery facility, this Town Meeting would have to authorize the Selectmen to sign a contract agreement by the end of January or else pay a penalty.

The approximate cost of a Town Meeting Groux estimates at $3,000, most of which consists of the printing and mailing costs of Town Warrants and committee reports. Groux sees this as a very minor cost for the business of the town to be kept in the hands of the citizens" and feels it's justified. If Winchester were a city, the cost of an average Town Meeting would equal the salary of a city councilman, he said.

In addition to control of town business with the majority of residents Groux sees other advantages in this process. A better informed citizenry and involvement of layment in government are the net results of Town Meeting, he says, in characterizing Members as "a pretty knowledgeable group."

Although he says that the advantages outweigh the disadvantages, Groux notes that there are some negative aspects to Town Meeting. It's difficult to be sure that Winchester's 192 Town Meeting members are properly and adequately informed on the issues facing the town. To do so requires a lot of effort and can be a tedious process.

Sometimes as a professional manager, Groux thinks it would be easier to leave the town's business in the hands of the Selectmen. It's easier to ensure that five persons are informed on the issues, and government can often move expeditiously as a result. But, Groux says he has seen instances in other municipalities where action, not taken under public scrutiny and with citizen input, resulted in abusive tactics.

"Even though Town Meeting may be slow, it guards against capricious and ill-informed decision." And the end result is better government with less cynicism on why management finances are what they are.

door on condominiums in order for the Committee to have time to consider proposals before Town Meeting in the spring.

The $3,000 approved by the main motion will be used for proposals, architectural drafting, printing of drafting and secretarial costs, said Tseckares this week.

The main motion, which required a two-thirds vote, passed 102-6. The amendment, which only required a majority vote, passed 76-60.

According to the ASU Committee's proposed timetable, construction is slated for August, 1980.

Girl Scouts Plan Roller Skating Party

Winchester Brownies, Girl Scouts, Cadettes and Seniors are eligible to participate in the roller skating party Nov. 23 from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Wal-Lex Roller Skating Rink in Waltham.

Transportation will be provided and arranged by troop leaders. The cost is $1 per person. Call Mrs. Joseph Twichell for further information.

Mrs. Ronnie Fiorillo recently conducted a Patrol Leaders' Workshop at Camp Joy for 33 girls from four schools. Demonstrations were given by several groups.

These Seniors who assisted included: Averil Svahn, Maureen Herlihy and Karen Wolfert.

...The first major step taken to petition the State Legislature to incorporate South Woburn into a separate town was at a meeting held in the vestry of the Congregational Church Monday Nov. 26, 1849 at 6:30 p.m. Names under consideration for the new town included Appleton, Winthrop, Avon, Channing, Waterville and Winchester.

20 year contract with UOP of Chicago, the group that will be constructing the plant, to buy all electricity produced.

The waste for the center would be brought from subscribing communities who would share in the revenue that the plant generates. In theory, the member towns would share 90 percent of all revenue generated through electricity and 50 percent of all metal sales. The word theory is emphasized for at the moment, though many communities have expressed an interest in the project, none of them have become involved in the 20 year contract.

According to Audio, the cost-per-ton for Winchester would be approximately $2.70. This is added to a transportation cost which all of the member communities share. The estimated transportation cost for Winchester is $6 per-ton.

According to the contract, Audio stated, the town decides how much waste it can deliver annually. He pointed out that if a town begins to bring more waste than originally planned, with the plant able to handle the increase, they would be compensated. However, the opposite exists in that if a town fails to deliver what they agreed, they must pay the difference.

The 20-year contract is not scheduled to begin until 1984, when the plant should be completed. Interested towns must subscribe by Jan. 31 of 1980 however, or they will face a late fee.

Presently, Winchester disposes of it's waste in a landfill, at a cost of $16.50 per-ton.

Businesses Publicity Workshop

On Nov. 29 the Winchester Star and the Chamber of Commerce are co-sponsoring a publicity workshop geared to local businesses on what makes news, writing news releases, and how publicity can be an effective business tool.

A publicity workshop for local organizations and committees will be held at a later date. Pre-registration is necessary. Call The Star for details on both workshops. The Nov. 29 date will be held from 9 to 10:30 a.m. at The Star's Church street office.

Library Has Film Program For Children

The Family Film Program, which will be held Sunday in the Story Hour Room of the Junior Library, this week features "How the Mole Got His Trousers," "Paddington Bear" and "If Kangaroos Jump, Why Can't You?"

The Sunday film series will begin at 2:30 p.m., and it is requested that at least one adult accompany each group of children. There will be a Tuesday afternoon film program for school age children at 3:30 p.m.

These films are provided through the Eastern Mass. Regional Library System which is funded through the state.

Insurance Increase Results In Restaurant Rent Hike

Recent increase in the rate structure determining insurance costs have resulted in an eviction notice given to a Cross street restaurant owner and that owner's refusal to pay the rental increase.

Joseph Mantini, owner of Mantini's Restaurant at 109 Cross st. since May, says that when he bought the restaurant in the building which also contains two apartments and a small grocery store, the rent was $260.

The lease, which the building owner's attorney said has expired at the time Mantini bought the restaurant, specified that the rent would be $260 monthly plus 35 percent of any tax or insurance increase. The two-year lease was to have had a two-year option.

Mantini said that Newton street resident John Hall two months later said the rent would be increased to $290 which Mantini agreed to pay. Mantini said he thought this increase was fair.

Six weeks later Mantini was told the rent would be increased another $110 per month because of increasing rates on his fire insurance. Mantini said he told Hall that he wouldn't pay the additional $110, and that shortly thereafter he received a letter from Hall's attorney, Henry Quill, in which he was told to pay or vacate the premises by Nov. 1. Mantini also said the rent increase stated in the letter was $135, not $110.

Mantini, who says he would like a five-year lease with a five-year option, contends that he should only have to pay $290 monthly in rent. He says he is willing to pay a fair increase with the proper lease.

Henry Quill, Hall's lawyer, says that Mantini purchased an expired lease. Quill said the insurance increase must be levied on Mantini since the grocery store has a lease and the insurance policy increase wouldn't apply to the two apartments. The building's fire insurance policy, based on occupancy, would be less without the restaurant.

Quill noted that the increase levied on Mantini is quite substantial and he hopes a resolution can be made which will be agreeable to all parties concerned.

According to Marcia Saltmarsh of the Saltmarsh Insurance Agency, which is handling Hall's insurance policy, Hall is now paying $4,475 on a fire insurance policy. From August, 1978 through August, 1979 he paid $2,551. However, this was increased to $2,720 because of Hall's increase in insurance last April.

According to Kathleen Wright of the Saltmarsh Agency, Hall received an insurance increase when the policy was up for renewal. The insurance rate increase was the result of an adjustment made in a revamping of the rate structure set down by the Insurance Service Offices which determines insurance rates.

As explained by Wright, ISO is a state rating bureau that inspects properties either at the request of the insurance agency, when there is a new occupancy, or when changes are made in the building. Based on a March 20, 1979 inspection, an unadjusted rate of $1.54 per $100 worth of insurance was determined.

Every building then has a coding structure which is multiplied by the base rate. In this case it would have equalled $6.294 per $100 worth of insurance if kept at a $100 deductible. However, Hall chose to take a $10,000 deductible which would make his final rate $4.972 per $100 worth of insurance.

In 1978 ISO had a revamping of their rate structure, which didn't take effect until the policy was up for renewal, Wright said. It had nothing to do with Mantini's purchase of the restaurant or change in tenants.

Hall says that Mantini is, unfortunately, "a victim of circumstance." If the ISO rating structure hadn't changed, Hall said he would have left Mantini's insurance as it was. He noted, however, that the only way for him to pay the increased rates was through a rent increase.

"I'm not out to make any enemies," Hall said.

St. Mary's School: Audrey Deshler, Shirley Flynn, Antoinette Guarnaccia, Jean Langley, Carolyn Maher, Mary Poravas and Joan Stewart.

Following the election, parents were able to tour the resource centers and observe materials and equipment purchased for the program.

The first Parent Advisory Council meeting will be held today from 9:30 to 11 a.m. in the McCall Jr. High Title I room. Election of Parent Advisory Council officers and representatives to the District Council will be held.

Selectmen Favor Washington Plan

The Board of Selectmen voted 4-1 last week in favor of the recommendations made by the Alternative School Reuse Committee for the Washington School, but an option for Winchester Hospital is also being left open.

The Alternative School Reuse Committee suggested that the Washington School be converted into a combination of 16 one and two bedroom apartments and condominiums. The Selectmen felt that the hospital might have some use for the building. The Board of Directors at the hospital is considering the possibilities.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

The House and Senate

With the session running into the wee hours of the morning, the Massachusetts Legislature finally finished its business and adjourned until the 1980 session which will convene on Jan. 1. Beacon Hill Roll Call records local representatives' and senators' votes on the key roll calls during the prorogation session.

Energy Reorg - Senate approved 24-2, House approved 136-0, the energy reorganization bill which creates an Executive Office of Energy Resources and elevates it to cabinet-level status.

Supporters argued the bill and its many provisions would finally provide a centralized office and effort to coordinate and promote energy conservation and alternative energy development in the state.

Opponents argued the bill creates another bureaucracy which will cost the taxpayers money, and some said the funds should all be used to help the needy with the escalating costs of fuel and energy.

Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr. voted for the bill.

Sen. Samuel Rotondi voted for the bill.

Capital Outlay Budget - Senate approved 25-1, House approved 122-19, a $216 million capital outlay budget compromise hammered out by a House-Senate conference committee after each branch had passed conflicting versions. The budget is for various construction and improvement projects throughout the state.

Supporters argued the budget was a reasonable one and refuted charges that it was inflated with pet projects for favored legislators.

Opponents argued the bill was inflated with projects that were not essential and would simply cost too much money. They noted the conference committee increased the budget by millions of dollars over what the House and Senate had individually approved.

Saltmarsh voted against it.

Rotondi voted for it.

BCBS - House refused 142-1, to reconsider earlier approval of a bill providing certain minimum benefits for non-profit hospital service corporation, Blue Cross Blue Shield, subscribers. The measure requires BCBS to provide the same coverage for subscribers in chronic rehabilitation and disease hospitals as they do for subscribers in general hospitals.

Supporters said it is unfair that BCBS presently pays less for patients in chronic care facilities than it does for those in general hospitals, and said the measure would not add much of an increase to BCBS premiums.

Opponents said the bill is the wrong approach and claimed it would result in increased premiums for all BCBS subscribers.

Saltmarsh voted for it.

Pope Expenses - House approved 91-55, a supplemental budget amendment to provide a $1.8 million to reimburse cities and towns for overtime costs of local employees as a result of the Pope's October visit.

Supporters argued the Legislature approved the Pope's Holiday Act which resulted in these expenses, and noted this actually makes it a state-mandated program for which the cities and towns are required to pay. They cited the four percent cap and said cities have little or no extra funds to cover these costs.

Opponents said it was unfair and unwise to begin to add many amendments to the supplemental budget, claiming it could open the door to dozens of other amendments costing millions of dollars. Some noted there was a separate bill still being considered to pay these costs.

Saltmarsh voted for it.

Arts Lottery - House gave final approval 92-50, to a new version of a bill creating an arts lottery in Massachusetts. The bill provides for a weekly lottery and the sale of $5 tickets with proceeds to go to a newly created State Arts Lottery Fund, and to be distributed to regional and local arts councils by the new Arts Lottery Council.

Supporters argued the lottery was a creative and sound approach to raise money for the arts and noted the lottery would create new state jobs.

Opponents argued the lottery would cut into state lottery revenues which now go with no strings attached, to local cities and towns. Others said creation of an arts lottery would open the door to creation of dozens of other special interest lotteries.

Saltmarsh voted for it.

Logan Towing - Senate approved 22-4, House approved 83-53, a bill prohibiting the Massachusetts Port Authority from implementing rules requiring the towing of aircraft at Logan Airport. The measure would prohibit forced towing of certain aircraft a distance before takeoff and after landing.

Supporters argued the towing measure is discriminatory and mainly affects Eastern Airlines, which has threatened to suspend or cutback Logan operations if the towing regulation is implemented. They noted hundreds of jobs could be lost if Eastern leaves and many noted the towing procedure is a safety hazard.

Opponents argued the bill was unnecessary since it attempts to block regulations that can't take effect for at least six months, and many argued the bill should be studied more and be considered next year and not be rushed through during the last hours of this year's session. They noted the towing regulation is not out to get Eastern Airlines, but said it mainly affects Eastern because Eastern is next to an East Boston Community.

Saltmarsh voted for it.

Rotondi voted against it.

Mom And Apple Pie Make A Comeback

BY WILLIAM DONOVAN

During his brief speech at Monday's Veterans' Day ceremony, Board of Selectmen Chairman Richard Wilsack compared the threat that America faces today in Iran, with those situations that the honored veterans faced years ago. He was right. We have been directly confronted.

But if there is one thing this problem in Iran has produced, it is a revival of nationalism in America. As much as holidays such as Veterans' Day and Memorial Day were instituted in memory of those who gave their lives for this nation, they also point out the pride Americans as a people have shown when put to the test.

In the coming presidential campaign, perhaps the key word will be leadership. Though a major quality of any leader is the ability to unite his force, no matter how dynamic, that leader needs a cause, a flag to rally around. The kidnapping of Americans in Iran has become that flag.

Across the country in the past week there have been patriotic outbursts in Springfield, Minnesota, Texas, California, Washington and countless other places. Americans, angry and frustrated over an apparent helplessness before a chaotic country like Iran, are ending a decade that has been conspicuous with its complacency, by shouting old slogans like "America. Love it or leave it."

Students in the United States, not to be outdone by any other college students in the news, are showing another side as they answer every anti-America or pro-Ayatollah rally with a counter demonstration. Though the violence that has resulted in a number of these confrontations is not to be applauded, the unity that has been reborn is. The enemy, in a sense, has aroused a somewhat sleeping giant in American pride.

During his stay in office, President Jimmy Carter has tried to carry the banner and lead this country on a crusade against inflation and the energy crisis. But because it is somewhat self-induced and rather non-tangible, Carter has gotten little support in these battles, though they effect us much more as a whole, than the Iranians.

However, with the dilemma in Iran, Carter's stock as a leader has risen with little effort. Is there anyone who didn't say, "Damn right Jimmy, we don't need their oil," when he established the embargo on Monday? Doesn't it bug you just a little when you see Iranian students burning Carter, our President, in effigy?

As the veterans of the first two wars remembered back to those dark days, decades ago, they saw a country buying war bonds and rationing gas for a common cause. Many people's actions were guided by nothing more than patriotism with no questions asked.

In the oil embargo, Carter may have found a timely and constructive avenue many Americans can take to show their resentment of the activities in Iran. Up until now, the administration's pleas that Americans conserve fuel have fallen on deaf ears. But now, with a more tangible or immediately satisfying cause at hand, again not as logical as before, Americans will try to cut back on fuel consumption. It's another way to show Iran that a country like this one simply doesn't need them.

The indignation Americans are showing towards Iran goes much deeper than the fact that they hold our countrymen against their will. A painful revelation from all of this is that while we allow Iranians to become a part of our society, learn in our universities and prosper on our soil, they show Americans none of these courtesies on their land and in fact go out of their way to harass them.

"America The Beautiful" is being song across the land again. A new patriotism is swelling through the nation as demonstrators on the nightly news shout the virtues of our country. People are sick and tired of being humiliated by a group of students.

Violence to this crisis is not the answer, or if it is, hopefully the last resort. And as this rise in pride begins to spread, as the voices in the streets begin to answer every time an American flag is burned, I've got five bucks that says our good ole' southern boy could whip that Khomeini with one arm tied behind his back.

As the Stars and Stripes wave, a lone trumpeter plays taps during Veterans' Day ceremonies on Monday. Honor guards from both the police and fire departments, along with two bands, took part in the ceremonies. (Photo By Joan Cooper)

Letters From Readers

Star Letters

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Week after week the whining and complaining continues in "Letters to the Editor." Must your readers honestly be subjected to such drivel? I am sincerely in favor of freedom of speech, but there comes a time when this distinct privilege can be sorely abused.

This week, we lucky readers were afforded an enlightening (?) dissertation on Health Insurance. If this self-styled "Crusader of the Underdog" does not approve of our government, our hospitals, our doctors, and above all our town, I would suggest that should she ever need medical treatment or hospital confinement, she depart (and I quote) to "Canada or any of our foreign countries." Maybe, at long last, she will find precisely what she is seeking, and also avoid that "third degree."

Please, no more whining for a while! The week before we had to digest two of her letters in the same column. If she should experience the urgent need to write, could she possibly write something cheerful for a change?

In this day and age, we all have our "gripes" from time to time, but I can see no earthly reason to attempt to inflict them on the general public. Give us a break!!!!

Water System

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The poor water quality in town stems from both parts of our water system - the Reservoir water with its swampy taste and odor and from the filth that lies in the underground distribution system.

Of the two sources of contamination, the distribution system plays the major role in our bad water quality. The water can only be as clean as the pipes that deliver the water to the homes. The deterioration of the water has not worsened because the water in the Reservoir has deteriorated, but it has worsened because the distribution system has been neglected and never maintained clean.

The water that comes out of stagnant water pipes and dead end lines smells and looks like it came out of a sewer pipe. The more bacteria that is found the more chlorine is added to the water. The chlorine in the water pipes is used up according to the amount of contamination and filth in the pipes. The major cause of the bacteria problem is that the chlorine never gets to the many stagnant water lines and dead ends to kill the harmful bacteria.

The bacteria is allowed to grow in water mains and becomes part of the underground water system. The homes nearest the Reservoir are getting an overdose of chlorine while the homes at the end of the line get little or no protection from harmful bacteria. This is especially true with homes on dead end lines.

Article 6 of the current Town Meeting Warrant is to fund $35,000 for a pilot program to filter out the fresh water shrimp with a 28 micron screen. Filtering water through a fine screen is a waste of precious time and money. Fine screening will not remove any of the swampy taste and odor from the Reservoir water.

It will not filter out any of the bacteria in the reservoir and it will not remove the filth in the distribution system. Also, it will not reduce the high amount of chlorine that must be added to kill the chloroform bacteria in the distribution system.

The shrimp in the town's water is not causing the bacteria. Wincheter's water supply always contained shrimp and in years gone by, there was no bacteria problem. Only since the distribution system has been neglected and not maintained clean has the bacteria become uncontrollable.

The distribution system was never designed right from the beginning. The system has too many dead end lines and stagnant water conditions that will always plague us until they are corrected.

The present water levels at the Reservoir are the lowest I have ever seen them. This condition is adding to our many water problems. Drawing water from the bottom of the Lake is allowing a higher concentration of impurities into the water system. Keeping the Reservoir clean and at high levels will do much more than trying to filter out the shrimp with a screen.

Winchester's water quality is not good and yet it meets the drinking water standards. This says something about the standards. There should be a standard on the amount of chlorine that is added to the water. People seem to forget that chlorine is a deadly poison. Do you feel it would be healty for you to consider drinking laundry bleach every day or drinking the water from a neighbor's swimming pool?

At one time it was considered that chemicals in parts per million were too small to have any harmful effects, but now it is known that parts per billion of toxic chemicals are considered dangerous. Also keep in mind that chlorine does more than disinfect the water. The chlorine reacts with natural organic compounds in water and produces new and dangerous chemicals, some of which are chemical carcinogens, such as chloroform.

Each year I have made tests with an EPA approved Laboratory on the chlorinated hydrocarbons of the Winchester's water supply. A few years ago the chloroform was about 10 PPB. Two years ago it went to 15 PPB. Last year it had risen to 32 PPB and about a month ago, the tests showed the chloroform had risen to 35 PPB. The tests have shown that other chemicals produced by the chlorine have also increased.

These chemical amounts again meets the standards but cancer researchers say that there is no such thing as a safe level of a chemical carcinogen. This is especially true in water because water is consumed by everyone every day. A government sponsored study by the EPA showed a 44 percent greater cancer rate of certain types in people that drink chlorinated water than those who drink water that is not chlorinated.

Installing a micro straining system will only strain out the shrimp and not the dangerous chemicals in our water works. Only a filtration system using carbon filtration will remove the chemical carcinogens in water along with the swampy flavor of the Reservoir water. This system will come about in time with Government help.

We must put first things first and start putting our distribution system in good working condition. Then we can concentrate on doing what is necessary at the Reservoir.

If we need a pilot program started to get government aid, we should start by putting the distribution system in good condition in a certain section of Town. Presenting a pilot plan that makes sense will make it much easier in acquiring this government aid.

Olympic Night

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Student Union of Winchester High School would like to thank everyone who made the Winchester Olympics a success. Without the hard work of many devoted people none of this would have been possible!

Special thanks to Mrs. Dolan, Miss Miller and members of the High School Band, Mrs. Lele and the Parent Faculty Association, the WHS cheerleaders and Tumblettes, officials and all of the participating teams. The Student Union is very grateful to all!

Thanks again,
Patricia Intravaia, Student Union President

Salary Increases

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Concerning the "Coup d'Etat" that happened recently on the Emergency Preamble to pass the increases in pay of many Executive State positions, immediately, in order to forestall a Referendum in the General Court on Beacon Hill. Scandalous! Thousands of dollars were voted in to these Public Servants fullfilling their obligations.

Is this a decrease in our Taxes? It is deceit! All of these elected Representatives in their various offices knew the salaries they were to get. It was plenty and plenty is enough. From the Governor down - not worthy - not honorable. They work hard in thier positions? So do we all work hard and struggle with inflation.

We voters have a word in this commonwealth. No increasee in pay for public service should be passed without a referendum of valid votes. Honesty does prevail in self-respect. We are troubled by this vicious plan. How do you feel about this turn-about of promises, promises to help or to scorn a Trust we put into our lawmakers?

Elections come and go but few, very few are worthy of consent. There is one Representative from Winchester whom we have been able to rely on and who was against this scheme. Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr.

Haunted House

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Once again the Jaycee's sponsored Haunted House is over. It has been an honor to work with such a fine group of people every October for the last three years.

The actual shows take plenty of time and energy, but what most people probably do not realize, is that hours of labor are contributed in preparing and closing the Haunted House. The Jaycees are not only enthusiastic and dedicated; they are a blast to work with. I am looking forward to next year. And the next year.

Kindergarten

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Last year a group of concerned parents worked together to try and achieve an all morning kindergarten program in Winchester. We failed, but were given hope that in the fall of 1980 all children would attend Kindergarten for three hours per morning for the full year and possibly an extended day for some might become a reality.

We request again that the Winchester school system provide kindergarten hours to meet the needs of today's children. They deserve a better program.

Gail Macneill

(Ediotr's note: Copies of this letter were sent to the Winchester School Committee and Supt. of Schools William Macdonald.)

Appreciation

Perhaps you sent a lovely card,
Or sat quietly in a chair,
Perhaps you sent a floral piece,
If so, we saw it there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words,
As any friend could say;
Perhaps you were not there at all,
Just thought of us that day.
Whatever you did to console our hearts,
We thank you so much whatever the part.

50 Years Ago

At least in the United States Post Office, according to an order recently issued, no more soap is to be furnished in the local federal building.

If the carriers and clerks desire cleanliness they can furnish it themselves. What nonsense! Still, some young clerk is probably making a name for himself and undoubtedly we shall soon be supplied with the number of billion dollars saved by this ruling against wasteful extravagance, and someone will be right there for the credit.

Of course, with this federal precedence, we might eleiminate soap from our own plant, but we imagine it would be only a matter of minutes before some heath health department or some other efficient board would appear and demand its reinstallation, for private business is ever under the watchful eye of energetic government officers.

What a shame it is that some foolish official planned our new federal building with those magnificient shower baths and wash bowls? We regret that we elaborated so upon them when we described the new building, for it must be a blow to everyone to learn that they are of the same classification as the maps on the walls - to look at only.

Winchester folks should remember the poor federal employees this Thanksgiving in the plans now formulating for the usual distribution of cheer. And if our Board of Health does get into a controversy with the federal authorities, let us back it to the limit.

3 Simonds Houses: All In The Family

By MARCIA B. WOOD

Winchester historian Henry E. Simonds still lives in the house his father bought at 9 Crescent rd. in 1911. This shingle style home with Colonial Revival features was built in 1910 by Eustace Brigham, who developed Crescent rd. and part of Mystic Valley parkway.

Roland E. Simonds, Henry's father, was born July 4, 1878 in Winchester, the son of William B. and Martha D. Simonds. He died June 7, 1966. He attended Winchester Public Schools and graduated from MIT in 1901. Roland was a professional Fire Protection Engineer for 43 years.

He served the town in many years.

Another old house connected with this family still stands at 420 Main st. It is an impressive example of mansard style with double brackets of ornate Italianate style and was used for a millinary shop by Cora Simonds, who was born 1866 in Winchester, the daughter of William and Mary R. Simonds. Cora married Benjamin T. Morgan in 1898. They lived in this house for over 75 years. This house was built in 1877 by William Simonds, Henry's great grandfather, who was born in 1828 and came to Winchester in 1850.

Henry's grandfather, William B., the son of William, was born 1853 in Winchester and married Martha D. Sanderson of Winchester in 1876. The Sanderson family is another old Winchester family who came here in 1831. William B. Simonds ran a milk business with Henry A. Emerson on Cambridge street and later a vegetable and produce business on Main street. William B. and Martha lived to celebrate their 60th 2edding anniversary together.

Henry was born December 8, 1904 on Vine street. After graduateion from high school, he worked in Boston for 45 years with distributors for sheet metal and sheet metal machinery until he retired in 1973. He married Edna M. Hartwell in 1931 who died in 1976.

He was a charter member of the Auxiliary Fire Department for 17 years, serving part of the time as Deput Chief under Auxiliary Chief T. Parker Clarke. He was a Town Meeting Member for 17 years and is also presently a town meeting member.

As a member of the Historical Commission, Henry has been active in working on the Survey of Historic Buildings in Winchester, and is writing historical articles and a column for the Winchester Star entitled "50 Years Ago."

capacities as a Selectman and on several committees among them the New Fire & Police Building Committee in 1913. From 1901 to 1906 he was a member of the Winchester Fire Department as an engineer of the old steamer "Mary Ann," and later Assistant Chief. He was also a life member of the Auxiliary Fire Department.

Henry's mother, the former Annie E. Stinson, was born Nov. 10, 1876 in Winchester, the daughter of Thomas H. and Nellie W. Stinson. Her sister, Mabel, was Assistant Town Clerk under George Carter and when he died in 1920 she was elected Town Clerk serving until 1954. She was the first woman Town Clerk in Massachusetts. Her sister, Helen, and brother, William also served as town officers. Their family home at 16 Myrtle st., a fine representative of the Italianate style built in 1865, is still standing and has been in the family for over a hundred

Supplemental Budget - Senate approved 35-2, a $21.2 million supplemental budget for fiscal 1980. Items include $560,000 for National Guard pay during the Papal visit; $7 million for fuel oil; and some $12 million to fund collective bargaining agreements already negotiated.

Supporters argued the $21.2 million package is reasonable and said the money would come from money unspent by agencies.

Opponents argued Senators have not even seen an actual copy of the budget in print and should have time to study it before approving it. They questioned where the money to fund the budget would actually come from, and urged the Senate not to rush into approving the package.

Rotondi voted for it.

Roll Calls -- Pay Hike - Senate approved 21-15, but failed to gain the necessary two-thirds margin to suspend rules to allow immediate consideration of a motion to amend Senate rules. The amendment would require that a roll call be held on any bill affecting the salaries of legislators.

Supporters argued this would insure that a roll call would be held on any future pay raise bill. They criticized recent Senate action approving a pay hike without a roll call vote.

Opponents argued this was not the time to rush through any Senate rule changes and said the amendment may have merit but it should be studied by the Rules Committee and then reported to the full Senate for a vote.

Rotondi voted against it.

Health Commissioner Pay Hike - Senate approved 26-7, a bill hiking the salary of the Commissioner of Public Health from $37,475 to $48,394, a raise of almost $11,000.

Supporters argued the commissioner is usually a doctor who is giving up a lucrative practice, and said if a qualified one is to be attracted to the job, the salary has to be hiked. They noted 47 other states pay more for the position than Massachusetts does.

Opponents called the hike outrageous and said the public has had its fill of pay raises in the past few days. They noted many workers do not even make an annual salary of $11,000 - the amount of the hike alone.

Rotondi voted for it.

$3 Million Insulation - Senate rejected 20-13, an amendment for the supplemental budget. The amendment provides $3 million for low interest loans for certain middle income families.

Supporters said the loans would provide middle income families with low interest loans for installation of insulation. They noted the funds were dropped out of the energy reorg package because of legal problems, and they urged support to insert the funds in the supplemental budget.

Opponents argued while the program may be worthy, it was late and unfair to begin adding many programs and expenses to the supplemental budget this late in the session. Some argued this would open the door to dozens of amendments which would cost the taxpayers money.

Rotondi voted against it.

Fundraiser Brings $2500 To St. Mary's

A recent fundraiser by the students of St. Mary's School has brought the private grammer school approximately $2500 for school improvements.

The fundraiser, a cookie sale which lasted most of October and ended around Nov. 5, was conducted by the students who sold boxes of cookies door-to-door. It was the first fundraiser of this type the school has conducted in two years. At that time, the students sold candy.

Several Homes Robbed According To Police

A number of homes were illegally entered in Winchester this past week, as intruders ransacked houses and made off with a number of personal goods, according to Winchester Police records.

Two homes were broken into late Tuesday night of last week. On New Meadows road, intruders ransacked the master bedroom. Reported missing at this time is a Star Ruby ring surrounded by diamonds and a black pearl ring with two diamonds. On Salisbury street, a home was entered and searched but nothing was taken.

Three more homes were illegally entered on Wednesday, according to police reports. Two gold bracelets, a gold chain, a gold charm bracelett, eight gold charms, a Polaroid camera and $90 in cash were taken from a Calumet road home.

A Cambridge street building was broken into also on Wednesday, but the goods at first believed stolen, were found behind the building. Finally on Wednesday, $6 was reported stolen from the coffee machine at University Press on East street.

On Thursday, police report that a gold watch and stereo were taken from a Berkshire drive home, while on Curtis street, a color television, a .380 Barreta automatic pistol and an undetermined amount of jewelry were taken from one neighbor's home.

Also on Thursday, a Forest streeet home was broken into, with intruders ransacking all rooms in the upstairs as well as the dining room. According to the police report, missing at this time are two diamoned rings, an opel ring, two gold braceletts, four gold neckleces, a gold chain, a watch, a gold man's ring with diamonds and a man watch.

Larceny was reported at the high school parking lot as a 1978 Pontiac Sunbird was broken into. According to the police, a Craig tape deck and four speakers, valued at about $380 were stolen, as well as a tape box with about 25 tapes, valued at $175,.

On Pilgrim drive last week, a deep freezer in the owner's garage was ransacked, with the intruder making off with 11 large steaks, six packages of chicken breasts, two pounds of bacon and three pounds of sausage meat. Approximate value of the food set at $150.

School Committee Considers Kindergarten Program

Based on an earlier proposal that the Winchester Public Schools consider the merits of an extended program for kindergarten students, the School Committee heard a report of similar programs established in two other school systems.

Assistant Superintendent Walter Gleason and Ambrose School teacher Linda Atwood reported to the Committee their findings after examining extended programs in the Wellesley and Brookline public schools.

Gleason said that in Wellesley each school has a different procedure for caring for the students in the afternoons. The program is voluntary, and several students attend only one afternoon weekly — increasing this to several afternoons weekly by April. In Wellesley students are grouped together homogeneously or by abilities or difficulties.

Atwood reported that in Brookline there are two kinds of kindergarten programs: an expanded program done in the classroom and a parents staffed program, similar to a day care situation.

In these programs students stay either through 2 p.m. or 5:30 p.m. The program is tuition based, and Atwood noted that several parents of participating youngsters are either working or studying.

The program which functions until 2 p.m. is called "enrichment experiences" and offers a variety of non academic activities such as art or recreation. The staff is hired by parents and answerable to them. The relationship between the staff and school is a partnership in which the staff uses the facilities but is separate from the school staff.

Gleason reported that in polling Winchester school personnel several kindergarten and first grade teachers were negative towards the idea, however, several elementary principals reacted favorably.

Gleason outlined several advantages and disadvantages the program poses however. Students entering grade one seemed better prepared to handle a full day and an aid to working mothers were two advantages cited while selection of participating schools and later benefits of the program were two disadvantages, he said. Gleason suggested that a one-year study be made to determine the advantages of the program to the Winchester schools.

MacDonald, who said he was not interested in jumping into the program next September and would request additional input, wondered what future disadvantage, if any, there was to those students not participating.

Gleason noted that one Wellesley first grade teacher said there is a wide grouping of students in the first grade and that this program didn't seem to make much difference in the range of groupings.

...With the signature of Gov. George N. Briggs, Winchester was incorporated into a separate community from its original status as South Woburn.

Theatre Group Seeks Children In Grades 3-6

Co-operative Theatre for Children, a newly formed non-profit organization, is looking for children in grades three through six to participate in their adaptation of E.B. White's "Charlotte's Web."

Try-outs for the production will be held Dec. 4 and Dec. 6 at the First Congregational Church. The play is scheduled for Feb. 29 and March 1.

The Co-operative Theatre seeks to provide children with an opportunity to receive musical and dramatic direction, and learn about costume, set design, makeup and properties. Some children will be selected for speaking parts while others will help with the play's production.

The play will be directed by Cathy Alexander. Musical direction will be provided by Carole Davidson. Pamela Meserve and Alice Gross will handle production. Doreen Deluca will assist in set design.

To help defray production costs, a tuition will be charged. For further information contact Pamela Meserve, 11 Cabot st., or Carole Davidson, 14 Thornberry rd.

...On March 20, 1853 the Town of Winchester experienced its first serious fire when, on that Sunday morning, the 12-year-old Congregational Church burned to the ground.

Think of us as your Guest House.
If you want to invite the entire family to an important graduation, wedding or anniversary, but only have room at home for a few . . . think of us as your guest house. We can put all your guests in the same area of our Motor Inn. Even put Aunt Harriet and Cousin Elizabeth in adjoining rooms, if that's what they'd like. Just let us know how you'd arrange things at your house, and we'll follow through with the same arrangements at our house. We offer special service to gatherings, with little amenities like maps, guides to sight seeing, and the like. No matter how many people you need to make your special occasion complete, they will be comfortably cared for at the Sheraton-Lexington.
The Sheraton-Lexington retains a deep country atmosphere and is staffed with people who have old-fashioned ideas about service, and we're conveniently located just off Route 128. So the next time you expect company, call our guest service coordinator for reservations at 862-8700.

Mary Macklin, Paul Ferguson Were Married In Ballardvale

Mary R. Macklin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Macklin of Andover, and Paul W. Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred L. Ferguson of Winchester, were married July 28 at St. Joseph's Church in Ballardvale.

Rev. Richard O'Leary officiated at the 11 a.m. double ring ceremony. A reception followed at the Andover Country Club.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, received a bachelor's degree in education from Framingham State and a master's degree in education from Salem State College.

The bridegroom received a bachelor's degree in history from Salem State College.

Susan Thomson of Andover, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kathleen Flanigan, Patricia Archambault, Janis Gerety and Louise Collins.

James Ferguson of Winchester, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Ushers were Richard Downes, Kevin Gannon, Daniel McGee and Robert Quinn.

Beth Foley of Plum Island, was in charge of the guest book.

The couple is living in Stoneham after a trip to Quebec City and Montreal.

Christine Blakely Weds Former Resident At Medford Church

Canterbury road resident Christine Blakely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Randall Blakely, was married Oct. 13 to Kenneth C. Albertelli, son of former Winchester residents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carl Albertelli.

Rev. Louis Beckwith officiated at the double ring candlelight ceremony at the First Baptist Church in Medford.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white sheer ganza fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline, full Bishop sleeves and an empire waist enhanced with appliques of silk Venice lace. The chapel length skirt had scrolls of Venice lace.

The headpiece was a matching cap attached to a fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Yvonne Cabour was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Jodi Cameron, Sharon Curtin, Gail Dexter, Carol DeCillis, Susan Bradley and Barbara Post. The maid of honor and bridesmaids were dressed alike in gowns of sea mist green quiana with an overskirt of chiffon. They carried old fashioned bouquets of bronze yellow and white chrysanthemums with matching flowers in their hair.

John Albertelli, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Ushers were Ronald Albertelli, Joseph Albertelli, 2nd Lt. David Blakely, John Squeglia, Eugene Cancillere and Richard Downes.

Alison Sughrue was in charge of the guest book. A reception followed the ceremony at Hillcrest Nims in Waltham.

The bride is employed as a dental hygienist for a Winchester dentist. She is a graduate of Winchester High, and Westbrook College in Maine with a degree in dental hygiene.

The bridegroom is employed as a police officer in the Town of Winchester. He is a graduate of Winchester High School, Bridgeton Academy and Boston College.

The couple is living in Woburn after a trip to the Virgin Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Albertelli

Vinson-Owen Families Start Steven Greer Trust Fund

Alumni and families of the Vinson-Owen School have established a trust fund in memory of one of it's graduates, Steven Greer, who was killed recently in an accident in New Hampshire while preparing the slopes of his family's ski lodge for the coming season.

Greer, called a "wonderful young man" by Clare M. Corcoran, principal of Vinson-Owen, was also a graduate of The School of the Museum of Fine Arts, where the trust fund has been established.

"This is surely a worthwhile use of funds to help develop the talents of some young and artistically gifted students," Corcoran wrote in a letter that has been sent to the Vinson-Owen parents. "No more suitable living memorial could be made to help us remember a fine young man who left us all too early."

Anyone wishing to contribute to this fund should make out their check to School of the Museum of Fine Arts, with a memo attached for the Steven Greer Memorial Fund. All checks should be sent to the Development Office, Museum of Fine Arts, 465 Huntington ave., Boston, 02115

...Our subscription mailing list has been computerized. Changes for moving and vacations will take several weeks to make, so please call as early as possible if you are having any problem with your regular delivery since we computerized. Please call our Circulation Dept. at 643-7900.

Music Club Holds Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fieleke hosted the first meeting of the Winchester Music Club Nov. 4. Karen Myers was mistress of ceremonies. Junior high and high school students presented a varied quality musical program.

Alsion Hagge opened the program with a piano solo, Blue Mood, by Gillock. Jill Matrundola played Miniature by Bartok. Charles Wechsler followed with a prelude by Gillock. Flutist Anne Pharo played a sonata by Bach. Two contemporary piano solos followed, Andrew Holt with Terrible Tale, by Gretchaninov and Matthew Leyden with In the Forest by Rebikov.

Andrea Kenerson played a sonatina by Clementi with Eric Fieleke adding the second piano part. Leslie Lien played two selections. Burial of A Doll by Tschaikovsky and Ivan Sings by Khatchaturian. Karen Myers followed with a sonatina by Beethoven. Elizabeth W3chsler and Leslie Lien played a two piano selection, Lyrical Waltz by Shostokovich.

Koyomi Yatsuhachi played To A Wild Rose by McDowell. Michelle Stolow played a waltz by Schubert. Cellist Poppea Dorsam followed playing a sonata by Romberg, accompanied by Anne Francoise-Perrault. Pianist Eric Fieleke played Nocturne in B Major by Chopin and Rachael Tringale concluded the program with Gardens in the Rain by Debussy.

John Wills Jr. planned the program. Assisting teachers were Carol Fieleke, Kitty Laber, Anne Franciose-Perrault and Alice Wilkinson.

The next Music Club meeting will be Dec. 9 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ain Laats. Program planner is Susan Cowen. Music students and their teachers are invited.

Cancer Society Holds Great American Smokeout

It has been more than ten years since the Surgeon General's first warning about cigarettes and health, and nearly a year since former HEW Secretary Califano announced the second Surgeon General report. Massachusetts shouldn't need additional reminders that cigarettes are dangerous. Still, many millions of us smoke. Some population groups, including teenage girls and young women, are smoking more every year.

The American Cancer Society has told us in endless variation why we should quit. While estimates vary, it's a conservative guess that more than half of Massachusetts' smokers would like to quit. What seems to defeat most smokers is the thought of an endless future without cigarettes. The very idea is so threatening to many a smoker that he or she has to light up a cigarette to relax.

The GREAT AMERICAN SMOKEOUT is the Cancer Society's pragmatic approach to this dilemma. Smokers are being urged to sign a pledge not to smoke on just one day, today. If the next morning begins with a cigarette as usual, the smoker will still know that the habit is his to control. And he'll be one day healthier. Some will get through the day and stick with it. Some won't. The Cancer Society has set realistic objectives for this promotion. They're hoping to get pledges from one out of five smokers in the state.

The signed pledge card is important, the Society tells us, because it serves as an important psychological commitment. It also helps them, of course, gauge the impact of their efforts.

When nearly 100,000 Americans die annually of lung cancer, 2,600 in Massachusetts alone, a victory on any scale is worth it. The Cancer Society stands ready to offer support in the battle of will power with literature, quit-smoking clinics, and a toll-free Smokers' Quitline at 1-800-952-7444.

Local Emmanuel College Alumnae Offer Workshop

During the 60th anniversary year of Emmanuel College, the college will be focusing attention on Emmanuel alumnae and their roles, interests and impact on the community.

There are over 80 Emmanuel alumnae living in Winchester. Mrs. Betsy Newman, program director, Counsleing and Career Services, will offer a free alumnae workship entitled "Women and the Balancing Act" on Tuesday, Nov. 27, and Dec. 4, from 1-3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. John Doherty (Connie McHugh), 49 Oxford st. This workshop will examine ways in which contemporary educated women juggle roles and responsibilities while maintaining the quality of family life.

Topics will include: the balanced life style, keeping all the balls in the air at once, prioritizing time, volunteer and-or paid work, making time for friends and relationships, marriage and family enrichment, and some supports and resources. The workshop, which is open to all alumnae should register by today by calling the college

Turkey Festival At St. Mary's Monday, 8 p.m.

On Monday at 8 p.m. St. Mary's Parents Association will hold their annual Turkey Festival in the school hall.

In addition to the 10 turkeys to be awarded, there are also prizes of cider, candy, vegetable baskets and wine. There will be many opportunities to win any one of these prizes. Proceeds from this event will benefit the St. Mary's Educational Fund.

Woman's Club, Juniors, Holds Monthly Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Winchester Woman's Club, Juniors was held Nov. 5 at the home of Ginny DelVecchio.

Roger Graf and John Sulahian of the Winchester Stained Glass Studio, Church street, spoke about the history of stained glass and the techniques used in working with the antique and cathedral glass. Samples of their craft were on display, and are on sale for Christmas shoppers at the Church street studio.

President Diane Maher won two blue ribbons for a handmade quilt which was donated and auctioned at the fall conference, Massachusetts State Federated Womens Clubs, Junior Division held in Auburn. The Mid-winter Conference will be held Jan. 18 in Harwich.

Members will be involved in a CPR course on Monday nights in January under the supervision of the Winchester Chapter of the Red Cross. A tea for prospective members will be held in February. Any women interested in the educational, social and service programs of the Winchester Woman's Club, Juniors, should contact Mrs. Claude Lopez, Membership Chairman.

Mini Fair Planned For December 15

The Winchester Seniors' Association are planning a Christmas Mini Fair for Dec. 15 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Jenks Senior Center on Skillings path.

The Fair provides an adventure in Christmas shopping with selections to be made from items left from the recent Fiesta Fiar. There will be tables for men's and women's boutiques, a Christmas table, Claxton fruit cakes, jewelry, knit goods; a silent auction, a white elephants' table, and an opportunity to buy tickets for a new set of dishes, a crewel pillow, and an afghan.

Rena and Randy Kazazian will operate the snack bar all day.

The Winchester Star's news copy deadline is 3 p.m. Mondays for the following Thursday's edition.

High School Blood Drive On Tuesday

"Don't Be A Turkey" is the theme of the Winchester High School Blood Drive whi h will be held in the school auditorium from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Tuesday.

"The best way to start as a regular blood donor is in a familiar setting which for people our age is the high school. Its also a chance for us to show directly how we care about the needs of others, said John Haber, co-chairman of the blood drive.

While the drive is primarily for students, members of the Winchester Education Association will also be participating, said Student Advisor Milburn Dixon. Other donors are welcome between 2 and 4 p.m.

Students are signing up through English classes and in front of the cafeteria at lunch time. "Sign-ups are going good," co-chairman Alison Lowell reported. "As of Nov. 9 we had 81 students scheduled. Our goal is 100 students by the 16th. I want to remind those between 17 and 18 years of age that their parents must sign the official permission form and it must be returned by Monday."

As part of the recruitment drive, sixth period gym classes saw two educational films on blood component therapy on Nov. 9, presented by Carol Cohen of the Red Cross Blood Services.

Obituaries

Audrey Litchfield

Former longtime Winchester resident Audrey A. (Goddu) Litchfield, died last Saturday in Boston.

She was living in Boston at the time of her death. She had been a Winchester resident for over 50 years and was a member of the Enka Society and Winton Club.

Mrs. Litchfield is survived by her husband, Alvin M.; one son, Alvin G. Litchfield of Acton; one daughter, Andrea Moskovitz of California; and one sister, Hazel Crane of Boston.

Funeral services were held Tuesday in the Meyer Chapel of the Unitarian Church. Burial was at Wildwood Cemetery. Arrangments were made by the Norris Funeral Home.

Memorial donations may be made to the charity of one's choice.

Ruth Boule

Former resident Ruth A. Boule, 83, died Nov. 4 at Choate Hospital.

At the time of her death Mrs. Boule was living in Woburn. She was born in Proctor, Vermont, and lived in Winchester for 29 years.

Mrs. Boule was a member of the Winchester Senior Citizens, Winchester Grange, and the Woburn Senior Citizens.

She was the wife of the late Eugene P. Boule. Mrs. Boule is survived by two sisters, Maude A. Maxim of Woburn and Harriet Perritt of Norwich, Conn.

Funeral services will be held Saturday, 2 p.m., at Kingdom Hall, 136 Winn St., Burlington. Arrangements were made by the Norris Funeral Home.

Ellsworth Hansen

Ellsworth John Hansen, a retired Lieut. Col. in the US Army, died unexpectedly Nov. 9 at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. He was 66.

Born in Ludington, Michigan, Mr. Hansen was living in North Reading at the time of his death. He lived in Winchester for 10 years.

Mr. Hansen attended schools in Ludington, and attended Cornell University.

He retired in 1960 after spending 20 years in the US Army during World War II and the Korean Conflict. During World War II he served in the European Theatre. He was in the Battle of the Bulge in 1944, was a member of the 82nd Air-Borne Division, and was awarded six battle stars.

Mr. Hansen was a member of the Retired Offciers Association in washington, D.C. and a member of the American Association of Retired Persons.

He is survived by his wife, Pauline D. (Donahue) of North Reading, a former Winchester resident; two children, Jacqueline T. and Carol M. Hansen of North Reading; four brothers, Marshall, Waldo and Dale Hanson of Grand Rapids, Michigan and Leonard Rath of Ludington, Michigan; and one sister, Dolores Courtney.

Military graveside services were held at Calvary Cemetery in Woburn on Tuesday. Rev. Frank Conroy of St. Theresa's Church in North Reading officiated. Burial was at Calvary Cemetery. Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Home.

Memorial donations may be made to the American Heart Association, 112 Cypress sr., Brookline, 02146.

William Johansen

Thornberry road resident Dr. E. William Johansen, 74, died Sunday at at his home after a long illness.

Born in Somerville, Mr. Johansen lived in Winchester for 26 years. He graduated from Somerville High School in 1923 and Ohio State University in 1927.

Prior to his retirement in 1969, Mr. Johansen was a veterinarian in Winchester and Somerville for 53 years.

He was a member of the American Veterinarians Medical Association, the Mass. Veterinarians Association, a member of the Somerville Kiwanis Club and the Winchester Country Club.

During World War II Mr. Johansen was a Captain in the U.S. Army Food Inspection Division.

He is survived by his wife, Phyllis H. (White) Johansen of Winchester; his children, Dr. William E. Johansen Johansen of Winchester, a veterinarian in Somerville, Holly F. Johansen and Elinor Josephson of Winchester; and eight grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Lane Funeral Home yesterday. Rev. Lyle Jacobson of the Grace Chapel in Lexington officiated. Burial was at Wildwood Cemetery. Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Home.

Memorial donations may be made to the American Heart Association, 112 Cypress st., Brookline, 02146.

..With the signature of Gov. George N. Briggs, Winchester was incorporated into a separate community from its original status as South Woburn.

Marion Whitten

Marion F. Whitten, a former school teacher, died Monday.

Born in West Newton in 1891, she spent several of her early years in Wells, Maine. She graduated from Framingham College, and was president of her class during her college years until her death.

As a young teacher in the Newton schools she took on the task of teaching children with learning problems and developed a program of special visual and tactile methods widely recognized in educational training. She was a summer camp counselor where she taught crafts and encouraged the idea that women should be actively involved in sports.

For several years she was a member of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children in Massachusetts, a leader in the Girl Scouts and member of the First Congregational Church.

She is a former Foxboro resident and spent her summers at Juniper Point in West Boothbay Harbor, Maine.

Mrs. Whitten was the wife of the late Robinson S. Whitten. She is survived by two daughters, Harriet McGillivray of Weston and Nancy Hemenway Barton of Washington, D.C.; three sons, George D. Whitten and Charles R. Whitten, both of Winchester, and Bradford Whitten of Gloucester; and several grandchildren.

Funeral services were held yesterday at the First Congregational Church. Arrangements were made by the Norris Funeral Home.

Memorial donations may be made to an individual's community or to the Memorial Fund of the First Congregational Church.

KEEP YOUR WIFE FOR A PET — BUY HER AN AUTOMATIC HOUSEKEEPER FOR CHRISTMAS

If you're like many of the husbands reading this article, you are about to go through the annual agony of deciding what to give your wife for Christmas.

The usual way of course, is to list all the things you think she would like, drop them into a hat, and pull one out. Well, this year, why don't you reverse the procedure by listing some things she doesn't like, and help her do something about them?

If wall-washing, constant dusting, cloudy mirrors and windows, smudged furniture, grimy drapes, tobacco smoke, and black rings around registers are among her list of dislikes, why not play Santa? And you can be a year-round Santa Claus by giving her a HONEYWELL Electric Air Cleaner for Christmas.

The HONEYWELL is installed on the return air duct of your heating or cooling system, and it cleans the air in the entire house in the same way a magnet removes the tiny staining particles from the air that contribute to your wife's work load, and actually reduces her housekeeping chores.

The walls, drapes and furniture in an electronically-cleaned home stay clean and bright, and the air is nearly pollen and dust free. The HONEYWELL cleaner effectively removes over 99 percent of the pollen, dust and smoke in the airstream. It's something to consider when you find that many physicians prescribe an electronic air cleaner for sufferers of asthma and air-borne allergies.

One last tip - have your HONEYWELL Electronic Air Cleaner installed before Christmas. Then you can delight your holiday guests by having a guessing game. See who can come the closest to guessing the short time it takes your "Automatic Housekeeper" to remove the smoky haze from a room.

For a free survey or any questions call FEDERAL HEATING day or night at 623-1515 or 729-6866.

Protecting Your Home
by Richard L. Sampson

Will The Burglars Come Back?

Unfortunately, the odds favor a repeat visit . . . unless you take decisive action now to prevent it! Insurance records prove that once you've had a burglary, the chances of suffering a second invasion are 80% higher. The criminal elements have already made one "successful" visit and learned (1) how to enter your home, (2) what items you have in your home, and (3) that there is nothing to stop them from coming back.

How can this sinister cycle of loss and sorrow be broken? Here is how Mrs. N., a widow living in Belmont, put an end to intrusions into her home:

> After Mrs. N. suffered a series of intrusions and replaced her silver for the 3rd time in 18 months, a friend suggested calling American Alarm & Communications for an alarm system consisting of both perimeter and interior motion detection devices. With the security equipment in place, the burglaries ceased.

Mrs. N. is now enjoying her 4th consecutive loss-free year; she is being given a 10% discount on her annual burglar/fire insurance premium, and she has a new-found sense of tranquility - all as the result of the effectiveness of her alarm system.

Once again, it was proven that:

"When you care enough to prepare.... the burglars go elsewhere!"

GREAT OPPORTUNITY

It has been stated that real estate will be one of the great glamour industries during the remainder of the twentieth century. But so will the computer industry. The difference is that the small investor can share in the great profits to be made in real estate. To be personally convinced, consider these vital factors.

Other investments (such as stocks) show broad price fluctuations, but real estate prices have gone steadily upward.

Other investments require large amounts of ready cash, but leverage and pyramiding enable the real estate investor to keep more of what you earn through depreciation allowances, capital gains, tax rates, refinancing, tax sheltering, etc.

And, finally, real estate has real value in that it increases faster in times of inflation and descends slower in times of recession. Thus it protects its owner against both inflation and recession.

In all your real estate needs — buying —selling — rentals — appraisals — consultation — please phone or drop in at

First Congregational Celebrates 25th Ordination Of Rev. Davis

On Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship service, the First Congregational Church celebrate the 25th anniversary of the ordination of its minister, the Rev. Walter B. Davis.

Sponsored by the deacons, Richmond Gardner, chairman, participants in the service will include Rev. Davis, members of the church's ministerial team; and past head deacons and chairpersons of the parish visitors back to 1971 when Rev. Davis was installed as minister of the church.

Greetings from the Metropolitan Boston Association of the United Church of Christ will be brought by Rev. Charles Harper, conference minister, and Rev. Joseph Neville, former Minister of Youth at First Church, will represent the Massachusetts Conference of the United Church of Christ. The processional hymn and the scripture readings will be those used at the original ordination service Nov. 21, 1954 in the Westmoreland Congregational Church in Washington D.C., Rev. Davis' home church. The service will also include the sacrament of communion.

Rev. Davis has been concerned throughout his ministry to relate religious faith to community and world issues. During the stormy late '60s, while pastor of a church in Santa Barbara, Calif., among other things, he was chairman of the Community Relations Commission

Since coming to Winchester he has participated actively in the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center's program as a member of the Area Board. He is a past president of the Winchester Ecumenical Association. He became the organizing chairman of the Winchester Interagency Council. He has had an active role in promoting adolescent residences and housing for the elderly.

Also, as churchman, he has been active in United Church of Christ affairs at the local, conference, and general synod levels. Most recently he has been selected to serve as a member of the United Church Board for World Ministries.

..In 1914, four years after the Boy Scouts of America was started, a troop was organized in Winchester by Robert W. Fernald who then became the troop's scoutmaster. On different occasions four of that troop's members later each rescued a drowning person. Girl Scouts in Winchester began on May 18, 1917 at the home of Mrs. Addison R. Pike.

Children Attend Local Cooperative Nursery School

The month of October was a busy time for children attending the Winchester Cooperative Nursery School, Inc.

In addition to regular school day activities the children took a field trip to Drumlin Farm in Lincoln and invited their grown up friends into the classroom for "Special Friend" night. A trip to the Aquarium in Boston is planned in November as part of the current special environment unit entitled "The Undersea World."

The Winchester Cooperative Nursery School, Inc., formerly the Unitarian Cooperative Nursery School, is a non-profit, non-sectarian school in which parents are encouraged to take an active part in their children's pre-school education by assisting the teacher in the classroom and by setting school policy.

Jean Mortensen is both the director of the school and the teacher of the two morning classes. Anna Olivier is the teacher of the afternoon class. Kathy Owens is the president of the Board of Directors for the 1979-1980 school year.

Mystic Valley Mental Health Seeks Workers

Mystic Valley Comprehensive Community Mental Health Center which serves Arlington, Burlington, Lexington, Wilmington, Winchester and Woburn by providing psychiatric outpatient, day treatment, crisis intervention and mental retardation services to children, adults and families, needs volunteers.

New opportunities for service are available for those interested in the field of mental health and vocational rehabilitation. In the past, volunteers have been involved in serving as case aides for individual clients, recorders for therapy groups, working with retarded adults and children in activity centers and in the therapeutic nursery school.

Volunteers also have planned social programs for the elderly and the chronically ill, worked in the clinic library, assisted group leaders in the day hospital program, tutored and planned social programs in the adolescent residences, have done clerical work and served on the campership fund-raising and placement committee.

Many have volunteered at Mystic Valley to test their interest in working with clients to see if they wish to pursue the work as a vocation and return to college for professional preparation. If anyone is looking for a challenge and is interested in cooking, arts and crafts, music and social activities, there is an opportunity with Mystic Valley. For further information, please contact Cecile Wilson, MSW, Volunteer Coordiantor at 641-0970.

Red Cross Offers Medical History Course

R.N.'s and L.P.N.'s can receive 1.8 C.E.U.'s (Continuing Education Units) by taking the free Red Cross Medical History course. No charge for the course.

The course is in two parts. Part one is a three-hour orientation that covers blood donor suitability assessment, hemoglobin level assessment and the Red Cross Blood Service goals and objectives in general. This course will be held in the evening; a date is yet to be arranged.

Part two consists of clinical practice at bloodmobiles. The nurse must work 18 hours or six bloodmobiles. Total time required to complete course is 21 hours. This can be spread over six to eight months.

This course, and other Red Cross courses, are recognized for C.E.U.'s by the Massachusetts Nurses Association. While not yet required for certification, courses taken now will carry over.

Those interested in enrolling in the course should contact Mary Beaton at the Red Cross.

Pepper Hill Residents Upset With Runoff Problems

Neighbors of the Pepperhill Drive area, already upset with the town concerning the proposed development for that area, now are upset with the runoff problems which may be created by the new development.

About 40 residents of the Pepperhill section of town, located near the Arlington-Lexington town lines, appeared at the Conservation Commission's Wetlands Protection Act hearing last week to determine whether the developer of that area is altering or might alter, an area proclaimed wetlands by the Conservation Commission.

The area in question during most of the hearing, is a section located between James street and Edwards drive, which the neighbors claim is a bowl that collects a good deal of drainage during rain or flooding. The neighbors contend that the developer, the E.S. Johnson Construction Co., intends to fill in the bowl, with one resident stating at the hearing that some filling has already taken place.

"That bowl area is essential to our neighborhood as a watershed," said one neighbor during the hearing. "If that gets filled in where are we?"

Apparently there is an old drain pipe running from Dunster lane to the bowl,bringing a large amount of water to the area. According to Town Engineer John Ciarcia, around 1948, a man hole was placed on Dunster lane, and another pipe was put in, extending down Dunster lane. The drain pipe which leads to the bowl area should have been sealed off. Ciarcia was uncertain as to whether it had been or not, and planned to investigate the situation.

The neighbors feel that as rain or flood waters run down Dunster lane, much of it goes into that drain and into the bowl, thus causing the fill. Ciarcia said this is probably true if the pipe was never sealed. But he also suggested that the water in the bowl could be groundwater or water from a drain in the driveway of the home at the pipe's origin on Dunster lane. "It's difficult to say until I've taken a look," says Ciarcia.

"What we're saying is that we need the bowl area," another neighbor pointed out at the hearing last week.

Mr. Fitzgerald, a representative from Camp-Dresser and McKee, Inc., an engineering firm hired by the developer to do a water study on the Pepperhill area, told the neighbors that the developer "couldn't possibly fill it (the bowl) in in such a way that there wouldn't be enough grade for the water to drain. There's too much of an incline." Fitzgerald presented a report to the Conservation Commission which basically stated that the added drainage would be minimal at the new development. He pointed out that presently there is a lack of built in drainage in the area, with pipe sizes being too small to handle the maximum flow. Clint Davis, a consulting engineer hired by the neighbors, questioned the validity of the report, since no field study was done for it. The Camp-Dresser and McKee report was based on plans constructed by Barnes Engineering. Davis pointed out that there are conflicting maps for that area.

Theatre Group Works With Thirty Children

Winchester Community Theater, Inc. Children's Theater is working with some 30 children, including several boys, in this fall's theatre workshop.

In addition to the drama training, which is the main thrust of the workshop, there has been a concentration on the art of body movement and voice projection.

The program, which is expected to be performed sometime in December, will include a Tiger Ballet, performed by children four to 11 years; the dramatization of an African family; a Fairy Tale of Dance; Magic and Greed; and a demonstration of improvization with the whole company of suggested themes.

The Star welcomes letters to the editor of interest to the citizens of Winchester, written by Winchester residents or former Winchester residents. Letters should be typed, doublespaced, and no longer than 250 words. They must also be signed and accompanied by the author's printed name, address and phone number in order that we may verify letters. Names and addresses will be witheld on request.

..In 780 Winchester had to provide 24,078 pounds of beef under the levied "beef taxes" for the revolutionary army. The town, like all Massachusetts communities, was also required to provide as many shirts, shoes and stockings as would cover one-seventh of the town's male population. In Winchester this meant 21 blankets and 42 each of shirts, stockings and shoes.

COLMAN'S presents the 1980 ROSSIGNOL SKI SHOW and NORDICA SKI SCHOOL GIANT SHOW

The world's number one ski and boot companies are pleased to announce that its ROSSIGNOL/NORDICA FREESTYLE TEAM can be seen in high ski flying form at COLMAN'S SPORTING GOODS located in Danvers*& Woburn.

An exciting team of performers will display an informative and entertaining thirty-minute choreographed ski show, demonstrating freestyle aerial acrobatics (double and twisting flips) and ballet skiing.

The performers and their skills have been featured many times on ABC Wide World of Sports and CBS Sports Spectacular. Today's sophistication in aerial acrobatics and ballet skiing provide the most unique and highly skilled form of skiing ever seen. With our gigantic aerial ramp and revolving ski deck, we bring to you our Ski Show!!

After the Show, the Team invites the public to free lessons on the revolving ski deck. All the equipment is provided from the NORDICA boots, ROSSIGNOL skis, to the KERMA poles.

For any of you wishing to catch the ski fever, NOW is the chance to not only view the Ski Show, but also to participate in a free ski lesson on our endless ski slope.

So come on down and enjoy the most exciting NORDICA SKI SCHOOL/ROSSIGNOL SKI SHOW Ever!

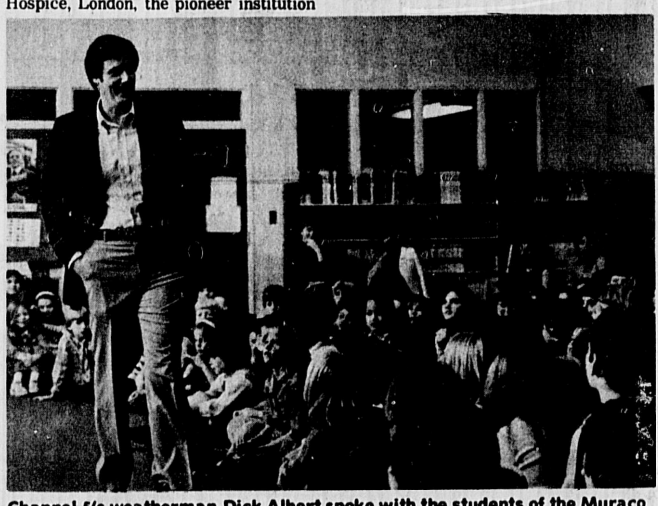
Arlington Minister To Speak At Local Church Luncheon

Rev. Kenneth B. Wentzell, a member of the Board of Directors of Hospice Care a Inc., and minister of the Pleasant Street Congregational Church in Arlington, will speak at the Epiphany Parish luncheon and open meeting Nov. 27.

Rev. Wentzell spent three months as the Visiting Chaplain at St. Christopher's Hospice, London, the pioneer institution in the western world for caring for the terminally ill. He is a leader of workshops designed to enable people to care more effectively for the neglected, the dying and the bereaved.

Reservations for the 12:45 p.m. luncheon may be made by contacting Mrs. Austin Broadhurst by Nov. 23. Rev. Wentzel will speak at 1:30 p.m.



Channel 5's weatherman Dick Albert spoke with the students of the Muraco School last week, telling the students of his career and not just the weather. (Staff Photo)

For Senior Citizens

A flu shot clinic will be held at the Jenks Senior Center Nov. 27 from 10 a.m. to noon. The free clinic is available to those who are considered to be high risk possibilities: those 65 years or older, persons of any age with chronic medical disorders such as kidney, heart or respiratory ailments, and nursing home residents under 65.

Persons who should check with a physician before taking the vaccine include: those with allergies to eggs, those who have received another type of vaccine in the last 14 days, those receiving anti-cancer medication, those who have a fever or are ill with something more serious than a cold, and pregnant women.

The investment series of classes, led by Larry Hutchings, will continue to meet through this month Wednesdays at 1 p.m. at the Center.

--

"Do you have a Doctor," a recently published directory assisting seniors in selecting a doctor, will soon be available at the Winchester Public Library.

--

Hugh Downes is the master of ceremonies on the television program "Over Easy," which is directed to seniors and gives information on legislation, health, opportunities for service, examples of prominent older people and entertainment. The program appears on Channel 44 Mondays at 6:30 p.m. and Channel 2 on Saturdays from 1-3:30 p.m.

--

"The Elderly and Local Calendar" are three to four-minute broadcasts on the high school station WHSR (FM 91.9) at 4, 6, and 8 p.m. The program broadcasts information about senior citizens.

--

Winchester Cab Co. is offering a 20 percent discount to senior citizens. Coupon books worth $21 are being sold for $10.

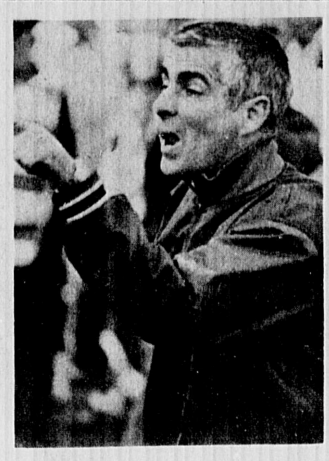
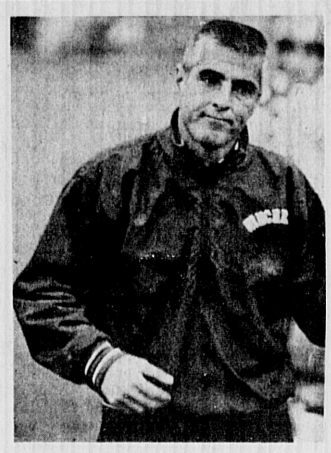
Winchester coach Manny Marshall was a man of many faces during last Saturday's 14-0 victory over Burlington. Whether he was concentrating on the action....



.... pointing out a possible flaw in the Sachem machine....



.... or thinking about one that got away.

Sachems Beat Red Devils, 14-0, Face Woburn For ML Title

Well now all they need is one more win. The problem is that their opponent, Woburn, is going to need one more also and they aren't too keen on the idea of losing to Winchester on Thanksgiving Day.

The final showdown was made possible as both pretenders to the Middlesex League title were victorious on Saturday. The Sachems did their part by defeating a stubborn Burlington Red Devil club, 14-0, with fullback Jeff Micciche scoring both Winchester touchdowns from three and one yards out.

"I thought the defense played well," said Winchester coach Manny Marshall earlier this week. "But we stopped ourselves a couple of times with a holding a penalty and a fumble."

Playing conditions were certainly a factor in this contest, as the heavy rains turned the field into mud, limiting Winchester's outside running game and effecting both squad's passing attack.

The Sachems were also hampered by the loss of halfback Don MacMillan who suffered a broken jaw in the Watertown game last week. "It's going to effect us," Marshall agreed, "but we've got Billy Rogers back and that helps."

Rogers returned to action against Burlington after missing three weeks with muscle spasms in his legs. He ended up leading all runners with 75 yards gained.

Winchester opened the scoring in the first quarter, marching 42 yards in nine plays following a fumble recovery at the Burlington 42-yard line. Micciche ended the drive with his three yard plunge off tackle.

The Sachems didn't add their other score until the third quarter, again after recovering a Red Devil fumble, and Micciche ended a 35-yard drive with his one-yard dive. Bruce Campell's point after kicks following both touchdowns gave the Sachems their final 14-0 win.

So all that remains is the traditional Thanksgiving Day game, against their traditional rival for the traditional Middlesex League title. There is still the outside chance, though Marshall isn't thinking about it, that the Sachems could make it into the Super Bowl.

Physically, Winchester is ready for the Tanners with the exception of MacMillan. Marshall's game plan is a simple one: "We're going to try to score more points than they do."

...In 1914, four years after the Boy Scouts of America was started, a troop was organized in Winchester by Robert W. Fernald who then became the troop's scoutmaster. On different occasions four of that troop's members later each rescued a drowning person. Girl Scouts in Winchester began on May 18, 1917 at$the home of Mrs. Addison R. Pike.

Needham Stuns Sachemettes, 2-1 Bounces Locals From Soccer Tourney

Thud! Is there any other way to describe the sudden end to the Winchester High School girls' soccer team? After cruising through the season with an 11-0-1 record, crushing every team they faced, the Sachemettes were bounced out of this year's Eastern Mass. Tournament by defending champ Needham, 2-1 on Saturday. A season rich with expectations, suddenly slugged to a halt.

"I kept saying to myself, 'Why? What was the reason we lost,'" said Sachemette coach Chris Scanlon earlier this week. "There's no way Needham was better than we were. We were ready. Unfortunately, the best team doesn't always win."

Sour grapes? Not really. The Sachemettes outshot Needham 19-6 in the game played in Medfield, and had dominated them in a preseason scrimmage this year. But the ball doesn't always go in.

"Without (Christine) Driscoll and Katie (McCarhthy) in the goal, it kind of put a little freeze on the team," Scanlon pointed out. "I thought our talents could compensate for the loss of Christine. But we missed her steadyness in the middle of the field."

Driscoll, of course, was leaning on crutches on the sideline, her knee having been recently operated on from torn ligaments. McCarthy, the junior goalie who played well for the Sachemettes all season, missed the last few games with mononucleosis.

The first half ended with the score tied at 1-1. Needham tallied first, but Ann Porell, another junior who scored goals in bunches for the Sachemettes this season, tied it with an assist going to Maura Reece.

Needham took the lead in the third quarter, and despite some heavy pressure from the Sachemettes, kept the door closed. "I think Needham had a real strong pride," said Scanlon. He added that Needham's playoff experience may have also been a factor. "I guess the experience of being there before has that effect, that mental aspect."

The field, slippery from the rains earlier in the day, effected the Sachemettes style of play, a style that involves a good deal of cutting and quick changes in direction. Needham on the other hand, played a more straight ahead soccer game.

Scanlon could see a slight drop in his team's play from preceding weeks. The Sachemettes played with some his hesitency. "It was a tough game," Scanlon added.

But the Sachemettes will more than likely be back. Of the starting team that walked off the field Saturday, only two were seniors. "Now we've got two years experience," Scanlon pointed out. "Next year we'll be that much better."

For Scanlon, it isn't the season ending loss or the golden opportunity that has escaped that bothers him the most, it's the routine he has followed for the past few months. "The saddest thing about the loss, for me anyway, is that I wouldn't be seeing these kids anymore."

At least not until next fall, when he'll see almost all of them again.

Winchester's Bob Cooke (77) lets the referees know that somewhere in that pile, teammate Jeff Micciche has just scored the Sachems' second touchdown of the day, mid-way through the third quarter. The Sachems defeated Burlington Saturday, 14-0. Staff Photo

Swim Club Meeting Held At Vinson-Owen School

The Winchester Swim Club held its annual meeting Oct. 29 at the Vinson-Owen School.

After John Raucci, president, opened the meeting, Irving Stein, treasurer, presented the Club's balance sheet for the fiscal year, and other members of the Board of Directors reported on various Club activities and operations.

The Nominating Committee presented its slate of new officers and directors which the membership then voted to accept. The following members were elected for the ensuing year: Charles Gulino, president; Kenneth Darcy, secretary; Joseph Bentley, treasurer; Mike Marrocco, Vincent Cortina, Steve Powers and Robert Foley were elected as directors for a two-year term.

Directors continuing on the Board for another year are: Guy Blasi, Dick Doherty, Lanvice Fleck and Kathy Pawlak.

Blood Pressure Clinic Saturday At Red Cross

The Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross will hold its monthly Blood Pressure Clinic at the Chapter House, 39 Church st., Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon.

Danice O'Neil and Ruth DeSanctis will be the registered nurses taking blood pressure readings. In case the reading is high the person will be advised to see his or her physician.

Serving at the clinic are Red Cross volunteers Lou Maroney, Grace Mahoney, Gertrude McPeake and Molly Davis.

The first Winchester baseball game was reported on Oct. 10, 1868 between the Eagles of Woburn and the Clippers of Winchester. The Eagles won 31 to 26.

Girls' Softball Team Starts Planning Now

Even though winter is coming, Winchester Girls' Softball is starting. The time is right to get things rolling.

Winchester has never had a summer softball team, and if the interest grows, an intramural team will be formed. The softball team will compete in the Middlesex League.

Money has been raised through donations from local merchants. However, bats, balls and other equipment are still needed.

The team will be coached by Kelley Gately and Kate Martin, both of whom are freshmen at Harvard College. While at Winchester High Gately was named All Scholastic in soccer, basketball and softball. He was recently named to the Ivy League's Second All Star Team in soccer. While at Woburn High School Martin was named a All Scholastic in field hockey, basketball and softball.

Tryouts will be in the spring for the 20-member team.

Girls' Cross Country Finishes Second In League Meet

The WHS girls' cross-country team finished its season with a successful showing at the Middlesex League Meet on Oct. 31st. The team placed second overall in the field of 10 towns that raced on the 2.5 mile course.

The afternoon began with promise. The sun was shining through chilly breezes. The course was short (propitious to short-distance runners like Barbara Myers and Mary Boland), and the hills were small but plentiful.

There were three other teams to challenge Winchester. First place Reading, the dark horse league victor of regular season competition was the one to beat, but after its third place finish in the State Meet, it seemed no one could present a really threatening challenge to this team's talent. Wakefield, in third place behind Winchester, was a steadfast threat to the Sachem runners, who had beaten them once, but now faced them at the end of a well-run season.

The Warriors were anxious - anxious to get revenge, anxious to avenge their 1978 League Title. Finally, there was Lexington. The blue and gold runners had been a lightly taken nothing at the beginning of the season, but their talent in distance track running seemed to have traveled to cross-country. So there were four teams battling and hoping for individuals and for teams. The stage was set.

In any meet with a large number of runners competing, the start is always a frantic mess. "Fast," panted one Sachem runner at the finish, "the start was really fast." Especially for the younger runners unaccustomed to the big state races at Franklin Park, the trampling and pseudo-sprinting over the first 500 yards was overwhelming. And, as the yards clocked down, as the hills passed and the trees flew by, the runners eventually settled into a substantial pecking order for the repititious mile - loop.

Here, a runner's skill was truly challenged, for it was much easier to fall into a comfortable pace rather than to consistently challenge the runner in front. Competition is tough, and still very necessary. The Sachemettes knew it.

At the home stretch, the first runner to cross the line was Co-captain Barbara Myers, finishing third out of the entire group of over 90 runners, only 10 seconds behind the first place runner, Andrea Hemingway of Melrose. Sachemette Laurie Redmond was close behind, finishing in fifth place after a Reading runner took fourth.

Mary Boland, running with a severe eye infection (having disregarded her team's urging not to run) was the icing on the Sachemette's place in th3 standings. Boland finished at 16:12, 43 seconds after Hemingway, in eleventh place. Nancy Monteith (20th) and Kathy Welch (25th) rounded out Winchester's top five places. Pam Brickley was 27th at 16:56.

The returning members of the team for next year feel they will have an even better shot at the League title. Then again, that's what the Sachemettes thought in November, 1978.

PEPPERIDGE FARM

Start baking with "Bake It Fresh" Puff Pastry dough

Puff pastry has always been this elegant... but never this easy!

Once, it took the skill and patience of an experienced chef to create elegant puff pastry desserts, entrees and appetizers.

But now, with Pepperidge Farm "Bake It Fresh" frozen Puff Pastry sheets, you can bake them right in your own kitchen!

In minutes, this specially folded and rolled Pepperidge Farm dough rises in your oven into delicately light, flaky layers of pastry.

Making it easier than ever to prepare recipes like Beef Wellington, Puff Pastry Florentine and Chicken Cordon Bleu. Fancy desserts like Napoleons and cream-filled Cornets. Or decorative puff pastry hors d'oeuvres.

With Pepperidge Farm Puff Pastry sheets and Patty Shells, you can bake dozens of elegant desserts, entrees and appetizers...you never thought possible.

They're in your grocer's freezer.

Napoleons

2 sheets Pepperidge Farm Puff Pastry
1 package (4½ oz.) instant chocolate pudding
1 cup sour cream
½ cup milk
1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon milk (approx.)
2 squares (1 oz. each) semi-sweet chocolate, melted

1. Thaw folded pastry sheets 20 minutes, unfold gently and cut along folds, making 6 rectangles about 3" x 10".
2. Prick each sheet thoroughly with a fork and bake on ungreased baking sheets in pre-heated 350° F oven for 18 to 20 minutes. Cool.
3. Prepare pudding according to package directions, substituting 1 cup sour cream and ½ cup milk for the 2 cups milk.
4. Make icing: blend sugar and milk to make a smooth consistency. Spread on top of two pastry sheets.
5. To decorate: dip a toothpick into melted chocolate; draw parallel lines crosswise and lengthwise on frosted pastry sheets.
6. Evenly spread pudding on two of the remaining pastry sheets. Cover each with a second pastry sheet, and spread with rest of pudding.
7. Top with decorated pastry sheets. Chill at least 30 minutes before cutting each assembled pastry into 5 or 6 equal portions. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 10 to 12 Napoleons.

Childhood Diseases Can Be Stopped With Immunizations

Polio, measles, rubella, pertussis (whooping cough), diphtheria, tetanus, and mumps all are childhood diseases and all are preventable.

Today, all 50 states have laws requiring that children entering school for the first time be immunized against these preventable diseases. In fact, during the past two years, 30 states have passed, updated, or strengthened their school immunization laws.

Since 1977, when the administration's national immunization program got underway, the incidence of measles has decreased 78 percent, from 50,000 cases to 11,000 cases. Rubella is down 43 percent, from 17,000 to 9,700. And, mumps is down 30 percent, from 15,000 to 10,800 cases.

What remains now is to make sure that all newly born children are immunized and protected along with their school-aged brothers and sisters.

Pediatricians and family physicians as well as health clinics play an important role in immunization education, and in just giving the shots.

Most doctors recommend the following schedule for two-month old children just beginning a series:

at 2 months - diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis, and polio

at 4 months - diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis, and polio

at 6 months - diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis (another polio dose is optional at this age) at 15 months - measles, rubella, and mumps

at 18 months - diptheria, tetanus, pertussis, and polio

Many of these vaccines can be given in combination so that a child is not made too uncomfortable.

For children high school age or younger who have not had a full series of immunizations, it is important that they be protected also. They are not too old to get sick and they are not too old to be immunized.

Serious complicatons may result from inadequate immunization, such as paralysis, deafness, blindness, mental retardation, heart and kidney failure, and, on occasion, death.

Lexington Group Offers Elderly Citizen Project

Minuteman Home Care, now located at 20 Pelham rd., Lexington, runs a part-time employment program especially for individuals 55 years and older who need to supplement their incomes.

The Senior AIDE Program involves work in various non-profit or public community service capacities. Some senior aides act as clerical assistants, bookkeepers, day care aides, or Council on Aging assistants. There are 30 senior aides working in Minuteman's 16-town region.

The Senior AIDE Program is federally sponsored under Title V of the Older Americans Act. Minuteman Home Care administers the Senior AIDES Program under contract with the National Council of Senior Citizens. The program has two purposes: to provide meaningful employment to citizens over 55 who need additional income and to expand community services.

A federal income limit has been established for hiring senior aides. Persons applying will be asked for their estimated annual income in order to determine eligibility. Supervision and training is provided for Senior Aides appropriate to their specifc job situation. Aides are paid hourly rates beginning at $3 and receive fringe benefits.

Minuteman Home Care Corporation also funds an employment matching service for persons over 55, called Project HIRE, which is run by Middlesex Community College.

Call for further information on the Senior AIDE Program or Project HIRE at 862-6200 or 263-8720.

...Winchester was named for Col. William P. Winchester of Watertown, a wealthy Boston merchant who was a Colonel in the Corps of Cadets volunteer regiment.

Youth Basketball Applications Are Available Monday

Applications for the Winchester Youth Basketball Program will be available starting Monday at the Sports Shop and the Recreation Department.

The Saturday morning program will begin in December and will be held at Lincoln and McCall schools. Third and fourth graders will play from 8:30 to 10 a.m.; fifth and sixth graders from 10 to 11:30 a.m.; and seventh and eighth graders from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The weekly program features a clinic followed by a game. Space is available for 80 boys in each division.

In 1850 the population in Winchester was 1,350. In 1860 it was 1,937.

The Winchester High School band, participating in Veterans' Day ceremonies for the first time, marches down Main street to the town hall on Monday. Two new wings of the town's Honor Roll were unveiled during the proceedings. (Staff Photo)

TIP TOP® CHIMNEY SWEEPS
The Recognized Professionals of Suburban Boston
Energy conscious Americans are turning to their hearth for heat in increasingly large numbers; however, many are forgetting about essential chimney maintenance. So while fireplace useage is on the increase, so are tragic home fires. In response to this, the National Fire Protection Association recommends that home owners have their chimneys cleaned or inspected once a year.

Washington School Has Classroom Teas

A series of classroom teas were held recently at the Washington School to allow parents to learn about their childrens' programs.

Miss Dolan held the first tea Sept. 19th for the Kindergarten parents. This was followed on Oct. 10th by an evening meeting with the fifth and sixth grade teachers. The first and second grade parents were invited by Mrs. Monteith and Miss Clark on the afternoon of Oct. 15th. The last tea was held on the afternoon of Oct. 20th, which was for the third and fourth grade parents.

The school staff thinks the "teas" were very beneficial. Each member had an opportunity to explain program goals and expectations to the parents.

...On March 20, 1853 the Town of Winchester experienced its first serious fire when, on that Sunday morning, the 12-year-old Congregational Church burned to the ground.

With the signature of Gov. George N. Briggs, Winchester was incorporated into a separate community from its original status as South Woburn.

EnKa Society Announces Local Recipients Of Gifts

Recipients of the EnKa Society's first quarter gifts were announced at the organization's fall luncheon meeting held recently at the Church of the Epiphany.

Mrs. James E. Grassi, finance chairman, made the announcement during the meeting which was presided over by Mrs. Frank M. Gunby Jr., president. The Winchester Soccer Club, Meals on Wheels, Winchester High School Varsity Club, local troops of Boy Scouts of America, Queensmen Drum and Bugle Corps, Winchester Fire Department, Winchester Police Department, and The Winchester Scholarship Foundation were all given EnKa funds.

In other business, Mrs. Gunby accepted checks from EnKa Fair Treasurer, Mrs. Noel Thyson; and EnKa Exchange Chairman, Mrs. John J. Barcus. These monies are profits from the 1979 EnKa Fair and the '78-'79 exchange sales, the two major fund raising activities of the organization.

Mrs. Gunby reminded the membership that it is the success of these two ventures which make gifts to worthy community organizations possible.

Following the business meeting and lunch, the annual EnKa Exchange fashion show was held with commentary by Mrs. Winthrop S. Knox. Modeling of used clothing from the shop was done by the organization's new provisional members.

About Town

Recently appointed as one of 10 members to the Commission on the Reorganization of Higher Education is Robert Spiller.

Two Winchester residents have joined the Boston Zoological Society's New Zoo Campaign Committee. They are: Robert Goldhammer and Robert Spiller.

Recently honored by the The Nature Conservancy, the national land organization, and presented with the Conservancy's Oak Leaf Award was Richard Bennink.

The award is presented annually to those individuals whose efforts have directly and benefited the programs of The Nature Conservancy.

Mr and Mrs. Arthur Keeler

Corinne L. Webber Marries Arthur Keeler At St. Mary's

Corinne Lydia Webber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Webber of Winchester, and Arthur John Keeler Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Keeler of Andover, were married Aug. 18 at St. Mary's Church.

Rev. Mark S. Sheehan officiated. A reception was held at the bride's aunt's house in Tewksbury.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents, wore a white satin gown with lace on the bodice and around the waist. The long sleeves were tapered and her floor length veil was trimmed with lace that matched the gown. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and orchid carnations.

Robin Keeler, sister of the bridegroom was the maid of honor. She wore a cap sleeved, mint green gown with matching hat. She carried a bouquet of white and mintgreen daisies.

John Ghiloni of Andover was the best man. Ushers were Robert and David Webber, brothers of the bride.Katleen Webber, sister of the bride, attended the guestbook.

The bride graduated from Winchester High School. The bridegroom graduated from Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational High School. He is employed at Shawsheen Village Apartments in Andover.

The couple are living in Methuen after a trip to Mt. Washington in New Hampshire.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerone J. Cura Jr. announce the birth of their second child, first daughter, Mollie Martha, Oct. 4 at Winchester Hospital.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Avakian of Winchester and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Cura of Arlington. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Aldo Cura of Arlington.

Brink Baby

A boy, Jeffrey Parker, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel M. Brink of Salem, N.H. on Oct. 9 at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William A. Leighton of Northwood, N.H. and Mr. and Mrs. A.R. Brink of Winchester.

Jeffrey, who weighed eight pounds 10 ounces at birth, has a four-year-old brother, Timothy.

Menucci Girl

Mr. and Mrs. James Menucci announce the birth of their second child, Laura Ann, who was born Oct. 22 at the Boston Lying Inn.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Menucci of Winchester and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Foley of Bar Harbor, Maine.

Laura, who weighed 12 pounds 11 ounces at birth, has a brother, Peter.

Nicholas Son

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Nicholas of Burlington announce the birth of their third son, Daniel Peter, Oct. 12 at Winchester Hospital.

Mrs. Nicholas is the former Elaine F. Shea. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Shea Jr. of Winchester and Mrs. Charles Nicholas of Burlington. Great-grandparent is Mrs. Martin H. Hogan Sr. of Woburn.

Lindmark Son

A first child, Robert Edward Jr., was born Oct. 25 at Winchester Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Lindmark of Winchester.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stafford of Arlington and Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Lindmark Jr. of Winchester.

Church Women United Plans UNICEF Card Sale

Once again it is the time for Church Women United to sponsor the selling of UNICEF cards and gifts which is especially appropriate this holiday season since 1979 is the International Year of the Child.

Hugh Downs, this year's chairman of the United Nations Children's Fund, says, "By sending UNICEF cards and gifts you will not only be celebrating children at the climax of their special year, you will be helping the United Nations Children's Fund to bring good health, nutrition, education and safe water to hundreds of millions of children in 104 developing countries."

This year the cards will be sold at two locatons: at Swanson Associates-Realtors (corner of Main and Mt. Vernon streets) from Nov. 15-Dec. 7 and the Star Market at Woburn Plaza from Nov. 26-Dec. 15. The hours at both places will be 10-4 p.m.

Coordinating Chairman for this overall project is Mrs. David Dettinger. Chairmen for Swanson Associates are Mrs. Vincent Berger and Mrs. Arthur Duffy, while Star Market is under the guidance of Mrs. Jenness Eugley and Mrs. Donald Cullivan. Local churches furnishing volunteers include: Baptist, First Congregational, Methodist, St. Eulalia's, Immaculate Conception, St. Mary's, Second Congregational, and Unitarian.

UNICEF cards have had great popularity for many years and there has been a wide variety of design. This year is no exception. For 1979 artists and museums from 37 countries contributed 192 different designs to be used for cards and stationery. Besides the designed cards available there will also be general greeting cards, note paper, stationery, post cards, books, puzzles, and other children's gift items.

It is expected that 140 million cards will be sold in this Year of the Child; proceeds of $20 million can be turned over to UNICEF for children's programs.

...Approximately 40 men from South Woburn, as Winchester was originally known, served in the army during the Revolutionary War.

FREE ICE CREAM at the Museum of Transportation this Sunday! From 2 to 4 pm, samples of Howard Johnson's ice cream will be handed out at the soda fountain in the Museum's highway strip exhibit. The fountain, a Twenties-style counter complete with mirrors and spinning stools, looks much like the original Howard Johnson's ice cream fountain (pictured), which opened in 1925 in the Wollaston section of Quincy. The original Howard Johnson was only 27 when he went into the ice cream biz, selling hand-cranked vanilla, chocolate, and strawberry. The 28 flavors and the eye-catching orange roofs came later.

VOLTAIRE WAS born 285 years ago this week. The French essayist, political scientist, and social satirist whose real name was François Marie Arouet was one of the first to write about earthly visits of extraterrestial beings, but it is probably only a scheduling coincidence that Lydia Stalnaker is speaking on Saturday. Stalnaker, who is described in her literature as the "most documented UFO contactee in the United States today" will speak to the Greater Boston Council of the Association for Research and Enlightenment, the Edgar Cayce Foundation. She will discuss her UFO experiences and demonstrate some of her psychic gifts, which include healing, prophecy, and X-ray vision. The public is invited to attend, and we plan to be there, wearing our lead suit.

Stalnaker will speak at 8 pm on Saturday, November 17, in the Morse Auditorium, 602 Commonwealth Avenue in Boston. Tickets are $5 general admission, $3.50 for elders and students.

A NAME-THE-OTTERS contest is going on now at the Blue Hills Trailside Museum in Milton, and it is open only to school classes. The otters to be named are a pair — one male, one female — of river otters, seven months old. The otters were born in captivity at an otter farm in Houma, Louisiana, and have lived at the Trailside Museum since they were purchased in June.

Each name-the-otters entry must be accompanied by a letter explaining why the names were chosen, and all entries must be postmarked by November 30. The Massachusetts Audubon Society, which operates the Trailside Museum for the Metropolitan District Commission, will take care of the judging, and a free class trip to the Museum is among the prizes.

We have no class, ourselves, but here's our entry:

They came from Louisiana
Where it's hotter
But they'll stay in Massachusetts
Like they Otter.

Send your class' entry to the Blue Hills Trailside Museum, 1904 Canton Avenue, Milton, MA 02186. Call 333-0690 if you have any questions. □

Thanksgiving Variations

Beyond the Traditional Menu

By Kimberly French

Of all the traditions in America, probably none is more unquestioned than the menu for Thanksgiving dinner.

Between noon and late evening next Thursday, dining-room tables all over the country will each hold a large turkey, roasted, basted, and stuffed; sweet potatoes and other harvest vegetables; cranberry sauce; and pumpkin pie. Maybe a little homemade bread with butter and jam or a special salad or casserole will be added, but for the most part, the annual Thanksgiving feast stays the same year to year from household to household.

The order of this meal is so absolute because of the relative newness of this holiday and the total American-ness of it; ethnic influence has not had a chance to alter it.

This is not to say, though, that the modern Thanksgiving feast has not had a long heritage of great variety. Late-autumn festivals in which the main item of business is feasting until you can hold no more have been around in many cultures — from Greek and Roman corn-goddess festivals with roast pig and harvest grains to the English Harvest Home with roast beef and ale.

So without even violating tradition you give a little variation to the theme of more than 350 years.

A Pilgrim Thanksgiving

Actually, the Pilgrims, usually credited with the first Thanksgiving in 1621 (although some Virginians claim an earlier celebration in Jamestown), had more variety in their meal than Americans do today. Turkey, of course, was on the table, but so were five deer contributed by Indians; wild geese and ducks, all cooked on spits; lobsters, eels, fish, clams, and oysters, steamed in coals; dried gooseberries, strawberries, plums, and cherries, preserved from summer; white and red wine from New England grapes; clam chowder and venison stew; and many Indian corn dishes — parched, roasted, hoecakes, Indian pudding, and perhaps even popcorn balls made with molasses.

A few omissions are obvious to the 20th-century eye. Although cranberries were in abundance at that time of the year, the Pilgrims had no sugar, and berries fresh out of the bogs are too bitter for serious eating. Also it is unlikely they had pumpkin in any form. Later colonists used the pulpy vegetable in sauces, breads, and pies, but the first settlers probably would not have known how to prepare it.

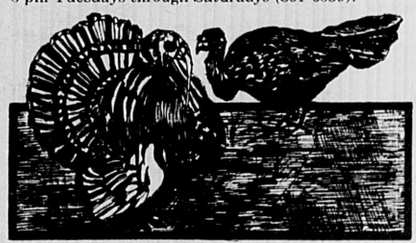
If the variety of the Pilgrim spread is not enough to add a little gastronomic excitement to your Thanksgiving table, you might also consider some of the foods the Pilgrims probably would have liked to have had: the spicy dishes of 17th-century England.

Jim Baker, education director of Plimoth Plantation, is the Massachusetts connoisseur to consult on old-fashioned cooking. To introduce the Plantation's special Thanksgiving exhibit, Baker recently prepared a 17th-century luncheon of livering pudding (liver pâté), oyster pottage (pea and oyster stew), cowcumber sallett (lettuce and cucumber salad), an onion-and-apple dish, mutton pie, and gingerbread. The most palate-awakening of these were the last three, mutton pie and onions-and-apples being the most recommendable. Traditional gingerbread is a boiled concoction of honey, ginger, cloves, cinnamon, licorice, bread crumbs, and anise seeds. Some of the guests found the strong anise aftertaste in the candied result too much to bear.

Mutton pie and onions-and-apples, on the other hand, are guaranteed to pleasantly surprise 20th-century taste buds. Spiced with saffron, red-wine vinegar, salt, and pepper, and mixed with raisins, prunes, and dates, the ground-mutton pie filling demands attention with every bite. If your local butcher does not carry mutton or carries it at a price beyond your budget, lean ground beef is an adequate substitute. Actually, while mutton and beef pies were popular, they were not typical feast dishes except in poorer homes. Pork, veal, chicken, rabbit, and venison were also made into minced pies. All except venison pies usually included raisins, prunes, and dates.

As a side dish, the unlikely combination of onions and apples blends together in a spicy-sweet mixture with cinnamon, parboiled currants, brown sugar, and butter. The dish is served hot, often over buttered toast.

Recipes for these and other 17th-century dishes are found in Dining with William Shakespeare by Madge Lorwin and To the Queen's Taste by Lorna J Sass. Both are available through the Plimoth Plantation research library. To the west, Elizabethan cookbooks are also available at the Museum of Our National Heritage, 33 Marrett Road, Lexington, open 10 am to 5 pm Tuesdays through Saturdays (861-6559).



Though a Thanksgiving trek to Plymouth just to visit with Baker, whose old-fashioned recipes were featured in the October issue of Better Homes & Gardens, and to collect recipes might be worthwhile, the real reason to go is to see the Plimoth Plantation Thanksgiving exhibit. Thanksgiving: A Harvest of the Ages consists of three rooms representing 17th-, 19th-, and 20th-century homes. After seeing the exhibit, visitors to the Plantation may view the new historical slide presentation and visit the 1627 Pilgrim Village, where museum employees act the part of Pilgrims preparing for another New England winter. The villagers are happy to talk with visitors about food preservation, home repairing, fence mending, tailoring, knitting, and other activities, but don't expect them to understand modern talk or gadgets since they stay in character all day long.

The Plantation is located in Plymouth, about one hour from Boston off Route 3. Take the exit marked Plimoth Plantation Highway to the left; then turn right on Plimoth Plantation Road and follow the signs to the parking lot. All exhibits, are open daily through November from 9 am to 5 pm. Adult admission is $2.75; children 5 to 13 are $1.25. Combination tickets for the Plantation and the Mayflower II are available for $3.50, children $1.50. For more information call 746-1622.

If you can't make it to Plymouth, another Thanksgiving exhibit is on display at the Museum of Science, Science Park, Boston. The 15-foot-long Pilgrim Village Diorama of the settlement at Plymouth in 1625 is on the first floor of the west wing. Admission to the museum is $3.50; children from five to 16, persons older than 65, students, and active-duty military perssonel are $2.25. On Wednesdays from 1 to 4 pm admission is free. The Museum is open daily, except on Thanksgiving day. For hours or other information call 723-2500.

The Jackson Homestead, a historic house museum and research library, displays an old-fashioned Thanksgiving exhibit, We Gather Together to Ask the Lord's Blessing, through December 21. An open house for the exhibit will be Sun, November 18, from 2 to 5 pm at the Homestead, 527 Washington Street, Newton. Regular hours are 10 am to 4 pm Mondays through Fridays. Admission is free. For more information call 552-7238.

Sturbridge Village

Old Sturbridge Village is also preparing for Thanksgiving this month. On November 19 cooking and readying the village for the day of feasting begins in all homes. On Thanksgiving day historical services will be held in the Village Meetinghouse at 1:15 and 3:30 pm, with texts based on services of the early 19th century. The Village will also stage a mock turkey shoot and target-shooting competition, demonstrating firing of flintlock and percussion firearms at 1:45 pm.

Dinner will be served in four sittings of 300 people each from 11:30 am to 7:15 pm, but only those guests who had the foresight to make reservations for the feast of turkey and cornbread stuffing, oyster bisque, harvest vegetables, pumpkin and mince pies, maple butternut cake, Vermont cheddar cheese, fruits, and cider will be admitted to the Tavern in the Village Center. If you are not among the foresighted this year, now might be a good time to make reservations for next year.

To reach Old Sturbridge Village, take the Mass Pike to I-86 south to the Sturbridge exit. Follow the signs to the Village. The Village is open all year, except Christmas, New Year's Day, and Mondays from December to March. Hours through March are 10 am to 4 pm. Admission is $6; youth ages six to 15 are $2.50. Thanksgiving dinner is an additional $14.50 per person, children eight and younger $7.75. For more information call 347-3362.

Mystic Seaport

Yet another museum, the Mystic Seaport Museum, prepares for Thanksgiving throughout November. Staff and members are cooking up a Thanksgiving feast using only ingredients available in the 1840s. In addition to native turkey from Farmer Brown's in North Stonington, potatoes, squash, turnips, and carrots cooked over a fire, pumpkin and mince pies will be baked in the coals, and puddings will be prepared according to Victorian recipes. Every weekend in November visitors may participate in the cooking of mincemeat and pumpkin, drying of applies, pickling of beets, and mixing of cranberry relish and preserves at the museum's 18th-century Buckingham House. The same menu that will be prepared on the hearth for demonstration Thanksgiving day will be served with a few 20th-century touches from noon to 8 pm at the nearby Seamen's Inne. Prices are $10.95 adults, $5.95 children. For reservations call (203) 536-9649.

Before or after dinner, guests may play croquet, horseshoes, or hoop-toss, all games of 100 years ago, on the Inne lawn. Or they may relax before the open fire in the lobby with roasted chestnuts, fruit, and nuts. More games will be organized the day after Thanksgiving, November 23, which is Children's Field Day at the museum. The museum's south green will be the scene of hoop-rolling, wheelbarrow and running races, and parading from 1 to 4 pm.

To reach the Seaport Museum take I-95 to exit 90 in Connecticut. The museum is one mile south on Route 127. On Thanksgiving, only the North Gate will be open. Admission is $2.50, children six to 12 $1.50, reduced for Thanksgiving. Regular admission is $5.50, children $2.75. Hours are 9 am to 5 pm, except Christmas and New Year's Day. For information call (203) 536-2631.

Dining Out

Thanksgiving dinners are also served at some Metro-Boston restaurants.

Autre Chose, a French restaurant at 1105 Massachusetts Avenue in Cambridge, serves dinner on Thanksgiving from 1 to 8 pm. Owner/chef Maurice Leduc likes to combine American tradition with French technique in the menu of turkey with oyster stuffing ($8.50), duckling with wild-rice stuffing and orange sauce ($12), and roast ham with Madeira glaze ($9.50). Entrées will be served with traditional vegetables, homemade bread, and salad. Appropriate appetizers and desserts will also be available. For reservations call 661-0852.

Averof, 1924 Massachusetts Avenue in Cambridge's Porter Square, also gives an ethnic touch to the American tradition. From 11 am–1 am the Bandars family will serve houmos (chick-pea dip), tiropita (cheese puffs), keftedes (Greek meatballs), turkey with Oriental dressing, salad with feta cheese and olives, and kopichai (Greek cake). Including beverage, the price is $6.95. For reservations call 354-4500.

The Wild Goose at the Landmark Inn, 300 North Market Street, Faneuil Hall Marketplace, Boston, will serve a traditional dinner on Thanksgiving starting at 1 pm. Roast turkey, roast goose, and a beef entrée will be on the menu, at à la carte prices. Reservations are recommended by calling 367-1083.

The Mermaid Seafood Tavern at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel at Prudential Center serves up an all-you-can-eat Thanksgiving buffet of turkey, ham, roast beef, and all the fixings from noon to 8 pm Thanksgiving day. The price is $12.95 adults, $7.95 children. For reservations or information call 236-2000, extension 4168.

Talking Turkey

One last variation on your turkey theme might be to get a fresh turkey instead of a frozen one. Since shooting turkeys is illegal in Massachusetts, the best place to get a freshly-killed turkey is a turkey farm. The following is a list of turkey growers who sell fresh-dressed as well as fresh-frozen turkeys. Many of the growers also offer turkeys roasted to order, cooked turkey pies, and party platters.

Bob's Turkey Farm, Old Common Road, Lancaster. 365-9271.

Bongi's Turkey Roost, Summer Street, Duxbury. 585-2392.

Brox Turkey Farm, Route 113, Dracut. 453-0831.

Donovan's Turkey Farm, 961 Edgell Road, Framingham. 877-1400.

Ed's Farm Store, North Pearl Street, Brockton. 588-0615.

Green Acres Turkey Farm, 566 West Street, Wrentham. 384-2441.

Hillside Poultry Farm, 138 Village Street, Marblehead. 631-1618.

Ja-Mer Turkey Ranch, 1113 Plymouth Street, Middleboro. 947-0211.

Mello Lane Turkey Farm, 547 Stow Road, Marlboro. 485-0981.

Owens Poultry Farm, 597 Central Avenue, Needham. 444-1861.

Raymond's Turkey Farm, 163 Hempstead Street, Methuen. 686-4075.

Seven Acres Farm, 4 Concord Road, Reading. 664-3530.

Stonehedge Farm, Sawyer Hill Road, Berlin. 838-2574.

Toy's Turkey Farm, Route 110, Westford. 692-6340.□

A Guide to New England Guide Books

By Moira Cavanagh

Bookstores are full of travel guides to Boston and New England — at least 70 are in print. Some are excellent, while others are hardly worth mentioning. To save you from thumbing through all the books on the local bookstore's shelves or searching through guidebooks to guidebooks, the following is a list of popular, easily-obtained titles on Boston and New England.

NEW ENGLAND

Guide to the Recommended Country Inns of New England by Suzy Chapin and Elizabeth Squier (Globe/Pequot Press, $4.95)
This guide to country inns of New England lists all the necessary information for 143 inns, including the innkeepers' names, telephone numbers, number of rooms, rates, types of facilities, and directions. A short summary of each inn is given with special pointers for unique characteristics. After some of the summaries the two authors add personal comments about what struck their fancy at that inn.

Only in New England by J Chandler Hill (The Pequot Press, $4.95)
More of a catalogue than a guidebook, Only in New England lists more than 1000 items available in 400 towns in New England. The listings are selected for their quality and distinctiveness. Entries are indexed by state and by subject. This book also lists special-interest guidebooks to New England.

Exploring Coastal New England — Gloucester to Kennebunkport by Barbara Clayton and Dorothy Whitely (Dodd, Mead and Co, $6.95)
This guide does exactly what the title says by giving street directions for exploring the New England coast. Each of the nine chapters is a tour of one to three cities or towns in a coastal area. Altogether it lists 21 "tours," which, combined, form a tour of the entire New England coast.

A map of each route is included in this well-researched, informative book.

The Compleat Country New England Historical and Sightseeing Guide by Anthony Hitchcock and Jean Lindgren (Burt Franklin and Co Inc, $3.95)
This is the guidebook for exploring rural New England historical sites. Pertinent information, such as hours, admission prices, and telephone numbers, are included. Each listing also includes a brief description of the site. At the beginning of each chapter (every state has its own) routes and historical sites are clearly marked on a small road map. Listings are broken down into regions of the state and then alphabetically by city or town.

Yankee Magazine's Guide to New England Fall '79/Winter '80 (Yankee, Inc, $1.75)
This publication lists places to stay and things to do in each of the New England states. The feature articles on what to do have a different twist, such as viewing fall foliage from the air six ways. Listings for food and lodging and a calendar of events are included.

BOSTON

Arthur Frommer's Guide to Boston (Frommer/Pasmantier Publishing Corporation, $2.50)
Although this guide is specifically designed for tourists, it has information that MetroBoston residents will find helpful. Information on dining out, sightseeing, shopping, and nightlife is included. All price ranges are covered. Most of the places listed in "Boston Sights" are the usual historical sites and museums, but Frommer's descriptions make these places take on a new light. This book also includes sightseeing information for Cambridge.

All About the Boston Harbor Islands by Emily and Dave Kales (Herman Publishing Inc, $5.95)
The Boston Harbor Islands are not as well traveled as the rest of the city because they are not as accessible. This need not be so. This book tells how to get to the islands (tours, charters, etc) and what to see when you get there.

In and Out of Boston With (and Without) Children by Bernice Chesler (Barre Publishing, $6.95)
This guide is uniquely thorough — it even includes a section listing the most likely places to find public restrooms. Maps of Boston and the MBTA are included. The areas to tour are broken down by subject from Animals to The World Around Us. Directions, prices, hours, and time lengths of tours are clearly stated for each listing.

Boston Ways — High, By and Folk by George F Weston Jr (Beacon Press, $3.95)
For an entirely different view of Boston, this is the book. Back streets and almost-undiscovered areas make Boston come alive. This book couples history and a sightseeing tour even though the editor writes, "Neither a history nor a guidebook, it is instead a portrayal of Boston's color and flavor." Using this book one can arrange a personal tour of the real city rather than the tourist attractions. □

Movies

Short Subjects

By Maggie Hall

The Europeans
Director James Ivory and screenwriter Ruth Prawer Jhabvala here have transformed Henry James' novel into a little triumph of a film. Lee Remick plays an expatriate baroness who returns to Massachusetts to visit her Yankee relations and, with any luck capitalize on her connections. The relations, for their part, view all things European as suspect; they are at once charmed and a little appalled by their cousin. The Europeans is a British film but it was photographed in New England in autumn; it blazes with color, and there is an almost palpable sense of time slowing down. With Lisa Eichhorn, Robin Ellis, and Kristin Griffith. Boston Nickelodeon.

Fiddler on the Roof
It's terrifically schmaltzy, of course, this adaptation (by Norman Jewison and Joseph Stein) of Sholom Aleichem's stories about Tevye the dairyman and his daughters. The whole thing is bathed in a sort of golden glow, as if to say, Here there is warmth. And indeed, here there is. It's a cold heart that doesn't thaw to Fiddler. The Israeli actor Topol plays Tevye, and he is given good support by Norma Crane, Paul Mann, and Rosalind Harris. Paul-Michael Glaser has a small part, and Isaac Stern has the violin solos. Cheri; Brockton, Danvers, Hanover, Natick.

The Marriage of Maria Braun
This black comedy by Rainer Werner Fassbinder walks a thin line between soap opera and political allegory. The curious story of Maria Braun is presented as the story of post-war Germany. When her husband of two days (their wedding takes place during an air raid) is declared missing in action, she first collaborates with the Americans (in the person of a stout black GI, whom she kills) and then turns her attention to industry (in the person of a French textile magnate). She calls herself the "Mata Hari of the economic revival," and through it all she is faithful, in her way, to her husband. The part of Maria is vibrantly played by Hanna Schygulla. It's easy to believe she alone could engineer Germany's recovery; she's that determined. Orson Welles.

Nosferatu
Werner Herzog's version of the Dracula legend takes its text from the FW Murnau silent film of 1922, and it is a far cry from the more familiar vampire pictures. There is no swooning Victorian here, no handsome, devastating count. This Nosferatu is full of greyed-out, Eastern European horror, old as old. As the vampire, the weird German actor Klaus Kinski wears an almost impenetrable mask, with huge ragged ears and empty-socket eyes. He looks like a horrible ancient baby, and his fingers taper into roots. Kinski's Dracula is both tragic and laughable, dangerous and a little arthritic. It's a marvelous performance, the best thing about the movie. With Isabelle Adjani as the resourceful Miss Lucy, and Bruno Ganz as Jonathan Harker. Orson Welles.

Running
There's something about sports that brings out the sap in screenwriters, and there's something about running that brings out a conviction of moral and ethical superiority among some runners, and both are for the birds. Running looks like a shameless Rocky clone, with Michael Douglas as a man who wants to run in an Olympic marathon. He's patriotic, kind to small children, a hero to the unemployed. He's also absurd. The movie wants us to believe that running to win (whether or not you actually come in first) can not only give you back your self-esteem, but can patch up your marriage and make your children respect you. And not a word about shinsplints. With Susan Anspach as the runner's inexplicably long-suffering wife. Brockton, Framingham, Liberty Tree Mall.

Yanks
The plot of this World War II romance, directed by John Schlesinger, involves three Anglo-American love stories, the central of which (Richard Gere as a well-mannered mess sergeant and Lisa Eichhorn as a nice grocer's assistant) is not always the most interesting. The other lovers are William Devane and Vanessa Redgrave, and Chick Vennera and Wendy Morgan; these have more spunk but less screen-time in this very long movie. Class distinctions are well sorted-out, and the movie seems to imply that the middle class (Gere and Eichhorn) get the short end of the stick because they have neither the working-class inclination to seize the day (like Vennera and Morgan) nor the aristocratic stiff-upper-lip to grin and bear it (like Devane and Redgrave). The distinctions between the Yank soldiers and the English townspeople are just as clearly drawn: It's as though they were all wearing signs, "I'm British and reserved" or "I'm American and aw-shucks."

Despite its almost-monumental scale, Yanks still looks like what used to be called a ladies' picture, back in the days when the ladies wore their romanticisms on their sleeves. There is enough sentiment for the most dewy-eyed, enough authentic touches for two movies, and enough nostalgia to float a battleship. All that's missing is World War II, which remains decorously off-stage. Brockton, Burlington, Hanover, Newton, Peabody. □

AUTHENTIC

Currier & Ives

Solid Copper Collector's Plate

FOR ONLY $9.99

9¼" DIA.

NOT AVAILABLE IN STORES

The art world is currently experiencing a revival of Currier & Ives art. Prints which once sold for a few dollars now bring thousands at art and antique auctions! Now you can own one of the best Currier & Ives works of art.

THE FIRST CURRIER & IVES COLLECTOR'S PLATE IN GENUINE COPPER.

"Summertime in the South" is genuine burnished copper, carefully hand antiqued to show every detail of the intricate design. Large 9¼" size. High relief sculpture! You can actually feel the intricate details on this plate. This solid copper plate blends beautifully with any decor!

SUMMERTIME IN THE SOUTH

Only Currier & Ives could capture the vision of Southern splendor in such elegant detail. The palatial mansion overlooks a garden of moss-covered magnolia trees. Couples stroll in the afternoon sun as stately horses prance by, pulling gaily-decorated carriages. In the background, a steamboat paddles down the mighty Mississippi.

A FINE VALUE AT $50 OR $65...AN UNBELIEVABLE BARGAIN AT ONLY $9.99!

Copper collector's plates usually sell for $45 to $100. NEVER BEFORE has a genuine copper collector's plate been offered for $9.99.

Copper plates are the new "wonder performers" in the collector's plate world. A copper plate issued for $40 in 1976 now lists for $425; a copper plate issued just last year for $45 now lists for $140. We make no claims for this plate, but this beautiful high relief copper plate surely will be a real conversation piece.

ACT NOW. With the price of copper and collector's plates rising 10, 20, and sometimes 30% in just one year, you can't afford to pass up this opportunity.

Zelda's Guarantees Satisfaction

If you are not completely delighted and pleased with your pure copper collector's plate, return it within 15 days for a full refund, including postage and handling both ways. Return your plate to Zelda's of Apple Valley, Box 21308, Apple Valley, Minnesota 55124.

Bermuda.
Give us a few minutes of your time and we'll give you the time of your life!

Read about Rendezvous Time in Bermuda... December through mid-March... when our island is lush and green, our golf and tennis weather superb, and our prices at their lowest. Scan these facts, then send for free colour brochures.

DAILY RENDEZVOUS TIME ISLAND-WIDE EVENTS
A special programme, December 3rd through March 15th, adds colour, pageantry and fun to your holiday.

Monday: A Date with History. At 10:30 am, join a guided tour through the narrow lanes of our 17th-century town of St. George's. Meet His Worship the Mayor. Hear the Town Crier. See the resplendent Bermuda Regiment fire the ceremonial "Noonday Gun".

Tuesday: Market Day. From 1:30 to 4:30 pm, watch Bermudians produce their handicrafts—working with silver, cedar, cane, sea shells. Complimentary draught beer in the "Pickled Onion" pub.

Wednesday: Crossroads of the Atlantic. Explore Hamilton, our capital, with its international shops, historic sites, and ships from ports the world over. Be at Fort Hamilton at high noon, when kilted pipers, drummers and dancers perform the stirring "Skirling Ceremony".

Thursday: Treasure Island. Visit rustic Somerset by taxi, motorbike, or ferryboat. Hear sea shanties sung—and down a ration of grog—at our Maritime Museum. See the world's smallest drawbridge...the panoramic view of old Fort Scaur...perhaps win the weekly Rendezvous Time Witch Hunt.

Friday: Beautiful Bermuda. Enjoy a guided tour of the Botanical Gardens. Enter the Rendezvous Time golf tournament—open to all—at spectacular Port Royal Golf Course. (Calloway handicap, so anyone can win!) Tennis tourneys, too!

Saturday: Festival Day. Starting at 11 am—music, dancing, and native entertainment in 17th-century St. George's. His Worship the Mayor makes you an honorary citizen of the "olde towne".

Sunday: Spectator Sports Day. Join Bermudians at soccer matches or rugby games throughout the island. Soccer is our wintertime national sport—excitement is guaranteed!

Sporty weather!
We mentioned how perfect our temperate Rendezvous Time weather is for golf and tennis. Here are some specifics:
(Monthly av. daily F. temp.)

Month	Max.	Min.
Dec.	70	60
Jan.	68	58
Feb.	67	57
March	68	58

For the marathon man, and woman. The Bermuda Track and Field Association sponsors the 3rd Bermuda International 10-Kilometer Race on Jan. 26; and the 5th Bermuda International 26-Mile Marathon on Jan. 27. (For information, write Bermuda Track & Field Association, P.O. Box 397, Devonshire, Bermuda.)

Be an easy rider.
After your first breezy ride along quiet roads with magnificent vistas, you'll love our motorbikes as much as we do. And our easy-going 20 mph speed limit means you won't miss a sight. (Do keep left—we follow the British custom.)

Sunday for joggers.
Join local joggers on two- or four-mile runs, leaving the Botanical Gardens at 10 am.

A Very Merry Bermuda Christmas. December 24th: carollers tour major hotels, churches hold midnight services. On the 25th, festive holiday dinners at hotels. On the 26th, the English custom of Boxing Day makes this a public holiday. (It's also the time of year to watch for the stirring Gombey Dancers!) New Year's Eve? Revelry everywhere!

Get set for great tennis.
We've almost 100 meticulously cared-for courts—many lit for night play. Tournaments are held throughout the year. Visitors are welcome to enter the Super-Senior Clay Court Championships, Feb. 12-17. Ladies 40, 50; Men 55, 60, 65. Write: Tournament Secretary, Coral Beach & Tennis Club, Paget 6-1, Bermuda.

Thoroughbred horse shows.
Dec. 29: Warwick Riding School Christmas Gymkhana. Feb. 23-24: Mary Francis Kugima Riding School; Dressage Gymkhana, Cross Country and Jumping.

Shop for worldly goods.
Bermuda's international shops stock quality goods at prices delightfully below stateside. Cashmeres and woolens. China, crystal, sterling. Cameras, watches, liquor, and fine local handicrafts. Whatever you fancy, you won't leave us without a good buy!

Dog days in Bermuda.
Feb. 27-March 2: Bermuda Championship Dog Show (all breed, unbenched). It's an international affair!

BERMUDA FESTIVAL 1980

January 16 through February 23, nightly performances by international stars of classical, jazz and pop music, opera, ballet, drama and puppetry.

Jan. 16, 18, 19: A Bermudian Anthology. A musical journey through the history of Bermuda, presented by local entertainers.

Jan. 17, 20-22: St. Mark's Gospel. Michael Tolaydo in his stirring solo performance.

Jan. 23, 24: Leona Boyd. Outstanding Canadian guitarist.

Jan. 25-27: Arlo Guthrie. Dean of America's folk singer-song writers.

Jan. 28, 30: Elmar Oliveira. Few can match the artistry of this virtuoso violinist.

Jan. 29, 31; Feb. 1, 2: Juilliard Theater Company. Outstanding drama group in its fourth annual Bermuda Festival appearance.

Feb. 4, 6, 8, 9: The Ballet Repertory Company. Touring company of the American Ballet Theatre.

Feb. 5, 7: Anthony and Joseph Paratore. Perhaps the finest two-piano team alive!

Feb. 11, 13, 15: The Brandenburg Ensemble. World-famed chamber music instrumentalists under Alexander Schneider's direction.

Feb. 12, 20, 23: Cleo Laine and John Dankworth. With consummate skill, Cleo Laine spans the entire range of vocal artistry.

Feb. 14, 16, 18, 19: Compagnie Philippe Genty. Puppetry in a new and joyous dimension.

Feb. 21, 22: Phillippe Entremont. Internationally acclaimed French piano virtuoso.

THE COLONNADE
Shopping Weekend

Why settle for a hurried day of shopping, when you can spend a leisurely shopping weekend at The Colonnade.

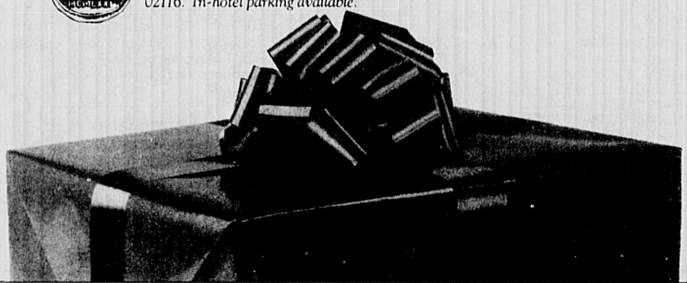
The Colonnade is located directly across the street from Lord & Taylor, Saks and other Prudential Center shops, and within walking distance from Bonwit Teller and all the fashionable shops along Newbury and Boylston Streets.

Our Director of Guest Services can help you plan your weekend of shopping. (And also arrange to have the best available seats to any theatre, sporting or cultural event you wish.)

You can dine in the hotel at Zachary's, one of the few restaurants in all of New England recommended by Gourmet. Have breakfast in bed and room service any time of the day or night. Unwind from a day of shopping in our sauna or by our rooftop pool (in season).

For more information, contact our Director of Guest Services at (617) 261-2800.

The Colonnade Hotel, 120 Huntington Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts 02116. In-hotel parking available.



The best walking tour of Boston is 740 feet above the ground.

That's because our whole tour of Boston begins and ends in the Hancock Tower Observatory on the 60th floor, atop the tallest building in New England.

See the most spectacular view of Boston there is, with 60 miles of breathtaking scenery. Then experience the Boston of 200 years ago through our unique multi-media exhibits. Like a photorama of Massachusetts' rich historical heritage. A show about Boston in 1775, featuring a 20-foot scale model. And a lot more.

The Observatory is open Monday through Saturday from 9am to 11pm, and Sundays from noon till 11pm, every day except Thanksgiving and Christmas. Admission is $1.50 for adults, 75¢ for children 5 through 15. Group and Convention rates are available: call 247-1976. Our ticket office is located on St. James Avenue opposite Copley Square.

Visit the Hancock Tower Observatory. It's a walking tour of Boston that's pleasing to the eye—and easy on the feet.

Peking on Fresh Pond-307 Fresh Pond Pkwy, Cambridge, 354-0850. Cantonese, Szechuan, Hunan, and Peking dishes, like Mystic Special soup, scallion pancakes, and chicken velvet. Full bar, reservations recommendded. Hours; Daily, 11 am-11 pm. AE.

The Rib Room-In the Sonesta Hotel, 5 Cambridge Pkwy, Cambridge, 491-3600. Three sizes of ribs, also steaks, chicken, veal, and seafopd dishes. Flaming coffees. Full bar, reservations. Hours: Daily, 5:30-10 pm and for lunch Mon-Fri, 11:30 am-2:30 pm. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

Sheraton-Boston Hotel-39 Dalton St, 236-2000. The Falstaff Room, The Mermaid Seafood Tavern and Kon Tiki Ports. Respectively seafood, and South Seas exotica, both with full bars. Both are moderately priced, but the hours vary, and you would do well to call ahead.

Hilltop Steakhouse-Rte 1, Saugus, 233-7700. The cattle in the front yard are the tip-off: They're not kidding when they call this place a steakhouse; there is even a butcher shop on the premises. No reservations, resign yourself to wait. Hours: Daily, 11 am-11 pm. No credit cards.

Jonquil's-19-21 Essex Rd (Rte 133), Ipswich, 356-5040. Continental cuisine and French table-side cooking. Full bar, reservations accpeted except for Sat eve and Sun brunch. Hours: 11:30 am-3 pm and 5-10:30 pm, Fri-Sat nights until 11. AE, BA/V, MC.

Michael's House-26 Atlantic Ave, Marblehead, 631-1255. The house predates the restaurant by nearly two centuries. At lunch, try the quiche du jour or the open steak sandwich. Seafood is a specialty any time. Prices are moderate. Open daily, 11:30-2, and 5:30-midnight. Full bar, wine list. AE, MC.

Natalie's-356 Andover St, Danvers, 777-2600. Italian food, and entertainment, at moderate prices. Full bar, no reservations on Sat night. Hours: Mon-Sat 11:30 am-11 pm, until 1 am in the lounge; Sun noon-10 pm. BA/V, MC.

SOUTH

Barnside Tavern-Assinippi Corners, Rte 3, Hanover, 878-9814. Sprawling and always crowded, it's Americana from the word go: Prime rib and shrimp are among the favorites. Salad and dessert bars. Full bar. Hours: Daily from 11:30 am-10 pm; from 1-9 pm on Sun. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

Ben White's-31 Providence Hwy (Rte 1), Norwood, 762-6740. Elegantly Continental, with a greenhouse to enjoy along with things like chicken Jerusalem, veal Viennoise, and a full range of potables. Hours: Mon-Fri, 11:30 am-9:45 pm; Sat, 5:30-10:45 pm, Sun, noon-9 pm. AE, BA/V, MC.

Plaza Inn-Rte 1, Wrentham, 384-2800. "The pleasures of the table are of all time, and all ages, of every country and of every day." Entrées, which are French, Italian, and American, start at $5.95. Full bar. Hours: Daily, from 11 am. AE, MC.

Plymouth 1620 Restaurant-158 Water St, Plymouth, 746-9565. Escargots, steamers, swordfish, lobster, steak, all manner of things that once trod the earth or swam the seas, all at moderate prices. Full bar. Hours: Daily, 11 am-10 pm. Reservations are generally a good idea. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

WEST

Callahan's Restaurant-100 Needham St, Newton, 527-3112; and 131 Boston Post Road, Wayland, 358-7741. At either location, steaks, filets mignons, and all the accompaniments. Fully licensed. Hours: Daily, 11 am-11 pm, until midnight Fri-Sat. No credit cards, no checks.

Legal Seafoods-Rte 9, in the Chestnut Hill Shopping Center, 277-7300. Legal's outpost on the western front is sometimes less hectic than the Cambridge branch, especially if you are willing to eat early or late. Otherwise, the set-up is pretty much the same: the crowds, crowds, crowds are offset by the fish, fish, fish. Reservations for large parties. Full bar. Hours: Mon-Sat, 11 am-9 pm; Sun, 1-9 pm. AE, and personal checks.

Sabra-45 Union St, Newton Center, 527-5641. Israeli and Middle Eastern specialties, in gustatory harmony. Specialties include hamin on Saturdays, and shakshuka for Sunday brunch. Not expensive, either. Full bar. Hours: Mon-Tues, 11 am-11 pm; Wed-Sun, 11 am-midnight. AE, BA/V, MC.

#103 Going Up?

By Don Rubin

America owes its breathtaking skyline to a terrible fire, a large body of water, and Elisha Graves Otis.

The fire, which began in a barn at 137 De Koven Street, leveled Chicago on October 8, 1871, setting the stage (or, rather, clearing it) for a massive rebuilding program.

The water — the Hudson, Harlem, and East Rivers — is what makes Manhattan an island with astronomical real estate value, and property to match.

And Otis — well, he simply invented the elevator.

We haven't included all of America's skyscrapers in this extraordinary group portrait. Not by a tall shot. Penzoil Place in Houston, the Philadelphia Savings Fund Society Building, large parts of Detroit and several other cities were destroyed or badly damaged in the process of moving them into position for this picture.

Still, we'd like you to identify the following monoliths by matching their names with their corresponding vital statistics. Deductive reasoning should help.

Both the numbers and the skyscrapers are approximate representations.

The Empress is heads and shoulders above every brunch in Boston.

This Sunday, try our unique Oriental Buffet Brunch. Even getting there is something special because a glass elevator whisks you to the 14th floor Empress Restaurant. This elegant room is beautifully tiered to provide each table with a spectacular view of the Charles River and the Boston skyline. And as you feast your eyes, you feast on such incredible Szechuan, Mandarin and Cantonese delicacies as Oriental crepes, almond chicken, spare ribs and beef and vegetables, just to name a few. And for those who want to start their brunch with something a little less exotic, The Empress even offers endless amounts of scrambled eggs with bacon and ham. The Oriental Buffet Brunch. There's absolutely nothing like it in Boston. Sundays 11:30 A.M. to 3 P.M. Reservations are accepted.

Sachems Hope To Capture The Flag

And so, as it was last year, Winchester and Woburn have come to the end of the season needing only one more win to capture the Middlesex League title. The problem is that each is standing in the others way.

At 10:15 Thursday at Knowlton Stadium, the Sachems (8-1-0) and the Tanners (9-0) square off in what promises to be one of the more exciting games in schoolboy football this year. With both teams randked in the top five in eastern Mass., the play should be exceptional.

For Winchester it is a chance to avenge last year's 20-12 loss in Woburn, a game which would have given the Sachems a piece of the Middlesex League championship. It's a chance to silence the town's biggest rival for at least a year, it's be a chance to add to their 38-26 edge in this series which dates back to 1891, when the Sachems defeated the Tanners, 12-0.

For the fans, it means an opportunity to see their boys hand Woburn their first loss at Winchester's home field. If there's any day when the home field advantage has an effect, it is the Thanksgiving Day game.

It's been an exciting season for the Sachems. Least second victories over Natick and Lexington, laughers over Wakefield, Belmont and Watertown. Were it not for the breakdown in Melrose, the Sachems would not only be playing for the league title, but for a sure spot in the Super Bowl.

As it stands now, the locals might have an outside chance for the Super Bowl anyway, since the teams are picked on a formula that is based on the level of competition they play . With wins over Natick and Lexington, the Sachems would have to be considered should they down Woburn, currently ranked number one, tomorrow.

Were the season to end today, there would still be plenty of memories to savor. A defense, led by Bellino, Tracey and Gill, that's been the toughest kid on the block, drawing a line and daring anyone to cross it. Four shutouts recorded and if you figure that only one touchdown in the Melrose game was actually accomplished against them, they've given up a total of four scores in nine games.

From the outset they have been the backbone of this club. Check out how some of the teams they've beaten have faired against other defenses. Natick runs it up almost every week in the Bay State League, Belmont's sophomore quarterback has about seven touchdown passes and was 27 of 35 a couple of weeks ago. The Sachem "D" just shuts them down.

The offense, always a bit behind the defense in development, has become well rounded and potent, though lacking a bit in consistency. Quarterback Gary Errico, a running back last season, has grown into his role as the season's progressed. Behind a line as effective as any in the Middlesex League, he's been hovering around 50 percent in his passing in the past few weeks.

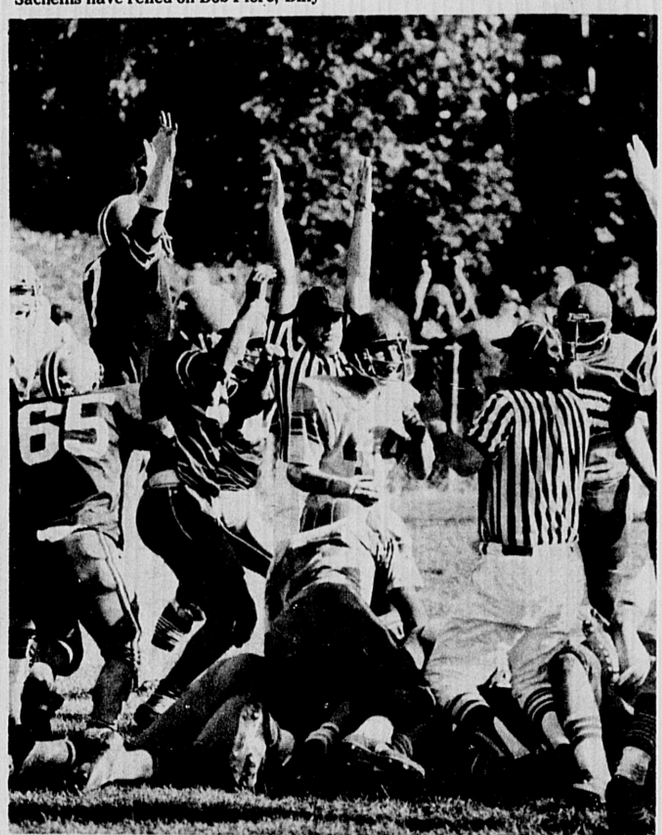
The fact that he has three competent receivers in Steve Wolfe, Brad Cowen and Rick Monturi doesn't hurt his average. Wolfe in particular has been a standout this season with some sure fingered grabs.

The backfield suffered a severe loss when halfback Don MacMillan broke his jaw in the Watertown game. His outside speed complemented the inside game of fullback Jeff Micciche. As a result, the Sachems have relied on Bob Fiore, Billy Rogers and Dave Criscione to pick up the slack, an indication of their depth in the skill positions.

And Thursday they'll all be fused together for perhaps the last time. It is that aspect of the Thanksgiving game that perhaps means the most. For the seniors it is their last day in a Winchester uniform,. Whether there's any type of title involved or not, the players want that last win, they want to feel it one more time. Everybody wants to go out a winner.

So that's the bottom line. These two teams have kept an eye on each other from afar for nine games and now they come face to face. Forget about any rankings, forget about the brag. It's to time to get down to cases.

Woburn wants a football game folks. The Sachems are ready to give 'em one.



Touchdown! With only seconds to go in the game, quarterback Gary Errico snuck in for the score and the Sachems had a hard fought 14-7 victory over the Minutemen of Lexington.

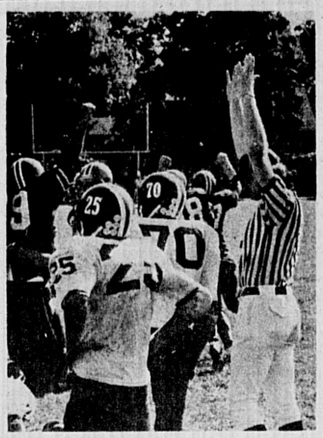
The Belmont game was a breeze for the Sachems this year, defeating the Marauders in Belmont 23-0. Steve Wolfe (above white) had another one of his steady games, despite being broken up on this play by Belmont's Chris Starr.



With his fist high in the air, fullback Jeff Micciche (left) celebrates scoring the Sachems first touchdown of the year, and winning score against a downcast Natick club.

Sachems Showed Guts, Marshall's Hoping For Glory

Above all, Winchester football coach Manny Marshall wants his players to enjoy themselves and work to their limits. "That's all you can ask of someone," he said last week. "You try to have some fun and not accept mediocrity."

And isn't that what it's really all about? Year from now, when wins and losses have been blurred together in memories, it will be the experience of the year, the good times, that this team will carry with them.

Which isn't to say that winning is secondary to Marshall. His credo, "No guts, no glory," is something he believes in. "That's right. That's what it's all about," he said earlier this season. "The mistakes we can take care of."

But his players nust have a desire to win and that drive stems from their coach. Pacing the sidelines with his headset on, getting an eagles's view of opposing formations from his assistant coaches in the press box, Marshall yells at referees, he yells at his players. He's in the game.

"Hey Donny, Donny, we want a touchdown, cut back inside. Get in the ballgame Peter. That's how to get in there Lenny. Look downfield on that play Gary and we've got a touchdown."

As any coach should be he's loyal to his team. He took the blame for Winchester's only loss this year, a thumping by Melrose when the Sachems were simply flat. "I thought we were ready, but we weren't," he said after the game. "And that's my job."

Criticize any part of his club, whether it's justified or not, and you'll get some type of argument. The only way opponents have consistently moved against the Sachems this year has been by passing the ball. True, Marshall will reluctantly agree, but hey, even the pros pass well against each other. "They can say what they want abut about our guys," he began following the Lexington game this year. "But they've given up only three touchdowns in four games and that's not too bad."

Actually, with eight wins in nine tries and a legitimate shot at the Middlesex League title tomorrow, the whole program isn't too bad. In fact, after a season of plenty of guts, Manny Marshall and his team just might find some glory.

The Tumblettes, whether flipping, rolling, splitting or spinning, always gave the fans a treat at the games.

Coach Manny Marshall confers with quarterback Gary Errico during the Reading game. Errico apparently listened well to Marshall's wise words as he had a fine game in the Sachems 28-14 win.

The Big W

Behind Every Great Team Are The Great Cheerleaders

It's been said that when David bounced a rock off Golaith's head, he had a group of cheerleaders on the sideline. Rumor has it every time one of the Christians took on a lion, the pom-poms were going wild. And a few other people say that before Washington crossed the Deleware, his revoluntionary cheerleaders helped him get psyched.

With the Winchester High football team, the cheerleaders are a big part of the Sachem Family. "They (the football team) consider us sort of family," said says cheerleader Maryann Wade. "We are Sachem sisters."

Their job goes beyond just showing up at the game each week and making some noise. They start getting the team psyched for Saturday's game the night before. On Friday evening they decorate the players' homes with toilet paper and signs. Then they joi the team on Saturday morning, cruising around town, getting ready for whoever they're playing.

"It's fun, that's what we like to do," notes senior cheerleader Janice DeCillis. "But we're not clicky. Some girls just don't get into cheering. We all have different friends."

"The players have told us that we really help them get psyched for a game," points out Molly Gibson. "They said to us that it really made a difference to them to have us there," Wade adds.

So they're there every week, leading the faithful. And they join the team on a ride of emotions that carries for 10 weeks. They go wild when the club scores, celebrate when they win and hurt when they lose.

They also seem to know as much about the high school football scene as the players themselves. "Medford's cheerleaders have already bought their players Super Bowl jackets," Wade notes. "But they won't even be there," adds Gibson. "We will."

And are they ready for the Thanksgiving Day game? Ask them. "Winchester's going to kill Woburn and we're going to the Super Bowl," they all agree.

Whether they used one drum or three, the Winchester high school band always sounded bigger than they were, providing excellent halftime entertainment for the fans.

The Winchester High School Cheerleaders: Debbie Lizotte, co-captain, Susan Mahoney, co-captain, Laura Adamkowski, Darryl Brian, Peg Burchard, Barbie Coughlin, Janice DeCillis, Dawn DiMarzo, Denise Fava, Molly Gibson, Nancy Kawa, Linda Marotta, Beth O'Neil, Judy Perritano, Cathie Phalen and Maryann Wade. Sandra Barsanti is the advisor.

About Town

Darryl G. Smith was the moderator of a recent panel discussion on "How to Use the District Court as a Resource for Teaching About the Law" held at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. The program was sponsored by the Cambridge Institute of Law-Related Education.

Gary Stewart, a senior at New England Regional Vocational School in Wakefield was among the team of student automotive technicians from the school who won the Silver Anniversary Skills Competition sponsored by General Motors.

Two Winchester raised brothers competed and completed the recent 17-mile marathon race in New York City. Ivy circle resident Robert McGoldrick, and his brother, James, who now lives in Stoneham, were among the competitors.

Katharine E. Dorsey, a senior at Trinity College, will play the part of the parlor maid in the theatre arts program's production of Arthur Schnitzler's "La Ronde." A 1976 graduate of Winchester High School, she is the daughter of Mrs. Nancy D. Summers of Thornberry road.

Ann Perrault is a member of the Massachusetts Music Teachers' Association which is planning its 18th annual convention for Nov. 17-18 at Paine Hall of Harvard University.

Local residents planning the annnul Christmas Shoppe at St. Sebastian's Country Day School in Newton include: Mrs. Gerald F. Dionne, Mrs. John Fahey, Mrs. Edward V. McCarthy and Mrs. John M. Harrington Jr. The Christmas Shoppe is planned for Dec. 8.

Mrs. Steven Lerman is one of 50 volunteers taking part this year in Project Eye-Opener at Boston's Museum of Science.

Started 11 years ago, Project Eye-Opener offers second graders of inner city schools an opportunity for a free Museum visit.

Two local residents recently received promotions at The First National Bank in Boston. Chisholm road resident John A. Lacey was named vice president of retail banking. Henry L. Petrillo of Mystic Valley parkway was named as the accounting officer of finance.

Two local girls are studying advertising design at the Art Institute of Fort Lauderdale in Florida. They are: Toni M. Vacca, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Vacca, and Laura J. Cammarata, daughter of Mrs. Marion J. Danehy.

Corrine Bezjian was one of nearly 200 high school students from throughout New England who attended an Open House at Wheelock College in Boston.

LaGrange street resident David J. Saliba is a member of the committee planning the annual Suffolk University Law School Alumni Dinner to be held Dec. 6 at the Park Plaza Hotel in Boston.

Elyse Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilson of Grassmere avenue, will lead a special concert of contemporary music Nov. 29 at 4:30 p.m. in the Berklee Recital Hall. The concert is entitled "In All My Dreams."

A graduate of Winchester High School and Middlebury College, she has served as the Music Director of Camp Billings in Ely, Vermont. She is now studying composition at Berklee College of Music.

Town Meeting Votes Against Cutting Buildings And Grounds Position

In what was the most debated issue of the evening, the Town Meeting voted 83-23 against Article 15 Thursday night, keeping the position of Buildings and Grounds Manager at the Public Works Department.

The article, which was submitted by petition and sought to remove that position from the DPW, was nearly postponed from consideration as supporters wanted to wait until the spring Town Meeting after a Finance Committee recommendation. FinCom considered it a budget issue which are normally dealt with during that session.

Town Meeting member Michael Saraco told Town Meeting members that he was in favor of postponing the article, if the Board of Selectmen would promise not to fill the Buildings and Grounds Manager position, which is presently vacant. "I don't want to see anyone get hired and then fired," said Saraco.

Saraco then stated, noting that there are two vacancies in the Public Works Department management at the moment, that "the time has come for another reorganization." We have two vacancies now that can be picked up."

Richard Wilsack, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, which supported the motion to postpone the article until the spring, said that "this position is a key part of our organization. The Board of Selectmen intend to fill this position because it is required."

Saraco countered by saying he'd take out a paid ad in the newspaper to warn anyone applying for the job that it might be eliminated in May. "Believe me, I'm going to pursue this. I just don't want to see anyone get hired and then fired."

A vote on the motion to postpone was then taken, and lost by a total of 74-31. It appeared at this point, that many Town Meeting members were ready to seriously consider eliminating the position. What followed was what one town Town Meeting member called., "significant debate" on the main motion.

Town Manager Thomas Groux, armed with an overhead graph of the breakdown of Winchester's town government, told the Town Meeting that the posit8ion in question was the largest in responsibilities at the DPW, after the director. "I would suggest you consider the size of the department," said Groux. He then termed the job of Buildingss and Grounds Manager "the most central and most critical" position in that department.

Groux went on to point out at that not only would it be "unreasonable" for the director of the DPW, Walter Tonaszuck, and others to assume the duties that go with the Buildings and Grounds Manager's position, but that jobs shouldn't be reviewed for closure in the first place, merely because they are open.

Town Meeting member Otto Schaefer pointed out that the residents of California reached a point last year where they felt their taxes were simply too much, leading to the passing of Proposition 13, which caused a number of state, city and local divisions to be streamlined.

"We earnestly would like you to find ways to use two instead of three executives when it makes sense," Schaefer told the Town Manager.

Finance Committee member Robert Frank spoke against cutting the position. "What we're being asked to do is eliminate a position because, by chance, it happens to be open."

Selectmen Edward O'Connell and Wade Welch also sided with Groux and spoke against eliminating the DPW post. "I think it would be very ill timed for this Town Meeting to get into the organizational aspects of this town at this time," said O'Connell.

"This is not the place is not the job and this is not the time," Welch added. He noted that this position also provides the technical expertise for the in-house energy committee.

Another opponent of cutting the job, Town Meeting member David Mortensen, said that "what is proposed here

School Committee Accepts Two New Central Jobs, Debates Salary

The School Committee last week voted 4-2 in favor of creating two systemwide positions - a director for curriculum and a director for personnel - after some debate as to the maximum starting salary of each.

The Committee favored a maximum starting salary of $34,000 after Supt. of Schools William MacDonald, noting that the starting salaries in several communities are within the $36,000-$40,000 range, suggested the School Committee start at $27,000-$31,000 for each. This salary recommendation was based on a 12-month year job classification to start July 1, 1980.

Several committee members felt the superintendent's recommendation was too low. Heinrich Holland said it bothered him the salaries were so low since Winchester elementary school principals, with the exception of those with their doctorate, receive $28,500.

MacDonald said the recommended salaries are in the middle of what 22 other communities offer. Cathy Alexander, one of the three-member subcommittee appointed to study the central office structure, said the salaries recommended are "pertinent, up to date and in line with this system."

Roger Bauman said that if the starting salary is at a rate lower than an elementary school principal he is afraid the jobs would not attract applicants.

Agreeing with Bauman, Committee Chairman Constance Papas said, "I don't find equity in the salary we're offering. If we want first class people, we ought to do a first class job in attracting them."

MacDonald, saying he was not opposed to the Committee's raising the starting salary level, noted that if the Committee so voted similar attention should be given to the present central administraation staff.

Sandra Rodgers, also a member of the subcommittee, said that the subcommittee had felt this starting range was right for these positions.

MacDonald told the Committee he plans to advertise for the two positions Nov. 26, and hopes to be able to bring a recommendation before the full Committee Feb. 11, 1980. The starting date for these two jobs is scheduled for July 1, 1980.

The recommendation of the two positions came out of an appointment last year of a subcommittee to study two alternatives for the central office structure.

The subcommittee, comprised of Macdonald, Rodgers and Alexander, studied two alternatives: one person responsible for elementary education and personnel and one responsible for secondary education and personnel vs. one responsible for personnel systemwide and one responsible for systemwide curriculum.

In a subcommittee report the second alternative was recommended for several reasons: it minimizes difficulties and implementation of policy; eliminates a potential problem of dividing the school system into two distinct parts; avoids duplication of effort; answers the need for one person to monitor teachers contracts; and provides the necessary expertise in both curriculum and personnel.

Both positions were considered in view of the retirement of Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction Walter Gleason at the end of this school year.

The dissenting votes in the Committee's final approval were Alexander and Mary Jean Weylman.

Thanksgiving In Winchester 1979

By ELIZABETH M. FERRARINI

Thanksgiving, which the Pilgrims are credited to have been the first to celebrate, is regarded today as a time to band together with family and friends and celebrate with a hearty meal. Dr. Richard L. Ehrlich, director of research at the Plimoth Plantation, Plymouth believes the first Thanksgiving in 1621 was actually a harvest festival with plenty of food, games and laughter, not a religious observance.

Thanksgiving was also a tradition which the Pilgrims had become acquainted with during the years they spent in Holland after fleeing from England. The Pilgrims observed the Dutch day of Thanksgiving each Oct. 3, which was celebrated to commemorate the deliverance of the Dutch from the oppression of the Spaniards. This day of thanks was important to the Dutch people and probably influenced the Pilgrims to give thanks after surviving their first bitter winter in the New World.

This year Winchester residents, along with millions of others across the nation, will celebrate in much the same way as the Pilgrims.

"Thanksgiving is a time to have the family over and just have a nice day," says Winchester Patrolman C. Vozzella.

Anne Guletsky and Dennis Delaney agree that Thanksgiving is a time for family and friends.

Getting together with friends and family and giving thanks for everything is how Michele pascuito views the day.

"Turkey is synonymous with Thanksgiving," says photographer and Winchester resident Arthur Griffin, whose works appear in the book "New England, Visited and Revisited."

Ray Bird says it is the only time he gets to see his whole family.

"The nice thing about Thanksgiving is that it's not a commercial holiday like Christmas or Easter," says Priscilla Bowman.

Thanksgiving has a deeper meaning to other Winchester residents.

"It's a time to be thankful to be alive," says Ed Earlandson.

George Littell, owner of Gateway Travel, says "It's a time to hope that the world will be a better place to live in."

An unidentified resident says that Thanksgiving is a time to be grateful the whole family can get together. This year's Thanksgiving is the 12th anniversary of her nephew's death in Vietnam.

Winchester Fireman Norman Doucette says it is a good time for him to give thanks for everything that has happened in the past year.

Football is also included as part of the celebration festivities for Winchester residents on Thanksgiving.

Philip Brian is having 19 people over for dinner and then is going to see his daugheter cheer at the Winchester-Woburn football game. Ralph D'Agostino says more people will be going to football games this Thanksgiving, especially the Winchester-Woburn game. Patrolman Vozzella is looking forward to watching football games on television.

Several women did not care to comment on the holiday, but a man scurrying out of a local bank said, "It's just another holiday."

Town Meeting Axes Garbage Collection Article By 53-74 Vote

By a 53-74 vote Monday night, Town Meeting members defeated Article 19 requesting that the Board of Selectmen arrange a schedule of garbage collection at regular intervals for persons requesting this service.

In explaining his petition article, Harrison Chadwick, a former Town Meeting Moderator and initiator of the Article, said that the collection of garbage is a public service that should be rendered by the community. Several persons in town, Chadwick said, find it difficult to transport garbage to the Transfer Station. Elderly and those without vehicular transportation were cited. "It's a public health issue" Chadwick said.

Selectman Wade Welch, in saying that he was in favor of the motion, noted that the $19,000 which was to have been appropriated by general surplus to provide for garbage collection through July 1, 1980, could be reduced to $6,000. The $19,000 was to have included four collection persons; $6,000 would be for two persons to collect garbage.

The Board of Selectmen should be instructed to come through with proposals, Welch said. He also mentioned that a defeated referendum following Town Meeting last spring indicated that a large number of residents favor garbage collection.

Chairman of The Board of Selectmen Richard Wilsack said it was the Board's position that, if passed, garbage collection should be self-supporting. To have the service provided by the town would require capital expenditures, Wilsack said.

In recommending unfavorable action on this Article Finance Committee Chairman Carolyn Ward said, "It makes no fiscal sense to provide this service to a rapidly shrinking population."

Town Meeting member Jessie Salter, in noting her support of the Article, mentioned a letter plus several phone calls she received asking her support of the Article. "We really should give this consideration and vote back the collections" she said.

Clarence Borggaard, also a Town Meeting member, said he would like to see the town save money but not in this way. It should be reinstated regardless of cost, said Borggaard.

Chadwick, in saying he was assured by town officials that contracting the services out would be less expensive than having the services provided by the town, noted that the Town of Concord contracts out for similar services. The Selectmen ought to have all options open to them after having the opportunity to investigate, Chadwick said.

The two-part motion read as follows:

1. Moved that the Board of Selectmen shall provide for the public collection of garbage in the town. Said collection of may be made by the Department of Public Works or by contract. Residents wishing such service shall file a request in writing with the Board of Health.

The Board of Selectmen shall arrange a schedule of collection at regular intervals for persons requesting this service and may charge a small fee to be billed not oftener thatn semi-annually.

2. Moved that $19,000 be appropriated by general surplus to provide for the public collection of garbage by the town to July 1, 1980.

An amendment which would have not required "a small fee to be billed not oftener than semi-annually" was defeated.

On an oral motion by Selectman Wade Welch, Town Meeting voted indefinite postponement of Article 18.

Also receiving indefinite postponement Monday night were Articles 16,17 and 18. Town Meeting will convene Nov. 29 to act on Articles 9 and 20. The Nov. 29 session is expected to be the last session of this Town Meeting.

Funds For Pilot Study Of Water System Defeated

After approximately 90 minutes of debate, in which it appeared that Town Meeting members were confused and ill-informed on the merits of Article 6, indefinite postponement was voted on a request to appropriate $35,00 for a pilot study of alternate treatment methods and improvements to the distribution system of the town's water supply.

Based on the results of a consultant's study, a conclusion had been drawn that microscreening should be used to get rid of biological particles in the water while two other methods, ozonation and super chlorination & dechlorination would be used to dispose of the chemical problems. The funds requested would have been used to study the microscreening process.

Director of Public Works Walter Tonaszuck said the pilot study was being limited to the microscreening process because of the hydraulic advanag advantages of this system, and the relative low cost for solving the problem on an interim (10-year) basis. Absolute filtration of the system is not being considered because of the expense involved.

The pilot study is required by the Mass. Dept. of Environmental Quality Engineering prior to the implementation of systems and subject to the full review and approval.

Microscreening consists of a cylindrical drum with a winely woven mesh covering. It's a form of simple filtration which would make the water of a more healthy and consistent quality, Tonaszuck said.

Approval was being sought at this

Last week following the Winchester Chamber of Commerce showing of a film on preserving the architecural heritage of downtown districts, workmen were busy covering over the brick and dentil work on the Locatelli Block where a new bank is soon to open. The film, produced by the National Trust For Historic Preservation, got a lot of local businessmen thinking about what could be done in Winchester and the current construction at this Main street building caused considerable comment. State Orders Full Revaluation, Town Meeting Approves Funds

With Winchester facing legal action if they fail to comply with a directive from the state, Town Meeting voted 109-16 Thursday night to appropriate $200,000 for the purpose of a full revaluation of the town's property.

"There's no alternative, basically," Board of Assessors Chairman George Andersen told the Town Meeting. "A complete revaluation is required to comply with the directive." Andersen went on to say that if the article in question, Article 5, were voted down, "the Board feels that the Town Meeting has defied the state," and would most likely be subject to legal action from the Commonwealth.

Winchester is being ordered to revalue all the property in town so that it can tax by classification at 100 percent of the value of the property. The order is the result of an affirmative vote on a referendum question which residents of the Commonwealth voted on last November, requiring all communities who haven't already done so, to be at 100 percent.

The process involved appraises all of the property in town at full value, then a percentage factor will be applied which will lead to the true value of the property. The percentage factors for the three classes in Massachusetts; commercial, industrial and personal,all being one set, residential and finally raw land, have not yet been determinesd by the state Department of Revenue. The previous percentages were removed with the signing of a bill by Gov. Edward King on Friday which reorganized the classification set-up.

The process will reduce the total assessment of property, but probably raise property taxes.

The Board of Assessors, pointing out to the state that Winchester underwent a property assessment in 1968, was hoping that the data collected at that time could be used when reassessing property now in a neighborhood factoring system. This would have saved the town at least $100,000. The state did not permit this process however, suggesting that many of the properties in Winchester's 22 neighborhoods may have changed in the past 11 years. "The decision was made by the state that we have to have a complete revaluation," Anderson pointed out.

Andersen received a letter Nov. 8 from Jane H. Malme, counsel and director of Uniform Assessments for the state Department of Revenue which informed him that the factoring program would "not satisfy the Commissioner's standards for certification." The letter congratulated Andersen and his board for maintaining the level of uniformity in assessments it has for the past 11 years. But Malme added, "applying a percentage factor now would only magnify existing inequities and require further expenditures in the immediate future to meet the requirements of law."

Andersen pointed out that there is presently legislation on the state level which would require towns to be at no less than 10 percent of 100 percent valuation on an annual basis. Accordingly, Andersen stated, an assessment would have to be done on a yearly or every other year schedule. He added that his board has not yet figured out how this would be done.

Carolyn Ward, chairman of the Finance Committee, told the Town Meeting members that her committee supported the article, adding that "there seems to be little doubt that we must comply with the state mandate."

Town Meeting member Sally Kincaid asked Andersen why $200,000 was needed for the revaluation and if a company had been selected for the process or would bidding be initiated.

Andersen stated that two bids have been submitted, one by a company that stated their fee would be $500 a day, without indicating when they would be finished. The other bid was from Patton Associates of Burlington, who gave a figure of $190,000 for the entire project. "We plan to obtain several more bids before we decide on the firm that will do the job," said the Andersen.

He also told the Town Meeting that other towns in this area have spent over $200,000 to have their communities revaluated. But he feels that $200,000 should be sufficient for the job.

Town Counsel Douglas Randall told the Town Meeting that "we've run out of free choices." He went on to say that he would be "loathe" to be taken to court by the state should the Town Meeting not approve the appropriation.

Town Meeting member Robert Johnson asked if the town could appeal the letter. Andersen first and answered that "my reaction is that we don't have any argument to propose to the state." Randall agreed stating "there is no formal appellate process," that the town could turn to in this case and pointed out that the decision is an administrative one.

Andersen told the members that the revaluation process would be a "complete inspection" of every property in town. All parcels would be rated and classified. He emphasized that "you really should spend the money, do the best job possible and comply with the state."

Town Meeting member Otto Schaefer pointed out that he was aware of other appraisals that were done by college students at a much cheaper price.

Andersen replied that the inspection would be a thorough one, more than "college kids going up and down the street with clipboards."

Perhaps the most telling comment of the evening was raised by Town Meeting member Walter Farrell, who questioned how the state could expect the town to stay under the four percent tax cap, while ordering Winchester to appropriate the necessary funds for the revaluation.

★ Water

Town Meeting so that test could have begun in early summer to examine the water at its worst. The findings of these tests would have been submitted to the state as well as to a future Town Meeting.

Chairman Carolyn Ward, in speaking for the Finance Committee, recommended favorable action on the Article as a necessary portion of examination of the entire water system. Both the distribution and solution have to be examined, she said.

State Representative Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh, who is also a Town Meeting member, told those present that the town is faced with two problems: the quality of the water from the Reservoir and within the distribution system itself.

Saltmarsh then outlined relevant state legislation and Winchester's eleigibility in receiving matching state funds. After approval of an amendment to state legislation in which communities served by the MDC could receive matching assistance for construction of a water filtration system, Winchester, (which receives one-half of its water supply from the MDC), could be eligible for these monies.

One Town Meeting member questioned what will be learned from a pilot study which examines only one method for removing junk.

Tonaszuck replied that there might be only one study, however, there are a variety of screenings which need to be tested.

Maurice DiBlasi, with the assistance of slides showing samples of Winchester's water supply, that microscreening will not solve the taste and odor problems. The funds should instead be used to get the distribution system in shape, he said.

In summing up from a "layman's point," Selectman Barbara Hankins said that there is a serious distribution problem which will be addressed in the spring, however, the water quality problem is being addressed now. Although microscreening has had problems in other communities, it is "the most inexpensive short term solution to a very serious problem."

High School Headache May End With Master's Decision

The recent Master's decision concerning the law suit the town has brought against White Construction Co. over Winchester High School, as well as the architect of that building and the bonding company, may have signalled the beginning of the end of a long legal headache for Winchester.

The decision, a draft of the final version which both sides expect to receive sometime next week, was presented Nov. 8 and awarded Winchester $668,001. The town has also settled with at least one defendent for the sum of $125,984.

The suit, which has been in litagation for about three years, was brought about when, according to town officials, the roof and windows of Winchester High began leaking during the wet weather.

According to Richard W. Renehan, an attorney with the firm of Hill and Barlow, who is representing the town, an agreement has been made which prohibits Winchester from revealing whom they have settled with.

Renehan did point out that the early indications of the Master's report show that "plainly, the town of Winchester was the prevailing party."

The master's decision was preceeded by a hearing which is a common legal proceeding in this sort of case where it is apparent in the beginning that there would not be a quick conclusion.

The master himself is a lawyer, appointed by the court to sit in and hear the arguments of both parties. In the suit concerning the high school, White Construction Co. first sued Winchester to recover the retainage fee which the town had not paid. The retainage, totalling $96,281, was withheld when the problems with the high school's construction were discovered.

The retainage fee reflects a percentage held from each requisition as the job progresses, to be paid only when the job is finally completed.

The town then counter-sued White Construction for the damages. "The town said, in effect, that you owe us far more than the retainage," Renehan points out.

After Winchester counter-sued, according to Renehan, it then requested the court to appoint a master. In Winchester's case, the master appointed was attorney Malcolm M. Donahue.

Generally, the final draft of a master's decision does not vary much from the original. Should it remain as is in this case, there is the possibility that the case might still continue.

"Until the court has acted on a request to confirm the master's report, we won't know whether White Construction Co. intends to go ahead with a jury trial," said Renehan.

The losing side in the master's decision, in other words, has the right of appeal, That appeal would be heard before a jury trial where the master's report would be presented as prima facia evidence, according to Renehan.

"The master's decision determined two issues," Renehan points out. "First, it decided what were the total damages the town suffered. Second, it stated how those damages should be portioned among the various parties. Who pays what."

Regardless of how White Construction acts after the final decision is confirmed, apparently town officials feel secure in the case, as they appropriated $50,000 at Town Meeting last week for specifications and bids on the reconstruction and repair of the high school.

Local Mechant s Open Stores On Friday Nights

Starting Dec. 7 most local merchants will be open Friday nights until 9 p.m. For the last two weeks before Christmas, several merchants will also be open weekday evenings as well as 1-5 p.m. on the four Sundays prior to Christmas.

Coordinating Friday night shopping and extra hours for Christmas shopping was accomplished primarily through the efforts of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce.

The first major step taken to petition the State Legislature to incorporate South Woburn into a separate town was at a meeting held in the vestry of the Congregational Church Monday Nov. 26, 1849 at 6:30 p.m. Names under consideration for the new town included Appleton, Winthrop, Avon, Channing, Waterville and Winchester.

★Manager

is that we, as a legislative body, all of a sudden one night in November, cut out an administrative position. The only reason I have heard for cutting this position is to save that amount of salary."

There were proponents for the article in the audience however. "It just seems to me," began one Town Meeting member, "that if this position is an essential position, the town wouldn't have let it go unfilled." The vacancy in the Buildings and Grounds Manager's office started on Sept. 28.

"I believe that the function can be performed by some other person somewhere else," added another member supporting the article.

Town Meeting member Clara Hewis, one of the major supporters of the article, told her fellow members that "the reason it (Article 15) was brought before you is because it was an unnecessary, expensive position. Money and size are not the same. The budget has increased dramatically." Hewis went on to state that if the position was eliminated and services deteriorated significantly, the spring Town Meeting could reinstate it.

Tonaszuck followed Hewis by stating "the elimination of this job will severely disrupt public works effective organization."

Town Meeting member Jan Meades, who had been sworn into Precinct Six only that night during the break, made her mark by telling the members "if you eliminate this position you're going to be paying for it, and paying for it and paying for it from now until doomsday. You don't know what the content of the job is, you don't know what the workload is."

It was the speech by Meades, many thought, which convinced the members to finally vote 83-22 against the proposal.

On other matters, the Town Meeting voted, by a voice vote, in favor of Article 10, which will establish a revolving account out of funds received by the School Committeein connection with certain school-community programs.

According to School Committee member Sandra Rodgers who presented the supporting argument for the article before the Town Meeting, the fees are involved with three accounts. The adult programs, which include adult education and the open gym program at the high school, the summer school program and school building rentals.

"Continual increases in salaries and other fixed costs in the school budget makes it more difficult to offer these programs," Rodgers told the members.

Rodgers projected the figures of the expenses and incomes for these three programs for fiscal year 1979. With adult education and open gym being combined into one account, the total cost of that account is $21,245, while the total income from these two programs is $18,294. The adult education program actually pays for itself with a cost of $14,164 and an income of $16,195.

In the other accounts, the summer school cost in fiscal year 1979 is $26,541 and the income for that program is $19,220. The cost for building rentals is $12,836 with an income of $7,065.

According to Rodgers, what has happened in the past is that these programs were payed for out of the School Departments's budget, but the income would go into the town's general surplus account. In other words, the money never made it back to the School Department.

Rodgers noted that Medford and Belmont have revolving accounts for the same programs. "If the proposal for revolving accounts is passed, everyone will win and no one will lose."

She stated that the revolving account would bring about a more efficient accounting process. "This is the basic rational for the proposal," commented.

The Selectmen voted 3-2 in favor of the proposal, with Welch and Arthur Dunbar against the article. Welch told the Town Meeting that there was no indirect costs revealed in Rogers' report, pointing out that the energy costs involved in the programs mentioned had not yet been determined.

The Town Meeting also voted in favor of Article 14, establishing a town wide committee for equal opportunity. Town Meeting member Robert D. Beattie told the members that the proposal was "prompted in part" by the report of the U.S. Department of Justice in April of 1978.

School Committee Chairman Constance Papas told the members that the "burdens for social change should not be placed solely on the shoulders of our school children."

Wilsack, representing the Selectmen, also supported the article. "There is a need in this community for a committee on equal opportunity."

Business Publicity Workshop

On Nov. 29 the Winchester Star and the Chamber of Commerce are co-sponsoring a publicity workshop geared to local businesses on what makes news, writing news releases releases, and how publicity can be an effective business tool.

A publicity workshop for local organizations and committees will be held at a later date. Pre-registration is necessary. Call The Star for details on both workshops. The Nov. 29 date will be held from 9 to 10:30 a.m. at The Star's Church street office.

Malcolm Masters

Mal Masters Enjoys Sporting Year 'Round

By DOROTHEA COPECK-NOLAN

Fate brought Malcolm "Mal" Masters and canoeing together. When he was born in 1910, it was in a house near the old canoe house by Wedgemere Station. After he met his wife, Claire, she started him canoeing, hoping he would hike less.

Now, as a retiree, Masters leads canoe trips for local senior citizens and for the Appalachian Mountain Club, of which he and his wife have been members for 20 years. An expert white water canoeist, Masters and his wife have both led AMC trips in New Hampshire and Maine.

Local Boy Scouts got their first taste of canoeing when Masters introduced them to his hobby, to the slight dismay of other troop leaders who though canoeing to be$too dangerous. However, confident in the safety of a well-managed canoe, Masters even brought his four-year-old son along on the trip. Scout membership then mushroomed, and Masters's group was the most coveted because of its annual canoe trips.

But, one can't canoe year round, so Masters turns his concentration to hiking in the off-season. To date, he has climbed all of New England's 63 "4,000 footers." Although he didn't set out with that in mind, once he climbed 30 peaks approximately 30 peaks - "it seemed like a nice idea."

He has climbed Mt. Washington countless times, first while training for MIT's Cross Country Team. As a student he used to caddy for the Mt. Washington Hotel where, on days off, he'd climb a mountain "just for fun."

After receiving a master's degree from MIT in electrical engineering, Masters's climbing interest increased. His study at home is filled with maps and guidebooks, some of which he has had a hand in writing through his work for the Metropolitan Distric Commission in the Middlesex Fells Reservation. (He is mentioned in the AMC guidebook for Massachusetts and Rhode Island for his contribution in mapping the Fells).

Masters first became involved in patrolling the Fells after a heart attack 10 years ago. Looking for some easy hikes, he found the Fells' property poorly maintained because of a lack of MDC funds. While still in the hospital he studied the 1935 map of The Fells and began planning its revision.

With much leg and "wheel" work (using a bicycle to measure distances) Masters has updated the map original map and still sees room for improvement.

Through the "Save The Fells" group, which he hopes will soon be reorganized, he helped provide the MDC Mounted Police with walkie talkies to improve their effectiveness. Now he periodically patrols the Fells, clearing away fallen trees, color-coding trails and occasionally rerouting a trail to prevent erosion or provide a better view.

In the spring, summer and fall, Masters leads hikes through the Fells. And, come winter, if the snow is good, he leads snowshoeing trips.

Since retiring in 1972 from the Boston Edison Company, Masters, who was once chaimran of the Winchester Seniors' Association, is now content to occasionally moderate a meeting if the current chairman is absent. Once instrumental in the construction of the Jenks Senior Center, he is now active in several of its programs programs, including square dancing and bridge.

The Masters's enjoy things they can do together and he says he is never happier than when he is doing things with or for others. "There's much more fun in life from helping others - you've got to lend a hand."

Beacon Hill Roll Call

The House and Senate

"The nays have it and the bill is not ordered to a third reading, is not reconsidered, is not engrossed."

These phrases have signalled the death of thousands of bills in the 1979 session of the Massachusetts Legislature. In the next few days, however, sponsors of these bills are readying the necessary paperwork to refile these measures for consideration in the 1980 session, scheduled to convene on Jan. 1, a scant few weeks down the road.

This week, Beacon Hill Roll Call reviews several key measures defeated in the upper and lower branch on roll call votes during the past few months. Most, if not all of these bills, will be refiled for the 1980 session, and while many are doomed to defeat again, many were defeated by slim margins and stand a real chance for passage next year.

Many bills which were scoffed at just a few sessions ago, have since become law. Also incuded in this week's report are your local legislators' final attendance records for the 1979 session. The figures are based on 443 roll calls in the House and 331 in the Senate.

Editor's note: Any Massachusetts citizen may file a bill for consideration by the legislature. The bill must be sponsored by the local representative or senator, or any of the state's 160 representatives and 40 senators. The deadline for the filing of a bill for consideration in the 1980 session is Dec. 5. Contact local legislators for details and assistance.

Zero Cap - House rejected 119-37, Senate rejected 33-4, the zero cap, freezing spending by Massachusetts cities and towns at last year's level, unless overridden by the local governing body. While a 4 percent cap did receive approval this year, zero cap supporters have not given up the battle and the economy could add fuel to next year's drive for a zero freeze.

Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr. voted against it.

Sen. Samuel Rotondi voted against it.

Pre-Primary Conventions - House defeated 105-38, Senate defeated 22-13, different versions of bills restoring pre-primary conventions for political parties in Massachusetts. Similar measures to restore political conventions have been filed since the gatherings were abolished several years ago and supporters plan to refile the measures, but hold out little hope of passage.

Saltmarsh voted for it.

Rotondi voted against it.

Fiscal Autonomy - House defeated 102-47, a bill limiting fiscal autonomy of school committees by allowing a local committee's budget to be reduced by a four-fifths plus one vote of town meeting or city council.

Senate killed 34-1, a stronger bill limiting fiscal autonomy and allowing a two-thirds vote of a city council or town meeting to reduce, amend or strike any item in a local school committee budget. Massachusetts is the only state in the nation with absolute fiscal autonomy and with these wide margins of defeat, it is likely to remain so.

Saltmarsh voted for it

Rotondi voted against it.

Blood Banks - House approved 76-68, then rejected 116-29, while Senate approved 14-12, the controversial bill allowing two private, commercial blood banks owned by Joseph Beatice, to collect blood from donors in their own laboratories.

The bill had passed both branches just before the August recess, and was then killed in the House after a public outcry against it. Massachusetts is the only state in the nation that prohibits private, paid blood donations and is likely to remain so since it is unlikely the bill will be approved if it is refiled.

Saltmarsh voted against it.

Rotondi voted for it.

Gay Rights - House rejected 78-75, a bill prohibiting discrimination against homosexuals in civil service jobs. Senate tabled 19-17, a different version of a gay rights bill, basically making it unlawful to discriminate on the basis of affectional and sexual preference. The three-vote margin in the House and the two-vote difference in the Senate promise a tough fight and a realistic chance for passage next year.

Saltmarsh voted against it.

Rotondi voted for it.

TV and Radio Coverage - House defeated 101-52, a measure allowing formal House sessions to be covered by both commercial and public radio and television. The verdict and reviews on recent TV and radio coverage of the US Congresss are mixed.

Although supporters plan to push again for permitting coverage in Massachusetts, passage is unlikely, but after the outrage over early morning action on the pay raise issue, they may gain a few converts.

Saltmarsh voted against it.

Proposition 2 1-2 - House rejected 134-11, a bill which supporters attempted to substitute for the one imposing a 4 percent cap on cities and towns. The substitute bill included Proposition 2 1-2, limiting property taxes to 2.5 percent of market value of the property; abolition of absolute fiscal autonomy; and a requirement that the state fund all state-mandated programs. Supporters do not expect the entire package to meet approval, but hold out hope for individual aspects of it.

Saltmarsh voted for it.

Campaign Funds - House rejected 79-73, a bill prohibiting excess campaign funds from being converted to personal use by a candidate. Supporters hope to overcome the slim six-vote margin of defeat and next year being an election year could add fuel to their effort.

Saltmarsh voted for it.

Winchester's Town Hall: A Local Landmark Since 1888

By HENRY SIMONDS

As early as 1850 the subject of erecting a Town Hall was discussed. At that time it was proposed that a building be erected which would contain a town hall as well as a high school, but the proposal was turned down.

In 1851 the Lyceum building in the center was built by Sumner Richardson and dedicated on Jan. 7, 1852. The town now had a building which could be used for town meetings and public meetings, town offices such as selectmen, assessors, library, and stores.

A new fire engine house was built in 1857 on Vine stret, where the Winchester Cooperative Bank now stands, to house the town's "Excelior No. 1" engine. The first floor contained the fire engine and the upper hall was used as selectmen, assessors and committee rooms while the basement was finished for a "lock-up" for vagrants and criminals.

The topic of building a new Town Hall was revived in 1872, many articles and motions were proposed at town meetings, but none were successful. This condition continued to exist until 1885 when public opinion began to recognized its necessity.

At the town meeting of March 28, 1885, it was voted to appoint a committee of five, consisting of John T. Wilson, Joseph H. Taylor S.W. Twombly, Stephen Thompson, and George D. Rand, to consider and report on the building of a new Town Hall. The committee approved the site at the corner of Washington and Pleasant streets, now Mt. Vernon street, known as the Gardner lot and part of the Cutting property on Washigton street.

Gardner wanted $9,000 and Cutting asked $6,000 for his property which contained a much smaller parcel of land. The members of the committee hesitated to pay such prices and took under consideration several other sites, particularly the Nutter estate which ran from Main to Washington streets where the present auditorium of the Lincoln School now stands.

The town was divided on the question, and discussion became warm, and angry. At the town meeting of March 22, 1886 a new committee was appointed consisting of John T. Wilson, Joseph H. Tyler, Moses A. Herrick, David N. Skillings Jr., Henry A. Emerson, Thomas P. Ayer, and Stephen Thompson and also voted to purchase the Gardner lot. The majority of the committee reported at the following town meeting of April 20 that they were opposed to the Gardner lot. Wilson recommended that the Gardner site was the most eligible and desirable upon which to erect a Town Hall. The fight on 5he floor was heated and a disorderly discussion was prolonged for over three hours. When the vote was taken Wilson's views won by a 178 to 147 vote.

However the conflict was not yet over. The defeated party continued to exist, claiming first that a clear title could not be got to the Gardner lot, and next that if a title were secured, the land lay so near the level of the river that a fortune must be spent in draining and leveling it.

The Town Meeting of July 16, 1886 was again the scene of fireworks. After much debate the result was to discharge the whole building committee and elect another committee. A new committee was elected, consisting of Abraham B. Coffin, Robert C. Metcalf, Dr. Frederick Winsor, William H. Brewer, Charles M. Dunham, Charles M. Ayer,and Robert Cowdrey, a group of gentlemen who had not been conspicious in the long struggle.

At this same meeting the sum of $50,000 was voted for the Town Hall and site. A library was not included at this time. But at the Town Meeting of March 28, 1897 it was voted to add $10,000 to the original amount for a library addition and on December 29, 1887 an additional $10,500 was voted to complete and furnish the library.

The cornerstone was laid June 28, 1887 with appropriate ceremonies conductec by the William Parkman Masonic Lodge, and the building was dedicated on Oct. 20, 1888. The architect was Rand & Taylor; the complete cost of the building and furnishings was $70,000. The clock and bell in the tower was purchased from the fund of Colonial William P. Winchester.

Upon the bell the following inscription is cast: "This clock and bell commemorate the gift of William P. Winchester to the town which bears his name." The design of the building was critized at that time and since, chiefly for lack of compactness in the mass, and for want of harmony in the architectural style.

The lack of compactness was caused by the addition to the original plans of a wing to be occupied by the public libary. Upon completion of the Town Hall, the Selectmen and other town offices in the Vine street engine house moved into the new Town Hall. The "lock-up" on Vine street was moved to the basement of the Town Hall, which is now occupied by the Board of Health, and later moved to the new Fire andPolice Station in 1913. The old Gardner house on what was the site of the new Town Hall was moved to 5 Myrtle st. where it stands today.

During the period of more than 50 years in which the Town Hall building had been in use, no material improvements nor any major repairs have been made to the buildiing. Also, as the town departments had increased in size and number, it became neessary to rent outside quarters. The Board of Health, Building Inspector, Inspector of Wires, and Plumbing Inspector occupied space in the Randall Block at 9 Mt. Vernon st.

At the annual Town Meeting of 1940 it was voted to appoint a Town Hall Improvement Committee to consider the feasability of making any alterations in, or additions to, the Town Hall building to provide offices for departments now occuping space in buildings not owned by the town; more convenient accommodations for the offices and departments now housed in the Town Hall building; and improvement of the Town Hall.

The Committee considered two possibilities; whether to build a new Town Hall building or remodel the present structure. It was found that in order to build a new and adequate building to meet the office space requirements, and an auditorium, the cost would be approximately $300,000.

The Committee unanimously agreed that the town should not be involved in such an expenditure at this time and also felt that a great many townspeople entertain a deep-rooted affection for the present building as a landmark in the development of the history of Winchester.

The second alternative was to remodel the present building. The plans called for changing the basement to ground floor by running a corridor through the center of the present basement and replacing the small windows with standard size. This would result in a minimum of 14 rooms instead of five at that time. The first floor plans call for nine offices, against six; the second floor shows an increase from four to five.

The auditorium would be completely reconditioned, existing balconies removed, and a new balcony installed at the rear over the present small Town Hall. The appxoimate cost was estimated to be $100,000.

The engineers and architects assured the Committee that the framework and general construction is substanial, in sound condition, and good for many years to come. The Town Meeting of March 1941 defeated the motion for alteration to the Town Hall by a vote of 133 to 42.

With the growth of the town and new departments added, space was needed in the Town Hall. So, in 1958 the Selectmen sponsored a six-year renovation program which was approved at that annual Town Meeting. The modernization of the interior started in the basement, then progressed each year to the first and second floors until it has been completely modernized with the addition of new offices throughout the building. Details are too numerous to mention.

A proposal made in 1959 to convert the Town Hall auditoriium space into school administration offices and construct a new auditorium above the offices at a cost of $112,000 was defeated at that annual Town Meeting by a vote of 131 to 62.

The appearance of the interior of the building has been considerably changed from the original plans, while the auditorium practically remains the same. Quite a lot of repair work has been done to the exterior and tower to make it structurally sound for many years to come.

The outer appearance of the present Town Hall has not been changed since the original design and still stands as a landmark in Winchester History.

Pay Raises

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I should like through your column to address Sen. Rotundi's remarks on the legislative pay raise.

It took courage on the part of the few who dared oppose the leadership on this raise, and I am indeed sorry that the Senator did not display such courage. He admits that the manner of its passage was abnormal. I feel it was completely underhanded in not allowing for any citizen opposition to be heard.

He speaks of the fact that the legislative job should be a full time job then let the members vote to make it so, and divest themselves of all other business connections; spend a scheduled 40-hour week, 50 weeks of the year in the State House, and then ask to be paid accordingly.

What other government or business establishes its salary on the basis of what a job might be before establishing the limits of the job.

The facts are that many sessions of both houses were convened on a large number of days and dissovled five to 15 minutes after convocation. At those convocations how many members were present?

Often, too often, far less than a quorum. Some members do give a great deal of time to their jobs, others do not, and there il no differential in pay between the good and the bad.

In these days of inflation what justification exists for a governing body to flout the national wage guidelines so brazenly? The only justification is greed. The misuse of power by this legislature will not be forgotten by many of us when we vote in 1980.

Sen. Rotundi can still redeem himself with the voters by trying for a special session to retract this action. Will he join his courageous partner from Winchester, Rep. Whip Saltmarsh, in this move? Or will he cynically dismiss this and other protests with the hope that our indignation will die down in a couple of months and that new promises will lull the voters?

Haunted House

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As chairman of the Winchester Jaycees' 1979 Haunted House, I would like to express my thanks to my fellow Jaycees and to the dedicated group of Winchester High School students who gave so much time and energy to this year's House. Because of you, we were able to scare and entertain almost 7000 people during the five days that the Haunted House was open.

The money raised through the Haunted House will, as it has been every year, be used to fund the Winchester Jaycees' charitable and community activities during the coming year.

Boy Scout Troop 333 and the recent reconstruction of the Town Chuck Wagon are only two examples of the projects made possible by the people who build, run, and attend our Haunted House. Thanks again to all of you.

Library Fines

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I salute the decision of the Board of Trustees of the Winchester Public Library to post the names of borrowers who owe $25 or more in accumulated fines. I was stunned to see the length of this list.

Nevertheless, I believe the threshold amount is too high. The names of persons owing more than $5 in fines should be posted.

50 Years Ago

By HENRY SIMONDS

When Capt. Joseph Tansey hung up his togs after the recent football game between Norwich University and Brown on the latter's field at Providence, Winchester's three-year gridiron reign at the Northfield, Vt. military college came to an end.

Roger Sherman, Clarence O'Donnell and Tansey have captained the cadets' 11 in successive seasons for the past three years, and each have been, in every sense, a leader. Winchester is justly proud of the record its boys have made at Norwich. Where is there another town able to boast of three football captains in a row at the same college?

Tansey's career, especially, should prove an inspiration to youngsters who are finding the road to college a bit thorny. The path big "Muggins" had to follow on the way to a higher education was not a particularly smooth one, and the fact that he was able to overcome the obstacles which presented themselves establishes his ambition and determination beyond doubt.

"Joe" graduated from high school in 1922 with an enviable reputation as an all round athlete. It was he whom Winchester's opponents feared most on the gridiron, diamond and basketball court, and with real cause for Tansey was, and is, a great competitior.

After working a year he decided to get a college education. With the money he earned he entered Goddard Seminary where another Winchester boy, Joe Mathews, was doing things in an athletic way. Tansey was accompanied on his trek to the Vermont prep school by "Lead" O'Donnell, mentioned above, and both local lads were manistays on the seminary teams during their enrollment.

Graduating from Goddard, Tansey was obliged to work a year before entering Norwich, but once enrolled at the Northfield Military College, he more than made up for lost time.

Making the football team at once, "Muggins" played regularly throughout his college career at guard and tackle, leading the team as captain during the recent season. His work on the cadets' rushline was very effective and, despite a losing season, his play this fall earned him an invitation to participate in the big benefit game to be staged this week-end in Boston by two all New England college 11's for the Crosscup-Pishon Post Christmas Fund.

In addition to football, "Muggins" has been a member of the Norwich baseball team and has been prominent in non-athletic activities at Northfield. He is a Lieutenant in the Cadet Corps, rating as a pistol marksman and expert swordsman. He is also a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon, the fraternity to which both Sherman and O'Donnell belonged. He was president of his freshman class, and chairman of the committee for both Freshman Week and Freshman Night.

★ Roll Call

Shield Law - House rejected 98-53, a qualified shield law, giving some modified protection to reports from being required to reveal the sources of confidential information. While roughly half the states have some form of a shield law, it is unlikely that supporters can gain the votes to put Massachusetts on that list.

Saltmarsh voted against it.

Birth Control - Senate refused on a 19-19 tie vote, to reconsider its earlier defeat of a bill allowing minors to receive birth control information and devices from doctors without parental consent. Arguing the bill could help prevent unwanted pregnancies in girls under 18 and reduce the need for abortions, supporters deny the measure encourages sexual activity, and hope to change a couple of votes and gain passage for the measure. Opponents hope to stand firm and prevent passage of the measure which they say would encourage immorality and sexual activity by youngsters.

Rotondi voted against it.

Marijuana - Senate tabled (defeated) 22-7, a bill decriminalizing possession of an ounce or less of marijuana. Supporters have filed the measure and lobbied for its passage for many years, but hold out little hope of overcoming the 15-vote margin of defeat.

Rotondi voted against it.

Optometrists - Senate rejected 20-18, a bill, filed annually, to allow optometrists to administer certain diagnostic drugs previously reserved for use by opthamologists, which dialate a patient's pupils during an exam.

The bill has had an interesting history in the legislature, often coming close to passage but perennially ending up defeated. Supporters feel they are nearing approval, and say next year may be the year the measure finally is passed.

Rotondi voted against it.

Motorcycle Helmets - Senate tabled (defeated) 19-16, a bill eliminating the requirement that all motorcycle passengers and drivers wear helmets, and requiring only those under age 20 to do so. Supporters express hope for overcoming the three-vote defeat margin, and note there is a realistic chance for passage when the measure is considered next year.

Rotondi voted for it.

★ 50 Years

As a junior he was advertising manager of the Norwich yearbook, the "War Whoop," and was also a member of the Junior Week Committee. He will graduate in June as one of the big men on the Norwich campus.

Fine as Tansey's record has been, it is only fair to state that he was obliged to shoot high to sustain the reputation his Winchester predecessors had made.

"Ty" Sherman, the first of the local triumverate at Northfield, is probably one of the finest all-round athletes to play for the Maroon and Gold in recent years. About all Sherman did at Norwich was captain and play four years of football, captain the hockey team, play three years of varsity baseball and a season of basketball. He was president of his class during his senior and junior years and was president of his fraternity as well as being a Lieutenant in the cadet corps. "Ty" graduated two years ago and is now in business in Boston.

When Sherman turned over the football reins at Norwich another Winchester boy was ready to receive them. "Lead" O'Donnell captained both the 11 and basketball team of the cadets, besides playing varsity baseball. Among his other activities, he was on the college Athletic Council, vice president of the "N" Club, house manager of his fraternity and Lieutenant in the Cadet Corps.

"Lead" graduated last June and is now in Philadelphia with the Marine Corps, in which he is commissioned as a Second Lieutenant.

will be able to relive those earlier days and do their Friday night shopping — not only on Main street but on Church, Mt. Vernon, Waterfield, Washington and Swanton streets, plus all the other areas of Winchester where retail establishments may be found.

Through the efforts of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce, most local merchants have agreed to begin coordinating store hours for the convenience of evening shoppers. Most retailers plan to be open on Friday evenings, and, for the last two weeks before Christmas, every weekday evening as well. They will also open 1 to 5 the four Sundays before Christmas.

This is the time for Winchester residents to beat the fuel crunch, avoid the frustation of holiday "Mall Madness" and bring some good cheer to Winchester by spending your holiday dollars right here in town.

Baseball Thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

During this past summer I helped to set up a baseball program for high school boys. There is an obvious financial need in starting such a team which requires uniforms, equipment and umpire's fees.

I would like to recognize the Winchester Rotary Club, which has done so much for so many local groups over the years, for their financial support which helped to cover umpire's fees. The Winchester Sport Shop deserves special note for the donation of twenty new uniforms complete with shirts, hats and socks. Anyone familiar with the marginal financial operation of a small business can appreciate the generosity of such a contribution.

During a period when many citizens are concerned with the inactivity or misdirected activity of "today's youth," the Sport Shop and the Rotary Club have consistently supported the positive activities of Winchester's Youth. They in turn deserve our support and appreciation.

National Newspaper Recycling Effort Stalls

Newspaper recycling isn't what it used to be. What had been a sure source of funds for church and scout groups, then municipalities, over the years has almost vanished.

The price for newsprint dropped to a few dollars a ton not too long ago, then started up aqain. But the price paid depends on variables such as whether the paper is delivered to a recycling company, whether the company provides a trailer or dum ster, the condition of the paper and the market.

People in the business say that a primary market for newsprint is manufacturers of cellulose insulation. More money can be made on recycling of cardboard.

Generally, the communities that collect paper for recycling find that the money they make covers their costs. If they are lucky, they save taxpayers some additional money because they are taking less trash to a landfill site they are charged by the weight.

All of this may sound confusing to people who read about the national newsprint shortage and the difficulty newspapers are having in getting newsprint for their printing.

For some answers to these questions we recently spoke to Donald Troemel and Steven Batty at State Paper Co. in Saddle Brook, N.J. This company is the only one in the Northeast that manufactures newsprint from 100 percent recycled newsprint. Other recycled newsprint can contain as little as 5 percent recycled paper.

They explain that there is no relation between the shortage of fresh newsprint on one hand and the lack of market for old paper on the other. The shortage of new newsprint is related to demand and production, they say.

Garden State Paper needs 18,500 tons of paper a month. In the U.S. about 10 million tons a year of fresh new newsprint are used and 3 million tons are reclaimed.

In the U.S. 17 percent of all newsprint made is recycled, with Garden State making 400,000 tons a year.

Great Eastern Packing and Paper Stock Corp. of Boston is a subsidiary of Garden State, supplying paper to the parent company.

Richard Foohey of Great Eastern says that there is a current demand for newsprint to be used for insulation, but that market will probably last only until December .

In 1977 there was a peak demand for newsprint. Great Eastern was paying as much as $40 a ton for dry paper that was collected over a weekend in a trailer provided by the company.

The bottom went out of the market, he says, partly because of so much government interference in the cellulose insulation business. As that industry slowed down, a tremendous flow of scrap paper continued.

Waste paper manufacturers refused to handle it because there was no place for them to sell it or because they could not handle it economically.

Foohey also explains that the shortage of fresh newsprint is not related to the oversupply of used paper. Waste newsprint is sold to three markets: the cellulose insulation manufacturers, the paperboard mills and the newsprint recycling companies. In Great Eastern's case, the parent Garden State company.

Fluctuation in those markets does not affect what happens with the manufacture of newsprint which is made from trees. He estimates that Garden State supplies 10 percent of the U.S. newsprint, but says the process takes a lot of expertise and it was not until 1962 that a successful newsprint recycling operation was built.

There is enough of a demand for newsprint that Great Eastern will bring a trailer to a town for a weekAend. Foohey says that they would $20 a ton for a 20-ton trailer delivered on Friday and taken back on Monday.

However, if the trailer werenot filled, the price would be adjusted down because of the cost of transporting the trailer.

Newspaper recyclers want only newspapers. They do not want magazines, for example. They want the papers tied with string, but not in paper or plastic bags. In order to be used for insulation manufacture, the papers have to be dry, so the buyer is not interested in having an open dumpster for paper collection.

A spokesman at Bay State Paper Recycling Corp. which collects for Shaffer Paper Fibres Inc., the company Arlington deals with, says that papers almost double in weight if they are weight.

He says that paper recycling doesn't bring in much when the cost of labor, electricity, bailing, machines, and handpicking out of plastics and paper bags is considered.

Waltham's recycling program is one which Garden State points to as a good one. According to . DPW Supt. Edward Fennell that city collects newspaper at the curb on the regular collection day, makes pickups of cardboard in the business districts, and also collects and sells scrap metal such as refrigerators and stoves.

altham residents are asked to tie their bundles of papers. The collection man take them out of bags if they are bagged. Two trucks do the paper pickup for the town of 18,000 households. Waltham put the paper contract out on bid and has a guaranteed $5 minimum a ton. The city does not receive as much payment as it might, because it uses trailers which are left by the recycling company.

The cardboard collected in the business zones three days a week is taken directly to the recycling company which pays $20 to $25 a ton. The scrap metal is also taken directly to the buyer.

Last year Waltham earned $20,339 from all of its recycling efforts. Another $28,000 in charges for disposal were saved. The city, which used to collect paper monthly and then got 25 to 30 tons, now picks up 115 tons a month with weekly pickup.

Fennell says that dumpster receptacles for paper, bottles and cans did not work.

To meet the problem of the shortage of fresh newsprint, the Department of Agriculture!, with the support of national press groups , is experimenting with a new newsprint source called kenaf.

According to a bulletin of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. Research Institute, kenaf, a hibiscus cannabinus, is a "nonwood, annual plant with long bast fibers as well as short woody ones."

Kenaf was ' "discovered" as a source for cheap newsprint in the 50's, but with wood pulp newsprint also being cheap

Winchester Co-operative Bank Elects Goodwin President

Edward E. Goodwin, the former executive vice president of the Winchester Co-operative Bank, was recently elected president of the bank by the Board of Directors.

Goodwin has been employed by the Winchester bank since 1968. In 1972 he became assistant treasurer of the bank until 1977 when he was elected treasurer. In 1978 he was elected executive vice president in addition to his duties as treasurer.

A native of Winchester, Goodwin has been active in several civic activities. He is currently the treasurer of both the Winchester Rotary Club and Winchester Little League. He is a director on the Board of Winning Farm and is an honorary president of the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center Association where he served six years in various capacities as director, treasurer and president.

Goodwin is active in the Co-operative Bank Club of Massachusetts and is currently a director on the Board of Coop Pac, a political action committee of the Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League.

Other officers elected by the Board of Directors include: Henry L. Clark, chairman of the board; Stanley E. Neill, senior vice president; Elizabeth A. Kehoe, mortgage administrative officer and assistant treasurer; and Joanne M. Murphy, assistant treasurer.

Winchester was named for Col. William P. Winchester of Watertown, a wealthy Boston merchant who was a Colonel in the Corps of Cadets volunteer regiment.

MR. HOME COMFORT

AIR CONDITIONING, HEATING, HUMIDIFICATION, ELECTRONIC AIR CLEANING

ONLY THE RICH CAN AFFORD POOR HEATING

Would it make sense to you if we said only the rich could afford poor heating? Sounds like we've got things a little mixed up, doesn't it. Well, it's true.

You and your home can't afford poor heating because it's likely to cost you a lot of money in operating costs such as repair bills and high fuel costs. That's why a system that's costing a lot of money to run can only be afforded by the rich. When you think about it though, none of us wants to be rich in this way. We would much rather have an efficient heating system.

That's why it makes good sense, if you have an outdated or "tired" heating system, to look into the purchase of a new WEIL-MCLAIN boiler for your home. The money you save in needless repair bills and unnecessary high fuel bills will probably more than make up for the expense invested in the new boiler system. As the saying goes, you won't be "sending dollars up the chimney" in wasted fuel.

We at FEDERAL HEATING are firmly convinced, as are many of our customers, WEIL-MCLAIN boilers offer good fuel economy and outstanding performance in addition to many years of service. WEIL-MCLAIN boilers are available in oil or gas, steam or hot water; each model can be sized properly to fit your home. And at FEDERAL HEATING you're assured of a custom fit, for our engineering and installation departments are well known for their sound approach to giving a home the best heating equipment.

You'll find too that the WEIL-MCLAIN boiler has more to offer than just good comfort. It's compact, slim design will fit snugly into a small area of your basement and open up a new area that can be used in other ways.

For a free survey or any questions call FEDERAL HEATING day or night at 623-1515 or 729-6866.

High School Senior Cited For Outstanding Writing

Mark Costello, a senior at Winchester High School, has been cited for outstanding performance in writing.

Mark was one of 8000 students nominated last February by their junior English teachers for the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Award in Writing. Each nominee submitted a writing sample and wrote an impromptu essay. The compositions were read and evaluated by two judges in the student's state, one high school and one college teacher.

Only 13 percent of all juniors nominated in the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and American schools abroad were singled out for awards. Mark's writing sample was a short story, "The Terrible Sun," written under the direction of Mrs. Maurine Tobin. He and 23 other Massachusetts winners will be honored at a luncheon to be held Tuesday at Clark University in Worcester.

Mark, the son of Edward J. and Leslie Jean Costello of 11 Ravine rd., began writing creatively while a pupil at St. Mary's School and continued developing his composition technique in the Winchester public schools. Encouraged by two uncles who are published authors and his parents, he wrote short sotires and poetry. Currently, Mark is working on a play assigned in his advanced placement English class in Winchester High School.

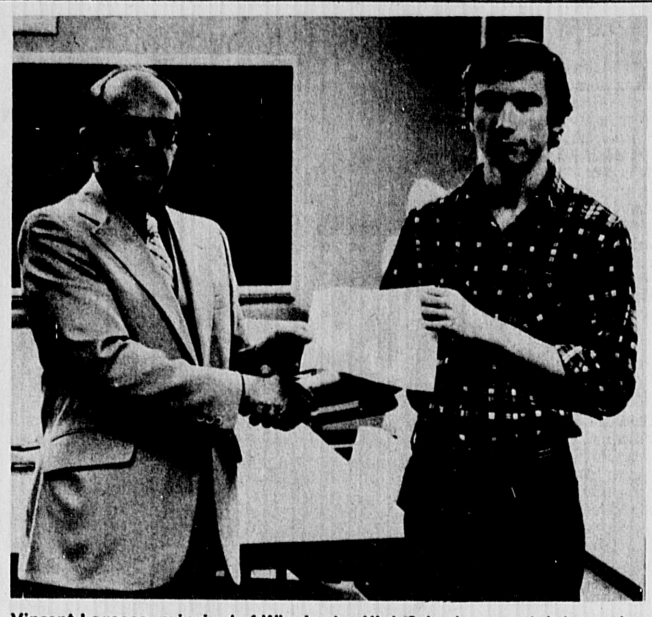
Mark's writing achievements are diverse. He is a regular sports writer for the high school newspaper and "The Winchester Star." As a contributing editor to the "Not the Red and Black," a newly chartered satirical periodical, he exhibits a flair for parody.

After graduation, Mark plans to pursue a liberal arts program with emphasis upon the study of history and literature. As an awards finalist, he will be recommended to admission officers and English department chairs for scholarships.

Soccer Game

The annual coaches vs. boys' allstars soccer game will be held Sunday at Ginn Field, 1 p.m.

All coaches and parents involved in the F Fall Program are eligible to play.



Vincent Larocco, principal of Winchester High School, congratulates senior Mark Costello who was a recent winner of the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Award in Writing. Costello will be honored, along with 23 other Massachusetts winnners at a luncheon Nov. 27 at Clark University in Worcester. (WHS Photo)

Obituaries

May Milliken

Lifelong Melrose resident May E. Milliken, a former head of the Social Science Department at Winchester High School, died Sunday at the New England Memorial Hospital after a brief illness. She was 72.

Before coming to the Winchester Public Schools, where she worked for many years, Miss Milliken taught in Melrose and Newton.

She was a member of the First Congregational Church in Melrose and Kappa Sorority in Melrose.

Miss Milliken was a graduate of Melrose High School, Radcliffe College, and received a master's degree in social science and history from Boston University.

Miss Milliken is survived by one brother, LeRoy Milliken of Knoxville, Tenn.; two nieces; one nephew; and six great-nieces.

Funeral services will be held today at 10:30 a.m. in the First Congregational Church. The service will be conducted by Rev. Frank M. Wieskel and Rev. Clarence W. Fuller. Burial will be in the family lot in Wyoming Cemetery, Melrose. Arrangements are being made by the Morrison Funeral Home, Wakefield.

Valerie Harris

Valerie Evelyn Harris, 58, died recently at her Florida home from cancer.

Before moving to Florida, Mrs. Harris was employed at Towne and Country Clothes, Main street. She is a graduate of the Revere Public Schools and later moved to Swampscott.

Mrs. Harris was the wife of the Consul General of Panama, Ceasar Enrique Harris. She is survived by her father, Ben Zukoff; a daughter, Stephanie; one grandson, Craig; and a brother, Jim "Sonny" Harris.

Memorial week will be observed at her brother's home, 11685 Canal dr., Apt. 201, N. Miami, Fla., 33181.

Austin Nickerson

Summer street resident Austin L. Nickerson, 87, died Nov. 5 at Winchester Hospital after a long illness.

Born in Nova Scotia, Mr. Nickerson was a Winchester resident for the last 17 years. Previously he had lived in Woburn for 26 years.

Before his retirement he worked as a rigger in the Charlestown Navy Yard.

Mr. Nickerson is survived by his wife, Gladys M. (Larkin); two sons, Austin Jr. of Dover, N.H. and David of East Boston; two daughters, Lorraine Martin of New Jersey and Marjorie Howard of Concord, N.H.; two sisters, Hilda MacDonald of Melrose and Vida Macdonald of Clearwater, Fla.; and eight grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Arthur P. Graham Funeral Home in Woburn. Rev. Robert Hess officiated. Burial was in Woodbrook Cemetery in Woburn.

Joseph Meehan

A funeral mass will be said today for Joseph B. Meehan who died Friday in Winchester. He was 59.

Mr. Meehan, an electrician, was employed by GSA until his retirement.

Mr. Meehan, who was a member of the Disabled American Veterans, served in the anti-aircraft and artillery of the service until his discharge Jan. 17, 1942.

He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, post 1012 in Medford.

Mr. Meehan is survived by his wife, Elsie (Melchionda); his children, William J. of Peabody, Joseph M. of Medway, Dolores T. and Michael B., both of Winchester; and three sisters, Sr. Clarisse O.P., Nellie Meehan and Elizabeth Cotter.

A funeral mass will be said today in St. Mary's Church at 10 a.m. Burial will follow at Oak Grove Cemetery. Arrangements are being made by the Magrath Funeral Home.

Memorial donations may be made to the Carroll Center for the Blind or to cancer research.

Social News

Jayne Haggerty Marries Anthony DiGiovanni

Jayne Haggerty, daughter of Mr. James J. Haggerty Jr. of Burlington and Mrs. Barbara Petrie of Knoxville, Tenn. was married to Anthony DiGiovanni, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond DiGiovanni, Aug. 25 at St. Mary's Church. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Winchester.

The bride wore a gown of white chiffon and Alencon lace with an accordian pleated skirt and chapel length train. The empire bodice of Alencon lace was embroidered with delicate seed pearls, accented with a Queen-Anne neckline, and completed with long pleated bishop sleeves. The bride wore a Juliet cap of Alencon lace and carried a cascade bouquet of white and peach roses with baby's breath and asparagus fern.

The maid of honor was Patricia Haggerty, sister of the bride. She wore a coral gown of nylon made by Barbara Higgins, sister of the bride. She carried a bouquet of white and peach roses with baby's breath and fern.

The flower girls were Sherry Higgins, niece of the bride, and Martha DiGiovanni, sister of the bridegroom. They wore empire dresses with peach eyelet lace lined in white, also made by Barbara Higgins, and each carried a basket of peach roses and asparagus fern with streamers of satin ribbon.

The best man was Gregory DiGiovanni, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Francis Haggerty, brother of the bride, Michael DiGiovanni, brother of the bridegroom, and Gerald F. Lux Jr. of Woburn, a friend of the couple.

The couple will live in Stoneham following a trip to Nova Scotia.

Noonan Holds Open House, Bake Sale

The Noonan School Annual Open House was held recently to which parents, students and other family members were invited. This policy to include students started last year when George Flynn, principal, decided that children should be given the opportunity to explain their school work.

The children visited their classrooms and enthusiastically "showed off" their individual work and projects. They then escorted relatives to visit the library, art room, gym-music room and lunchroom.

A bake sale was held in the auditorium during the Open House.

Book Fair At Ambrose School Is Next Week

The annual Ambrose School Book Fair will be held during school hours from Monday through Friday at Ambrose School.

The Ambrose School Parents' Association is sponsoring the event under the direction of Ways and Means Chairman Jane Meehan.

A new selection of children's books will be available, suitable for children from kindergarten to sixth grade. Posters, activity sets and stamp and coin sets will also be on sale, in time for Christmas gift giving.

The Winchester Star's news copy deadline is 3 p.m. Mondays for the following Thursday's edition.

Manion Reading Clinic Holds Open House

An open house was held recently at the Manion Reading Clinic, 162 Washington st., to inform those interested in learning more aobut the clinic.

Established last in August, the clinic recently began fall classes which will continue through February.

The clinic attempts to serve all types of learning needs in the area of reading. Prior to enrollment each student receives a complete evaluation of learning needs. The Cinic also serves as a motiviating factor for those students who possess higher potential for reading than is shown in their daily work.

Other students experience difficulty in reading because of particular gaps in the process of learning to read. Causes can be related to various factors - absence, illness, fatigue. The Clinic's prescriptive type of instruction is directed toward filling in gaps and increasing a child's confidence.

Students who learn at a slower pace than others require reinforcement of skills and sufficient reading practice. The also provides instruction geared to this child's level and pace. It provides guidance and direction for parents, too.

The Children's Film Program at the Winchester Public Library for Sunday and Tuesday will feature "Dirty Work," "Tchou-Tchou," and "The Story of the Highwayman."

The Sunday program begins at 2:30 p.m. The Tuesday program starts at 3:30 p.m. It is requested that at least one adult accompany each group of children.

The films are provided through the state funded Eastern Mass. Regional Library System.

The Winchester Star news copy deadline is 3 p.m. Monday for the following Thursday edition. Copy may be dropped off at our office, 5 Church st., during regular business hours or through the mail slot on weekends.

Christine O'Connor Marries Timothy Madigan Sept. 22

St. Eulalia's Church was the site of a Sept 22 wedding between Christine O'Connor, daughter of Dr. Jose J. O'Connor of Winchester and Mrs. Shirley Cryan O'Connor of Lexington and Timothy G. Madigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Madigan of Johnston, R. I.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a Priscilla gown of white silk finish satin. The raised waisted bodice was fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and long Alencon lace sleeves. The delicately applicqued skirt with lace edges, ended in a chapel train. Her veil had a camelot cap with veiling trim and alencon lace. She carried a bouquet of three white roses.

Mrs. Michael Walker of Skowhegan, Maine was the matron of honor. Bridemaids included Joanna Madigan of Kansas City, Kansas and Lisa Madigan of Orono, Maine both sisters of the bride, as well as Andrea Sliverman of Boston, Mrs. Trahey Beamer of Silver Springs, Maryland and Mrs. Jeffery Bardin of Glens Falls, N.Y.

Terence Madigan of San Diego, Calif. and brother of the bridegroom was the best man. Ushers included John Madigan of Monson, Maine, Kevin Madigan of Augusta, Maine, and Michael Madigan of Orford, N.H., all brothers of the bridegroom.

Others ushers were Justin O'Connor of Winchester and Brian O'Connor of Lexington, brothers of the bride.

The reception was held at Winchester Country Club. The couple travelled to Florida for their wedding trip and will live in Newtonville.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Winchester High and a 1977 graduate of the University of Maine at Orono. Her husband is also a 1977 graduate of the University of Maine at Orono, and is presently a third year law student at Boston College Law School. The bride is a now a consultant for Computer Partners, Inc. of Wellesley Hills.

Immaculate Conception Hosts Mystic Valley Director

Dr. Richard Carbonneau, executive director of the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center Association, was the guest speaker at the Oct. 23 meeting of the Winchester Ecumenical Association, held at Immaculate Conception Church.

He discussed the program and needs of the Center and how mental health professionals and clergy can cooperate to the benefit of the communities in which they live and work. The need of volunteers from the community to serve on the Board of Governors of the Center was also emphasized. Thirty-six persons from six communities are needed.

The meaning of the de-institutional emphasis of the state was highlighted by pointing out that it costs up to $30,000 a year to maintain a patient in an institution, compared to $5,000 a year in community residences and out-patient services.

The Ecumenical Association also discussed ways of stimulating giving for the relief of Cambodian refugees. It also voted to conclude the Fast Day on Nov. 15 with a meeting in Manion Hall at St. Eulalia's Church. The program will consist of a liturgy of prayer, a film, and breaking of the fast. Plans were also made to combine the week of prayer for Christian unity with a celebration of Martin Luther King Jr. Day Jan. 15.

The next meeting of the Association will be Nov. 13 at 10:30 a.m. at the First Baptist Church. Lee Behnke, the multicultural specialist of the public schools, will speak.

..On March 20, 1853 the Town of Winchester experienced its first serious fire when, on that Sunday morning, the 12-year-old Congregational Church burned to the ground.

Mrs. Ash of Belmont was "overwhelmed" with calls for her apartment for rent.

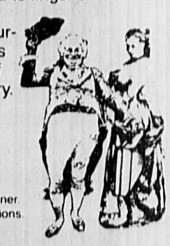
If you can't come for the weekend, come for dinner & dancing.

You can dance every Saturday evening at Dunfey's at Lexington. And having dinner there is like visiting good friends. You're pampered with generous hospitality, surrounded with charming furnishings, fed to a fare-thee-well, and invited to linger over coffee with your favorite brandy. Nestled in a murmuring stand of pines, Dunfey's invites you to spend part of your weekend in the country.

A tradition in gracious country dining.



Open daily for Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner. Sunday Brunch. Please call for reservations. 862-8700.

139 Residents Attend Recent Glaucoma Screening Clinic

One hundred thiry-nine area residents attended the Winchester Rotary-sponosred Glaucoma Screening Clinic held recently at the Jenks Senior Center.

Nineteen of the total number of persons screened were referred to their ophthalmologists because of suspected glaucoma findings. Seven additional were referred because of other ocular physiological findings and 19 more were referred because of refractory defects. In all, 32 percent of the total screened at the clinic were referred to their ophthalmologists.

Results of this year's screening program showed a significant increase in the number of persons referred because of suspected glaucoma findings. In 1978 only one percent of the total number screened were referred as possible glaucoma cases. This year that percentage increased to 14 percent.

This was the fifth Rotary-sponsored Glaucoma Screening Clinic. Physicians' assistance was provided by Dr. Richard L. Dallow, Winchester ophthalmologist and member of the senior staff at Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston and a member of the courtesy staff at Winchester Hospital. Dallow served as supervising ophthalmologist at the clinic. Assistance was also provided by three nurses from the Visting Nurse and Community Health, Inc.

The purpose and objectives of the screening of the glaucoma clinic are:

1. To assist in the detection of undiagnosed glaucoma in those persons, age 35 and over, with increased intraocular pressure.

2. Through referral of suspicious cases, to give ophthalmologists the opportunity to make early diagnosis and prescribe appropriate treatment.

3. To assist in the detection of other pathological eye disorders with early referral to the patient's ophthalmologist.

4. To assist in the detection of refractory errors with referral to the patient's ophthalmologist.

In addition to referring questionable glaucoma cases, the glaucoma clinic contributes significantly to the identificatin of other visual defects and abnormalities of the eye.

According to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindess, glaucoma is a leading cause of blindness among adults in the United States, with one out of every eight blind people a victim of the disease.

The disease may be either acute or chronic, the acute form striking suddently, causing cloudy vision and sometimes severe pain in and around the eyes.

The more common chronic type works slowly and painlessly, accompanied by symptoms which come and go, with the result that the person affected may postpone visiting his doctor. If glaucoma is discovered early, medical treatment can halt its progress.

The Star welcomes letters to the editor of interest to the citizens of Winchester, written by Winchester residents or former Winchester residents. Letters should be typed, doublespaced, and no longer than 250 words. They must also be signed and accompanied by the author's printed name, address and phone number in order that we may verify letters. Names and addresses will be witheld on request.

Organ Recital Sunday At First Congregational

David M. Lasky will present an organ recital at the First Congregational Church on Sunday starting at 8 p.m.

Lasky is a 1979 graduate of the University of Lowell's College of Music, with a bachelor of music degree in Music History, and finished with high honors in both music history and organ. Lasky is now doing graduate work at the University of Lowell, towards a master of music degree in organ performance.

The free recital will consist of works by Mendelssohn, Vierne, Clerambault, Reger, Rheinberger, Greene, Alain, and Messiaen.

Winchester Youth Arrested After Late Night Accident

A 17 year-old Winchester youth was arrested last Saturday night and charged with operating under the influence of alcohol and driving to endanger, after his car struck two Edison poles on Cambridges street according to Winchester Police reports.

The youth, driving a 1977 Chevrolet, hit the first pole in front of 23 Cambridge st. then continued to the next pole at 19 Cambridge st. where the vehicle came to rest.

The driver of the car had two slight cuts on his forehead and a swollen nose. He was taken to Winchester Hospital for treatment.

According to the police report, the driver had a strong smell of alcohol on his breath, appeared to be disoriented and his speech was slurred. However, the report states, the accident victims's eyes were sensitive to light.

A number of illegal entries were reported in Winchester this week. On Saturday, intruders entered the medical building on Washington street, ransacking several of the offices according to the police. Nothing was reported missing however.

A Pond street home was illegally entered last week with all three floors being searched by the intruders. A Kenwood stereo receiver, two 35mm cameras, five lenses and various amounts of jewelry were taken.

The Swanton Street Deli was also broken into last week, but the owners have not yet reported anything missing. While on Thursday, Winchester Drug was robbed of approximately $900 in Timex watches that were on a display stand in the front window. According to the police, the front window was broken by the theives, allowing them to remove the display.

Illegal entries were also reported at Neno's Market, where intruders took three cartons of Marlboro cigarettes and on Pilgrim drive, however, nothing was reported stolen at that sight.

Resident Gives Canal Map To Lowell Today

Jane Coates of Winchester and Richard Merrill, Boston, will present their hand-lettered and illuminated map of the City of Lowell's canal system, circa 1850, to the National Park Service in Lowell today at 2 p.m.

The map was prepared by Coates and Merril as the focal point of an exhibit on calligraphy, gilding and illuminating featured at the Lowell Public Library during the month of September. The National Park Service will display the map in the Visitors Center.

Coates is on the facutly of the New England School of Art and Design in Boston and teaches calligraphy at the Old Schwamb Mill, Arlington. Her work is on display at the Winchester Hospital and the Winchester Public Library where she has an exhibit of hand lettered and hand bound books.

Thanking God together.
Ever since the Pilgrims, Thanksgiving has been a day to thank God for His blessings. Sometimes joining others in gratitude can mean even more.
We'd love to have you join us in giving thanks to God this week. Our Thanksgiving Day services include Bible readings and passages from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy; testimonies of gratitude by members of the congregation; and singing of hymns. No collections are taken.
Would you be free to come? (And you can bring your family, too.)

BENEFITS OF HOME OFFICE

There's an increasing trend today toward operating an office or small business from the owner's home. Not only is there a complete elimination of commuting time and reduction in overhead costs, but there are tax advantages too.

The taxpayer can deduct, as an operating expense, the pro-rated share of such items as electricity, heating, house depreciation, telephone, and the cost of repairs which benefit the property as a whole. The computation is usually based on the amount of space used for the business.

However, before setting yourself up for a letdown, check the zoning regulations for your area. It may or may not preclude using your home for the type of business you have in mind. Better yet, if you are looking for a new home to fit these needs, check with our office and let us do the legwork for you.

Remember, though, that the 1976 Tax Reform law tightened the requirement in order to take the deduction for the home office. It must be used as a full time office and not a part-time affair.

Mr and Mrs. Mark Altobelli

Susan Wifert Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. Wilfert announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Rose, to Wayne Donald Stevens, son of Mrs. Alice Stevens and the late Benjamin Stevens.

Miss Wilfert, who is employed by J.H. Winn, Inc., attended Winchester High School and Middlesex Community College.

Her fiance is employed by Chase Screw Machine Products in Winchester. He is a graduate of Winchester High School.

A wedding is planned for Sept. 28, 9 1980.

Karen Leigh Warford, Mark Altobelli Marry

Karen Leigh Warford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Warford of Winchester, was married Sept. 29 to Mark Altobelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Altobelli of Leominster.

Rev. Howard Krueger officiated at the afternoon double ring ceremony in the First Baptist Church. A reception was held at the Winchester Elks Lodge.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown which had been made by her mother from Parisian satin. The sleeves were from satapeau with appliqued cuffs and the front yolk was made of chantilly lace with a trim of venise lace. The style was a long sleeve with an empire waist. The veil was borrowed from the bride's sister-in-law.

Bridesmaids were Sally McDonough, Kathy Krutenat, and Sheila Leonard. Sally Warford attended the guestbook for her sister.

The attendant's gowns were made of qiana knit in dusty rose. The style was short sleeved with a three-tiered look.

Ralph DiBona was the best man. Ushers were Dennis Altobelli and Gerry Manning.

The bride recently graduated from Fitchburg State College with a bachelor of science degree in business administartion. She is working as a research analyst at the Mass. General Hospital in Boston.

The bridegroom is also a recent Fitchburg State College graduate, with a bachelor of arts degree in English. He works as an expideter for Polaroid in Cambridge.

The couple is living in Winchester after a one-week trip to Disney World in Florida.

...On March 20, 1853 the Town of Winchester experienced its first serious fire when, on that Sunday morning, the 12-year-old Congregational Church burned to the ground.

there was no incentive to develop it. In early 1978, after experiements with making kenaf newsprint, a manufactuer made the commitment of funds to get into the business.

A Yuma, Ariz., farmer offered to test grow some kenaf. He found that it is inexpensive and easy to grow. In nine days the plants grew 16 inches. By the end of 120 days they were over 14 feet tall. Harvesting was a problem since the plants by that time were over 17 feet tall. In terms of yield, it produces over nine times the pulp per acre of a forest.

The potential for kenaf is so great that it could meet the entire supply demand in the U.S. Newsprint research is going on with kenaf being tested for its acceptability as newsprint. Results of the first mill tests are due this fall. If they are favorable, between 5,000 and 10,000 acres will be planted for testing next year.

Chamber To Meet Monday

The Winchester Chamber of Commerce will hold a general membership meeting Monday at 5:30 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus Hall. A half hour social will precede the business meeting.

Representatives from Bay State Health Care will be available to answer questions on the Chamber's Group Health Insurance Program. Issues for Chamber action in 1980 and business priorities for the coming year will also be discussed.

All Chamber members and prospective members may attend.

The Winchester Star news copy deadline is 3 p.m. Monday for the following Thursday edition. Copy may be dropped off at our office, 5 Church st., during regular business hours or through the mail slot on weekends.

Winchester Golf League Has Annual Club Dinner Dance

The Winchester O.S.I.A. Golf League recently held their annual golf dinner-dance at the club quarters.

Prizes were awarded in Class "A" to New Pro Moose Bellino and his partner, Paul Capone; winners in second place were Old Pro Chick Vespucci and Chet Murphy Jr.

Class "B" winners were Ron McNulty and Ray Maese, first place; Andy Buzzotta and Dan Gattineri, second place.

Trophys and monogrammed sweaters were awarded to other winners: Lou Perriello, Tony Dattilo, Vin Aquaviva, Dave Fariole, Rico DeSimone, Andy Buzzotta and Sam Giso.

The h8ghlight of the evening was the naming of the "Sportsman of the Year" award which went to Sam Giso.

The chance book winners were Joseph Manzo of Wilmington, a trip for two to Bermuda; second prize, Al Flowers, $100; third prize, Chet Murphy, $50; chance book chairman, Al Gravallese, recieved $25 for selling the winning ticket.

Every year the Golf League donates money to different charities. This year checks were sent to St. Coletta's School and to the Don Orione Home for the aged.

Venerable Gus Baldacci congratulated the Committee and praised them for their enthusiasm and charity.

A job well-done by the Committee: Paul Capone and Rico DeSimone, Co-Chairmen, Chuck Costello, Master of Ceremonies, Nick DiZio, Al Gravallese, Dave Fariole, and Fred Kimball, Treasurer.

Aberjona Collaborative Planned At Senior Center

The engineer responsible for water pollution control of the Aberjona Watershed and most of eastern Massachusetts will keynote the Aberjona Collaborative meeting Dec. 1, at the Jenks Center.

Sabin Lord, regional engineer for the Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution Control, will discuss "Who is Responsible for Waht?" Pointing up the overlaps and gaps in regional - state - federal responsibility, Lord will provide a firm base from which concerned citizens can approach problems of the Aberjona Watershed.

It took three days for an observant citizen to report a gasoline leak: the tank was run by reputable people, the seepage was small. The man suddenly noticed a patch of electrical tape and saw the source of the leak. Five calls later, he had still not reached any concerned official. Meanwhile, the Aberjona Watershed was being polluted.

Wells in Burlington and Woburn have been closed because of pollution. Chemical dumps threaten the entire area. Floods imperil homes and businesses. Summer 'low-flow' and weed growth continue to take over the waterways.

On Dec. 1, those attending the meeting of the informal Aberjona Collaborative will be able to talk with Sabin Lord and area State Representatives, to get facts about what each person can do in his own neighborhood and community. They will get a better understanding of "Where do we go from here?"

The meeting is sponsored by the Leagues of Women Voters of Winchester (host), Burlington, Reading, Stoneham, and Wilmington, with members of the former LWV of Woburn, in cooperation with the Mystic River Watershed Association.

Advance reservations are requested. Drop a note to 14 Wedge Pond rd. A $1. donation is requested. A salad-sandwich bar lunch will follow.

Seniors Association Plans Occasion For New Members

The Winchester Seniors Association is planning a special occasion to welcome some one hundred ninety people who have recently reached the age of 62 years when these residents of the town automatically become members of the WSA. On Dec. 2, between the hours of 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., the officers and staff of the Council on Aging and the Winchester Seniors Association will greet new members at the Jenks Senior Center and inform them of the wide breadth of activities in which seniors are involved.

The Association provides guidance in the fields of health, energy, housing, taxes, investments, and other areas of major concern. There are on-going programs in dancing, Yoga, bridge and whist, bowling, luncheons, day trips, travel and tours, crafts and other activities. A monthly newsletter keeps 3000 seniors informed about events that are planned to meet varying interests.

The opportunity to extend a welcome and encourage new members to become active participants is an innovation this year in attempting to make personal contacts with many people. The philosophy of the Winchester Seniors Association strongly emphasizes the need for seniors to help seniors through many types of volunteer opportunities. The occasion that is planned will open up avenues of interst that can be pursued by new members of the Association.

Citizens Can File Bills With Saltmarsh

All citizens interested in filing bills to be considered during the 1980 legislative session were invited this week to contact Representative "Whip" Saltmarsh.

The deadline for filing is December 5th, and Saltmarsh is offering assistance with the preparation of content and, if necessary, technical assistance via the House legal counsel.

Any citizen has the right to file a bill through his local representative, whose sponsorship does not necessarily involve personal support.

During Mark Twain's days as a newspaperman, he was editor of a small Missouri paper. One day he received a letter from a subscriber, stating that he had found a spider in his paper, and asked if this was an omen of good or bad luck.

Twain replied: "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good nor bad luck. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

Christian Science Church Plans Thanksgiving Service

A verse from First Thessalonians — "In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you" — is the opening text of a special Thanksgiving service at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The hour-long annual service will be held tomorrow beginning at 10 a.m.

Related passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will also be read, including: "The rich in spirit help the poor in one grand brotherhood, all having the same Principle, or Father; and blessed is that man who seeth his brother's need and supplieth it, seeking his own in another's good."

Hymns of thanksgiving, reading of Pres. Carter's and Gov. King's Thanksgiving Proclamations, time for quiet prayer, and expressions of gratitude by members of the congregation will be included in the meeting as well.

Richard Sampson and Jody Friborg, presently serving as Readers of the church, will conduct the service. Child care will be provided for very young children.

Christmas Bazaar This Week

The Medical Missionaries of Mary Christmas Bazaar will be held today, Nov. 29, and Dec. 1 from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. at their One Arlington st. location.

Hot chicken dinners will be served. Proceeds will benefit hospitals, Hansens Disease and clinics of the Medical Missionaries of Mary in developing countries.

...In 1780 Winchester had to provide 24,078 pounds of beef under the levied "beef taxes" for the revolutionary army. The town, like all Massachusetts communities, was also required to provide as many shirts, shoes and stockings as would cover one-seventh of the town's male population. In Winchester this meant 21 blankets and 42 each of shirts, stockings and shoes.

Elder Services Sponsors An Adult Day Health Center

Cooperative Elder Services, Inc. (CESI) is sponsoring a community Adult Day Health Center. CESI is a newly formed corporation made up of representatives from area agencies providing services to the elderly.

The purpose of the corporation is to promote programs which will meet the multiple physical, emotional and social needs of frail elderly and handicapped individuals in the community wi5h a view toward preventing or postponing institutionalization.

The day center is one of more than a dozen similar programs across Massachusetts, some of which have been in existence since 1975. Since then, the centers have been demonstrated to significantly improve the quality of care and reduce the vulnerability of the population which they serve.

The area Adult Day Care Center will be opening later in the month at 20 Pelham rd., Lexington, off Mdassachusetts avenue at the former Lexington Academy. The program will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Participants may spend from two to five days a week there, returning home in the late afternoon. While the program site is in Lexington, participants are expected to come from the surrounding communities including Arlington, Burlington, Winchester and Woburn. Transportation will be arranged.

Twenty-four people can attend the center each day. Services will be designed to meet both group and individual needs in a pleasant, comfortable environment. The services will include nursing and personal care, rehabilitation therapies, social services, diversional activities, and a hot meal and snacks prepared to meet individual dietary needs.

The center's activities will be coordinated by its new director, Mrs. Katherine Meyer, R.N., who has a master's degree in community health nursing. She comes to this position with experience as a nurse practitioner and a supervisor for a visiting nurse association.

Recipients of the program's services will be charged a daily fee unless they are eligible for the State's Medical Assistance program. A grant has been obtained for funds to defray starting costs under Title III of the Older Americans Act.

CESI hopes to find ways to hold down costs to recipients. Donations which will help to furnish the center will be appreciated. Appliances, such as a stove and refrigerator, furniture in good condition, adaptive equipment such as wheelchairs or walkers, and items for recreation such as a piano, phonograph, radio, or sewing machine will be particularly useful.

For Senior Citizens

Counseling Resource Center Adds New Staff Member

The Counseling Resource Center, Inc., a non-profit agency at 5 Spruce st., is celebrating its first year in Winchester after 10 years in Woburn and another decade in Boston, by adding a new colleague to its group of professional psychologists and counselors.

Cynthia C. Christoforides, who specializes in counseling parents of very young children, adolescents, and high school students with serious academic and social problems, recently joined the staff. She has a long-standing commitment to providing support for individuals and families during periods of stress.

As the mother of three young children, in addition to her academic background, she brings a very practical understanding of personal and family relationships to the expanding resources offered by this Center.

She earned a bachelor of arts degree cum laude from Skidmore College, and received a master of Education Degree from Harvard University in Developmental Psychology. Additional non-degree work was done at The Sorbonne, Boston University and at Brandeis University.

She is a certified school psychologist in Massachusetts, and has seen adolescents referred by parents and teachers in individual counseling for periods of from one month to two years.

According to Dr. Arthur Fultz, executive director of the center, this marks a much needed expansion of counsleing resources to serve not only Winchester residents but the whole north suburban community. The Board of Directors of the Counseling Resource Center unanimously voted last week to invite Mrs. Christoforides to join the Center.

Her recent entrance into this program is one more stage in the making of accredited counseling available, a stage which was begun last December when D. Frieda Lang, a licensed clinical psychologist, began working in counsleing and therapy.

...The first Town Clerk in the Town of Winchester was Dr. David Youngman who not only ran an apothecary shop but was also a bookseller and stationer.

Winchester Trails Plans Trip For Adults Dec. 2

In response to many requests for adult field trips, Winchester Trails guides will lead a trip to Shaker Glen Dec. 2 at 1 p.m.

Those interested will meet at the parking lot near the Jenks Senior Center to share a ride to the starting point of the walk. Ferns, mosses and rocks of az ravine will be seen.

Winchester Trails is known for field trips for school children as part of the school natural science curriculum. This expedition to Shaker Glen is part of a continuing effort to introduce more persons to the conservation lands and public areas in and around Winchester.

A series of walks in Winchester's Town Forest, the Smith Pond conservation land, and other areas of natural beauty, are scheduled for the spring.

Psychologist To Speak At Library Tuesday

Winchester psychologist Dr. Freida A. Lang will speak on "The Antecedents of Adolescent Problems" Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Winchester Public Library.

The Quota Club of Winchester, which is sponsoring the program, selected this subject in celebration of the The International Year of the Child, according to Pat Hoyle, president of the business, executive and professional women's service organization.

Lang will talk of the need of parents of teenagers for support and the support parents can give their adolescent children. A question and answer period will follow.

Winchester area women interested in joining Quota may attend.

Lang is a psychologist in the Medford Public Schools as well as maintaining a private practice.

Students and teachers from St. Mary's School recently took a tour of the Massachuesetts State House with local State Representative Sherman Saltmarsh (center). (State House Photo)

...In 1914, four years after the Boy Scouts of America was started, a troop was organized in Winchester by Robert W. Fernald who then became the troop's scoutmaster. On different occasions four of that troop's members later each rescued a drowning person. Girl Scouts in Winchester began on May 18, 1917 at the home of Mrs. Addison R. Pike.

RODNEY STRONG was in town last week to talk about his Sonoma Vineyards. We met him at a wine-tasting at Another Season, a Beacon Hill restaurant. He had just come in from California, where he had presided at the final crushing, and was full of grape news.

"It has been a spotty harvest, I must admit. We had severe rains in the north in September and October, and I'm afraid that the sugar levels aren't quite what they should be. We've been experiencing some of the European problems. A little heat spell in September fatigued the vines. The Pinot Noirs, the Chardonnays, and some of the Rieslings are quite good, but the Cabernets . . ." — his voice took on the tone of a father speaking of a favorite but naughty child — "the Cabernets will be useful but not spectacular."

Sugar levels are of the utmost importance in the quality of a wine, and they are monitored as closely as a baby's first tooth. Strong admitted that it is unusual for a winemaker to speak slightingly of his own product, then continued, "It is the responsibility of the winemaker to fine-tune the American palate."

With that sentiment we got down to the business of fine-tuning our own. The experienced wine-tasters among us made kind of a thing about sloshing the wine around in the glass, sniffing at it, and drawing it in over the palate; the rest of sipped as well as we knew how. The first wine was Sonoma Vineyards Champagne Cuvee 113. Strong prefers the term sparkling wine, which doesn't sound quite so glamorous. "This is fresh and fruity, and drier than most American sparkling wines. You could drink this all through dinner. It's not for pouring over baseball players' heads. Is it too dry?"

Two still whites were accompanied by a first course of fish baked in a shell of pastry, with lemon butter and herbs. The first was Sonoma Vineyards Estate Bottled Chalk Hill Chardonnay, 1978. This wine was aged in casks of limousin oak, imported from France. "You have to be careful with oak," said Strong. "Wood is essential but it must not dominate." He went on to say that in his opinion, American oaks are too woody to use as casks. The Chalk Hill Chardonnay was described by the experts as "silky, flinty, quite elegant." The other white was Sonoma Vineyards Estate Bottled River West Chardonnay, 1978. "It's bigger and fleshier," said Strong. "This wine was made from grapes grown on the west bank of the Russian River in Sonoma County, ideal territory for the big-textured Chardonnays." Three of the four people we asked preferred the River West to the Chalk Hill, although cogent arguments were presented on each side, and our sample was by no means a scientific one.

Then we started in on the reds, which were served with braised beef, julienne carrots and fennel, and a puff of herb bread. First we tasted Sonoma Vineyards Estate Bottled River East Pinot Noir, 1976, from the other side of the Russian River, and Strong talked about the myth and the manufacture of Pinot Noirs. "The Pinot Noir is not well appreciated, and it really hasn't done too well in California. It's a very, very finicky grape, but I've always loved the Burgundian wines, so we keep trying. A good Pinot Noir has a great barnyard taste, a rich decadence. It should not be heavy, but intense." Strong said that modern methods of scientific wine-making are not well suited to the Pinot Noir. "Pinot Noir demands a faux pas from time to time. We have a $40,000 crusher that separates all the stems, because as a rule you don't want a stemmy taste to a wine, but for the Pinot Noir we have a guy with a $2 shovel to pitch a few stems back in." Strong did not say where he buys $2 shovels. We thought the Pinot Noir tasted quite velvety and nice, but the next red Alexander's Crown Cabernet Sauvignon 1976, knocked it out of the water.

"This one is a monster," Strong said, chuckling appreciatively. "It will dominate anything you are doing, and you probably shouldn't stay alone in the room with a bottle of this. It will improve in the bottle for ten years, and endure for ten years after that. There is a flavor of crushed violets, a big, deep, Burgundian nose." We like the Petronian ring to its name.

Wines from Strong's Sonoma Vineyards cost between $7 and $15 a bottle, and are distributed locally by C Pappas Company and Charles Gilman and Sons. □

Richard Kavanaugh as Scooper and April Shawhan as Deirdre in Bosoms and Neglect.

By Kimberly French

Bosoms and Neglect

John Guare's new comedy has little to do with bosoms, somewhat more to do with neglect, and a lot to do with psychotics. Bosoms and Neglect pulls all the skeletons out of the closets. One is Deirdre, a newly-thin and decidedly-crazy woman who blithely munches on celery and yogurt and gets off on clobbering men whom she thinks go out of their way to ignore her. Another is Henny, an 83-year-old drunkard's widow, with frustrated yearnings so repressed that — like the cancer that eats through her breast and the uterus that drops out of her — they, too, must erupt. And another is her son, who calls himself Scooper, has recurring dreams about a childhood abuse, and can't have a normal relationship with anyone or anything — and it's no wonder, as he graphically outlines to a casual new lover what sex is like with someone who's had a C-section.

It's enough to make you wonder on whose authority they decided to call it a comedy. Deirdre and Scooper share an offstage psychiatrist, and the action, mostly verbal, takes place in a hospital room and two apartments. The dialogue is fast, violent, and witty, producing nervous laughter in the audience. The plot unfolds to reveal problems in the twisted lives you may not want to think about, but it draws you in against your will. Confronted with so much intense neurosis, you don't know whether to laugh it off or just wonder about the mind that thought it all up.

The best reason to see Bosoms and Neglect is because it manipulates emotion, or rather tension, as only true Art can — and does it well. Only at intermission do you realize your muscles are in knots, your stomach in shreds, and you must remind yourself, as the characters should: This is NOT reality.

The acting is tremendous. April Shawhan as the crazy lady has the involuntary angry blush; Lenka Peterson as the crazy widow has the involuntary shaking; and Richard Kavenaugh as the crazy son has the involuntary tics; all characteristics of the severely disturbed.

And disturbing is what John Guare's latest is, but there's no denying the emotional wallop.

At the Charles Playhouse, 74 Warrenton Street, Boston, through December 16. 426-6912. □

GATHERING TOGETHER

Thanksgiving is a time to gather together. It is one of those rare opportunities to touch base with the past, a time that enables people to connect in very special and poignant ways with family and friends. Memories are evoked, reminiscences exchanged, and stories are told with a kind of intimacy that can only be shared with those who are closest to you. So today's recommendation for something to do is to stay at home. Forget for once the football game on television and linger longer than usual around the dinner table. There's lots to talk about, and the chance comes only once a year. Happy Thanksgiving.

ON ANGELS' WINGS

$ The second exhibition at the Museum of Fine Arts at Faneuil Hall, called On Angels' Wings, features more than 60 objects showing how artists through the ages, merely by adding wings to human figures, have evoked the feeling of power, swiftness, and spirit. Works by Rembrandt, Durer, Pendergast, as well as an ancient Egyptian gold pectoral depicting Isis, are on display. The MFA's satellite museum at Faneuil Hall, in the South Market building, is open from 11 am to 7 pm Tuesday through Saturday and 11 am to 5 pm on Sunday. Admission is free. Call 267-9300 for more information.

CHRISTMAS CRAFTS EXPO

The Boston Christmas Crafts Exposition, featuring crafty folks and their wares from all over New England, including toymakers, glassblowers, sculptors, artists, and printmakers, comes to the Commonwealth Pier Exhibition Hall, Northern Avenue, Boston, today through Sunday. Show hours are from noon to 10 pm today, 10 am to 10 pm tomorrow, and 10 am to 8 pm on Sunday. Admission is $2, kids younger than ten get in free when accompanied by an adult. For further information call 482-2930.

DON GIOVANNI

The film Don Giovanni, directed by Joseph Losey, opens an exclusive run at the Exeter Street Theatre, 26 Exeter Street, Boston. It's a filmed version of Mozart's opera, based on the story of Don Juan, the legendary Spanish devil-may-care womanizer who invites the statue of the man he murdered to dinner; the statue comes and drags him down to hell. Ruggero Raimondi sings the title role. Screenings are at 1, 4:30, and 8 pm; running time is just over three hours. Tickets cost $5. For further information call 536-7067.

Editor's Note:

What does a typical MetroBoston family do with its leisure time? A tough question. First, there's no such thing as a typical family; second, there are as many activities in the area as there are families.

METROGUIDE, as suburban Boston's weekly leisure magazine, each week provides tips and ideas for hundreds of things to do. To single out and bring to life just what some people do with their spare time, we decided to focus on three families who happen to be particularly active in special ways. Their stories follow, compiled by Contributing Editors Liz Horwitt, Gary Provost, and Harriet Webster.

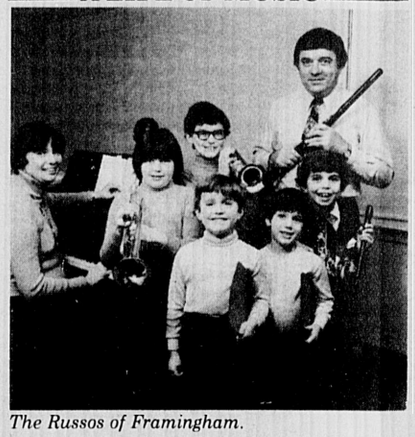
A LIFE OF MUSIC



The Russos of Framingham.

Spending an evening with the Russos of Framingham is like dropping in for potluck supper with the Trapp family. All of them — father Ed, mother Sarah, right down to four-year-old Tony — are musical virtuosos. And all of them love to perform . . . for themselves or for an appreciative audience of one or more. "They're all hammy," says Ed Russo of his kids. "They love applause."

Music is in the blood of the Russo family. Ed met Sarah at Christopher Ryder House, a nightclub in Chatham, on Cape Cod. He was playing clarinet (he also plays saxophone and flute) in a combo that favored Benny Goodman tunes and the like. She was with the "Singing Strings," an all-female chorus from the New England Conservatory. At the chance meeting, Ed showed Sarah his Haines wooden flute — a very rare, famous, old, valuable, and obsolete instrument — and the romance began.

Ed Russo has dreams of the family becoming a professional music group. Sarah is a singer, violist, and pianist, but her first instrument is flute. At New England Conservatory she studied with such notables as Murray Panitz (Philadelphia Orchestra) and James Pappoutsakis (Boston Symphony Orchestra). She has also played regularly with the Boston Symphony, under the direction of conductors Munch, Copland, Leinsdorf, and Bernstein.

She now performs as flute soloist in the Framingham Symphony Orchestra, the conductor of which happens to be her husband. Ed has been the musical director of the Framingham Symphony for the past three years, and it is his pride and joy almost as much as his children are.

All the Russo children play and sing at the drop of a baton. The oldest is Joey, a tall, skinny 10-year-old who sings and plays trumpet, and whose stage presence is stunning. His sister Katy, eight, sings and plays trumpet and piano with equal enthusiasm. Their father has been teaching them himself, "by ear — they're a little too young to learn to read music, so I'm teaching them how to make music." According to his parents, seven-year-old Eddie is a "natural clarinet player if ever there was one," but his fingers don't quite reach the holes yet. So for now he's sticking to the soprano recorder. Jean Paul, five, has been earmarked in the family as the future greatest flute player in the world — "so naturally we had to give him a French name," says his mother. Four-year-old Tony doesn't have an instrument yet, "but he's a pretty good singer," says his father.

"All my kids have nice, cantabile voices," says Russo. Even in front of visitors they sing loudly, clearly, in tune, and without bashfulness. To date, the family has performed publicly only in church, by special invitation, as a seven-voice choir. Most Russo performances are given privately, before friends, in the Russo living room.

Three Families at Play:

Music, Sports, Junking Together

The room is obviously the scene of many performances: All available space is cluttered with musical paraphernalia — cases, stands, mutes, sheets and books of music. Katy's and Joey's trumpets lie on top of the grand piano. In one corner stands a stringless cello; in another, shelves full of Edward's music library.

A typical evening with the Russo family begins with a few hymns before dinner. I Wonder As I Wander and Good News are two family favorites. During dinner there might be a Jean Paul solo of Rip Van Winkle, bearing down especially hard on the "Rip." "Jean Paul has a forzando personality," his father says proudly.

After dinner, Katy and Joey do a trumpet duet of Au Claire de la Lune. One does the harmony, the other the melody; they exchange parts when their father yells "switch!" Next, Joey solos, while Katy lowers her instrument and pants expressively.

Then it's back to hymns, with a rendition, con brio, of He Will Come Again. This is the kids' favorite "because it's got a rock beat." The song begins with just Sarah on the piano, plus Joey and Katy singing. Halfway through, Jean Paul appears in the doorway and runs over. Katy puts an arm around his shoulder and draws him over to the music book, pointing out the place on the page. They finish up the song as a quartet.

While Ed Russo has definite plans for the future, for now he's willing to let them develop at their own natural speed. Meanwhile, if there's any truth to the old adage, "The family that plays together, stays together," the Russo septet will be a combo for a long time to come.

UNITED IN FUN

The Beaudettes of Marlboro.

They rode into Boston all in a bunch, seven Beaudettes piled into a car with blankets and lunches and rain gear. They were off to see the Pope. At 5:20 on a damp, chilly morning such devotion to a Papal visit would be admirable even for Roman Catholics. But the Beaudettes are active members of the First Church Congregational in Marlboro. There, parents Patricia and Roger serve on the social action committee and the four girls, Teresa, Julie, Amy, and Nancy, teach Sunday school. This is typical of everything about the Beaudettes in off-hours — they do it together.

"We talk a lot," Mrs. Beaudette says. "There's open communication around here. I guess that's the secret to our life, if there is a secret. We just like doing things together."

Pat Beaudette is a slim, attractive woman, 19 years into a marriage, 17 years into motherhood, and just a few days into a new job. Two of the girls and six-year-old David arrive home from school; two other girls are out working. From here in their third-floor apartment high on a hill overlooking Marlboro, the Beaudettes can gaze through a perfect autumn afternoon and spot some of the places they've been and recall some of the many activities that bring them together.

"We bought a Sunfish," Pat says, glancing off toward Hopkinton. "It's a little sailboat," she laughs, explaining that the little boat only holds a pair of Beaudettes at a time — hardly a family yacht. When they take it out and flop it into the water, five Beaudettes sit on the shore eating sandwiches and howling with laughter while two others skip and skitter across the lake and maneuver the little boat into hopelessly horizontal postures that send them flying into the cold water. "Then they come in, and it's someone else's turn," she says.

From another part of the house the family can look down on Hudson, where Dixie, the family-owned black thoroughbred, lopes around at a nearby stable. "Whoever is free will go over and take Dixie for a ride," Pat says. "Except when we all go over, then we take turns."

You might think that any family that buys a little sailboat and dishes out $100 a month for oats and horse care would be slightly wealthier than most. Not so. Roger Beaudette is a machinist, and Pat Beaudette has spent the last 19 years as a full-time housewife and mother.

"We all chip in on these things," Pat says. "All the girls work, putting in a lot of hours babysitting or whatever, and they pay for everything themselves. Before we bought the sailboat we hung a picture of one on the refrigerator until we all had saved enough money to buy one. We all bought the horse together, too, and we all pay for her care, which comes to about $17 each per month."

The Beaudettes travel together, too. Once every year they fly to Florida for a family vacation. The girls pay for their own airlines tickets out of their earnings. Last year they all drove down to New York to see the Macy's parade.

The spirit of doing things together goes beyond leisure hours. "We work together, too," Pat says, pointing to the chore chart on the refrigerator. It lists all the housework and the name of the person responsible for each chore.

Another ardently pursued family activity that involves no expense is square dancing. Roger and Pat do their dancing in Marlboro at the Seven Hills Square Dance Club, and the teenagers work out with the Yellowrock Squares. But the family is whole again when the two groups hold regular inter-generational square dance.

The family camps together too, and that gives them something to dance about when they all trot off to the woods with other members of a dance group called the Campfire Squares.

"We've had to cut back on the camping lately, though," Pat Beaudette says, "since we've all been working."

Togetherness isn't a ritual with the Beaudettes, however. Pat, for example, plays the autoharp and sings along while Teresa plays guitar. Amy and Julie share a baby-sitting, house-cleaning job, which they work at on alternative days. David plays hockey, which the rest of the family follows avidly. Teresa and her father deliver Sunday morning papers together. She's going to buy a new engine, and he's going to put it into an old Volkswagon.

As for the husband and the wife doing things alone? "Well," Pat says, "we're going on a Windjammer cruise for our 20th anniversary, and we often go away to New Hampshire together. And at ten o'clock, the kids have got to be in their bedrooms so that Roger and I can have the kitchen and be alone and talk."

As she says, the family talks a lot, and that's part of the secret. And the rest of it? "Oh I don't know," she muses, "I guess, well I guess it's just that we all like each other."

JUNKING TOGETHER

The Porters of Gloucester.

"Junking" is the poor man's form of antiquing, combining the satisfaction of a shopping spree with the adventure of a scavenger hunt. Junking means finding and purchasing stuff that someone else wants to get rid of. Junking is a concrete illustration of the old truism, "One man's junk is another man's treasure."

Carrie and Rick Porter of Gloucester are devoted junkers. They hound the flea markets and garage sales for usable items at rock bottom prices. Their children sleep in iron and brass beds bought for $25 or less, and their rambling wood-frame home in the seaport town houses a collection of many more than a hundred creamers. Carrie began collecting creamers as a child when she accompanied her parents on their junking expeditions. Here was an item that she could afford, usually paying $1 or less, which was available in sufficient quantity.

The Porters' own children — Elizabeth, six, Amanda, three, and Robert, a mere beginner at three months — are already veterans of the flea-market circuit. Robert is an observer at this point, but the girls are terribly serious about their collections. Amanda looks for cups without saucers (making them affordable). Prize pieces in her collection include willoware, fiestaware, and a Bavarian number. Her outlay per piece is between a nickel and 35 cents.

At her more advanced age, six-year-old Elizabeth has developed a definite professional eye for values. "Sometimes I see people selling something like metal circus toys that are all rusty, broken, and worthless. That's dumb," she notes. "And once I saw a carton of books full of cartoons. Some of them were so ripped that they only had a few pages left, but the person still said they cost $1.25."

Elizabeth's own collections include art books, hotel ironware (serving pieces like gravy boats, pitchers, and vegetable plates), and dolls (with representatives from Uruguay, China, and Spain, as well as American dolls from the Fifties and Sixties).

When asked how she copes with the problem of wanting an item that is out of her price range, Elizabeth is succinct: "Sometimes I ask my mummy for more money, and sometimes the person selling it just gives it to me anyway." When asked to recall one of her better buys, she immediately mentions the three spanking-new racing cars she bought for just $1.

Elizabeth and Amanda also scrounge the sales for funny old clothes, with particular care paid to outrageous hats. "We use them for dress-up, for princesses and queens," Elizabeth explains. Junk jewelry is also high on their list.

Grandparents, uncles, and aunts also get involved. One of Carrie's brothers specializes in old tools while another collects all types of bottle openers. Her sister looks for anything that might be useful in furnishing her apartment. Rick Porter concentrates on trains and train accessories, including magazines, and Carrie herself has a massive collection of Fiestaware — vivid orange, blue, green, and yellow china that lives up to its name. If she ever decides to throw a banquet, she'll be able to make full use of her 61 dinner plates, each individually acquired.

Although Carrie first became interested in junking as a child, she has found that it is a form of leisure activity that can be molded to suit one's current economic circumstances. As a young mother with a husband in law school, she found that junking was one of the few pleasures her family could afford to indulge in. At times it was financially rewarding: She frequently sold off some of her purchases at higher prices to pay for her husband's law books.

Confirmed junkers, the Porters favor the Rowley Flea Market, which they try to attend a few times each month. They also keep a sharp eye out in their own neighborhood. As Carrie puts it, "I'm not afraid to stop at a trash can if it looks good."

And Elizabeth agrees: "There's some very good trash around this area. We go junking for it, and we've gotten some very good tennis racquets and an antique umbrella."

The Porters are enthusiastic about junking as a family pastime. A day of junking out in the fresh air is relaxing. There is the anticipation of a big find without spending anything at all for the pleasure of poking. The Porters advise that if you decide to take up junking, take along a picnic lunch to add to the day's pleasures. And tuck in some old newspapers and a carton or two for packing your purchases should you or your kids unearth any irresistible treasures. □

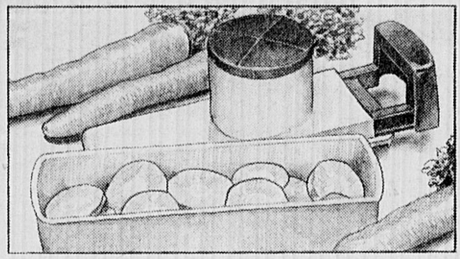
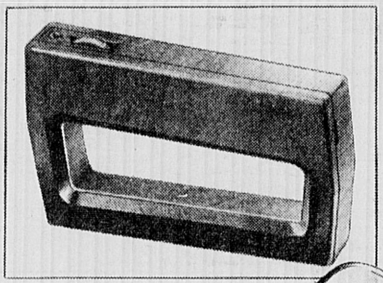
Order now for best seats to Boston's most enchanting holiday tradition!

A Brookstone gift is more than it seems.

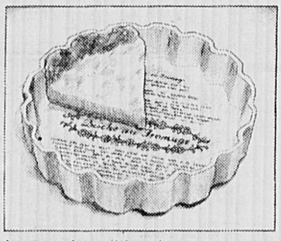
Slicer-dicer. A safe, easy-to-use tool that slices, cubes or chops. Three interchangeable stainless steel blades. A real time-and-effort saver in any kitchen.



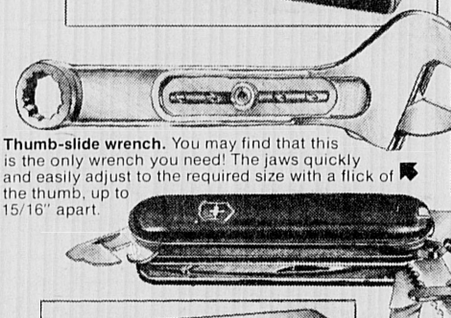
Pinpoint stud finder. Electronic circuitry finds all hidden metals—even non-magnetic. Detects nails in studs, pipes in walls, valuable objects on beaches.



Map-measuring opisometer. Know how far your trip will be before you start. Trace your route on any map, then read your distance in actual miles. Easy to use—only 4½" long.

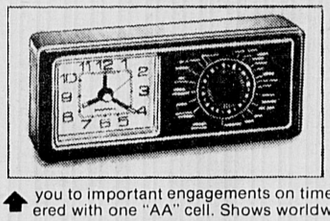


Thumb-slide wrench. You may find that this is the only wrench you need! The jaws quickly and easily adjust to the required size with a flick of the thumb, up to 15/16" apart.



Fluted quiche pan. A traditional, ovenproof ceramic pan with nicely fluted sides. A recipe for quiche au fromage is imprinted inside.

Swiss army knife. This "Astronaut" model will be standard crew equipment for NASA's Space Shuttle program. Contains more blades and implements than you'd believe.



Pocket alarm clock. Wakes you up and gets you to important engagements on time. Battery powered with one "AA" cell. Shows worldwide time zones.

Pedometer. Just hook it to your belt—it accurately measures the distance you've walked or jogged. A precision instrument—and a perfect gift for yourself or a friend.

Most gifts make a big splash on Christmas morning ... then they're forgotten. When you give a Brookstone gift, you know it will be appreciated for years to come. For our high-quality tools last and last, save money and time, and often provide introduction to a whole new way of life.
We sell hard-to-find tools of all kinds; for shop work, for repairing the house, for cooking, for gardening, for keeping in shape.
Brookstone sells the tools for a more rewarding way of life — and backs up each with a lifetime guarantee.

Where else but Jason's for dinner?

Once you decide to go out for dinner, you have one more important decision to make.
You can go to a restaurant that will get you over your hunger.
Or you can go to Jason's where the food is so delicious you'll wish you could be hungry forever.
It's really all a matter of style and philosophy.
So dinner at Jason's is more than a meal, it's a memory.
For only Jason's gives you a choice of filet mignon bouquetiere, Veal Oscar, his own inimitable baked fish en papillote and a host of other extraordinary entrees.
And once you've tried Jason's you'll never have to worry about where to dine again.
Where else but Jason's?

HUB

Aegean Fare-539 Commonwealth Ave, Boston, and other locations, 267-2204. How to eat in Greek: moussaka, souvlaki, lamb specialities. Full bar, moderate prices. Hours: Daily 7 am-4 am. BA/V.

Another Season-99 Mt Vernon St, Boson, 367-0880. A creative à la carte menu with a French accent, rather expensive. Reservations are a must. Wine and beer. Hours: 5:30-10:30 pm Mon-Thurs, until 11 pm Fri and Sat. Closed Sun. AE, MC.

Bette's Rolls Royce-1 Union St, Boston, 227-0675. Good-naturedly rambunctious. Beef dishes, seafood, and sandwiches emerge from the kitchen. Full liquor license. The prices are more like Ford than Rolls. Hours: Daily, 11:30 am-1:45 am. AE, CB, MC.

Black Rose Pub-160 State St, Boston, 523-8486. That's Roisin Dubh (or "Dark Rosaleen") in Gaelic, and the menu is as Irish as the name: stew, corned beef and cabbage, soda bread. Moderate prices, full bar. Sometimes there is a cover charge on weekends. Reservations accepted for dinner. Hours: 11:30-2 am. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

Cafe l'Ananas-281a Newbury St, Boston, 353-0176. There is more on the menu than the eponymous pineapple at this boite in the Back Bay. Continental specialties like steak au poivre vert, veal. Moderately expensive, full bar. Hours: noon-2:30 pm and 6-11 pm, Mon-Sat. Sun noon-2:30 and 6-10 pm. AE, BA/V, MC.

Cafe Budapest-90 Exeter St, Boston, 734-3388. Elegant and expensive, the fare is haute Hungarian: stroganoff, Wiener Schnitzel, tournedos, and rich, rich desserts. The Cafe is open Mon-Sat, noon-3 pm and 5-10:30 pm; until midnight Fri and Sat; 1-10:30 pm Sun. There is a full bar, and reservations are accepted every night except Sat. when the place is likely to be jammed. AE, BA/V, CB, DC.

Cricket's-101 Faneuil Hall Marketplace, Boston, 227-3434. Moderately expensive continental specialties: chicken caprice, pork Tichenese. Full bar. Hours: Daily, 11 am-10:30 pm. AE, MC.

The English Room-29 Newbury St, Boston, 262-5566. No-nonsense eating on the cheap; Anglo-American soulfood like baked beans, mashed turnips, fish plates, meat plates, endless salads. No reservations, no liquor. Hours: Daily, 11 am-9 pm. No credit cards.

Jason's-130 Clarendon St, Boston, 262-9000. Dining among palm trees and sensational salt-water aquariums. Seafood and continental specialties: oysters Rockefeller, veal Oscar, roast Long Island duck. Downstairs, sandwiches and a seafood bar. Moderately expensive, full bar. Hours: Mon-Fri, 11:30 am-3 pm. Dinner daily 5 pm-midnight. AE, DC.

Mandalay-329 Huntington Ave, Boston, 247-2111. Burmese food: curries, dumplings, Lat Thoke. No liquor, not expensive. Hours: Weekdays 11 am-11 pm, weekends noon-midnight. No credit cards.

Marliave Restaurant-10 Bosworth St, Boston, 423-6340. Italian food like veal parmigiana and pasta specialties, all at eminently reasonable prices. Full bar. Hours: Daily except Sun, 11 am-10 pm. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

Pewter Pot-Many locations throughout MetroBoston, including 164 Tremont St, Boston (338-8590), and 287 Harvard St, Brookline (566-9790). Hearty American fare, omelettes, sandwiches. Inexpensive. Hours: Daily, 7 am-midnight.

Pondicherry-429 Boylston St, Boston, 266-3797. Indian food: tandoori chicken, lamb and mutton, out of the ordinary fish dishes. Full bar, reservations accepted. A 15% service charge is included in the prices, which are moderately expensive. Hours: Daily, 11:30 am-3 pm and 5:30-11 pm. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

St Botolph Restaurant-99 St Botolph St, Boston, 266-3030. In a chicly remodeled townhouse, Franglais cuisine: filet of sole caprice, biftek maison moutarde. Prices range from inexpensive to rather expensive. Full bar, reservations a good idea. Hours: Daily, noon-2 and 6-10:30 weekdays; until midnight Fri-Sat. Sun brunch noon-4 pm. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

Andover Inn-Chapel Ave, Andover, 475-5903. On the grounds of Phillips Andover Academy, but a far cry from school fare. Some of the far-flung favorites are Loempia, scampi flambe. Make sure that the pastry cart rolls past your table. On Sundays, the dinner feature is Rijstaffel, a Dutch-Indonesian buffet. Moderately priced, elegant. Full bar. Open Mon-Sat, 11:30 am-3 pm, and 5-10 pm. Sun, 10:30 am-3 pm, and 4-9 pm. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

Bistro Le Bistingo-8 Front St, Salem, 745-0324. Steaks, shrimps, scallops, and special casseroles like chicken livers Henry VIII. Fully licensed, and reservations are accepted. Hours: Daily, 11:30 am-2:30 pm for lunch, dinner 5 pm-midnight; bar open until 1 am. AE, BA/V, MC.

Bisuteki-407 Squire Rd, Revere, 284-7200. Steakhouse, Japanese-style, with hibachi steak, chicken, and shrimp. Moderately expensive, fully licensed. Reservations accepted. Hours: 5-11 pm Mon-Sat, from 4 pm Sun. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC, Exxon.

Captain Courageous-25 Rogers St, Gloucester, 283-0007. Eat fish, while you look out across the boats they arrived in. Also steaks and chops. Fully licensed. Winter hours: Sun-Thurs, 11:30 am-9 pm; Fri-Sat, until 10 pm. Reservations are accepted. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

Michael's House-26 Atlantic Ave, Marblehead, 631-1255. The house predates the restaurant by nearly two centuries. At lunch, try the quiche du jour, or the open steak sandwich. Seafood is a specialty any time. Prices are moderate. Open daily, 11:30-2, and 5:30-midnight. Full bar, wine list. AE, MC.

Stefan's Gourmet Inn-Daniel Webster Hwy South, Nashua NH, (603) 888-0342. European and American specialties, including four different kinds of caviar, in an elegant atmosphere. Fully licensed. No reservations on Sat, otherwise, they are a good idea. Hours: Daily, 11:30 am-10 pm, until 11 pm Fri-Sat. AE, BA/V, MC.

Woodman's-121 Main St, Essex, 768-6451. Highly informal, this place is seafood city. Clams, scallops, sole, shrimp, lobster: an ocean of fish. It's inexpensive, and in the winter, not too crowded. Full bar, but no credit cards, and no reservations. Hours: daily, 11 am-9 pm; Fri-Sun] until 10 pm.

WEST

Backside Restaurant-Rte 1A, Dedham (at Dedham Plaza), 326-2144. Turn-of-the-century decoration, with dining and dancing. Prime rib, sirloin, baked stuffed shrimp. Full bar. Hours: Daily, 11-1 am. AE, MC.

Le Bellecour-10 Muzzey St, Lexington, 861-9400. Now open under new management, Le Bellecour offers French cooking with some other touches, like soft-shell crabs, smoked trout, and medallions de chevreuil, which is venison. Full bar, reservations are recommended. Hours: Mon-Fri, 11:30 am-2 pm and 6-10 pm; Sat, 6-10:30 pm. AE, BA/V, CB, MC.

Cafe l'Orange-Thoreau St, Concord, 369-8700. Upstairs in the Concord Depot, the Cafe is low-key, contemporary, and the cuisine is French: boneless rack of lamb, coquilles St. Jacques, duckling. Prices are moderate, reservations are accepted. Fully licensed. Hours: Mon-Sat, 11:30 am-2:30 pm, and 6-9, ('til 10 pm Fri-Sat), closed Suns. AE, MC.

Legal Seafoods-Rte 9, in the Chestnut Hill Shopping Center, 277-7300. Legal's outpost on the western front is sometimes less hectic than the Cambridge branch, especially if you are willing to eat early or late. Otherwise, the set-up is pretty much the same: the crowds, crowds, crowds are offset by the fish, fish, fish. Reservations for large parties. Full bar. Hours: Mon-Sat, 11 am-9 pm; Sun, 1-9 pm. AE, and personal checks.

Sabra-45 Union St, Newton Center, 527-5641. Israeli and Middle Eastern specialties, in gustatory harmony. Specialties include hamin on Saturdays, and shakshuka for Sunday brunch. Not expensive, either. Full bar. Hours: Mon-Tues, 11 am-11 pm; Wed-Sun, 11 am-midnight. AE, BA/V, MC.

SOUTH

Barnside Tavern-Assinippi Corners, Rte 3, Hanover, 878-9814. Sprawling and always crowded, it's Americana from the word go: prime rib and shrimp are among the favorites. Salad and dessert bars. Full bar. Hours: Daily from 11:30 am-10 pm; from 1-9 pm on Sun. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

Ben White's-31 Providence Hwy (Rte 1), Norwood, 762-6740. Elegantly continental, with a greenhouse to enjoy along with things like chicken Jerusalem, veal Viennoise, and a full range of potables. Hours: Mon-Fri, 11:30 am-9:45 pm; Sat, 5:30-10:45 pm, Sun, noon-9 pm. AE, BA/V, MC.

Casa Berrini-Main St, Marshfield, 834-8765. Italian, continental, and traditional cuisine: veal, prime rib, fresh seafood, and salad Gazebo. Moderate prices, full bar. Hours: Daily except Mon, 11:30-1 am, Sun from 11 am. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

Plaza Inn-Rte 1, Wrentham, 384-2800. "The pleasures of the table are of all time, and all ages, of every country and of every day." Entrees, which are French, Italian, and American, start at $5.95. Full bar. Hours: Daily, from 11 am. AE, MC.

Plymouth 1620 Restaurant-158 Water St, Plymouth, 746-9565. Escargots, steamers, swordfish, lobster, steak, all manner of things that once trod the earth or swam the seas, all at moderate prices. Full bar. Hours: Daily, 11 am-10 pm. Reservations are generally a good idea. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

The Victorian-583 Linwood Ave, Whitinsville, 234-2500. Whitinsville may be off the beaten track, but if you're in the area, or even if you're not, The Victorian will reward you with period decor and a menu that is mostly French, with ontinental and American accents. Closed Mons, otherwise, Tues-Sat, 11:30 am-2:30 pm and from 5:30 pm onwards, and Sun, noon-8 pm. Fully licensed. BA/V, MC.

#104 Soup to Nuts

By Don Rubin

"Meals will play a vital role in your recuperation, here at the Puzzle Institute," the director reassured us. "You crossword enthusiasts can look forward (or down) to some really delightful dinners on our checkered tablecloths. And those of you recovering from jigsaws will undoubtedly enjoy the unusual way we slice our pizzas."

"What about word-search freaks?" someone screamed, half hysterically, from the back of the room.

"Word-search freaks?" the director repeated. "Oh, we just serve soup to those nuts."

The message in your broth is arranged in a chainlike fashion; the letters (and words) are next to each other, in order. Just find the beginning and work your way in from the edge of the bowl. Or locate any word and work your way out.

Rules of the Game

1. Names of the first ten contestants with the correct answer will be published in METROGUIDE. All contestants submitting correct answers to any of the puzzles through January 3 by the usual deadline will qualify for the New Year's Lottery and a grand prize of dinner for two with all the trimmings. The METRODINNER winner will be announced in the January 10 issue of METROGUIDE.
2. All entries in The Puzzle Contest must be received at the METROGUIDE puzzle desk, 227 Statler Office Building, Boston, MA 02116, by noon, the Thursday one week after publication.
3. All entries must be accompanied by the name and address of the contestant.
4. Employees of METROGUIDE and their immediate families are not eligible.
5. Whenever possible, the Puzzle answer should be entered on the form provided.

Answers To Puzzle #102
The Happy Medium

Most of the mistakes folks made doing this puzzle involved the words lovable, hobby, thumb, and stout. By placing mal (bad) before a word, the opposite is created. Malvera (bad-truth), for example, means false. And malgranda (bad-big), means small. A flankokupo (a side occupation), is a hobby, and esperanto translates into "one who hopes."

Here are the solutions:
ghost — fantomo (18) bad — malbona (8)
pamphlet — brosuro (40) drug store — apoteko (26) thumb — dikfingro (29) lovable — aminda (2) watchdog — gardhundo (23) hobby — flankokupo (37) slow — malrapida (27)
stout — dika (6) to warn — averti (3) to happen — okazi (38) speech — lingvo (5)
candy — bombonoj (36) supper — vespermango (28) to ask — peti (35)
twenty — dudek (20) butterfly — papilio (33) typewriter — skribmasino (9) water — akvo (12)
one who hopes — esperanto (15) amateur — neprofesia (11) abuse — misuzi (24) sprinkle (ceremonial) — aspergi (14) howl — kriegi (16) toe — piedfingro (13) middle classes — burgaro (17) xylophone — ksilofono (21) artificial — nenatura (22) to appear, look — aspekti (10) to glow — ardi (25) clock — horlogo (39) false — malvera (1) outside — ekster (7) twelve — dek-du (30) small — malgranda (19) wet — malseka (31) knee — genuo (34) milk — lakto (4) square — kvadrato (32)

The first ten winners are:
Joslin Smith, Arlington; Lyn Rudnick, Andover; Mike Mouris, Arlington; F Davis Dassori, Hingham; Joseph Kubilus, Dracut; Mark Merrifield, Lowell; Peter Neilson, Arlington; Marjorie Norman, Marblehead; Clare Keane, Winchester; P & M Howland, Arlington.

The winner of the Thanksgiving Lottery will be announced in next week's METROGUIDE.

Spirit Of Christmas Past Is Still Present Today

Christmas 1879. Snowflakes gently envelop cities, towns and glens across the continent in a deep, white blanket of snow. The scenerio is reminiscent of the days of "Currier & Ives."

The hustle and bustle of Christmas preparation begin to the tune of side-walk Santas ringing their bells for the benfit of homeless immigrant families. Coachmen leading horse and buggies cordially escort shoppers from store to store, in the midst of crowded city streets.

Logs burn in living room fireplaces, warming the hands and toes of weary Christmas travelers who have come by way of train, horseback and foot to spend the holiday with family and friends.

The smell of pine fills rooms, a reminder of the search in the woods for an evergreen bigger and grander than that of the year before.

As grandmothers reveal their secret recipes for creating perfect gingerbread men and 'chock-full-of-chocolate chip' cookies, wide-eyed children observe, awaiting the chance to sneak a drop of sweet tasting batter.

100 years later and the scenes appear quite different from those of "old-fashioned" Christmases of long ago.

Reflecting modern technology and changing idealogies, today's holiday season is marked with new and changing symbols and traditions.

Coast to coast

The customs and tokens that say "Merry Christmas" appear on television, over the radio, and in newspapers and magazines. Santa Claus is now a universal symbol.

No body of land or water prevents the world wide exchange of greetings of "Joyeux Noel," "Feliz Navidad," and "Buon Natale," as Christmas cheer is spread via satellite.

Closer 5o home, Christmas ornaments of plastic, aluminum and other metals adorn windows, doors, roofs and land-scapes. Twinkling multi-colored electric lights augment the shimmering glow of a clear winter's night.

Families venture out on Christmas Eve to purchase the latest in shiny, aluminum Christmas trees in shades of pink, white and evergreen.

Gifts are chosen from the latest in multifaceted appliances, clothing and jewelry.

Time of love

Times have surely changed. And, along with them, the holidays and celebrations that have survived the ages.

Christmas past was part of a simpler, less complex society, thus it was celebrated in such a manner.

Modern lifestyles often do not lend themselves to the unhurried and often time consuming preparations characteristic of earlier days.

However, a change in the modes of celebrations does not mean that Christmas present is any less significant or meaningful.

As long as Christmas represents a hope for the future, the freedom to give and receive with warmth and meaning, and a time of love, the meaning of Christmas will endure, and Christmas 2079 will be as special as any Christmas past.

Create A Winter Wonderland In Fashion For Today's Man

Fashionable and warm — Key words that describe this year's styles in men's and boys' wear.

Today's men are more interested than ever in the way they look but, with temperatures getting lower, they want comfort and protection from the cold winter winds, as well as style.

Warm indoor and outoor clothing will be welcome Christmas gifts for the man on your list.

Here are some suggestions for gift ideas that will keep the men in your life looking warm and wonderful from head to toe.

The shirt and sweater combination is versatile enough to be mixed and matched or worn separately, depending on the temperature.

The current trend in men's business shirts is to smaller collar styles.

Every man can use a new solid colored shirt or one with a popular classic stripe design. Polyester-cotton blends and the newly added all-cotton are machine washable, making laundering less of a chore.

The selection of sport shirts is endless, with materials of textured cotton, cotton blends, pure wool and wool blends the favorite choices.

The lastest "in" style is the western shirt with yokes fore and aft as well as pointed pocket flaps.

To wear over a new shirt, bulky knit sweaters of cashmere, shetland and lambswool round out any man's wardrobe.

They are featured in a wide array of softly blended solids, For the office, sweater vests make smart, practical gifts.

To add to the shirt and sweater look, or just to the shirt itself, neckwear has taken on a new look for 1980.

Men's ties are narrower this year to keep them in proportion with the smaller shirt collars and suit jacket lapels.

Important to remember when choosing a tie is the wardrobe style it relates to.

Neckwear should complement the colors and textures of the clothing of the recipient. Add a stick pin to embellish and tie of the truly fashion-conscious man.

To keep them warm when they venture outside, give your men outerwear in the latest models.

The choices range from luxurious shearling coats with gloves of smooth gray mochas, sleek capeskins or tan pigskins, to fully lined poplin jackets with fur-or fleece-lined gloves.

Lightweight and warm, quilted ski jackets and suburban coats are very pratical. Leather coats and jackets are big favorites.

Mufflers add welcome warmth and will complement any outfit. Elegant silks or silk-types add a dressy touch to a city outfit, while those in woven or knitted wools in a host of solid shades or classic patterns lend a sporting touch.

For the man who has everything, there is an accessory in jewelry or leather goods that will be new for him.

Replace worn-out old wallets, key cases and pocket secretaries with fresh, crisp models. A handsome belt, a pair of French cuffs, a tie clip or collar pin tops off any man's ensemble.

For cold winter nights, give the gift of sleepwear. Robes range from luxurious silks or plushy velours to very useful terry cloths and cottons. Kimonos solve the size problem, since one size fits all.

In the pajama department, there is a style for every sleeping preference. For those who like to sleep surrounded by warmth there are flannelettes in solid colors aand patterns.

Lighter weight cottons and cotton blends will suit the man who likes to rely on his blankets for warmth.

Top off sleepwear garb with gift slippers such as open-back "mules," sophisticated "operas" or casual moccasin styles lined with warm fleece.

Indoors or out, the well-dressed man — properly gifted — will be a winter sight to behold.

Seasonal Safety Tips

Such Christmas plants as holly, mistletoe and poinsettia are beautiful to look at and add a great deal to the festive atmosphere.

However, don't bring them into your home if you have small children or animals about the house who like to nibble on things to find out what they are. All three are poisonous when eaten and can easily prove hazardous to an unsuspecting but curious child or pet.

Story Of Hanukkah, Festival Of Lights

In addition to Christmas, there are other holidays which are celebrated during the winter. One of them is Hanukkah, or the Festival of Lights.

It usually arrives almost concurrently with Christmas and is celebrated by people of the Jewish faith.

It is a joyous holiday commemorating the rededication of the Temple by Judas Maccabeus in 165 B.C.

The miracle of Hanukkah is light.

Only one day's supply of oil remained to the Hebrews and, by divine grace, burned for eight days.

In ancient tradition, gifts were exchanged every night of the holiday. This custom has changed somewhat over the years and many people celebrate by exchanging one gift during the eight day holiday.

The Festival of Hanukkah is symbolized by the Menorah or ninepronged candelabra. The ninth candle, or shammus, is lit every night and is used to light each of the remaining candle

The candles increase by one every day of the holiday. On the eighth day, all of the candles are lit bringing to conclusion the Festival of Lights.

HEATING BILLS CUT IN HALF BY WINDOW QUILTS

Homeowners can cut heating bills by as much as 50% by stopping heat leakage through windows, says the manufacturer of Window Quilt, a thermal window shade which insulates windows better than double pane glass.

According to David May, chairman of Appropriate Technology Corporation, headquartered in Brattleboro, Vermont, "Even in the best insulated homes, more than one-half of the heat often goes out the windows. Window Quilt acts as an insulating shield to keep warm air from escaping."

The multi-layered thermal shade was recently perfected after three years of research. Independent tests prove it can eliminate 79% of winter heat losses through single-glazed windows, and 66% of heat loss through double-paned windows. Moreover, Window Quilt can keep hard-to-heat rooms comfortable even on the coldest days.

"Glass is notoriously a poor insulator. As a result, windows are responsible for major heat loss in homes, offices and businesses. Up to 20 times more heat escapes through windows than insulated walls. Since almost 80% of the heat loss occurs at night, we designed a covering that was attractive enough for home use, could be used at night and yet rolled up during the day," says inventor John Schnebly, a solar energy expert who founded ATC with a team of energy experts that includes a nuclear physicist.

Window Quilt consists of a five-layer sandwich of polyester fiberfill, aluminized plastic film and a covering of off-white polyester. The layers are quilted by ultrasonic stitching, which uses sound waves instead of thread to securely bind the layers without piercing them which would let air escape.

"The key to Window Quilt's remarkable effectiveness," says May, "is the thin foil layer, which acts as a moisture and vapor barrier and reflects heat. Additionally, the quilt seals tightly around the window on all four sides, preventing cold air from seeping into the room. A roller bar is attached to brackets and a second bar presses the shade against the top of the window. The sides of the quilt slip through a plastic track which is affixed to the window frame with adhesive. A strip of foam on the weighted batten seals the Window Quilt against the window sill. The Window Quilt operates as easily as any window shade and can be installed easily; it is also washable and durable."

Says May, a former New England coordinator of energy issues for the Sierra Club, "Depending on the climate, in a typical home with storm windows and electric, Oil or gas heat, your savings in fuel will pay for the Window Quilt in two-five years. Without storm windows,, Window Quilt will pay for itself in one-two years."

"During Summer months, Window Quilt frequently makes air conditioning unnecessary since it blocks the sun's heat during the day," he claims.

As May points out, Window Quilt can be used in places that couldn't be insulated before, including sliding glass doors — one of the biggest sources of heat loss — and greenhouses or solar-heated rooms where warmth and humidity control are especially important. Window Quilt can be custom fit to be used on any size window, such as oversize windows found in high-rises, dormitories and hotels. "Two bonuses," adds May, "are Window Quilt's ability to cut outside noise, such as traffic, by more than half and assure privacy."

Window Quilt in off-white harmonizes with any color. Patterned or solid color coverings, special sizes, reflective-backed quilts and motorized mechanisms are available for large orders. Window Quilt, including all hardware, for a standard 2½' x 4' window, will cost about $40.

"Winterize" Feet For Cold Weather Walking

It's the season for blizzards and cold snaps. When the snow flies and traffic snarls, walking may be the surest way to get around.

To help keep feet warmer and more comfortable during winter walks, the foot care experts at Scholl offer these suggestions:

— Be sure there's room to spare inside boots. Extra space will provide "breathing room" for feet, and channel b9dy heat throughout the boot, to act as an insulating layer of warmth.

— Leave fashion for better weather: - comfortable, lowheeled walking boots are best bets for battling snow drifts, slush and cold. On icy or muddy days, opt for rubbery corrugated boot soles that grip slippery pavements.

— Winterize footware with insoles that shield feet from the weather. Block out cold and dampness to help feet stay warmer.

— Invest in a pair of oversized, wooly socks as a second layer for warm padding. Extra socks also will help protect against heel or ankle chafing inside heavy, rigid bootware.

— Leather boots should be "weather-proofed" with oil, polish or spray, available at show stores. Otherwise, salt and water can eat into the leather and leave evaporation marks. Apply polish or oil often to prevent the leather from drying or cracking.

— When buying new snow boots, try them on over the socks and insoles you'll wear, to be sure the boots won't pinch or restrict foot movements.,

— Once you come in from the cold, be sure to wipe boots clean to keep them looking good as new.

— Massage feet that have been out in the elements, and dip them into a warm foot-soak to get circulation going and "take the chill off."

Give Fish As Gifts This Christmas

People often associate fish with summertime and warmer weather at beaches, lakes and streams. But the tranquil beauty of a fresh or salt water aquarium and the intriguing movements of fish can provide year-round enjoyment.

Christmas is the perfect occasion to delight someone close to you with an unusual gift not likely to be duplicated. An aquarium is sure to please anyone — from the kids to Grandpa George — on your gift-giving list.

Popular gifts

Aquariums are becoming increasingly popular due to the wide variety, easy maintenance and low cost of aquarium residents — both fresh and salt water species.

For the novice aquarist a fresh water tank and accessories is less than $30; a salt water aquarium can be had for under $100.

With Americans spending more time at home and taking up new hobbies, first-time fish-keepers are spawning everywhere.

Aquariums can be easily wrapped and placed under the tree; fish cannot. But, a gift certificate for fish can be wrapped or even "stuffed" in a stocking, allowing recipients the fun and excitement of selecting their own pets.

Fresh waater fun

A 10-gallon capacity tank is an adequate size for beginners. Many varieties of fish and plant life can comfortably inhabit a tank this size, and the care and maintenance of a fresh water tank is simple enough even for children.

In addition to the aquarium, a thermometer, filter, pump and lighting device should also be purchased. Most pet shops offer complete kits with everything needed to set up an aquarium.

In addition to the "tank hardware," gravel should also be purchased. Gravel, preferably grade number 3, will allow new aquarium enthusiasts to secure any plants they may wish to include in the underwater environment, while adding a decorative touch to the tank itself.

After the fresh water tank has been set-up, it's time for a trip to the pet shop.

When lucky recipients visit the shop, certificates can be exchanged for a colorful array of attractive fish and sometimes also for tank accessories.

Pet shop personnel are ready to answer questions about aquarium set-up, maintenance and can assist the new hobbyist with actual fish selection.

Shop experts can often recommend the reading materials dealing with the subject of aquariums. Books discussing the ways to set up aquariums and explaining the varieties of fish to choose from are excellent gifts for anyone starting to dip their feet in the fascinating hobby, or for someone already in the swim of things.

Miniature marine worlds

A s$lt water aquarium is like having a minature ocean in the home. The bright, almost fluorescent colors of salt water species are just as appealing as the bright lights on a Christmas tree.

Although salt water aquariums generally involve more care than a fresh water set-up, they can be easily maintained with careful preparation.

The biggest difference between salt and fresh water aquariums is the set-up time. Two to three weeks must be allowed for all pH, ammonia, nitrite and nitrate levels of the salt water aquarium to be conducive to fish life.

So while the aquarium can be set up right away, a trip to the fish store will have to be postponed until the tank is ready for inhabitants.

From the sea

Select a tank of 20 gallons or more, since salt water fish, as a rule, are larger than fresh water species.

In addition to the "hardware" needed for a fresh water environment, a salt water tank hydrometer is necessary.

Once the tank is set up for fish, it's time to visit the pet store for marine fish and plants. Also, specially-treated coral and rock formations can enhance the underwater scene.

Regardless of the type of tank chosen as a present this year, a fresh or salt water aquarium will provide hours of enjoyment for all its viewers.

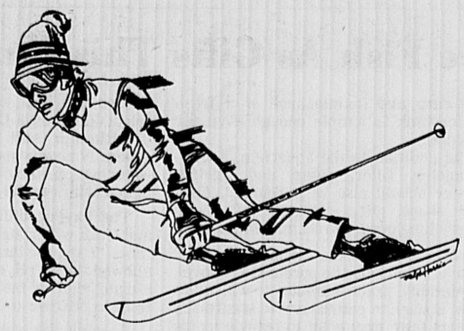
For Beginners To Hotdoggers...

There's More To Skiing Than Snow And Slopes



It's Saturday morning, 7 a.m., the alarm is blaring. You sleepily stab at the off button, resisting the urge to retreat back under the warmth of the electric blanket. Must get moving, the day's a-wasting.

On goes the long underwear, thermal socks, turtleneck, warm-up pants, wool sweater, down jacket, gloves, hat and muffler.

Whew! Only an hour-and-a-half drive if the roads aren't too icy, and the parking lot will be in sight. Drive on.

Getting ready

It's cold. The sun is not quite up over the mountain yet. Steam rises off your wool socks as you exchange driving shoes for ski boots. It's nice to have these new lightweight boots with only one buckle. Sure makes it a lot easier.

Okay, checklist: Skis, poles, goggles, money, gloves, hat. Look, the ticket line's not too long!

With lift ticket firmly attached, you slip easily into your step-in bindings, no straps to snap because of the convenient ski brakes and, with a firm hold on your poles, you're off to the lift and the start of a glorious day.

Perfect setting

The weather is still chilly but invigorating. The sun has just peaked over the ridge, shining brilliantly on snow-laden pine trees and brightly clad skiers who float gracefully on a soft carpet of fresh snow.

Your excitement and anticipation mount as the top ridge draws nearer. You ready your goggles, adjust the muffler around your face and slip your hands into the strapless grips on your poles.

Sliding easily from the chair, you're off! What a sensational feeling of freedom.

Schusss . . .

Gliding smmoothly on the newly groomed run, spirits rise as you look ahead at the calm white river before you. Skiing these runs again and again provides endless new thrills because no two times will be alike.

It's four o'clock. How quickly a day of skiing passes, but the total skiing experience is not over.

Apres-ski, a time of gathering with old and new friends around a cozy fire, sipping hot spiced wine, is often as stimulating and enjoyable as the events that precede it.

Sharing experiences

There is a certain camaraderie among skiers who have shared the same runs, experienced similar successes, disasters and recoveries, and who've enjoyed the rewarding fatigue of an active sport.

The exciting sport of skiing is growing rapidly because of positive experiences such as the one described. The mystique and misconceptions of what's involved in a day on the slopes has diminished considerably as interested people learn more about equipment, clothing and skiing techniques.

Skiing equipment has come a long way from the days of beartrap bindings, laced leather boots, bamboo poles, wood skis and bulky clothing.

Equipment is important

Beginners and intermediates alike are encouraged to select lightweight plastic boots, shorter (160-185 cm), more flexible skis, step-in bindings, tapered-aluminum ski poles, and slim-line warm-up suits.

Ski equipment manufacturers are responding to the growing number of new entrants to the sport. For example, a manufacturer of lightweight high-performance ski boots, poles and goggles, offers two unique boot models that have the adjustability to be used by beginners as well as intermediate and advanced skiers.

Improvements have not only occurred in ski clothing and equipment, but also in ski mountain maintenance, the amenities offered in the resort communities and the wide selection of transportation options.

Get-aways getting better

Many resorts have budgeted large sums of money for the operation of equipment for grooming of the runs, the installation of snow-making equipment to ensure a longer season and a secure snow base, and the training of more professional mountain crews to maintain and control the conditions on the hill and the well-being of skiers.

Discount rates

A variety of services, restaurants, retail shops, entertainment and lodging have rapidly sprung up to accommodate the weekend and week-long skiers.

Major airlines have given skiing special consideration by adding special routes to the more popular destination reports. Commuter airlines are expanding their schedule to connect conveniently with the larger air terminals. Some airlines are also offering special ski packages to many resorts.

All of these well-coordinated efforts and improvements on the part of manufacturers, resorts and airlines make it much easier for today's interested novice to enter the exciting sport of snow skiing.

If you have ever had the desire to experience the exhilaration of gliding smoothly down expertly groomed slopes, observing the beauties of nature there is no better time than now.

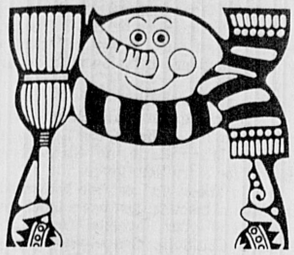
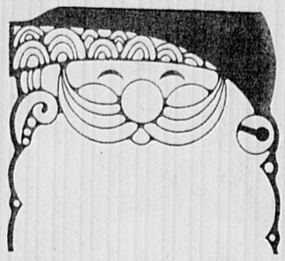
Christmas Carol

The text of "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing" was written as a hymn in 1739 by Chares Wesley. The music used today was not written until a century later when Felix Mendelssohn composed it as a secular cantata. It was adapted to the carol in 1856.



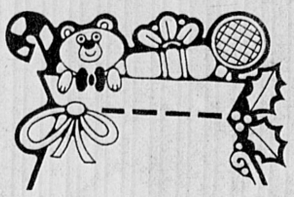


Works Of Art

Some of the more elaborate greeting cards, particularly those featuring reproductions of famous masters, are worthy of framing in themselves, to be displayed at Christmastime or even around the calendar.

Hostess Gift

If you're handy with a sewing machine, you can create lovely placemats and napkins with easy-care fabrics in appropriate prints.



Gift Idea For Tennis Set

That set of tennis balls will seem really special if you're thoughful enough to have balls personalized with stenciled initials.

Use Again And Again

Decorative ties and wrappings from presents you've received needn't be thrown away. Recycle them.

Not only can you use them to wrap gifts, but many make pretty additions to the Christmas tree or festive garnishes for the Christmas table.

Let It Snow!

A pretty and inexpensive way to get a "snowy" tree is with soap suds. Use a beater or electric mixer to make thick suds, then spoon them onto your tree, sprinkling with dry flakes for a lovely, snow-touched effect.

Cherried Fruit Cake

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 7¼-ounce packages pitted white dates
1 cup mixed candied fruits
2 16-ounce jars red maraschino cherries, drained
1 16-ounce package whole pecans
3 eggs
1-3 cup light or dark rum
1-2 cup light corn syrup

Grease two 9x5x3 inch loaf pans with shortening.

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into a large mixing bowl.

Add dates, candied fruits, cherries and pecans. Toss until coated.

Beat eggs and run until well blended. Pour over fruit mixture. Stir until blended.

Divide batter equally between loaf pans, using a spatula to spread batter evenly into pans.

Bake in preheated 300oF oven for 1 hour 45 minutes or until cake tester or toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

Cool cake in pans 15 minutes. Then remove from pans.

Brush loaves with corn syrup while still warm. Cool thoroughly before serving or storing.

Make 2 loaves.

Give a brunch!

There's a relaxed feeling about this merged meal that simplifies weekend and holiday entertaining. Easier on the exchequer than a dinner party, brunch is a wonderful way to enjoy the company of friends. And, even when you're just family, brunch is fun as a change of pace.

Inventive New Year's Dinners

What to have for your New Year's Eve dinner is sure to be a dilemma as you seek to conjure up a menu that will start the New Year off in a savory manner.

Although January 1st does not begin the New Year for all people in the world, a dinner reflecting the food choices of a different nationality can be interesting and fun to prepare.

If you are intrigued by the Orient, Chinese or Japanese cuisine offers many creative and quick-to-prepare dishes.

With the aid of a wok, the Chinese means to meals in minutes, your imagination can run wild.

Bean sprouts, mung shoots, peapods and other Chinese vegetables, combined with chicken, steak or pork, and seasoned with tabasco or soy sauce, can be stir-fried in minutes.

Thus, the chef will have time to enjoy the night's upcoming festivities, rather than spending all of his or her time in the kitchen.

For those who prefer a meal that sits a little longer in the stomach, Italy offers dishes that are both delicious and filling.

Lasagna, Italian bread and a salad are sure to please everyone. Add a piece of cheesecake or a cannoli as dessert, and the menu is complete.

From "South of the Border" come menu ideas that are reminders of the sunny, 'hot' climate of Mexico.

Tacos, cornbread, enchiladas and guacamole can add the spice of life to your dinner.

Most any nationality can be incorporated into a theme for your last dinner of the current year, memories of which will linger long into the year to come

Don't Wait Until Next Year

With the holidays almost upon us, everyone is looking forward to lots of gala parties and good, hearty eating.

And, then sometime around the first week in January, we make the same old resolution: that next year, we're going to exercise just a bit more restraint!

What if you could indulge yourself just as much, yet still lighten up a little on the amount of sugar you consume?

Sound too good to be true? It's not, because with just a bit of advance planning and products lower in sugar, you can do it.

Here are some tips:

— Try traditional glazed ham — with a lighter touch — that is, use Low Sugar Orange Marmalade or Strawberry Spread for a fruitier flavor.

— Go ahead and eat the homemade breads and biscuits, just use a touch less butter and your favorite Low Sugar Spread (Could be Grape, Strawberry, Apricot or Orange Marmalade).

— Try candied squash — without the candy. Sprinkle pinches of nutmeg, cinnamon, and brown sugar with a few teaspoons of Low Sugar Apricot Spread into cooked squash. (Works well with yams, too.)

— Instead of the usual cranberry sauce with turkey, how about a change of pace? Try Low Sugar Grape Spread. It's a nice change.

— When you come in from an afternoon of shopping, warm up with Holiday Tea: a teaspoon of Orange Marmalade and a cinnamon stick in your favorite tea blend.

— Glaze fruit bread with Strawberry Low Sugar Spread.

— Instead of apple sauce with Roast Pork, try Low Sugar Orange Marmalade, it's a new kind of tang.

So, when mid-January rolls around, things will be better than they might have been.

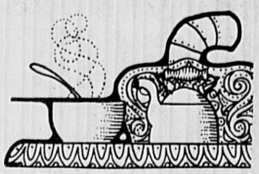
The Christmas Kitchen



Kids In The Kitchen

Christmas can be a time when youngsters can learn the fundamentals of cooking while having fun.

Children can learn about nutrition, arithmetic, kitchen safety and good table manners while preparing seasonal treats which they themselves will ultimately enjoy.

Gingerbread men, fudge, and sugar, oatmeal nut and chocolate chip cookies are just a few ideas for recipes that are simple enough for a child to do with minimal supervision and guidance.

A feeling of importance will accompany the aroma of homebaked cookies when a child removes a creation from the oven that he or she has baked.

This winter, warm up on cold, blustery evenings with some new and enticing hot drinks.

Tea toters will enjoy spiced variations of their favorite brand of tea.

For coffee lovers, mocha is a soothing and delicious alternative to regular coffee.

SPICED TEA

1 tablespoon loose tea
6 cloves
Approximately 1 square inch orange peel, cut into small pieces
3 cups boiling water
Place first 3 ingredients in a tea ball. Immerse in hot water. Steep as usual. Makes 4 6-ounce servings.

MOCHA

1 cup steaming coffee to fill
1 healthy teaspoon chocolate syrup
Cream to taste
Combine the above ingredients in a teacup.
Makes 1 serving.

Recipes from "Make Your Own Convenience Foods", by Don and Joan German (Macmillan).

Delicious to eat — pretty to look at — and best of all, fast to fix. That's the kind of holiday recipe ideas most homemakers look for during the year's busiest season.

With a microwave oven, just about everything can be made more easily and quickly.

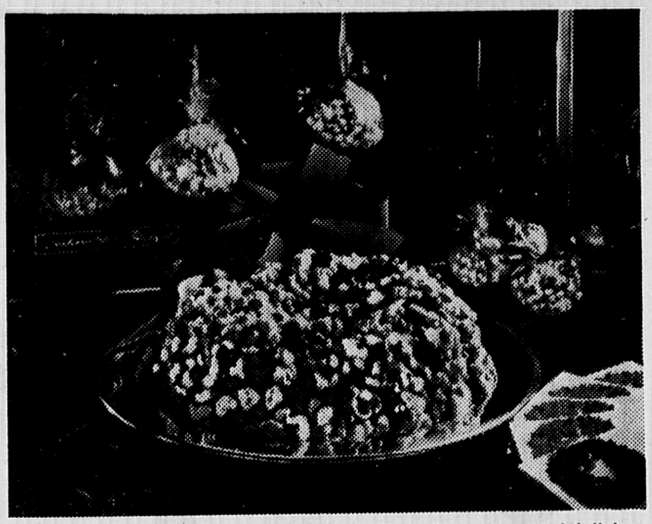
Here's an especially attractive and delicious holiday treat recipe they offer for a Christmas wreath and surprise popcorn balls.

POPCORN WREATHS

8 CUPS POPPED CORN
1 CUP M & M type chocolate candies
1 cup Spanish peanuts
1 cup colored miniature marshmallows

SYRUP

¾ cup granulated sugar
¾ cup brown sugar
½ cup light corn syrup
½ cup water



A popcorn wreath and surprise popcorn balls make an easy and delicious treat for holiday visitors.

1 tsp. white vinegar
¼ tsp. salt
¾ cup butter

Measure popcorn into a large bowl. In an 8-cup measure, combine ingredients for the syrup except butter.

Microwave 12-13 minutes at HIGH stirring every 3 minutes. Cook until small amount of mixture dropped into cold water forms a hard ball, or 260oF with a candy thermometer.

Add butter and mix well. Pour syrup in a thin stream over popcorn stirring until all kernels are well coated.

Add Chocolate Candies, peanuts and marshmallows. Mix well.

Pack into a well greased ring mold. Cool.

Unmold on serving plate.

Decorate with a bow for a lovely centerpiece.

For serving, simply cut neat slices with a sharp serrated knife.

SURPRISE POPCORN BALLS

Using same recipe, form popcorn balls into a 3- or 4-inch round.

When cool, wrap in plastic wrap, tie with a ribbon and hang on the tree for pretty tree decorations and handy treats for visiting youngsters.

Makes one dozen.

Three Area Hospitals Expect To Announce Consolidation Plans

A final decision on whether or not the Winchester, Choate and Symmes hospitals will merge into a single corporation could come as early as the first few weeks in December, according to the director of Winchester Hospital.

"We still have not reached a decision on what route this thing is going to take," said Jack Hunter, director of Winchester Hospital earlier this week. "We're looking hard at a corporate merger of the three hospitals."

Hunter pointed out that a coordinating committee, comprised of representatives of Winchester Hospital, Choate Memorial Hospital in Woburn and Symmes Hospital in Arlington, is making every effort "to wrap this thing up during the early part of December."

Although the corporate board at Winchester has not yet met to decide on the merger (a meeting is scheduled for next month), the directors from both Choate nd and Symmes have indicated their boards have given the okay.

"We did have our annual meeting of corporation in October and at that time we discussed the recommendations of the consultant (Health Systems, Inc.)," said Paul Downey, director of Choate on Monday. "The members at that time voted unanimously in favor of the recommendations of consolidation. I think it's very clear that Choate Hospital is very much in favor."

I'm very optimistic that we'll be able to go ahead with this merger," noted Roger Martin, director of Symmes Hospital on Monday. "I really don't see any major barriers at this point."

Hunter noted that there is concern by all three hospitals on the scope of the services which will be offered. Should a merger take place, there is also the question of who will be in charge as the director or president.

article he had read, Hunter noted that right now there are approximately 7000 hospitals across the country, but that figure will be cut down to 4600 or 4700 by the year 1985.

The idea of a merger, especially between Winchester and Choate, has been around since 1965. The possibility of a tri-hospital fusion came around 1977.

The original plan was to have the corporations come together at one new facility. But according to Hunter, as this idea was explored in more depth, it was discovered that the cost at this time would be "beyond the financial capabilities of the three institutions." The proposal now is a corporate merger of the three hospitals, but the three facilities would be kept in operation. A general upgrading of the three hospitals would take place, while the corporation would be under the direction of a new "leadership."

"I don't see either of the three communities without a local hospital facility," Hunter pointed out, regardless of how his hospital acts on the recommendation. He did add that "if you remain independent, I think you're back to square one."

The story of the game is written on the faces of Winchester's football team, as the seconds tick away during their Thanksgiving Day loss to Woburn, 22-15. The Sachems actually lead the Tanners 15-0 at one point, but couldn't hold on as two fourth quarter touchdowns gave Woburn the Middlesex League title and a trip to the Super Bowl. (Staff Photo)

Sachems Can't Hold On As Woburn, Title, Bowl Slip Away

As a sporting event, the game had it all. Suspense, drama, action, excitment, tears all blended together to give local sports fans an emotion draining Thanksgiving morning.

And when it ended it also game gave Woburn High a 22-15 victory over the Sachems of Winchester, leaving the Tanners with a 10-0 record, the Middlesex league title, and a berth in Saturday's Division I Super Bowl against Brockton at Boston College.

For the locals, it was a heart breaking loss in a contest that saw them jump to a 15-0 lead late in the first half. For the Sachems, a season which saw them ranked number one in eastern Mass. at one point, a year of shutouts, high scores and jubilation, was over.

"To tell you the truth, I haven't really recovered," said Winchester coach Manny Marshall earlier this week. "I think we played a heck of a football game."

It was indeed a heck of a football game, and perhaps a capsule of the season it was a part of. The Sachems lead the Tanners early, fell behind and then came charging back, only to fall about a foot short of a first down that would have kept a game winning drive alive.

In front of about 18,000 people at Knowlton Stadium, the Sachems drew first blood early in the first quarter as halfback Billy Rogers took an option pitch from quarterback Gary Errico and swept around the right side for an eight-yard score. Bruce Campbell, as he has done all year, put the extra point through the uprights and the locals were on top 7-0.

While the Sachem offense was having surprising success moving against Woburn on the ground, the Tanners were not so fortunate as Winchester's defense shut down Woburn. It became apparent early on, that the Tanners' most successful weapon would be the pass, especially the combination of Ed Skeffington (a superb high school quarterback) to John O'Brien,.

Winchester added their second score in the second quarter as Errico hooked up with Steve Wolfe for a 46-yard touchdown with 2:37 remaining in the half. It was indeed a grandstand play as the Sachems, who appeared to be content to patiently move the ball on the ground, suddenly went for it all and got it. "I didn't know if we would be able to score in the short time left," said Marshall about changing tactics.

Winchester then opted for a fake point after attempt and went for two as holder Tim Mahon hit Dave Criscione in the left side of the end zone. The Sachems lead 15-0 and what Winchester fan wasn't thinking Super Bowl.

Those thoughts were erased quickly however, as Skeffington hit O'Brien with a 63-yard touchdown bomb. O'Brien, with two Winchester defenders falling next to him, made a catch that could only be described as incredible.

"I think it took a little bit out of us," admitted Marshall later. "We were still confident, but it would have been a different story if they had gone in down 15 points at the halftime."

The momentum swung with a vengence as Woburn nearly put another drive together before the half ended, only to be stopped by an Errico (he had an outstanding game) interception.

With the second half, the Sachems' ground game lost its effectiveness, as the Tanners began to cut down the option. In turn, Woburn began to move the ball with the run, especially backs Ron Hobby and Frank Cirolo.

"No question about it," Marshall agreed about Woburn's running attack, especially on the Tanners' final two scores. "But I don't think they showed any consistency in their running game."

Woburn tied the score early in the fourth quarter as Skeffington again hit O'Brien, this time from eight yards out. The point after kick was good and Winchester's fans began to get that awful feeling in their stomachs and it wasn't from lack of turkey.

Winchester's fortunes continued to fall as Errico's pass for Wolfe was picked off two plays later at the Sachem 27. Behind the running of Cirolo, Woburn drove to the one-foot line and as Sachem Len Bellino was helped to the bench after being knocked cold, Skeffington took it

Right Turn On Red Prohibited At Twenty-Nine Locations

With the state law allowing right turn on red lights due to go into effect on Jan. 1, Traffic Safety Officer John McKinley presented the Board of Selectmen on Monday night a list of 29 turns where right turns will not be permitted.

The right-on-red law is designed to allow better traffic flow for motorists. Massachusetts, at this time, is the only state in the union that does not allow drivers to make a right turn at a red light.

According to McKinley, he and Town Engineer John Ciarcia reviewed the intersections in town, marking the spots that could pose a problem if a right turn was allowed on the red light. They found 29 turns, in 12 intersections, that could create a safety hazard. McKinley and Ciarcia went to all 29 intersections and, according to McKinley, asked themselves "How would a young kindergarten kid get across." That was not the only criteria which McKinley and Ciarcia used, other intersections had complications with the light sequence as well as angles that presented difficult views.

"What worried us is that if nobody did anything by Jan. 1, it was allowed," said McKinley. He added that "We may have gone a little heavy as far as 29 signs go." But, according to McKinley, once the signs are approved by the state Department of Public Works, they don't necessarily have to stay up. If allowing a right turn at a red light is not working out, the town can take the sign down.

The 12 intersections where signs will be erected are; Forest street and Washington street, Park avenue and Swanton street, Skillings road and Washington, Highland avenue and Mt. Vernon street, Mt. Vernon and Washington, Mt. Vernon and Main street, Skillings and Shore road, Main and Lake street, Main and Swanton, Church street and Bacon street, Wildwood street and Cambridge street and Cambridge and Church.

The signs themselves, which are paid for by the state DPW in the form of a grant and that cost is channeled back to the taxpayers, are picture signs, "because of the language problems," said McKinley. They are a standard sign used across the country and will be placed lower than normal stop signs to increase visibility.

McKinley told the Selectmen that one of the reasons that Massachusettes has been the last state to adopt the right-on-red rule is because the state DPW was against it. "I could never figure out why," McKinley commented. "I can't see anything that's really dangerous about it."

The fine for violating the sign will be $100.

Jeremy Carroll, Marlies Spanjaard and Lonny Fidalgo are all smiles during the 10th Annual Harvest Soup at Ambrose School last week. School Board Debates Open Campus

Whether or not there should be a change in the school department's present open campus policy at the high school was discussed at this week's School Committee meeting. However, possible action on the issue was deferred until the Dec. 10 School Committee meeting, in order to allow time for additional input.

A student's grade average and whether or not open campus should first be open to students at the end of their sophomore year, or whether it should be first available at the beginning of a student's junior year, are examples of two areas over which committee members were in dispute.

School Committee member Catherine Alexander, a member of the study committee looking into open campus, told Committee members that several areas had been studied.

Some of the group's recommendations, Alexander said, include: changing the "open campus" name to "study hall release plan" because of the negative connotations attached to the open campus term; and that open campus eligibility should be after the third quarter of a student's sophomore year.

Alexander, saying that she was in a minority opinion, thinks that open campus shouldn't begin until the start of a student's junior year. "Administratively it's quite a problem to decide who should be eligible," she said, also pointing out that open campus is a

Holton St. Businessman Upset Over All Night Trucking Ban

Stating that the all night trucking ban on Holton street is "ridiculous" because only a few trucks enter and leave his company between the hours of 10 p.m. and 6 a.m., John Tighe of Tighe & Son Trucking Company appeared before the Board of Selectmen last week to protest the ban and any future trucking restrictions that may be planned for that street.

Tighe, who's business on Holton street is one of the few on the Winchester side of the industrial area in that part of town, told the Selectmen that he is paying most of his taxes in Winchester and that "we're fortunate that we've got the Woburn side to go out on. What would we do if Woburn decided to put up a ban?"

According to Tighe, only about three or four trucks had been leaving his building during the ban hours before it went into effect. This small number, Tighe pointed out, really didn't create a disturbance.

Selectman Edward O'Connell, noting that the number of trucks that have been stopped is not a great sum, stated that "I would have to assume that that is not a great inconvenience" to Tighe. "We are looking at a situation where the people of that area have been aggrieved for many years," O'Connell added.

Chairman Richard Wilsack agreed with O'Connell adding that the ban has improved the situation on Holton street. "It was a step forward."

The ban was implemented several months ago as a first move to try to resolve a trucking problem for the neighbors of that area. The residents of that street have been complaining for the past 10 years about the industrial traffic in their residential area, most of which is generated from businesses located on the Woburn side of Holton street.

"This board has shown that we are not anti-industry ," O'Connell pointed out, " but we do have some obligation to listen to the petitions brought to us."

"We think we've reached a solution that seems to have satisfied most of the two parties," Wilsack pointed out. "The problem is basically you have a merging of residential and industrial areas. That always causes problems."

Wilsack pointed out that when the Montvale avenue bridge in Woburn is reconstructed, which should be in 1981, it will be capable of holding the added weight of the large truckds. That will allow the industries' trucks to exit through Woburn to routes 128 and 93 where they are headed when they travel down Holton street.

At the moment, the Montvale avenue bridge holds a maximum of eight tons. When it has been rebuilt, it will be capable of supporting 20 tons.

New FCC Rules Could End WHSR Broadcasts

A revision of the Federal Communications Commission'srules governing radio stations with less than 100 watts transmitting power, may force the local high school radio station to cease operating, according to the faculty advisor for the radio station at Winchester High School.

"It may mean that we go off the air," said Dave Frary, faculty advisor to WHSR radio, a 10-watt station, on Tuesday. "We have a hard time now just servicing Winchester."

The FCC rules change actually covers all noncommercial educational FM broadcast stations, with a particular importance for the low-powered 10-watt FM stations found on many high school and college campuses.

The FCC, in an effort to bring stronger stations on the educational band, decided that it would no longer accept any applications for 10-watt stations. The minimum broadcasting power a station applicant can have is 100 watts.

What this means is that as each 10-watt station reapplies to the FCC for license renewel when their present license expires, they face a dilemma.

According to Frary, the Winchester station is faced with four alternatives. It can first stay with the same power and location on the educational band and petition the FCC for permission to remain that way. Frary points out that

WHSR provides a number of community broadcasts including Town Meetings and local basketball and football games.

The second option open to the school station is to stay at 10 watts but move off of the educational band and move to the commercial band. Before this could be done, the station would first have to hire an engineer to review the commercial band and find a spot where WHSR could relocate without interfering with any other stations. The cost for the engineer, Frary estimates, would be about $2000.

The third course the station might choose is to remain at 10 watts but move to another spot on the educational band. However, becuase they are now encouraging stronger signals from the educational band, the FCC would not protect WHSR from being interfered with or even overridden by a stronger signal.

Frary has learned that the University of Massachusetts in Boston plans to begin broadcasting on the educational band, at a spot not too far from WHSR and with a signal strong enough "to just blow us away," according to the faculty advisor.

Frary also points out that it will be difficult to find a spot on the educationl band, which extends on FM from 88.2 to 91.9, because it is "jam-packed full" with other stations broadcasting.

The last alternative for the high school station, which currently has 40 students with third-class operator's licenses working there, is to convert to 100 watts. The School Committee has indicated that the cost for the power increase, estimated to be from $10,000 to $12,000 for a new transmitter, new antenna and a number of other alterations, would be too expensive.

Frary feels the major reason for the change in FCC rules is because of a petition submitted by the Corporation For Public Broadcasting(CPB)., a quasi public-private organization set up by Congress a number of years ago to fund educational radio and television stations.

"Their reason for being is to dole out the money, Frary notes. But he feels now that they may have become large enough to be in a position to influence policy.

Currently there are only two stations in the country, because of the stiff requirements, that receive any funds from the CPB; WGBH and WBUR, the Boston University radio station. The CPB has a surplus of funds and rather than alter their prerequisites, allowed the FCC to alter their rules so that more stations would be eligible. Unfortunately for stations like WHSR, it presents a difficult situation.

"My next step is to hire an engineer and start some type of study," says Frary. He added that money was allocated in this year's school budget to enlist the services of an engineer.

himself and plunged over to give Woburn the lead. The point after was again good, and the Tanners had a 22-15 lead with time running out.

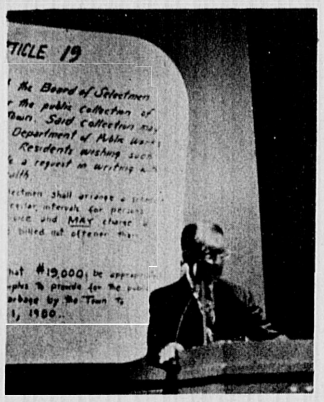
"I was still confident after they went ahead," Marshall pointed out. "I thought we were going to win 23-22 so how's that."

But it was not to be. Winchester began a valiant march from deep in ther their own end, but fell about a foot short of a needed first down when Wolfe, after taking a pass from Errico over the middle, was upended at the Woburn 21-yard line. Woburn had the ball, the game, the championship and the Super Bowl trip.

"I think the kids did what we expected of them," Marshall commented. "I thought our pass defense held up well. We were there on those passes." But somehow they were caught and the sight of O'Brien bobbling the ball for five yards late in the first quarter will not easily be forgotten.

"I think the kids had a hell of a year," Marshall reflected. "I think they deserve to be practicing another week. I don't mean to take anything away from Woburn, but I'm not totally convinced they were that much better than we were. I mean the Melrose game we should have lost, we didn't play well. It's just frustrating."

And so a season which left Sachem fans with plenty to be thankful for was over, ending with an emptiness that didn't seem to belong.



Former Town Meeting Moderator Harrison Chadwick explains petition Article 19 to Town Meeting members at a recent session. The Article, which was defeated, would have authorized the Selectmen to arrange a schedule of garbage collection for persons requesting the service. (Staff Photo) privilege and one for which a year doesn't justify enough time to earn.

The study committee also recommended that students should have passed all courses in the previous quarter (a passing grade is a "D") in order to participate in the open campus program. Alexander said an overall "C" grade point average should be required.

Students should also meet behavior and class attendance requirements, parents or guardians should sign permission forms and parents should be informed as to when students are absent from study halls.

On a question to High School Principal Vincent Larocco as to whether or not the open campus program is successful, Larocco, citing consistently large attendance at the school library as an example, said the vast majority of students make good use of the time available. Committee Chairman Constance Papas said she was concerned about the spring as being a time of "new freedom" for students instead of the beginning of the junior year. Papas also said that students should be in an educational environment during the day and should make use of what's available to them at the high school during that time.

Larocco pointed out that students cannot learn to make wise choices without giving them choices. If the Committee is in agreement that the vast majority of students participating in the program are taking advantage of it, why legislate for a small percent, Larocco asked.

Open campus, now open to students during the third quarter of the sophomore year, is available based on a student's records of discipline, grades and teacher comments.

School Board Starts Deliberation Of Budget

The School Committee recently began deliberation on next year's budget and has so far granted favorable action on a number of items.

Approval was given for $33,900 to be appropriated for new high school band uniforms after Bert Cowgill, director of the Music Program, and Sandy Miller, director of the band, asked the Committee for additional uniforms.

School Committee members were told that the band now has 92 members, of which 20 are seniors. However, 105 students in this year's eighth and ninth grades have indicated they will continue with the band next year. The school department now owns 136 uniforms which are approximately six or seven years old.

Mary Jean Weylman asked whether it was possible to ask students to provide either part of the uniform, which could later be used for practical purposes, or provide matching funds to the school department's appropriation.

Committee Chairman Constance Papas said that "for all the things they do to make life more pleasant for us in Winchester is quite enough for them to ask." Papas asked, however, whether or not one of the local organizations, such as the Rotary Club, could provide some of the funds.

Miller said the total cost of the necessary uniforms would be approximately $28,900, with $5,000 available from resale of some present uniforms.

Assistant Superintendent for Administration Jack Fallon said that Supt. of Schools William MacDonald, who was absent from that meeting, supported the proposal.

The Committee also approved the adult education budget which, as a result of Town Meeting this month, is now in a revolving account. The summer school was approved, in principal, for next year, but the course fee structure will be studied. Summer School Director Jack Rudolph urged that anyone with ideas of courses to be offered should contact him.

The rate of pay for instructional aides was increased to $30 daily at the start of an aide's second year. The salaries of instructional substitutes, who are given $25 daily, were increased to $30 daily after 20 days. And the School Committee voted to accept the recommendation of an intramural program at the junior high school level.

Although definitive action was not taken, the School Committee is in general acceptance of the athletic budget proposed by Director William Colella which requests four additional coaches at the high school level and two additional freshmen teams for next year.

This action came despite the fact that two proposed teams, boys' lacrosse and girls' soccer, do not have competitive teams within the Middlesex League and will have to travel "great distances" to compete.

Colella noted that despite declining enrollment, there is an expected increase next year in athletic participation.

...The first major step taken to petition the State Legislature to incorporate South Woburn into a separate town was at a meeting held in the vestry of the Congregational Church Monday Nov. 26, 1849 at 6:30 p.m. Names under consideration for the new town included Appleton, Winthrop, Avon, Channing, Waterville and Winchester.

MR. HOME COMFORT
AIR CONDITIONING, HEATING,
HUMIDIFICATION, ELECTRONIC AIR CLEANING

BACTERIA DON'T HAVE A CHANCE WITH PROPERLY HUMIDIFIED AIR!

With the current popularity of spy thrillers we can't help but relate the story of Benny Q. Bacteria, Agent ½. We make appologies to James Bond fans.

Mr. Big Bacteria, sometimes called "The Big Bug," called Benny into the Bacteria Colony office. No guns, no big cars, no beautiful blond bugs, or even dirty trench coats were to be involved in this case. His assignment . . . find out what this new secret weapon people have is all about. He called it the APRILAIRE HUMIDIFIER affair.

Now bacteria are known for their stealth. Benny was among the stealthiest in the bacteria colony. After all, didn't he have the biggest number of all the secret agents. ½ is pretty big when you're only a bacteria.

Benny's first duty was to leap up and read one of those articles by a guy named Al LaPointe from FEDERAL HEATING — ENGINEERING CO. in the newspaper. This proved very difficult. When you're quite a bit smaller than a single newsprint letter and have to leap from letter to letter just to read a single article, the job's tough. It took 2 days to read and 2 days in the special care section of the bacteria colony to recuperate.

But Benny bounced back. He hitched a ride on one of those FEDERAL HEATING trucks and saw them carry an APRILAIRE humidifier into the home to be installed. He waited till the men were finished and got into the house through the door before they closed it. His next job . . . infect someone in the house.

Now, Benny had an affection about infection. He was pretty good at it. When the man of the house came home and relaxed in his easy chair, Benny tried his dirty work. He couldn't succeed. He tried everyone else in the family. They never heard from Agent ½ again. He died of frustration.

Bacteria such as Benny don't really have a chance with the APRILAIRE humidifier around. The healthful moisture provided by the APRILAIRE keeps the mucous membranes in the nose and throat moist so that bacteria can't enter and start cold or respiratory infections. This moisture is very important in a home during the heating season; for the air is very dry because of artificial heat. This moisture provided by the APRILAIRE humidifier also helps preserve your furnishings, lower heating costs, and even preserve your house plants.

For a free survey or any questions call FEDERAL HEATING day or night at 623-1515 or 729-6866.

Committee Forms To Study Gifted And Talented Students

By ELIZABETH M. FERRARINI

A committee of Winchester teachers and administrators has been formed to study the need of gifted and talented students within the system.

Committee Chairman Norman J. Goldberg, a reading specialist at the Washington School, says that the purpose of the Gifted-Talented Committee is to update staff skills for teaching these students, and to make parents aware of how to supplement school activities for this student.

Assistant Superintendent Walter Gleason says Winchester schools do not have a formal program for gifted and talented students. "Instead, advanced placement courses exist in the high school for calculas, biology, chemistry and history, which allows a student to take these courses at a local college for future college credit."

"The students must first take placement tests administered by the College Entrance Examination Board. Students in junior high school can take placement tests for advanced classes in math, science and history," says Gleason.

Gleason does not believe in cut-off test scores and IQ results to be the determining factor for grouping students in one special class with a label. Advanced placement is an opportunity for all students to motivate themselves to undertake a challenging course, says Gleason.

Robert Forest, Ambrose School principal, says that each elementary school in Winchester selects the type of curriculum it will use for gifted-talented children.

"The Ambrose School has open classrooms where grades one through three and four through six exist in the same environment with different teachers. If a first grader excels in a particular subject, that pupil can be moved to a higher grade level for that subject. Rather than the pupil being plucked from his peer group, the pupil may be in a different group for part of the day but is always in familiar surroundings. Class work may also be supplemented by materials developed by the Ambrose staff.

"The Ambrose staff has developed for sixth graders a math supplement taken from the junior high school curriculum. Ambrose teachers, who have been developing materials for the gifted-talented student since 1971, have shared their ideas with other elementary school teachers through staff meetings," Forest says.

Goldberg says that a teacher must first be able to identify a gifted-talented pupil. There are many degrees of academic giftedness as well as other talents, says Goldberg. "Only three to five percent of the population can be considered gifted. Gifted-talented children are not a homogeneous group. These types of pupils need to work in heterogeneous groups, homogeneous groups, and to work along. They must be a part of the existing curriculum, not in an ivory tower."

"It is the responsibility of the teacher to develop each pupil's leadership and organization skills from the pupil's base knowledge on a subject. A teacher must also help a pupil to channel curiosity so that the pupil can begin to develop higher level thinking and problem solving skills which can be applied to real life situations. Another purpose of the committee is to help teachers to improve upon the process of developing organizational skills in children."

Forest says that teachers at his school try to gear the curriculum to meet a range of abilities and skills. A group process o gives a ch a student a chance to develop leadership skills, learn to work with others and by one's self, says Forest. "Children should not be taught in isolation."

Clare M. Corcoran, principal of the Vinson-Owen School, does not support a separate class for gifted and talented children. She says it is up to each school's teachers and principal to provide a curriculum that satisfies the needs of all pupils. Teachers at the Vinson-Owen School provide for pupils' needs, says Corcoran, by grouping pupils by ability, and providing individual instruction where needed.

She feels that Vinson-Owen's teachers do a superb job of teaching students new skills as well as academic subjects. Corcoran hopes that when students leave the sixth grade at Vinson-Owen they will work closely to their capacity and feel good about themselves.

Corcoran is not aware of the Gifted-Talented Committee, but she thinks Winchester educators have been holding off on formalizing programs for the gifted-talented pupil.

William A. Warnock, principal of the Lincoln School, feels that it is up to the teacher to provide for the needs of all students. He says test scores alone cannot always identify gifted-talented pupils. Warnock does not know the goals of the Gifted-Talented Committee.

Goldberg says that a teacher has to develop good management skills to deal with the multiplicity of group activities that can go on in a classroom, especially a combined class. "Teachers can't always motivate every student," says Goldberg, but he feels Winchester students are well motivated. "If the needs of a pupil cannot be met in the classroom, then the child is referred to the school system so that a program can be developed."

Goldberg says Winchester parents, who are usually college educated, have given their children more exposure to the world around them than parents of inner city children.

Forest says that the Committee hopes to come up with a program that can a identify a gifted-talented child. The state is interested in programs for gifted and talented children, and every school system must be constantly trying to improve its programs for these students.

School Board To Send Letter On Voke School Computer

A petition brought by two Winchester Northeast Metropolitan Regional Vocational School students to the School Committee, which claimed that that school had not been providing practical computer training as promised, has resulted in a letter to be sent from the School Committee to the Vocational School.

Requesting that the Town of Winchester or the Northeast Vocational School send them to an educational setting where they can get the "hands on" computer training they feel is necessary, seniors John M. Augello and Susan Bottafuoco asked that the School Committee take action to secure computer facilities for the students.

The School Committee, after having had Committee member Mary Jean Weylman and Supt. of Schools William MacDonald investigate, decided Monday to send a letter to the Vocational School inquiring on this issue.

Weylman reported to the Committee that a computer which had been taken out of the school last year has not been replaced to date. (The two students say that the school intends to replace the computer in June, 1980, which will be after this year's seniors graduate).

The instructor who teaches the computer class, Weylman reported, feels that students have received the necessary vocational training, despite the lack of a computer. She called the move which removed the computer without replacement as appearing "somewhat political."

Committee Chairman Constance Papas, in pointing out that the lack of a computer has been an obvious concern to the students involved, commented that if students were receiving the necessary training, why was the school then going to the expense of purchasing a computer.

The American Way

Jack Perkins on the NBC program Prime Time Sunday this week pointed out how terrible it is that Americans are reacting adversely toward illegal Iranian aliens who demonstrate support for those holding our embassy staff hostage.

He also had sharp criticism of President Carter's order to search out aliens without visas. "This is not right," he said, and related the sorry state of a Washington student who was found to have a "technical violation" of his visa and was ordered out of the country by the Federal District Court.

This is not the American way. It's a good thing this was brought to our attention. One might have thought it was the duty of courts to rule on "technical violations" of visas and issue appropriate orders.

But we know this is not the case. President Carter's move to crack down on illegal Iranians because they are burning American flags in our streets is clearly illegal in itself.

This is obvious discrimination. The only way the American government can legally seek out Iranians without valid visas is to make an equal effort to search for illegal Canadians, Mexicans, Englishmen, Germans, Swiss, Russians and all the rest.

NBC's thesis is right. We can't discriminate. That's the worst possible thing an American can do.

Since we should deport one Canadian, one Mexican, one German, etc., for every illegal Iranian, we should start now to hire the tens of thousands of additional immigration agents necessary to do the job.

It's pretty awful to see average Americans getting angry about the Iranian government holding our citizens for ransom. The NBC film of Americans conducting counter-demonstrations here is hard evidence that many people lack an understanding of the American way. We should turn the other cheek.

NBC's Jack Perkins and Tom Snyder promised to keep listeners abreast of the Washington student's fight to continue his illegal residency. It's important that we keep up on this. Someone might start a fund for his legal fees and we wouldn't want to miss a chance to contribute.

Perhaps they will also continue to remind us that there are no realities of international politics at all. It's just something to be understood in terms of the 21-inch talking tube.

It's entertainment of sorts. Something to exercise our minds. Abstract. Distant. Removed.

So don't believe what you see and hear. It might lead you to discriminate as President Carter has done---the first panic of his Presidency.

Since we are the world's most powerful country we should ignore the Iranians just as they ignore international laws and the concept of diplomatic immunity.

In America we should support illegal Iranian aliens with our welfare and unemployment checks. We should continue to train their pilots, send spare parts for their military equipment, buy their oil, import their caviar and shake their hands.

That's certainly a more "American" posture than a discriminatory crackdown on illegal Iranian aliens who are burning flags and creating public disturbances.

This is what NBC would want you to believe.

And it's a good thing that Jack Perkins and Tom Snyder are around to help us figure out right from wrong. Other aspects of the program told the plight of Iranian-American restaurant owners who recently faced a sharp drop in sales.

Both the network's credibility and journalistic ability must be doubted when it mixes a conscious or subconscious public rejection of Iranian style food with the question of illegal aliens.

We don't remember sales of sauerkraut and Sake being very high in 1942 either, but this country's palate during WWII had little to do with the internment of Japanese Americans here, a subject also brought into the story by NBC.

There is no parallel between that action 38 years ago and today's effort to deport illegal aliens running loose promoting the Iranian government's seizure of our embassy.

Certainly no one would condone outright discrimination or reprisals against law-abiding Iranians or Iranian-Americans residing here. But the program showed none of this except for the restaurant sales slump. And you can hardly expect people to be eating shish-kebab when the current situation leaves such a bad taste in one's mouth.

While demonstrations and peaceful protests are protected as free expression under the First Amendment, this country also has certain national interests which have every right to be protected by its immigration laws.

Those who break those laws, then add insult to injury by pursuing the policies of a foreign government can't charge discrimination when subjected to intensified enforcement efforts.

At some point the United States must begin to recognize its enemies, be they foreign governments or foreign nationals who are here illegally and are working to promote the anti-American and outright hostile actions of their own country.

Throw the bastards out.

Letters From Readers

Football

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The sports headlines proclaimed Woburn 22, Winchester 15, giving the impression that the Tanners defeated the Sachems in the historic football clash on Manchester Field, Thanksgiving Day. Perhaps for the rest of the Commonwealth that was the case, but in the hearts and minds of every Winchesterite the outcome was entirely the reverse.

Twenty thousand fans from both communities jammed into and around Knowlton Stadium. That unusual display of interest in high school football was accurately predicted and ably provided for under the supervision of William Collela, Director of Winchester High School Athletics and Chief John McHugh of the Winchester police force. They and the entire police force should be commended for a job superbly handled.

No athletic event within the lifetime of any of the young men on the Winchester football squad could rival this dramatic confrontation and they met the challenge magnificently. Winchester played outstanding football, only a few strokes of fate turned the tide for the Tanners. It had to be the most disappointing defeat in the young Winchester men's lives' handling the emotions of that kind of disappointment is the making of manhood.

The scoreboard never tells the entire story. That particular game did something spectacular for football, the sport those boys love so much. The very seniors who sparkled on the field Thursday were in the 10 grade when football was an endangered species. Sophomore football was defended on the floor of Town Meeting by the School Committee and the very coach whose crew cut is so well known by those boys, Manny Marshall.

The excellent sportsmanship exhibited by this year's team is the very reason that the town of Winchester is willing to support football. There will be other teams and other games and the football team of 1980 has done much to assure that a whole generation of other young boys will also get to play Woburn on Thanksgiving Day.

High school music has seen a dramatic revival in the form of the marching band under the direction of Priscilla Miller. The football team has provided a wonderful arena for their fellow students to perform outstandingly in their own media. In a time when class spirit is relatively out of vogue, this same team has given their fellow seniors immeasurable pride in class achievement, both as individuals and as a class.

But, most important of all, The Winchester High School football team, with their superb sportsmanship have earned the respe t and admiration of our entire town. Grantland Rice said it best.

"When the One Great Scorer comes to write against your name — He marks — not that you won or lost — but how you played the game."

Winchester salutes the team that played winning football on Thanksgiving Day, 1979, the Winchester Sachems.

UNICEF

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Now is the time for you to warn your family, friends and neighbors against buying UNICEF Christmas cards. UNICEF earns more money from its card sales than from children trick or treating, and much of the money you spend on UNICEF Christmas cards will go to prop up Communist dictatorships world wide!

The communists are the self-proclaimed enemies of the US and the free world. Their aim is to conquer the world. They use every device they can to achieve their goal. UNICEF is one of these devices.

The communists already control the votes of two-thirds of the nations of the UN. This includes the communist bloc and their captive nations, and also the Third World nations (in Africa and Asia) which they intimidate or control.

Communists have controlled UNICEF from its inception. They probably conceived it. They give these "milk funds" mostly to communist and socialist governments to use to control their people. When they do this with UNICEF funds over 80 percent of that money comes from Americans. Thus, our own money is used to strengthen communist governments that aim to destroy us.

Some examples might be: in 1961 the UN allocated a total of $1,536,109 to Red China, and UNICEF gave that money to the communist government to spend as it wished. In 1961 the UN Armed Forces in the Congo used $10 million of UNICEF funds for munitions and arms to crush the anti-communist government of Katanga in brutal fashion.

Some UNICEF supporters deny this, but Rep. H.R. Gross (Iowa) said on June 19, 1961: "I can tell you that money most assuredly was taken from the Children's Fund (UNICEF) to finance the Congo operation." Thus, the Children's Fund was used to ruthlessly slaughter innocent men, women and children in the Congo.

"The Wanderer," a Catholic newspaper, stated in an article about UNICEF that Msgr. Edw. J. Goebel, Milwaukee, archdiocesan superintendent of schools, gave the following reason why Milwaukee schools do not participate in the UNICEF program: "Our opposition to the UNICEF organization was based on the protest of several of our former Catholic Army chaplains who maintain that UNICEF proceeds were not contributed to youth in need, but rather were taken up by the communists in the countries."

Wanting to feed starving children is laudable and right, but contributing to UNICEF will not do it. Giving to this or any organization with the communist-controlled UN only helps enslave freedom loving peoples everywhere.

Congratulates Saltmarsh

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh of Winchester proved his commitment once again to the voters in his district during the 1979 session of the House of Representatives.

His persistent attention to the interests of his constituency is proven by the fact that he had a 100 percent attendance record, voting on all bills that were considered in the House this year.

Among the many complex issues on which Rep. Saltmarsh was called upon to vote were:

1. The Bottle Bill.
2. Raising the drinking age to 20 years of age.
3. The Tax Cap on local spending.
4. A reduction of the capital gains tax and personal income surtax.
5. Capital Punishment.
6. Anti-abortion Legislation.
7. Blind bidding for movie theatres.

I wish to congratulate Representative Saltmarsh for such a fine record of service to his constituents and to you, as a voter, for electing him to speak for you in the Mdassachusetts Legislature.

Salt II

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Salt II is tantamount to US unilateral disarmament and should be dismissed out of hand by the US Senate.

Americans should be prepared, however, for a repeat of the same sickening, gutless performance the US Senate demonstrated so well on the giveaway of our vital Panama Canal to the Panamanian communists.

Simply put, the foxes in charge of the chicken coops in this country, as America's invisible government, the Rockefeller-run Trilateral Commission and the Council on Foreign Relations, which literally run Washington, move us ever closer to their Orwellian dream of a one world socialist order where these internationalist bankers and corporation moguls can oversee the New World Order.

This Novus Ordo Sedorum (see the Great Seal on the back of your $1 Federal Reserve note) means the elimination of the family, destruction of all religions and surrender of our national sovereignty. Are you prepared for this?

Rupert Kuglin

Thanksgiving Memories

By MARK COSTELLO

When I was young we were a large family, and a close one — with seven children, two parents, and a dog. My brothers and sisters were my compatriots, my allies, my enemies, my rivals. And we all lived out a decade of time in a big, brown house on a neighborhood street. It was not an idyllic youth and decade.

Once I remember my brother was suspended from school for throwing rocks at the school building's gutters during recess. He accidentally broke a skylight window and when he was sent home my father asked him if he realized that he could've blinded someone. In front of all of us my brother swore at my father. They glared at each other across the dinner table and they did not speak again for several weeks. I remember that night, and how the silence cut a wound in all of us.

But is is not good to dwell in past years, for our old house is half empty and my older brothers and sisters have gone away — to college and jobs and other cities filled with loved ones and strangers and income-tax forms. The house is half-empty and sometimes too quiet with them gone away, like a schoolyard after dark. I have been told that family ties are indestructable and will endure through years of scattered neglect and forgetfulness, but I know this: I don't really share much with my older brothers and sisters anymore.

My sister who taught me how to count to 10 in French is now studying to be a psychologist in Rhode Island and my brother who swore once at the dinner table long ago, is now a stockbroker. That is how things go, I suppose.

I am desperately impatient for the time when I, too, will make the journey out and become something other than a brother or a son. But I sense every once in a while that the day is coming (and coming soon) when I will mourn the loss of childhood friends and relatives and mourn — most bitterly of all — the end of those fine days when we were all young.

Thanksgiving began in my house on the Monday night before the Thursday feast. My brother (not the one who swore) had no classes at college on Tuesday and so we were to pick him up at the bus station, Trailways, eight o'clock, Monday night. We drove to Riverside, my father and I, through the darkness and the drizzle. My father sent me in to find our returning son. He was sitting on a bench in the middle of a desolate terminal, feet up on his suitcase, magazine rolled in his coat pocket.

He had grown a mustache since the summertime when I last saw him. I could not figure out why. And as we picked up his suitcases and raincoats and shuffled out of the empty terminal to the car that idled by the curb in the rain, I wondered what he was such a hurry to become.

My brother slept in my room with me but he moved down into the basement and slept on a cot when my uncle arrived. My uncle is unmarried — a Catholic priest — and he spends his holidays and vacations and odd weekends in Winchester. He is a great, sad, almost heroic man. He is quiet, and infinitely logical, and (I sometimes think) out of place in a society of men.

He arrived on this Thanksgiving — as on all others — with a baseball cap and brown shoes and a battered pouch of pipe tobacco. He parked his car too far up on the lawn Wednesday afternoon and my mother screamed at him and so he moved it out into the street. My mother told him that he should know better by now.

My two older sisters made their homecomings on Wednesday night. The elder coming by train from the boarding school in New Jersey where she works and lives; the younger by bus from her college.

We were together again for one meal, at least. My father sat with my two brothers, drinking imported beer and watching football games. One sister was visiting her boyfriend and the other was cooking pumpkin bread and mashed potatoes in the kitchen. My uncle sat in the front room, smoking his pipe, sitting with his legs crossed.

After time's full passage, after the scattering of seeds and sons and daughters across New Jersey, across New York, across the whole land, after everything, the old, tragic, half-empty house was full again — of the sounds of getting dinner ready, of conversation and old jokes, of family and other familiar arguments. In defiance of that which had scattered us all, and scatters us today and scatters for all time — in defiance of college and empty bus depots and rain and boarding school — we ate dinner together. Me, my brothers, my sisters, my father, my mother, my uncle.

For that, I was thankful.

My uncle had to return to the Novitiate on Friday afternoon. There was much work to be done, he said. My college-bound brother and sister both caught trains on Sunday afternoon. They had planned to leave around six, after church. The dorms wouldn't be open till then anyway, they said. But my parents had to go into Boston, and so my brother and my sister went in with them at 3:30. Classes didn't begin at the boarding school until Tuesday so my eldest sister stayed an extra day and did her Christmas shopping downtown, calling a taxi at noontime and leaving a note to say she had gone away.

And so the Tanksgiving was over and the old house was still and half-empty as before. We who are here live on, and those who must journey out do also. We live as we must and where we must and we are only a little sad.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

The House And Senate. It took 10 months for the Massachusetts Legislature to consider the more than 7000 bills filed in the 1979 session. When the smoke cleared, it appears as though some 700 measures actually made it through the lengthy and complicated process culminating in being signed by the Governor and actually put in the lawbooks.

This week "Beacon Hill Roll Call" reviews local legislators' votes on 20 key measures approved by the House and-or Senate on roll call votes and actually signed into law by the Governor, or became law without his signature.

Corrections Hike (H 6039) — Approved by House 98-53, Senate 21-3, Governor signed Aug. 16, this bill hiking the salary of the Corrections Commissioner from $37,000 to $47,500.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted against the pay hike.

Sen. Samuel Rotondi voted for the increase.

Blind Bidding (H323) — This bill outlaws "Blind bidding" in the Massachusetts movie industry. Blind bidding requires theatre owners to bid for the right to show a film without allowing the owner to see the film first. House approved the measure 136-0, while Senate 28-8, rejected an amendment which would have killed the measure.

Saltmarsh voted for the bill.

Rotondi voted for the bill.

Health Hike (H5838) — Approved by House 85-64, Senate 26-7, Governor signed Nov. 15, this measure approves a hike in salary from $37,475 to $48,394 for the Public Health Commissioner.

Saltmarsh voted against the bill.

Rotondi voted for the increase.

Arts Lottery (H6861) — Approved by House 92-50, Senate 34-3, signed Nov. 15, this piece creates a weekly arts lottery in the state, with tickets selling for $5 and proceeds going to benefit the arts in the state.

Saltmarsh voted in favor.

Gibson voted against.

McCann voted in favor.

Rotondi voted in favor.

Energy Reorg (H6865 — Approved by House 136-0, Senate 24-2, signed Nov. 16, this energy reorganization bill creates an Executive Office of Energy Resources with cabinet level status and many detailed powers and responsibilities.

Saltmarsh voted in favor of the bill.

Rotondi voted in favor.

Capital Outlay (H 6870) — Approved by House 122-19, Senate 25-1, the $216 million capital outlay budget for various construction and improvement projects throughout the state. The Governor signed the bill Nov. 16, but also vetoed several items in the package.

Saltmarsh voted nay.

Rotondi voted in favor.

Logan Towing (H6843) — Approved by House 83-53, Senate 22-4, signed Nov. 9, this bill prohibits the Massachusetts Port Authority from impelementing rules requiring the towing of aircraft at Logan airport.

Saltmarsh in favor of the bill.

Rotondi voted nay and was present.

Drinking Age (S1742) — Approved by House 118-31, Senate 28-9, and Governor signed March 8, this measure hikes the legal drinking age from 18-20.

Saltmarsh voted in favor.

Rotondi voted in favor.

411 (H5755) — Gov. King vetoed this bill prohibiting the DPU from approving any charge for directory assistance calls by consumers. House overrode veto by 100-49, and Senate overrode it by 32-5. Thus, it became law on May 14.

Saltmarsh voted nay.

Rotondi voted for the bill.

Tax Cap (H5959) — Approved by House 101-47, Senate 30-7 and signed by the Governor May 14, this is the cap which limits spending by Mass. cities and towns to four percent above last year's level.

Saltmarsh voted against the cap.

Rotondi voted in favor.

Abortion (H6268) — Approved by House 115-36, Senate 21-16, signed June 12, this bill bans use of state funds for abortions, except to prevent the death of the mother.

Saltmarsh voted for the ban.

Rotondi voted against the ban.

Death Penalty (H6452) — Approved by House 108-46, Senate 20-15, and signed Aug. 14, this bill restores the death penalty in Mass. for several specific categories of murder.

Saltmarsh voted for the bill.

Rotondi voted in favor.

$5.4 Billion Budget (H6601) — Approved by House 132-22, Senate 24-4, and signed on July 19, this is the fiscal 1980 budget which includes $166 million in a local aid reserve for cities and towns.

Saltmarsh voted in favor.

Rotondi voted in favor.

Transportation Package (H6675) — Approved by House 142-12, Senate 34-0, and signed on Aug. 10, this is the Governor's $246.2 million transportation bond issue, to be matched by $618.8 million in federal funds, for a transportation development and improvement program for the state. The bond issue is financed by an extension of the 1975 "sin" taxes on alcohol, gasoline, and cigarettes.

Saltmarsh voted in favor.

Rotondi voted in favor.

Firefighters & Police (H6574) — Approved by House 89-62 (no Senate roll call), and signed by the Governor Aug. 16, this bill gives absolute appointment preference, if they pass the exam, to children of any firefighters or police officers killed in the line of duty.

Saltmarsh voted against the bill.

Right Turns (H6029) — House refused, 113-41, to reconsider its earlier approval of a bill allowing motorists to make right turns on red lights at certain intersections after stopping. While the Senate held no roll call on the bill which takes effect Jan. 1, 1980, it was signed by the Governor Aug. 8

Saltmarsh voted for the bill.

Since 1848 Winchester's 'Village Library' Has Broadened The Town's Horizons

By HENRY E. SIMONDS

During the spring of 1848 several influential men of South Woburn met for the purpose of discussing the best methods of establishing a village library. Among these men were Dea. Benjamin T. Thompson, Hon. John A. Bolles, Col. Samuel B. White Sr., Charles Kimball, Charles Pressey and Oliver R. Clark.

After an existance of two years and after the incorporation of the Town of Winchester, by a formal vote, it was called the Winchester Library Association. It was founded on the principal of a stock company, and the shares were three dollars each. Any person purchasing one share became a member and could use the library as a reading room, or take out one book at a time, by paying an annual assessment of one dollar. Any person by paying six cents a week on each book could take out books.

The library was first kept in the S. S. Richardson block in the room of Dr. Youngman, who was the first Town Clerk and apothecary in Winchester. Upon completion of the Lyceum building in 1852, Dr. Youngman moved into this building and the collection went with him. After Dr. Youngman removed to Boston it was again taken to the S.S. Richardson block which had changed into a milliner's store.

The milliner, Hannah Lane, was in charge of the library. The next move returned it to the rear of the drug store once more, which had now changed owners, Josiah Hovey succeeding Dr. Youngman. Here it remained until presented to the town.

The Winchester Agricultural Library, which was formed about 1856, and had collected some 150 volumes, was merged at this time with that of the town library.

At a legal town meeting March 29, 1859, the library of the Winchester Association, which had now achieved some 1100 volumes, was presented to the Town of Winchester under certain conditions: that the town establish a public library and appropriate for its maintenance and improvement, $200 in the outset, and not less than $100 annually thereafter; that the town provide suitable rooms for the library and keep it well insured; and that the town elect a board of three trustees, who shall have the care and oversight of the library, select and purchase its books, appoint the Librarian, and exercise the delegated powers of the town in its general management. The town accepted these conditions and the library was turned over to the town. The tree trustees were Rev. R. T. Robinson, A.D. Weld, and Thomas Emerson.

After the town became custodian of the Association, the library was first housed in the Selectmen't room in the Lyceum Building over the drug store. The first Librarian was Reuben H. Fletcher; his salary was $20 a year.

In 1867 the library was moved to the front room of the Fletcher house and in 1873 it was removed to a room in the second story of Tyler's Block on Main street.

Outgrowing this place, it was transferred in 1880 to a large room in the Brown and Stanton block, at which time a reading room was installed in connection with the library. Here it remained until July, 1888 when it was transferred to the Town Hall. In 1885 the Trustees granted the use of a room to the Winchester Historical and Genealogical Society and its collection of material relating to the history of the town became part of the library.

An interesting note is that since 1870 the fees paid for dog licenses to the county have been returned by law to the town and have been appropriated to the use of the library until 1913.

When the library moved into the new Town Hall in 1888, which was built in 1887, the first librarian was Cora A. Quimby who served until 1939 and the number of volumes in the library were 7577.

In 1900 Thomas B. Winchester, Esq. of Boston, son of William P. Winchester, for whom the town was named, presented to the town an oil portrait of his father; also a silver punch bowl, once belonging to his father. The portrait and punch bowl was placed in the library.

After many years, this library became very crowded. It now seemed the time had come to establish the library in a home exclusively its own. Achievement of this goal came largely through the efforts of one individual in particular, Edgar J. Rich, who for 25 years was a member of the Board of Trustees, and an enthusiastic and untiring exponent of the need for erecting a suitable library building.

His patience was finally rewarded with definite action at the 1930 Town Meeting, which appropriated $175,000 for the purpose and appointed a building committee consisting of Ralph T. Hale, M. Walker Jones, James Nowell, Edgar J. Rich and Carl F. Woods. The site was on the corner of Washington street and the Mystic Valley parkway on land long occupied by the residence of A.K.P. Joy and later his son, Fred Joy.

The new library was dedicated Dec. 5, 1931 with appropriate ceremonies. It was designed by Kilham, Hopkins and Greeley and Robert Coit with Fred C. Alexander of Winchester as General Contractor. It is a handsome structure of West Townsend granite, decorated within somewhat in the "modern" style and containing ample well-lighted and convenient reading rooms, staff rooms and book stacks.

At the rear of the building is a most attractive gallery for the exhibition of works of art. In one wall are the very handsome windows of Tiffany painted glass given in memory of Joseph H. Tyler, a prominent resident of the town and a Trustee of the Library. These windows were originally in the library when it was in the Town Hall and were presented to the town in 1894. The children's room is in the basement with a separate entrance.

There are two mural paintings in the building. The larger one, painted by Alden L. Ripley, is on the wall of the delivery room. It represents the occasion of the sale of land on which Winchester stands, by the Squaw Sachem to the white men. The other, over the fireplace in the reading room, is the work of Ettore Caser, a Winchester resident. Its subject is "Bible Reading in a Puritan Home."

In 1948, another longtime friend and Trustee of the Library for 37 years, Edgar J. Rich, a railroad lawyer and a leader in launching the Chapman's History of the Town, died. In his will, he donated his collection of works on Lincoln and Lee, and other books pertaining to the Civil War era to the Library. It also established a $33,000 Lincoln and Lee Trust Fund to be used to purchase more works on the men, their period, or the history of the Americas in general.

On Nov. 3, 1950 the Downes Memorial Room on the second floor was dedicated and set aside as a music and fine arts room. Jere A. Downes, a wealthy member of Hayden, Stone and Company of Boston and a prominent Winchester resident with his sister, Elizabeth Downes Wadsworth had made bequests of $39,000 and $5,000 respectively to the Library.

By the middle of the 1950's the library trustees decided it needed an addition. A committee was elected by the town but the plan was rejected by the Town Meeting. Finally, at a special 1958 Town Meeting, $27,419 was appropriated to remodel the present building. The art gallery and auditorium was converted into a second reading room, the children's room was expanded, the circulation desk in the main entrance was enlarged, and access to the stacks widened.

Again in 1965 another attempt was made to make an addition and this time it was successful. The Town Meeting appropriated $373,050 for the addition which was completed in 1966. A new wing was added to the west side of the building next to the mill pond. The Cutting House next to the Library on Washington street was demolished in 1967.

Winchester Library 1935

The library has had many librarians in the earlier days but none as long as Cora A. Quimby who held this position from 1888 until 1939, most of it in the Town Hall. She was succeeded by Corinne Mead, Doris M. Philbrook, Lois G. Smith, Robert W. Wagenknecht, and now the present Leila-Jane Roberts. It now has grown to 16 full time and 16 part time employees and contains over 96,000 volumes in its collection.

A brief mention should be made of the trustees of the Library who served for 20 years and over and helped for the growth of the library. They are George H. Eustis, 37 years; Edgar J. Rich, 37 years; Francis E. Smith, 29 years; and Ralph T. Hale, 20 years.

Winchester was named for Col. William P. Winchester of Watertown, a wealthy Boston merchant who was a Colonel in the Corps of Cadets volunteer regiment.

Rotondi Plans 7 Hearings To Study Civil Service

Sen. Samuel Rotondi and Rep. Nicholas J. Buglione, Chairmen of the Special Commission on Civil Service, announced that a series of seven regional hearings will be conducted throughout the state during the upcoming month.

Rotondi outlined the agenda and some of the Commission goals. "The Commission will review in great detail the Massachusetts Civil Service System, review other systems across the country, look closer at the personnel system for cities and towns, and then propose a complete system to address these needs."

Buglione explained, "The Massachusetts Civil Service System needs a complete study and careful consideration of a personnel system that will address and present problems that have manifested themselves in a backlog of some 2,700 civil service exams, the 100 proposed changes submitted this legislative session, the extremely long delays involving exams and filling positions, overlapping protections of Civil Service and collective bargaining, and many other important areas. There was a definite need to establish this Special Commission."

Rotondi added, "The Commission will spend an intensive six months looking at our entire system," the system used in other states, the federal system, and personnel administration in private industry.

Buglione stated, "We will then prepare legislation to be presented next session. We hope that this legislation will be tough but reasonable."

Rotondi concluded, "The Commonwealth can no longer afford to operate its employment system in its present manner. The purpose of this Commission is to make the system more effective and efficient. The benefit of a better Civil Service System will go to the employees and the ultimate winner will be the taxpayers of this State."

Winchester Hospital Checks Their Disater Response Time

At 10 a.m. the call came into the hospital switchboard.

"The ceiling of Russell House has collapsed into the area where the Friends of Winchester Hospital were having a meeting. There could be some casualties."

At 10:01 a.m. the call went out over the hospital intercom.

"Emergency alert, all personnel report to assigned areas."

Within minutes, stretchers were being wheeled across the parking lot from the main hospital building into the lobby of Russell House. Emergency room personnel were helping the most seriously injured onto stretchers, into wheelchairs and to the hospital for treatment. At the hospital's emergency room entrance, a doctor evaluated each patient's condition and decided where she should be treated. Medical records personnel took down each victim's name and destination and entered it on the identification tag attached to the woman's wrist. Teams of hospital workers gathered in X-ray, surgery, emergency room and the intensive care unit to treat victims of the disaster.

By 10:35 a.m., all victims had been accounted for and were receiving treatment.

But that's only half the story. At 9:15 a.m., victims of the Russell House disaster had arrived for a meeting at Russell House.

They were meeting with make-up artist Mari Hovey, to be transformed from neatly groomed women into bruised, burned, cut and bleeding victims of a ceiling collapse.

Marie Johnson's hand was crushed. Winifred Krueger had something in her eye, and Dorothy Williams' head had been injured, leaving her disoriented. Shirley Grieve's arm had been severely cut. Marie Carswell, eight months pregnant, had gone into labor. Joy Woolley had suffered a cardiac arrest, and Lillian Costello had "expired."

Whatever her injury, each victim received a realistic transformation. Latex scars and layers of blue, red and flesh make-up made injuries come alive. After being briefed on the symptoms of her injury, all victims were ready, and Vice President Conrad Armstrong called in the alarm.

The morning's exercise, officially known as a disaster drill, fulfilled requirements of the Joint Commission on the Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) and from the Massachusetts Department of Public Health (DPH). The drill tests a hospital's ability to respond and treat large numbers of patients injured at one time.

"The drill really serves two purposes," says Armstrong, director of the event. "We can fulfill requirements of the DPH and the JCAH, but just as important, we have a chance to see how our plans would work in case of a real disaster."

This drill uncovered one trouble spot in the disaster procedure for evacuating Russell House.

Plans called for hospital personnel to take all available stretchers from the main building to Russell House for transporting the injured. But on the day of the drill, most of the stretchers were already being used so four-person hand-held canvas stretchers had to be used, tying up four employees.

"In the future, should a real disaster happen in Russell House, we've learned that we need to rely on town ambulances and private ambulance companies to help us evacuate, Armstrong concluded. "They could be here within five minutes and they have the necessary personnel and equipment on hand all the time. Our supply of stretchers is too unpredictable."

Tryouts Are This Week For 'Charlotte's Web'

Tryouts for third through sixth graders interested in taking part in The Co-operative Theatre's production of "Charlotte's Web" will be held Tuesday and Dec. 6 at the First Congregational Church.

The play is scheduled for Feb. 29 and March 1. Rehearsals will be held afternoons in January and February. There is a tuition fee to help defray production costs.

The play will be directed by Cathy Alexander. Musical direction will be provided by Carole Davidson. Pamela Meserve and Alice Gross will handle production. Doreen Deluca will assist in set design.

For more information contact Pamela Meserve, 11 Cabot st., or Carole Davidson, 14 Thornberry rd.

Publicity Workshop December 7

A workshop for publicity chairmen on what makes news and writing news releases will be held Dec. 7 at The Winchester Star, 3 Church st., from 9-10 a.m.

Those interested in attending this free program should contact Joan Cooper at The Star. A second workshop may be held at a future date during the evening if it appears there are enough persons who cannot attend the Dec. 7 workshop.

Marie Carswell goes into labor as a result of the "disaster" and is received by Dr. Marilyn Kovnat at Winchester Hospital's emergency room entrance. Pushing the wheelchair is Dick Raymond of Medford, a hospital employee.

Middlesex Canal Study To Be Presented To Metropolitan Area Planning Council

By PEYTON FLEMING

The findings of the Industrial Archeological Association's three-month study of the 176-year-old Middlesex Canal will be presented to the Metropolitan Area Planning Council (MAPC) and to members of the Middlesex Canal Commission at the end of the month.

The archeological survey of the 27-mile canal that runs through Winchester from Boston to Lowell is part of MCC efforts during the last two years to rejuvenate the historical canal.

The archeological study will include a series of new maps indicating the exact location of the half-buried canal and a description of extant features of the canal that still remain.

Built in 1803 to facilitate trade between Boston and Concord, N.H., the canal was closed in 1853 with the advent of the Boston Railroad.

The Massachusetts Historical Commission received a $40,000 grant ($20,000 from the state and a $20,000 matching grant from the federal government) last March for the canal project.

The MAPC and the Northern Middlesex Area Planning Council (NAPC) were contracted by MCC to supervise the overall canal study.

According to Richard Burke, director of the canal project, the archeological findings will help the MAPC and the NAPC to make a series of recommendations to Winchester and the eight other communities the canal passes through about possible ways to reacquaint the public to the canal's existence.

Burke referred to the canal "as a resource that is part of the area's history which was instrumental in the development of the region."

The purpose of the MAPC and NAPC proposals, according to John Connory, director of Technical Studies for MAPC, will be to suggest possible locations for landmarks and public parks on the old canal. Sandy Beach was mentioned as a possible landmark site.

"We can only conceptualize certain possible uses of the canal though," Burke pointed out, "it is up to the individual communities to implement our ideas." MAPC and NAPC recommendations will be submitted in March.

Connory and Burke both mentioned open space and recreation planners as possible avenues for carrying out their proposals. Burke added that it would be unrealistic for anyone to think that portions of the Middlesex Canal will be restored as they have done in Woburn.

Winchester Trails Has Guide To Local Woodlands

Winchester Trails, in cooperation with the Winchester Conservation Commission, has prepared a 1979 guide to Winchester woodlands.

The pamphlet charts the physical history of the town as well as mapping the Long Pond, Davidson Park, Nike Site, Town Forest, Glen Green, Mt. Pisgah, Sucker Brook, Sachem Swamp, Smith Pond, Locke Farm and Horn Pond Brook sites.

The committee which prepared the guide includes: Linda Greco, Louise Ahearn, Nancy Goodwin, Margie Lamar, Alice Osgood, Jean Smith, Phyllis Stearns, Fran VerPlanck and Sally Wund.

The Winchester Trails guides are on sale at the Town Hall Engineering Office and Henderson's Stationery store on Main street.

Residents Take Part In Annual Boston Concert

On Sunday, at 4 p.m. the Old North Singers and Players, conducted by Douglass Davidson, will present their annual free concert at the historic Old North Church, 193 Salem st., Boston.

Featured will be a selection of solos and choruses from Mendelssohn's famous oratorio, "Elijah," a section from "Laud to the Nativity" by Respighi, and other pieces by Bach, Handel and Jaap Vranken.

The conductor, Douglass Davidson, and his wife, Carole Davidson, who is the organist at Old North Church, live at 14 Thornberry rd. Their music can be heard every Saturday at 7:30 p.m. on WCRB radio, on "View from the Steeple."

Another local resident, John Duffy, who is a member of the Old North Singers, will be featured during the concert as baritone soloist.

Yoga-Creativity Workshop Held At Nursing Home

Beginning with relaxed deep breathing and ending on a lively disco beat, a Jenks Center group demonstrated a Yoga and Creativity Workshop at the Winchester Convalescent and Nursing Home hosted by Mimi Burtnett, Recreation Director.

While some of the participants worked in standing positions and on floor mats, others sat on chairs to show easier exercises with similar benefits that those in wheelchairs could follows.

After the yoga exercises the group created a mobile positive-negative space sculpture and involved the audience in a name game, communicating life-long ambitions through gestures instead of words. The program ended with a surprise disco routine led by Catherine Snell and Annette Riley and more traditional dancing and singing to Norman Keene's familiar piano tunes.

Other participants in the series led by Paulett Taggart of the Winchester Drama Workshop include: Alice Baker, Kay Bond, Agnes Blyth, Audrey De Maio, Violet and Kaspar Myrvagnis, Bernhardt Anderson, Lucie Scala and Kathleen Knight.

Although the recent program ended the Workshop series, Yoga exercises will continue Tuesday mornings from 9:15 to 10 in the crafts room at the Jenks Center, using the tape recording of a master teacher, Ruth Bender. All past and current participants are invited.

Social News

Martha Anne Byam Marries Gary Nelson Fincke

Martha Anne Byam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Alan Byam of North Tewksbury, was recently married to Gary Nelson Fincke, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Fincke of Winchester.

The wedding ceremony was performed at St. Anne's Episcopal Church in Lowell, where the bride was given in marriage by her father. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is the assistant dean of transfer and commuting students at the University of New Hampshire. She is a graduate of the University of New Hampshire and received a master's degree in social work from the University of Utah in Salt Lake City.

The bridegroom, who is also a graduate of the University of New Hampshire, is self-employed in real estate development.

The couple plan to live in Exeter, N.H. after a trip to Bermuda.

Julia Coughlan Weds Bryan Killian At St. Eulalia's

Julie Patricia Coughlan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Coughlan of Winchester, was married Nov. 24th to Bryan Gerard Killian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard J. Killian of River Vale, N.J.

Rev. James J. Haddad officiated at the Nuptial Mass at St. Eulalia Church. A reception and luncheon followed at the Parker House, Boston.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with a high neck, fitted bodice, and long sleeves. The A-line skirt fell softly to the floor and continued into a chapel length train. The dress was appliqued with beaded re-embroidered alencon lace, and accented with a matching chapel length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and phalaenopsis orchids.

Kathleen McCormick of Groton, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Sharon Driscoll of Bedford, Linda Freeman of Richmond, VA, and Sarah Luick of Boston. Nancy Muth was in charge of the guest book.

Terence Killian of River Vale, N.J. brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Ushers were Thomas Clerici, of Wequom, WI, William Coughlan of Yarmouthport, Michael Heitz of Crestwood, N.Y., and Harold Schroeder of Rockville Center, N.Y.

The bride is a graduate of Marycliff Academy. She attended Newton College of The Sacred Heart, and graduated cum laude from Boston College. She has since joined the Trust Department of the New England Merchants National Bank of Boston.

The bridegroom is a graduate of St. Joseph's School, Montvale, N.J., Boston College, and Fordham University, where he was a member of the Law Review. He is an Associate with the firm of Sullivan and Worcester of Boston.

After a wedding trip to St. Croix, Virgin Islands, the couple will live in Boston.

..In 1850 the population in Winchester was 1,350. In 1860 it was 1,937.

Win. Chamber Of Commerce Celebrates First Anniversary

It has been one year since the Winchester Chamber of Commerce was created by a group of community spirited business people. Now, largely through that group's efforts and the efforts of the Chamber staff, the Chamber of Commerce has become a "voice for business" representing 180 member organizations and more than 2000 Winchester employees.

On Wednesday, the officers, directors, members and staff of the Chamber will celebrate their accomplishmen accomplishments at the Winchester Country Club.

Executive Vice President Barbara Crowell says, "Our major accomplishment is the creation of a solid, effective group of people working together to adVance the business and civic interests of Winchester and we are very proud of it."

Crowell also indicated that both she and the Board of Directors are looking to 1980 with great optimism and believe a healthy business climate can be attained.

Toys For Tots At Fire Station

Once again this year, "Toys For Tots," a drive by the US Marine Corps to collect usable toys for underprivleged children of greater Boston, will brighten the lives of many unfortunate youths. Any toys that are no longer used at home, which the Marines will repair if slightly broken, are welcome.

All toys and games that Winchester residents wish to donate may be dropped off at the Fire Station on 32 Mt. Vernon st.

Legislation By Petition Due Next Wednesday

State Senator Samuel Rotondi says that any citizens interested in filing legislation under the "right of free petition" should contact his office no later than Wednesday.

Rotondi says that "Under the right of free petition, any citizen may request his Legislator to file legislation on his behalf as long as it is not frivolous." Proposed legislation must be signed and submitted to the Senate Clerk by Wednesday.

"This right of free petition is an historic right which few people are aware of, but one which is an important aspect of political life; and Massachusetts is one of few states in the country where the people have direct access to the legislative process."

Rotondi continued by stating, "during my door-to-door campaign, many of my constituents had excellent ideas for legislation, and I hope that citizens interested in filing legislation will take advantage of this opportunity, and contact my office at the State House."

INSULATION
(Blown in or Batts)
Cellin insulation can save up to 38% on your heating bill year after year.
Cellin is a superior loose-fil cellulose insulation which is blown into walls, floors and ceilings. Only Cellin offers all these advantages.
Safe and reliable. Cellin is non-toxic, non-irritating to the touch, flame-retardant and non-conductive. It meets or exceeds federal specification HH-I-515C, Type 1, Class 25, and carries an Underwriters Laboratories labeling.
Natural product. Cellin consists of short cellulosic wood fibers made of selected newsprint which has been processed and chemically treated.
Total coverage. Unlike many insulations, Cellin fills every possible space, giving you even, complete coverage.
Higher R-value. Cellin has a greater R-value (resistance to heat flow— the measure for insulation) per inch than most insulations.
Non-corrosive and moisture-resistant. There's no corroding of pipes, no rotting of wood in walls and ceilings.
Other advantages. Cellin is vermin-resistant, reduces noise levels and is long-lasting.

Rotondi Chairing Committee To Study Civil Service

Senator Sam Rotondi, chairman of the Public Service Committee, recently announced legislation that would create a Civil Service Commission. This legislation was given favorable action by the Committee and awaits legislative deliberation.

"Civil Service systems developed throughout the nation late in the 19th century because of great public outcry against the spoils system and its basic concept that government jobs were primarily awards for the politically faithful. In those days, a change of administration frequently brought a complete staff turnover. The creation of civil service systems arose from undesirable patronage practices on all levels of government, federal, state, and local.

"In 1884, following New York's lead, Massachusetts became the second state to establish a civil service system. Its civil service law applied not only to the state but to political subdivisions as well. Today, there is no city or town in Massachusetts which does not have at least one of its employees under civil service."

Rotondi continued, "Although this new system has as its basic concept merit versus patronage as a basis for entry and promotion in public employment, this concept could only be insured by proper implementation and a stringent overview of the process. As the public sector continued to grow control of the system began to break down.

It became even more difficult to classify job titles and prepare exams. Political influence found its own place within the system and provisional appointments were inappropriately made when existing Civil Service lists were never reached."

Also, said Rotondi, "Little was done on any level dealing with merit rating systems in an attempt to offer incentives to public employees to better their existing positions of employment. As the cost of the public sector grew at the expense of taxpayers, those taxpayers revolted and public employees became the whipping boy.

These conditions, frustrated even more by the constant change of administrations on the state and local level, caused a breakdown in the morale of public employees and a loss of public confidence in the system. But the system caused more than alterations in perceptions, it was causing real life inequities that have to be addressed immediately.

"For example, it is wildly held political perception that Civil Service is bad because everybody is tenured after six months, and therefore, is no further incentive to do a job well. The facts show that tenure has caused some problems, but it is interesting to note that of the 35,000 state civil service jobs, 23,000 are not tenured at all, but are provisional, subject to dismissal at any time.

There are a lot of reasons for this condition. One such reason is the fact that a hold was put on some civil service exams during the past four years. The result has been that many provisionals who have been on the job for several years now face a loss of job should these exams be given.

Several bills appeared before our committee this year asking the legislature to secure the employment of these provisionals. The committee considered it premature to do so, pending the Civil Service Commission's examination of this very serious problem."

The Division of Personnel Administration and the Civil Service Commission have worked diligently in establishing a program of delegation to the community the power to administer its own personnel system.

This system is presently working in the City of Worcester. Many communities are ready and willing to take on this responsibility, but with the present back log, it is difficult for the Division to expand upon the program.

"The Committee on Public Service has taken great care to make certain that all interested parties would be represented on this Special Commission." Membership of this Commission will be the key to its success. The Commission will have 23 members. The Chairmen of the Joint Committee on Public Service, Rotondi and Rep. Nicholas Buglione (D-Methuen), will serve as Chairmen of this Special Commission.

In addition the Senate President will appoint three senators as members of the Commission and the Speaker of the House shall appoint eight Representatives to serve on the Commission. Gov. King will appoint 10 members.

The Governor's appointees shall include the Personnel Administrator or his designee, one member of the Civil Service Commission, one member of Council 93 American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees AFL-CIO, one member of Local 509 Service Employees International Union, one member of the Professional Firefighters of Massachusetts, one member of the International Brotherhood of Police Officers NAGE, one member of the Massachusetts Municipal Association.

"The Commission will spend an intensive six months looking at our entire system, the system used in other states, the Federal System, and Personnel Administration in private industry," said Rotondi. "We will then prepare legislation to be presented next session. We hope that this legislation will be tough but reasonable. It is our hope that the legislature will approve this Commission so that we can begin this much needed process."

Rotondi continued, "The Commonwealth can no longer afford to operate its employment system in its present manner. The purpose of this Commission is to make the system more effective and efficient. The benefit of a better Civil Service System will go to the employees and the ultimate winner will be the taxpayers of this state."

A Final Fire Downs A Piece Of Local History

By CELIA L. PUFFER

Recently, a final fire destroyed the remnants of the last of the historic brick structures that used to be part of the old Puffer Manufacturing Company. It was located just to the left of the entrance to the town disposal area.

Presently owned by Greif Brothers, a trucking company, this was not the first tragedy to strike the site. The 1938 hurricane blew down parts of the buildings, all of which were interconnected, and there was a previous fire in 1944.

But, at one time successful businesses had been conducted in the brick factory buildings. The structures were built in 1893 by the McKay Metallic Fastener Company that made shoe machinery. In 1907 this company became part of United Shoe Machinery and moved to Beverly.

The Puffer Manufacturing Company, then located on Portland street in Boston, purchased the 16-acre site which, besides the buildings, included a railroad siding.

The company was founded by Alvin Davis Puffer who lived in Medford. In fact, his large two and one-half story mansard roofed house with a cupola, located on Winthrop circle by the rotary across from the Regency Condominiums, has only recently been torn down to make room for the construction of a modern nursing home.

Puffer's first job was that of a blacksmith. In 1842 he then began working as a plumber on Water street in Boston, but soon began to manufacture soda fountains. He named his business the A.D. Puffer Manufacturing Company. This rapidly grew and he secured more than 100 valuable patents used in soda fountains.

He had 10 children, three of whom were boys and were later associated with him in his business.

Eventually the A.D. Puffer Manufacturing Company merged with three other firms into the American Soda Fountain Company. When this consolidation expired the Puffer interests moved to Winchester under the name of the Puffer Manufacturing Company. In 1907 it was necessary and advantageous for the company to locate in larger quarters. Several local residents, as well as some from Woburn, were employed there.

Most drug stores had a long marble counter equipped with fancy spigots and carbonators. People would sit on stools in front and order all kinds of delicious carbonated drinks mixed in front of them whle they waited.

Flavors sold by the Puffer Manufacturing Company included those with such strange names as "Blood Orange," "Ottawa Bear" and "Nerve Food." Of course more traditional ones as root beer, sarsaparilla, strawberry or cherry could be supplied.

At a time when most homes depended on ice chests for storing cool drinks, and there were no supermarkets stocked with bottled tonics, it was a treat for residents to walk to a local drug store to enjoy a carbonated drink.

Alvin Puffer died in 1906, a year before the company moved to Winchester.

As time went by, besides his three sons, four of Puffer's grandsons were associated with the corporation. One of his sons was named Luther. He in turn had a son, Luther Jr., who had a son Luther III. These were the Puffers connected with Puffer Insurance Agency still located in the cneter, and still managed by members of the Puffer family.

Two of Alvin's grandsons lived in Medford and worked for the Puffer Manufacturing Company. The other two lived in Winchester - Stanley on Harrison street, and Luther Jr. on Wildwood street.

At the time of World War I the Puffer Manufacturing Company had contracts to make munitions for the Allies. At the finish of the war they were left with a great deal of unused materials that had already been paid for. It was the beginning of the end. In 1929 the company went into receivership.

Then came the hurricane and the two fires. But in a few old New England drug stores it is still possible to find an old marble soda fountain marked with a Puffer Manufacturing Company label.

(Editor's note: Celia L. Puffer is a freelance writer. Her husband, Joseph, is a great-grandson of Alvin Davis Puffer.)

DEFEATING WINTER'S GREATEST THREAT

Question: Which of the following is the most frequent cause of damage to New England Homes?

- ☐ A. Windstorms.
- ☐ B. Fire.
- ☐ C. Frozen pipes with ensuing water damage.

Answer: Here in New England, more homes are damaged each year by water damage (following pipe freezing) than by fire! Item C is the correct answer.

American Alarm & Communications' HEATWATCH is designed to defeat winter's greatest threat to your home by detecting heating system failure and reporting it at once so that remedial action can be taken before pipes freeze.

Each winter HEATWATCH saves a number of homes and businesses from costly plumbing and water damage repairs. In those instances, the modest cost of HEATWATCH is returned to the owner 100 fold or more in the losses prevented.

With winter almost upon us, now is a good time to order your HEATWATCH service. In no other instance is the old adage more true that:

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

ADS AND DISCLOSURE RULE

The truth-in-lending law became effective July 1, 1969. It's also known as the disclosure rule. It requires lenders to give customers a plain statement of the credit charges involved in any transaction.

One area where it has helped to clear possible misunderstandings is in real estate ads. Remember when ads used to read like this: "FOR SALE — 3-bedroom home in fine location, only $22,000 with $3,000 down."

Now, if the advertiser mentions the down payment, he must also mention the monthly payment and the interest rate. Tell all or tell nothing! You may advertise the selling price, or terms like "low down payment" or "easy terms." But when it comes to the big three — down payment, interest rate or monthly payment — if you mention one you have to tell all three.

The obvious reason is so buyers can't be misled by an ad that offers $2,000 down payment — and then finding out that the monthly payments are extremely high.

In all your real estate needs — buying —selling — rentals — appraisals — consultation — please phone or drop in at

ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 THOMPSON ST., WINCHESTER. PHONE 729-1663.

Paper Program Most Profitable In Town's Recycling Program

The paper program in Winchester, according to Public Works Director Walter Tonaszuck, is the "most profitable" component of the town's recycling program.

According to Tonaszuck, residents seem more willing to separate papers from the rest of the trash brought to the Transfer Station, and there tends to be more volume of it than of other recyclable materials.

Approximately six tons of paper is received into the Transfer Station weekly, and the revenue produced is never lower than $5 per ton. The program does not incur additional costs to the town since the contractor hauls the materials away before selling it. No local labor is involved.

Added to the $5 per ton revenue is the fact that the paper doesn't increase the hauling costs generated by the balance of materials at the Transfer Station. Tonaszuck says it costs the town approximately $16.50 per ton of trash to be hauled from the site.

He suggests that if residents were to separate paper from other trash materials, it could reduce town taxes by not adding to these hauling costs. Tonaszuck says it's one way of making a contribution without too much effort.

BOARD OF APPEAL
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The WINCHESTER BOARD OF APPEAL will hold a PUBLIC HEARING on THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1979 at 7:30 P.M., in the BOARD OF HEALTH CLINIC ROOM of the TOWN HALL on the ollowing matters:

(1) PETITION NO. 2470 — That of LEONARD J. SORTINO by HENRY QUILL, ESQ., 573 MAIN STREET, WINCHESTER, MA. concerning the property located at 730-732 MAIN STREET (HAGGERTY'S GARAGE), WINCHESTER, MA. The petitioner is aggrieved by the October 4, 1979 decision of the Building Commissioner-Zoning Enforcement Officer preventing the use of a structure located at the rear of the premises as an auto repair garage and is appealing his determination in accordance with Chapter 40A, Section 8 of the Massachusetts General Laws. The property is located within the GBD (General Business) zoning district and consists of 6556 plus or minus S.F.

(2) PETITION NO. 2471 — That of HILLSIDE REALTY TRUST, MATTEO GALLO TRUSTEE, 134 BELMONT STREET, READING, MA. concerning the premises located at 219 WASHINGTON STREET, WINCHESTER, MA. The petitioner seeks permission to continue to maintain a common kitchen on each of the three (3) floors of these premises. The property is located within the RG (General Residence) zoning district, consists of 20,860 S.F. and is currently maintained as a non-conforming thirteen (13) unit, lodging house use.

(3) PETITION NO. 2472 — That of CHARLES B. PRICE, 41 JEFFERSON ROAD, WINCHESTER, MA. The petitioner seeks a Dimensional Variance pursuant to Chapter 40A, Section 10 of the Massachusetts General Laws from Section 6.1 of the Winchester Zoning ByLaw so as to be permitted to enclose an existing porch and erect a wooden sundeck that will be located too close to the side lot line. The porch is a non-conforming structure with permission to erect granted under a Variance by the Board of Appeal, Decision No. 807 dated November 8, 1949. The property is located within the RDB (Single Family) residential zoning district and consists of 10,070 S.F.

WHS English Department Has Books On Minorities, Women

The English Department at Winchester High School is making an effort to include literature by and about women and minorities in the curriculum for the 1979-80 school year, according to Department Director Frances Russell. Each teacher will design two units. A recent survey of the English Department reveals that the staff members relied on a range of interests and expertise as they selected appropriate materials.

Barbara Stoddard's expereince working with women when she was a VISTA volunteer in a small New Mexico town, led her to plan an American Literature unit on "The Scarlet Letter" and "The Crucible." Stoddard says, "I want to give the historical perspective, comparing the behavior and values of the women in the two works. As Hester Prynne suffers because she rises above role expectations, so does modern woman."

Mike Antell, too, will focus on Hawthorne's heroine "who deals with adversity in a positive way" in contrast to women in 'The Bell Jar' and 'The Awakening'." Influenced by the work of the British sociologist Tyger, Bill Happa will focus on "The Glass Menagerie" to "examine the limitations of the stereotying of male and female roles."

Marie Franklin's 10th graders will examine the themes of pride, injustice, and violence exhibited in writings of American minority writers King, Gregory, and Baldwin. Antell reports he selected "Black Boy" because of "Wright's style which allows the white reader to understand the black boy without becoming alienated."

By teaching "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings" and "A Raisin in the Sun," both written by black females, Maurine Tobin and Ted Benton will each teach one work, combining the two units.

In selecting works for British Literature, Tobin chose Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice" "which shows the tension between society's expectations and the individual's intentions. It's a wonderful novel to use to avoid stereotyping women because of the variety of female characters."

Judy Hession will concentrate on "Jane Eyre" as well as "discuss the myth and reality of Charlotte Bronte's life which would be the actual situation of women in Victorian England." Frances Russell's classes will examine the concept of the white man's burden" in Forster's "A Passage to India" and Kipling's poetry.

Alan Paton's novel "Cry, the Beloved Country," which shows the disasterous effects of South African apartheid on black and whites, will be focus for British minority studies.

For World Literature students, Susan Austin selected Achebe's "Things Fall Apart" "because it shows Blacks in a positive role, part of a distinct rooted culture. They aren't enslaved or trapped in the ghetto."

Hession's interest in the struggele of the artist in western society provided the stimulus for the unit on women's studies. Using essays by Germaine Greer and Virginia Woolf, Judy Hession and Linda Wagner will concentrate on the question: Why have the majority of artists and writers been male instead of female? In addition, World Literature classes will examine the roles of women in Greek and Shakespearian tragedy as well as more recent dramas by Ibsen and O'Casey.

Hession points out, and her colleagues concur, "I've been surprised to see how easy it is to focus on the subjects of women and minorities, regardless of the author or literary period."

Extensive library resources have enhanced the English program Russell says. Librarian Nancy Atkins reports, "We are working to build up the material on minorities because it has been so difficult to obtain. However, the collection on Blacks is substantial. In Women's Studies, we have everything from the history of the early movement to the latest career opportunities. We have plenty of sources for students to continue their reading and to pursue independent projects."

In addition, both junior high schools have been developing similar curriculum supplements. Bonnie Holmes reports a number of works selected to deal with the multicultural consciousness in Grade 7.

These include varied works such as: "I Rember Mama," "Sounder," and "The Other side of the Mountain." Barbara Nixon's and Marie Archambault's eigth graders will study "The Contender," "Diary of Anna Frank," and "Gone with the Wind." Barbara Norton's ninth graders became familiar with a different culture when Lee Behnke, Winchester's multiCultural specialist, showed slides and spoke about her Peace Corps experience in Sierra Leone.

Scholarship Foundation To Meet Tuesday

The Winchester Scholarship Foundation will hold a meeting for parents and students to provide information concerning the availability of financial aid for future education. This meeting will be held in the Winchester High School auditorium on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. with a snow date of Dec. 4.

The principal speaker will be Grant Curtis of Tufts University and financial aid advisor to the Scholarship Foundation. Terri Seferian, chairperson of the Scholarship Committee, will also speak on this evening. Anyone interested in learning more about financial help for Winchester students should attend this meeting.

Cable Television Hearing Tuesday At Jenks Center

An open hearing, for the purpose of gathering input from the citizens of the town on cable television, will be held Tuesday at 7:30 at the Jenks Senior Center.

"The purpose of the hearing is to review the report of the Cable Advisory Committee and to solicit any response," said William McCarter, chairman of that committee, last Tuesday. He pointed out that no direct attention will be given to any of the eight proposals submitted at this time by cable television companies who are interested in Winchester.

The report of the Cable Advisory Committee was submitted to the Board of Selectmen on Oct. 31. Since that time two copies have been placed in Winchester Library. Although there will be summary sheets of the report at the hearing, McCarter urges all interested residents to review the report before attending the meeting.

The Board of Selectmen will also be present at the hearing, along with the Cable Advisory Committee.

...With the signature of Gov. George N. Briggs, Winchester was incorporated into a separate community from its original status as South Woburn.

Residents Involved With Parents Talk

Two Winchester residents were involved in a recent program of the Parent Counseling Association of New England. Dr. Frieda Lang, resident of Lawson Road and a psychologist in the Medford Public School system was the moderator and had arranged the panel of speakers. Leila-Jane Roberts, Director of the Winchester Public Library, was a member of the five-member panel. The subject discussed concerned Bibliotheraphy and cooperation between librarians, counselors and parents on the use of books in helping people deal wit.. problems.

High School Church Group Holds Thanksgiving Events

The Forum, the senior high school youth group at the First Congregational Church, held several Thanksgiving Weekend events for senior high youth and returning alumni in Winchester.

On Wednesday evening, a group of 40 gathered to go on the traditional Thanksgiving eve hayride. Doughnuts and hot chocolate in the Forum Room closed the evening. Then on Sunday morning, Forumites prepared a brunch for the returning alumni and themselves.

Fellowship and fun abounded as the young people gathered to swap stories and give thanks. In the evening, some of the Forumites joined the Nonagon, the ninth grade confirmation class, in a trip to the Theater By The Sea in Portsmouth, N.H., to view their version of "Godspell."

Youth activities at First Church are under the direction of Rev. Kenneth Orth, minister of youth, with Donna Greene, Craig Ferry, and Steve Williams serving as youth advisors.

Church Sponsored Festival Raises Funds For Cambodia

An arts festival sponsored by members of the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church, has netted $800 for Cambodian relief.

Although some money was raised through the sales of refreshments and breads baked by church members, the majority of the proceeds came from donations.

Those attending the recent Saturday afternoon event experienced piano-ballet concert, chamber music and an art exhibit.

The chamber music was supplied by the Midura Ensemble of Arlington. Local artists who exhibited their works include: Frank Barnes, Marie Farrar, Rosalind Lynch, Emily Marks, Joan Popeo, Pam Purdy, Ann Ribbs, Susan Vrotsos and Nancy Watts. In addition Linda Atwood showed handmade silver jewelry and Helen Parsignault exhibited woodcuts.

All proceeds from the festival will be used for Cambodian relief by Oxfam-America.

WSA To Have Christmas Party On December 12

The annual Winchester Seniors Association Christmas party will be held Dec. 12 at the Jenks Senior Center following the 1 p.m. general meeting.

Entertainment for the party includes a Christmas reading and carol singing. To provide Santa with a bag full of gifts for distribution each attendee is requested to donate a token gift of $1 value, Christmas wrapped, and identified as "Hers" or "His." Doantions of more than one gift would be appreciated.

Any surplus gifts will be distributed to the Winchester Home for the Aged, the Winchester Nursing Home, or similar institution, as stocking gifts.

A kitchen workshop is being conducted in early December by Helen Hodgdon to prepare Christmas cookies and other goodies to be served at the party along with coffee and punch.

MacInnis Enlists

Karen MacInnis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert MacInnis of Medford, has enlisted in the Air Force, according to Staff Sergeant William Killeen Air Force Recruiter in Medford.

MacInnis, a 1979 graduate of Medford High School, selected a position in the administrative aptitude career field and departed for basic training Nov. 15.

After completion of six weeks of basic training at Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio, Texas, MacInnis is scheduled to receive technical training for which transferrable college credits will be granted.

Perenick Gets Medal

Lieutenant Colonel Charles H. Perenick of Winchester recently received the Meritorous Service Medal for exceptional performance of his duties as the Assistant Inspector General, Mass. Army National Guard, in ceremonies held in Wakefield.

In presenting the award, Major General Vahan Vartanian cited LTC Perenick's "high degree of professionalism and his exceptional ability to make sound and logical decisions." In civilian life LTC Perenick serves as the Clerk of Courts of the Concord District Courts.

Colella Enlists

Phyllis Colella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Colella of 25 Shephard Court, recently entered the Air Force Delayed Enlistment Program according to Staff Sergeant William Killeen, Air Force Recruiter in Medford.

The 1978 graduate of Winchester High School is scheduled to leave for basic training at Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio, Texas, April 2.

Plans are for Colella to receive technical training in the law enforcement career field for which transferrable college credits will be awarded.

McDonough Takes Course

Marine Pfc. Festus R. McDonough, son of Patrick and Lorraine McDonough of 83 Sylvester ave., has completed the Field Radio Operator's Course.

During the seven-week course at the Marine Corps Communication-Electronics School, Twentynine Palms, Calif., he received instruction on the installation, adjustment and operation of the tactical radios used by Marine Corps ground and avaition units. He studied voice radio procedure, communications security and the use of encryption (message "scrambling") equipment.

McDonough joined the Marine Corps in November of 1978.

Provenzano Trains

Navy Seaman Recruit Lesley J. Provenzano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Provenzano of 12 Hancock st., has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who completed this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiende.

Provenzano, a 1979 graduate of Winchester High School, joined the Navy in August of 1979.

The Sports Arena

When it was over, the celebration belonged to the fans and players of Woburn, as the Tanners came from behind to defeat the Sachems 22-15 on Thanksgiving Day at Knowlton Stadium. The Sachems finished their season with an 8-2 record. (Staff Photo)

Gym Program To Start On December 7

The Community Use of Schools will again open its doors on Friday evenings beginning Dec. 7.

The program will continue its formula of providing basketball, volleyball and paddleball. The weight room and wrestling will be open as well. However, there will be a minor change. Last year the gym was open to everyone from the seventh grade and up. This was an experimental program that was not as successful as expected and did not produce the proper use of the facility.

This year the gym will be open from 7 to 9:30 p.m. for ninth graders and up - including adults. In addition, if the gym gets too crowded, some sort of control will be established to restrict the overcrowding. Admission will be the same as on weekends.

Vangell Leads PorcuPINS To 3-Point Lead

Tom Vangell led the PorcuPINs to a three point pick-up by bowling 113 pins over his average, including a high game of 190. Vangell won a Thanksgiving turkey for his efforts while Angela Pollino won the cranberries with a women's high of 187.

The DolPINs had a dismal night and skidded into last place behind the former cellar-dweller PorcuPINs and the league-leading PINguins.

There was a large turnout, possibly precipitated by the turkey bowl-off, but more likely due to after bowling refreshments which included Elliott and Mimi Walter's famous eggplant casserole.

...The first Town Clerk in the Town of Winchester was Dr. David Youngman who not only ran an apothecary shop but was also a bookseller and stationer.

All-Stars

Three Sachemette cross-country runners have been selected to this year's Middlesex League All-Star team, joining Wakefield as the most represented school.

Laurie Redmond, Mary Boland and Barbara Myers, who finished 37, 38, 39 in the state meet with a field of over 200 girls, were all named to this year's all-star team.

Youth Hockey Starts Friday

Starting tomorrow and continuing through March an instructional and game youth hockey program will be conducted at the WSA rink.

Part I consists of skating and instructional drills. Part II will consist of supervised games. All boys on all teams will play every game.

The program is open to boys between the ages of 5 and 16. Those between five and 11 should report at 5:10 p.m. tomorrow and Dec. 7. Those between the ages of 12 and 16 should report at 6:50 p.m. tomorrow and Dec. 7.

New Sachem Basketball Coach Looking To Put Last Year Behind

New Winchester High basketball coach John Myers is looking to put the past behind him and start this season with a positive outlook.

"We've already talked about it," said Myers recently about discussions with his players and his coaches. "The kids here are good kids, they're very coachable."

The past is surely something to forget. The Sachems finished last season with a 1-19 record, many of the losses being blowouts. As a result, coach Cliff Wheeler was replaced at the end of the season and Myers was hired during the summer.

Tall with graying hair, Myers has been absent from the coaching scene for the past two years, after eight years in at the helm at Watertown High. Overall, he has about 20 years coaching experience.

"We'll be a controlled team until we can see what people can do," Myers pointed out. "It'll be an agressive team. My teams have always been drilled on fundamentals."

This year's club, which began practice on Monday, will not be one of the taller teams, averaging just over 6'3" in height in the front line. Though Myers would like to try and install a running game into his team's offense, he realizes that you have to have the ball inorder to fast break. If the Sachems can't rebound, they'll never get off the mark.

In the Middlesex League, Myers sees four teams as being the dominant clubs; Burlington, Lexington, Wakefield and Woburn. Burlington and oburn have height that would W pose a problem for the Sachems and Lexington has two time all-scholastic Gene Mewborn, a 6'4" forward who plays like he's 6'6".

Myers, who played high school basketball in New York and then two years at Boston University, will vary his defenses this year. "We're going to pressure the ball somewhat, depending on the overall quickness of our team. Sometimes you change defenses because your team 8 can't maintain a good level for over a period of time. Other times you change because you want to make more problems for the other team. You'll find that the very skilled teams are not going to change as much."

The players involved in Winchester's program played in a league in Reading this past summer against other high school teams, and though there their record wasn't that impressive, Myers was encouraged by some of the things he saw. "The kinds of mistakes that I saw are kinds that can be corrected," he points out. "It's not a no hope situation." As any good coach realizes, to have a successful high school team, there must be a well developed feeder system in the town. A perfect example of this is the soccer program in Winchester. The leagues for the younger ages have provided the high school with some fine players.

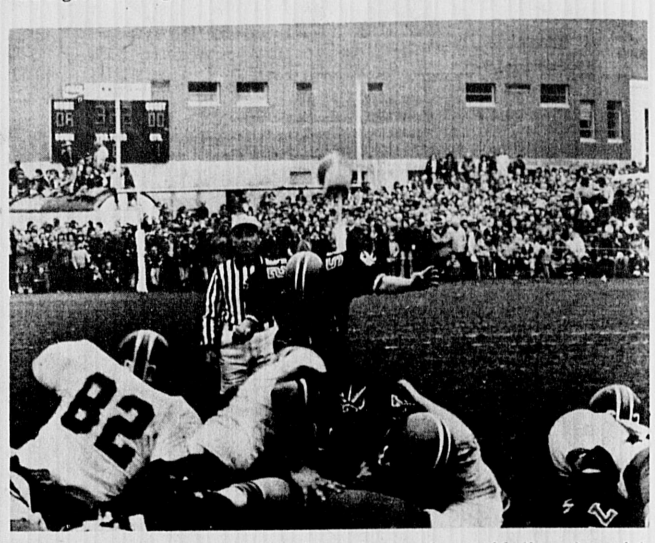
Myers has met with Bob Gleason, the junior varsity coach and Bill Chase and Lou Richie, the coaches at Lynch and McCall junior highs. "I think they all agree that we're talking about an overall town program. I'm very impressed with their ability, their willingness to work and I'm very impressed with their enthusiasm," Myers comments.

Myers will be relying heavily on those three during the season, not merely for coaching the players, but for scouting other teams. "Sometimes you might get people who ' won't want to do that," Myers notes. "They've told me that they would and it helps."

Going back to the coaching ranks was not done out of necessity. "It wasn't a case of going anywhere to coach. I think it's a good coaching situation."

Of course he won't guarantee success or predict final records ("Those things come back to haunt you."), but Winchester fans will be seeing a team ready to play. "We're going to be in excellent condition. We'll be very much team oriented and skillwise we're going to make very few mistakes," is how far the new coach will go out on a limb.

Approximately 40 men from South Woburn, as Winchester was originally known, served in the army during the Revolutionary War.



Bruce Campbell, doing what he's done all season long, adds the extra point to Winchester's first score during last Thursday's loss to Woburn. By defeating the Sachems, the Tanners qualified for the Division One Super Bowl. (Staff Photo)

Basketball Registration This Week

Registration for St. Eulalia's Intramural Basketball Program for boys ages eight through 12 will be held tomorrow in the Parish Hall from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

The program will open with a clinic Dec. 16 at McCall Jr. High School, which will be conducted by Bob Gleason, assistant varsity basketball coach at Winchester High School.

There is a registration fee.

Local Youths Arrested This Week On Various Charges

A number of Winchester youths were arrested in town during the past week on charges ranging from larceny to possession of alcohol, according to Winchester Police reports.

On Sunday on Highland avenue, police arrested two youths and charged them with larceny and malicious damage after they took a report file and a handbook on Massachusetts laws from a cruiser and began tearing them up, according to the police report.

The officers had seen the youths taking the items from the patrol car after they had quieted down a party on Highland avenue. The youths fled down the street and were later found in the back of a van with the stolen property, the report states.

Last Wednesday night, as the police cleared a group of teenagers from the high school parking o lot, a Ford Pinto sped off after being ordered to halt. After a brief chase, the driver of the Pinto pulled his vehicle over. Police discovered several six packs of beer in the back seat of the car.

The driver was charged with driving to endanger, failing to stop for a red light, failing to stop for a police officer and possession of alcohol.

The passenger in the front seat, also a minor, was found with an open can of beer, according to the report, and was charged as being a minor under the influence.

On Thursday, police spotted two cars racing on Aberjona parkway and arrested one of the operators. After finding the 18 year-old driver with an open can of beer beside him, he was charged with driving under the influence, driving without a registration and racing.

On Sunday, a Somerville man reported that after he was cut off by a green Plymouth automobile as he passed Winchester drive, the driver of that car jumped from his vehicle and as the Somerville man stepped from his own car, pulled a gun on him.

According to the Somerville driver, the man with the gun pressed it against the Somerville man's side and said "I'll waste you." He then returned to his car and drove off. The Somerville man did notice the license plate number of the car and it was reported to the police.

A Westly street office building was illegally entered on Thursday, as intruders made off with an electric typewriter and a calculator after ransacking the area.

On the Wednesday before that, three rugs were taken by intruders from the First Church of Christ Scientists on Church street.

Larceny was reported on Canterbury road on Sunday as an AM-FM car radio was removed from the owner's Audi-Fox during the night. Value of the radio is estimated at $250.

The Winchester Star news copy deadline is 3 p.m. Monday for the following Thursday edition. Copy may be dropped off at our office, 5 Church st., during regular business hours or through the mail slot on weekends.

Garden Club Hosts Solar Energy Speaker

A speaker from Northeast Solar Energy Center, Mrs. Cary Boyd, recently spoke to members of Winchester Estates Garden Club about alternate energy sources.

By showing some slides, Boyd led a discussion of how solar gree,houses collect winter light and reduce heat loss: how a solar water heating system can cut hot water bills, get tax credits, and add resale value of a house.

She emphasized that solar energy is safe, clean, inexhuatible. It will help our country becoming independant from the oil cartel, and help to control our own energy future.

The meeting was informative. President of the club Helen Williams, thanked the speaker and Robert Walsh who helped the discussion. She also urged members to come to the Holiday Open House on Dec. 9, 4 - 6 p.m. at Marie Johnson's house. There will be sing along with a piano bar.

The November meeting was held at the home of Janice Coakley, with Carol Dividson as co-hostess.

Meeting For Newcomers On Sunday

Newcomers to Winchester may participate in a program at the Winchester Public Library on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the meeting room.

The program is to help new people in town learn about government, schools and recreation and to provide the opportunity to meet one another.

With the signature of Gov. George N. Briggs, Winchester was incorporated into a separate community from its original status as South Woburn.

Ninety-Nine Students And Faculty Join For High School Sponsored Bloodmobile

Nine-nine students and faculty volunteered to donate blood at the Red Cross Bloodmobile sponsored by Winchester High School on Nov. 20 as 72 units were collected. "It was an exhausting but successful day," reported John Haber and Allison Lowell, senior co-chairpersons of the drive, "and the best fall blood drive at the high school to date."

"We came very close to our goal of 100 presenting donors. More importantly, there were 51 first-time donors who now know what it is all about. We were a little disappointed in the slightly high number of people who were deferred for sore throats, low iron count and what not, but it is done to insure their health. And we were very happy to have collected 72 units for the Red Cross as they approached the Thanksgiving weekend."

"We would like to thank Mr. Larocco and the faculty and staff of our high school for their support and cooperation; Milburn Dixon for helping with the recruitment of Winchester Education Association members as donors and Burton Cowgill of the Music Department for letting us use the Band Room on short notice. We also want to thank all those fellow students who helped us recruit donors and who worked at the drive itself and those who came in to donate. You all showed great spirit and did a great job."

"O Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depth of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance.

"Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return, I promise to make your name known, and cause you to be invoked. Say three Our Fathers, three Hail Marys and Glorias. Publication must be promised. St. Jude pray for us, and all who invoke your aid. Amen. This Novena has never been known to fail. I have had my request granted."

Church Of Scientology Experiences Great Growth

The Church of Scientology, an international non-denominational applied religious philosophy, is experiencing its greatest growth period according to Church of Scientology New England spokesman David Aden.

"We feel religion is an even more important need in today's technological world than in past ages," commented Aden. "With all the technological advancements, man needs a proportional increase in his understanding of himself in relation to the universe around him. Religion has always strived to fulfill that type of need."

In relation to the recent rial of 9 Scientologists in Washington Aden noted, "The principles of justice on which the founding Father soriginally based this country have in some cases been greatly deviated from; in some cases they have been ignored by the officiators of that justice. The government has engaged in a 28-year harrassment campaign against the Church of Scientology which has included infiltration, mail interception and the spreading of false reports on the Church."

"This harassment has accomplished little aside from the expenditure of tax dollars as regards harming the Church - on the contrary the Church has expanded. The new tactic seems to be an attack on individual Scientologists."

According to Loretta Needle, who is studying for a master's degree in Theology at Princeton University, "Scientology has come a long way, and has grown in numbers. There are so many people of different types - and into different activities - art, human rights, rehabilitation and more. Obviously, it will last. It can be greared to individual interests, and even if the interests change, people can use the basic technology to adapt to new ones."

Scientology membership during the period of 1977 and 1978 was close to 5.5 million internationally. There were close to 250 missions and Churches world wide in 1976; the distribution of the Church of Scientology's independent magazine Freedom was over two million; and there were 6,429 full time staff working in Scientology Churches and Missions in 1977.

Aden comments "We are quite pleased with our rate of growth and involvement and co-operation with many reform and religious organizations. Given the current state of the world I think that you will agree that we do need to work together. I'm looking forward to 1980 as our biggest and brightest year yet."

Mini-College Schedule For Next Wednesday

Every Wednesday after school at 2:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of the high school, the Guidance Office will conduct a mini-college program to which all high school students and their parents are invited.

On Wednesday the following institutions will be represented:

American International College
Bay State Junior College
Centenary College (New Jersey)
College of the Atlantic (Maine)
Daniel Webster College (New Hampshire)
Simon's Rock Early College

On Dec. 12, admissions representatives from the following institutions plan to attend:

Bryant College (Rhode Island)
Norwich University-Vermont College
Rhode Island School of Design

Winchester Animal Shelter Seeks Blankets

At the Animal Shelter of the Winchester SPCA there are many four-footed friends who are in need of warm blankets. With the cold weather ahead and the long dark nights, the warmth from even a scrap of wool covering means great comfort to an animal who has no home but high hopes that the Shelter will find him one soon.

Meantime, there are cats - long-haired, short-haired, often pregnant, sometimes with their tiny newborn kittens. There are mother dogs and their puppies. And, unfortunately, there are others, abused, abandoned, who need great care and love and medical help before there is a chance of a good home by Christmas.

They have food provided, care, and there is some heat in the area of the cages. But, in the runs where large animals are, it is very cold.

If you can spare a blanket, hopefully wool, no matter how torn or moth-holed, it would be welcome. It can be left at 403 Main st., or pick-up is available. The Shelter is located at 373 Russell st., Woburn.

International Fair To Feature Family Activities

By SUNIL SHARMA

Dances, games contests, movies, and crafts are but some of the exciting events coming to Winchester March 15, 1980. This day has been set aside for Winchester's International Fair, a family activity to which anyone from the greater Boston area is cordially invited.

Originally, the idea for the International Fair began with Winchester High School's foreign language department, which staged it as an evening party for high school students. This year, however, the Fair is leaving the language department, indeed leaving the high school, and becoming a community activity.

All racial, religious, and ethnic groups are encouraged to participage, as well as any individual who feels that he-she has a contribution. For further details, please call Lee Behnke or write to Frank Bronzo, c-o Winchester High School. Groups from Winchester's various schools and community organizations are also invited to participate.

Already, the Fair's Steering Committee, consisting of High School Principal Vincent Lorocco, Lou Alvarez, Lee Behnke, and Anna-Marie Mancini, four Winchester students, Coordinator Frank Bronzo, Rene Torriere, Jocelyn Malamy, and Sunil Sharma have begun plans to coordinate activities and raise funds.

Winchester's Creative Writing Club, which put out this year's issue of Sassafrass, is planning an exhibit of mythology. The Latin club is planning a miniature olympics, the French Club a crepe stand, and the German club a prize for the balloon which travels farthest.

Other clubs will participate but have not drawn up specific plans. Professional dance groups are being contacted, and local children will perform international folk dances. McCall's International Club is planning to represent Indian culture. These plans are only a small sample of the lively and interesting events which will occur at the International Fair. The Fair will utilize the High School building and, weather permitting, its grounds.

A meeting for all participants is planned for December 11 in Room 208C at Winchester High School. Representatives from local clubs, schools, and community groups are attending to help plan this celebration of diversity.

Tenants Elect Officers For Upcoming Year

Tenants of the M.E. Murphy apartments recently elected the following officers for the upcoming year.

Alice Ryer, president.
Helen E. Walters, treasurer.
Lousie Chase, secretary.

Muraco Bazaar

The annual Muraco School Christmas Bazaar will be held Saturday at the school from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. A chance to do some Christmas shopping and children may have their picture taken with Santa.

The Winchester Star's news copy deadline is 3 p.m. Mondays for the following Thursday's edition.

Mystic Valley Board To Meet Monday Night

The Mystic Valley Mental Health and Retardation Area Board will hold its regular monthly meeting on Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church.

The Board, which is made up of citizens from the six communities in the Mystic Valley Area, has invited the Winchester Selectmen to meet with them to discuss the strategy of community facility planning. Selectmen from each of the Mystic Valley towns will be invited for a similar discussion when the Board meets in their town at a later date.

Winchester residents serving on the Baord are Katrin Cooper and Deborah Cary.

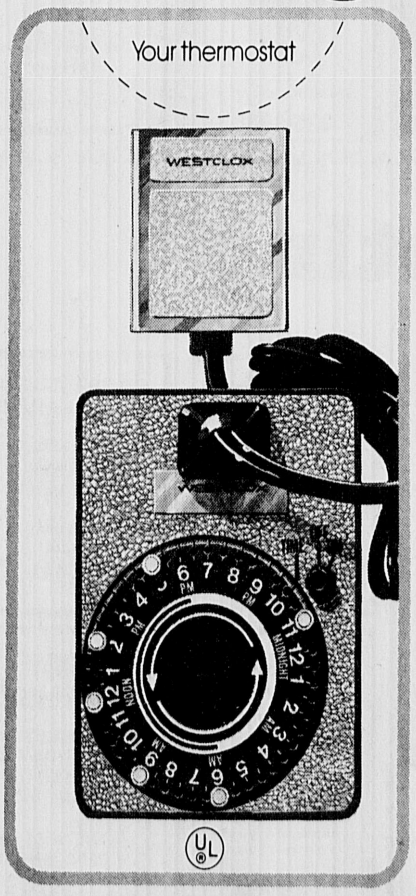
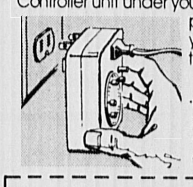
Westclox can save you up to 11% on your heating bill

With the new Westclox® Thermostat Control System, you save fuel automatically!*



- Heating comfort when YOU want it! Programs up to 6 time-settings for a 24-hour cycle. For instance: have it turn down your thermostat when you go to sleep, and up again just before you awaken. And down later in the morning when no one is home, and up again, just before you come back for lunch. And down in the afternoon until just before the kids return from school, or you return from shopping, or from work.
- Save on high cost fuel: You can use less fuel, so that 11% fuel savings would add up to $88 per year (based on an average use of 800 gallons a year @ $1.00 a gallon).
- Pays for itself: Costs $21.95, so it pays for itself in no time, with the money it saves on fuel.
- Easy, do-it-yourself installation: No special tools or wiring are needed; mount the Controller unit under your thermostat and plug the Timer into your nearest electric outlet.



*Figures based on ASHRAE studies (American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air Conditioning Engineers Journal), when a home is heated for 8 hours at 60 instead of 70

School Committee News

Football Game

With kudos to both the Winchester and Woburn High Schools teams, the assembled crowd and all those involved, the School Committee warmly reported on the recent Thanksgiving Day football game. ,

Supt. of Schools William MacDonald called it an "outstanding game" and said he can't recall having seen a better game. The sportsmanship was fantastic and the crowd control was great, Macdonald said.

School Committee Chairman Constance Papas said it was "a magnificent day which made me very proud to be a part of it."

Sandra Rodgers said it was "a very exciting day." And Mary Jean Weylman noted, "It takes a lot more to lose than to win."

WHS Scheduling

On a report from Rodgers, who is a member of the committee studying scheduling at the high school, it was decided that for next year there will be no changes in the daily schedule at Winchester High School. Although the scheduling committee had no recommendations, Rodgers said she would like input on a rotating schedule and the addition of an extra period one or two days weekly.

Administrative Positions

MacDonald reported that for the recent School Committee approved position for Director for Personnel he intends to prepare a job description for school department personnel applications only.

For the Director for Curriculum, which was also approved by the Committee, MacDonald said the administration intends to advertise extensively and he expects there will be a large number of applicants.

Exchange Program

The School Committe approved an exchange program for approximately 15 Winchester High School students studying Spanish to participate in a two-week exchange program with Spanish students who are studying English.

According to Felicia Hall, who is coordinating the program, local students will go to Madrid for two weeks in April while students from Madrid will come to Winchester for two weeks in February.

In both instances the idea prompting the exchange is to allow students studying a foreign language to get practical experience. Hall noted that students who participate in the exchange, program will most likely be sophmores and juniors from the advanced language sequence.

Discipline

At a recent School Committee meeting members discussed the issue of discipline in the Winchester Public Schools.

Papas, who said that the item had been put on the agenda at her request, told those present that the School Committee has to set an example and that it's important for the Committee to articulate what is the school department's standard of behavior.

"We have to establish an environment and attitude that says lack of respect, and cheating won't be tolerated," she said.

Winchester High School Principal Vincent Larocco said he thinks parents are much more supportive of school department action than they were five years ago.

Family Film Program For This Week

The family film program at the Winchester Public Library this week features "Leo On Vacation," "The Monkey Who Would Be King," and "Shadows of Puffing Billy."

On Sunday the film program is held in the story hour room of the Junior Library and will begin at 2:30 p.m. There will be a Tuesday film program for school age children starting at 1:30 p.m. It is requested that at least one adult accompany each group of children.

The films for library programs are provided through the state funded Eastern Mass. Regional Library System.

...In 1914, four years after the Boy Scouts of America was started, a troop was organized in Winchester by Robert W. Fernald who then became the troop's scoutmaster. On different occasions four of that troop's members later each rescued a drowning person. Girl Scouts in Winchester began on May 18, 1917 at the home of Mrs. Addison R. Pike.

Guidelines

On Angel's Wings is the new show at the Museum of Fine Arts' quarters at One Faneuil Hall, installed in the west half of the fifth-floor gallery space. Faces of Ten Thousand Years continues in the east end and the lofts. The transition between the two shows—faces to forms—is not a difficult one; On Angels Wings demonstrates how, by adding wings to human shoulders, artists can express power, speed, and spirituality.

There are about 60 pieces in the show, from 15th-century (BC) cylinder seals, some of the earliest representations of "angels," or guardian spirits, in Eastern or Western art, to contemporary woodcut of Tobias and the archangel Raphael, by Leonard Baskin (born 1922). The angels are arrayed in four sections. There is first of all an angelic overview, with a marble Eros in the style of Praxiteles, a modern chest painted in an American folk mode, a baptismal certificate adorned with seraphim, and from New England a piece of 18th-century needlework whereon a winged Cupid shoulders his bow and takes aim at an unhappy lover dressed in military gear.

The next room has a collection of musical angels, gilt putti playing on cymbals, horns, lute, and fiddle. These are spread across a brick wall, and they look very handsome, dull gold glinting against rough brick.

The eye-catcher of the third room is an 18th-century Italian presepio, thought to be Venetian, made of polychrome terracotta. There are maybe 30 figures, all gazing up at the manger of the Christ Child. There are merry peasants, jubilant shepherds, a fellow who appears to have been overcome (by the occasion or by the grape; he is sleeping it off), dogs, cattle, and a couple of camels. Above them all soars an angel made of gilded and painted wood, carrying a scrap of music: Gloria in Excelsis Deo.

On the walls around the presepio hangs a collection of angels from the Old and New Testaments as represented by the Great Masters and less familiar artists. The Baskin Tobias mentioned above is here, a lean, tough picture, and you can compare it to a pen-an-ink drawing by Pietro Novelli, based on the same text, but done in a fluffy, impressionistic Italian manner.

The last room is full of angels that represent angels in the classical tradition, although most are not angels per se. There are winged Nike figures, cast in bronze and painted on red-figure vases, a sentimental little Eros in chains with an owl at his feet, and a figure of Chronos—Father Time—care-worn and bent. He represents fleeting time and the swift sureness of death.

Between two windows in the west room look for a small case containing a remarkable pair of earrings. Tiny cupids riding on birds are done in the very fine Etruscan granulated style, although they have a modern provenance—the Castellani workshops of Rome, 1860 to 1875.

From here, there is a good view of the Sanborn Fish Market building, which was gutted by fire last week. The MFA windows, cracked by water from precautionary hoses, are patched with gaffer's tape.

A 20-by-24-inch Polacolor 2 portrait taken by the internationally-renowned photographer Lotte Jacobi is the prize being raffled off by the Photographic Resource Center. Raffle tickets are $5 each, and proceeds will benefit the PRC. The winner may designate the subject of the portrait; it could be you or one of your friends. For each ticket, send $5 to the Photographic Resource Center, 25 Buick Street, Boston, MA 02215. Include your name, address, and telephone number. Your canceled check will be your receipt; a facsimile of your ticket will be sent to you if you include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. For more information, call 262-1420. □

The Boar Has No Head For Aristotle

There are some who believe the English tradition of the Boar's Head Procession was inspired by an old Norse custom. But from Queen's College, Oxford, a second story emerges:

In the early days of the College, a young student was strolling through the forest, engrossed in his Aristotle, when a wild boar charged him. With great presence of mind, the scholar rammed the volume down the boar's throat, whereby it promptly proceeded to choke to death.

Probably not the first of Oxford's citizens who found Aristotle hard to digest.

In An English Christmas from Robert Todd, you'll find other revealing stories like this, as well as examples of the beautiful collection of English clothing which we brought back with us from a recent trip to England. Just in time for the holidays.

For a copy, write Robert Todd, 141 Newbury St., Boston 02116.

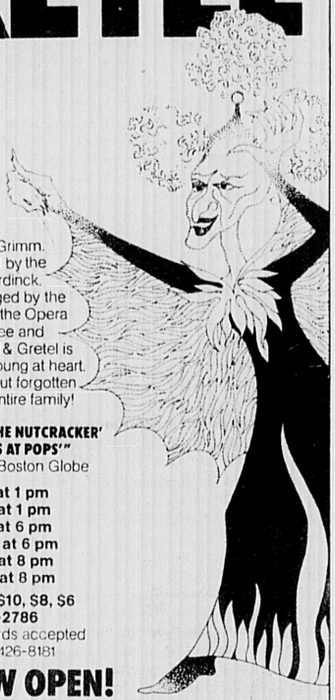
THE OPERA COMPANY OF BOSTON'S PRODUCTION OF

HANSEL & GRETEL



The original story is by Ludwig Grimm. The opera was composed by the original Engelbert Humperdinck. And the production is staged by the original Sarah Caldwell of the Opera Company of Boston. Lovely to see and a pure delight to hear, Hansel & Gretel is for the young and the young at heart. It's a rekindling of an all but forgotten delight in fantasy for the entire family!

Get Away to the City: Hotel Weekends in Boston

By Judith Barrett

Taking a vacation doesn't necessarily have to mean two weeks in August or flying off to Acapulco in January. If you're looking for a great escape and itching to be a tourist again, consider getting away just for a weekend —to Boston. Boston is brimming with museums and shops to explore, theatre to see, cultural and sports events and enough exotic cuisine in restaurants to satisfy your taste for travel, without breaking your bank account.

Of course it's not quite like being away if you have to go home to your own bed after a day touring the town. So why not stay in town, away from the kids, dogs, and chores. Many of the hotels in Boston now offer special weekend package deals. You can check in for either one night or two. And depending on the level of luxury you're looking for, you can get a room with some combination of complimentary extras: welcoming victuals, views of the city, voucher tickets or scrip to use in the hotel, meals, tours, sports events, gifts of perfume or chocolates, and romantic wining, dining, and dancing.

The simplest deal is the Sheraton-Boston's "Odd-Even" weekend room rate of $39.90 a night, whether you stay one night (odd) or two (even). What you get is the room, access to the hotel's pool and restaurants and the convenient location of the Prudential Center—it's close to museums, Newbury Street, and downtown department stores.

At the other end of the luxury spectrum is the Hyatt Regency's $2000 weekend spectacular. It's not for the humble or poor of pocketbook.

This extravagant "deal," which two couples could split and enjoy together, includes being picked up by a limousine that's decked with a bar, television, and telephone. You get Dom Perignon champagne and fresh Beluga caviar to sip and nibble on the way to the hotel. Upon arrival you'll be escorted to your two-bedroom, one-living-room suite on the tenth floor overlooking the Charles River. Called the Massachusetts Suite, the rooms will be stocked with a "premium brand bar," filled with fresh flowers daily, and attended by a round-the-clock butler. You'll be wined and dined in the Hyatt's restaurants for three days and two nights. You'll be chauffeured anywhere you want around town, shown movies of your choice, and given monogrammed bath towels and robes to take home as souvenirs. No one, according to the Hyatt, has signed on for the deal, as yet. So you and your loved one could be the first.

In between the Sheraton's simplicity and the Hyatt's extravagance are many other weekend packages you may find inviting. All prices listed are for two people and a double-occupancy room. Unless specified, the prices do not include tips or taxes. All prices are likely to change on January 1.

In addition to the Hyatt's super spectacular weekend, the hotel offers a $75 one-night deal that includes free parking and $25 in scrip; or two nights for $160, which includes breakfasts, free parking, $35 in scrip, and choice of a movie on closed-circuit TV or a bus tour of Boston. All prices are per couple.

The Sheraton also offers a range of weekend packages in addition to its "Odd-Even" deal. The "Taste of Boston" weekend, which costs $132 per couple for three days and two nights, includes a welcoming cocktail, a three-hour Grayline bus tour, tickets to Where's Boston?, shopping coupons for stores at Fanueil Hall, and Sunday brunch at the Kon Tiki Ports restaurant in the hotel.

The Sheraton offers a "Super Sports" weekend from November through March. This package costs $138 per couple for two nights and offers a complimentary cocktail on arrival, two Celtics tickets and two Bruins tickets.

The Colonnade, one of the city's newest first-class hotels, offers a choice of two package deals. The first, which costs $147 for two nights and $87 for one night, includes a basket of fruit, breakfast each morning, a certificate worth $20 toward dinner at the hotel's Zachary's Restaurant, a voucher for an after-dinner drink and dancing in the Bar at Zachary's, free parking, and a cosmetic gift package from Saks Fifth Avenue.

The Colonnade mini-weekend, which costs $121.50 for two nights and $62 for one night, is the same as the deal above, but doesn't include dinner, drinks, or dancing.

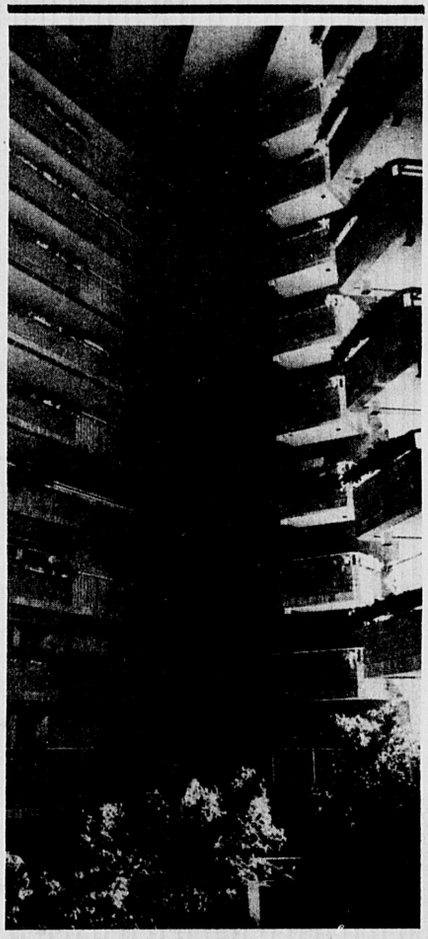
The Parker House Hotel, right in the middle of the downtown business district, invites you to enjoy a "Classic Vacation": Two nights of deluxe accommodations, wine and cheese when you arrive, "turn-down service" (each night your bed linens will be opened and awaiting your tired bodies), and breakfast each morning in your room or in the hotel's restaurant. All for only $130 a couple.

The Parker House's "mini vacation," offers standard accommodations and breakfast in the hotel's restaurant. The price for two nights is $88, for three nights $121. Mini-vacation prices are effective December 1.

On Park Square close by the Public Garden, the Park Plaza Hotel has a new weekend package, beginning December 1. Check in any Friday, Saturday, or Sunday; you get your room, Sunday brunch or Saturday breakfast, a drink, and free parking. The rate is $29.95 per person, double occupancy. That rate includes gratuities but not taxes. Up to two children younger than 14 can stay free, sharing a room with their parents; food for the kids is extra. This weekend deal is in effect through March.

At the other side of Park Square, the 57 Park Plaza Howard Johnson's offers a two-night package (Friday and Saturday or Saturday and Sunday) for $59.95 per person. The tariff includes breakfast one morning, a $14 food and beverage allowance in the 57 restaurant, applicable taxes, and use of the 57's indoor pool and sauna.

The Copley Plaza Hotel, one of Boston's most elegant hostelries, offers a two- or three-night Weekend Special. Two nights go for $95, three for $132.50. Both plans include Continental breakfast for two plus breakfast gratuity, and both are based on double occupancy.



Boston is a convenient location for a getaway weekend, and many hotels have special packages that make it all affordable.

Dinner on us?

Call it an eating contest.
Call it a chance to try a new restaurant.
Or simply call it an opportunity to eat your heart out at an old favorite, compliments of METROGUIDE.
Whatever, simply send in this coupon* with the name of any restaurant you see advertised (not listed) in this week's issue, and we'll draw a winner from the entries submitted.
If your name is chosen, you'll win a free dinner for two (tax and tip included), at the restaurant you've chosen.
So mail your entry today.
Who said there's no such thing as a free lunch?

This week's winner is Trudy McEleney of Arlington. Enjoy your dinner at PEKING ON FRESH POND.

FINALLY, A GREAT JAPANESE PRODUCT MADE IN AMERICA.

So come on out to Benihana of Tokyo. For lunch or dinner. We prepare great American favorites—like specially selected sirloins and fillets, fresh chicken and plump shrimp—according to a 1000 year old Japanese recipe. And it's prepared right at your table, by your own personal chef. Join us. At Benihana. When it comes to great American favorites, our chefs really know their onions.

CB	Carte Blanche
DC	Diners Club
MC	Diners Club
MC	Master Charge

We suggest making reservations, whenever possible, to avoid disappointment.

HUB

Charley's Eating and Drinking Saloon-344 Newbury St, Boston, 266-3000, and in Braintree and Chestnut Hill. Good food: crab-stuffed shrimp, London broil, and excellent service, in an active Victorian room. Full bar and moderate prices. Hours: Daily, 11:30-1 am. AE, CB, DC, MC.

Locke-Ober-3 Winter Pl, Boston, 542-1340. For more than a century, Locke-Ober has been a bastion for local politicians and businessmen. Even today, ladies may feel more comfortable upstairs. Continental cuisine: everything is a la carte; impeccable service; expensive but not extravagant. Hours: 11 am-3 pm and 7-10 pm Mon-Sat. Closed Sun. Full bar, reservations. AE, BA/V, MC.

Marilave Restaurant-10 Bosworth St, Boston, 423-6340. Italian food like veal parmigiana and pasta specialties, all at eminently reasonable prices. Full bar. Hours: Daily except Sun, 11 am-10 pm. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

The Voyagers-45½ Mt Auburn St, Cambridge, 354-1718. One of Cambridge's ritzier restaurants, with a glassed-in roof garden, and a menu that changes everyday, depending on what is fresh at the market. Full bar. Reservations are recommended. Hours: Tues-Sun 6-10 pm. AE, BA/V, MC.

NORTH

Captain Courageous-25 Rogers St, Gloucester, 283-0007. Eat fish, while you look out across the boats they arrived in. Also steaks and chops. Fully licensed. Winter hours: Sun-Thurs, 11:30 am-9 pm; Fri-Sat, until 10 pm. Reservations are accepted. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

The Easterly Restaurant-87 Atlantic Rd, Gloucester, 283-0140, American and Continental cuisine, with New England specialities, and food for your eyes, too: a terrific ocean view. Full bar. Hours: Sun-Thurs, 11:30 am-10 pm; Fri-Sat, until 11 pm, AE, BA/V MC.

Rosalie's-18 Seward St, Marblehead, 631-9888. The cucina here is North Italian, the surroundings warmly Victorian. Veal Sorrentino, shrimp Luciana. Open daily, 11:45-2:30, and 5:30-10 pm. Reservations are advised for dinner. Fully licensed, no credit cards.

WEST

Le Bourguignon-79 East St, Dedham, 326-8824. Everythng here is French: the cuisine, the atmosphere, and the service. Specialities de la maison include boeuf bourguinon and cog au vin de Bourgogne. Full bar plus extensive wine list, reservations are recommended. Hours: Tues-Sat non-10 pm; Sun 5-10 pm. No credit cards, cash or personal checks only.

Longfellow's Wayside Inn-Rte 20, S Sudbury, 443-8846. Both the Inn and its kitchen are faithfully and sturdily Yankee. Hot corn muffins are a stand-by. Among the other favorites: Massachusetts duckling, lobster, baked stuffed shrimp. Open everyday, 11:30-3:30, and 5:30-9. Suns, 12 noon-8 pm. The premises are fully licensed and reservations are strongly advised. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

La Petite Auberge-4 Waltham St, Maynard, 897-2850. Hearty French country cooking. Some of the features of the menu are snails in garlic, cassoulet, filet mignon. There is a full bar and an exceptional wine card. Open daily, 11:30 am-9 pm, 'til 10 pm Sat-Sun, when reservations are a must. No credit cards, but personal checks are accepted.

SOUTH

Canton House-Rte 27, Stoughton (at Cobbs Corner), 828-4720 or 344-4782. Chinese cuisine and Cantonese specialties. Full bar, reservations accepted. Hours: Daily, 11:30-2. No credit cards.

Casa Berrini-Main St, Marshfield, 834-8765. Italian, continental, and traditional cuisine: veal, prime rib, resh seafood, and salad Gazebo. Moderate prices, full bar. Hours: Daily except Mon, 11:30-1 am, Sun from 11 am. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

Ronnie's Kosher Restaurant-1179 N Main, Randolph, 986-6743. Strictly Kosher, all the food is made on the premises under rabbinical supervision. Roast Brisket, kreplach soup, and stuffed checken are a few of the favorites. No liquor. Hours: Sun-Thurs, 8-11 am, noon-4 pm, and 5-9 pm. Fri: 89 am-5 pm; Sat: 5-9 pm. BA/V, MC.

The Puzzle

#105 The Game

By Don Rubin

Charades, for those of you who've been living in a cave, is an old parlor game in which a player, using free mime and conventional gestures, attempts to act out a well-known phrase that other players attempt to guess. The most popular variation of charades —the one they used to play on television—is called "the game." But maybe this will refresh your memory.

First, we'll act out the category (song title, quote, book title, etc), then the number of words in the phrase, the word we're working on (first, second, third, etc), the number of syllables in that word, and the syllable we're working on (if necessary). If a word sounds like another word that is easier to act out we'll use the familiar "sounds like" gesture. You remember.

Is everybody ready? Okay, start the clock.

Answers To Puzzle #103
Going Up?

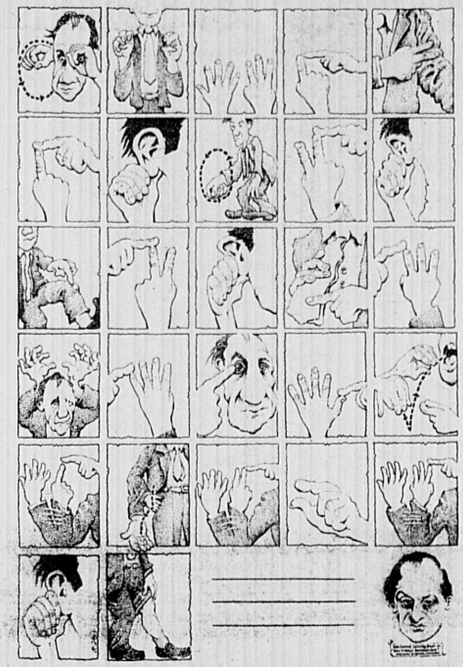
The eight of you who got this puzzle totally correct (there were others who came pretty darn close), as far as we're concerned, attained new heights in puzzle-dom. The answers are:

F—(height unknown)

M—30'	N—660'
J—95'	U—700' & 200'
E—200'	K—790'
C—221'	O—808'
H—300'	T—843'
R—151' & 155'	D—1046'
S—370'	B—1107'
W—525'	A—1206'
V—544'	G—1250'
X—555'	Y—1353
Q—606'	P—1454'
I—630'	L—2063'

The first eight winners are: Dan Kelley, N Quincy; R & K Moriarty, Lowell; P & D Rickter, Arlington; Kevin Moran, Chelmsford; Jean Coffin, Hingham; J & M Callahan, Framingham; Debra Towner, Hudson; Jerry Armstrong, Waltham.

The winner of the Thanksgiving Lottery is Rosemary Lutz of Danvers. Congratulations and enjoy your METRODINNER for two!



Rules of the Game

1. Names of the first ten contestants with the correct answer will be published in METROGUIDE. All contestants submitting correct answers to any of the puzzles through January 3 by the usual deadline will qualify for the New Year's Lottery and a grand prize of dinner for two with all the trimmings. The METRODINNER winner will be announced in the in the January 10 issue of METROGUIDE.
2. All entries in The Puzzle Contest must be received at the METROGUIDE puzzle desk, 227 Statler Office Building, Boston, MA 02116, by noon, the Thursday one week after publication.
3. All entries must be accompanied by the name and address of the contestant.
4. Employees of METROGUIDE and their immediate families are not eligible.
5. Whenever possible, the Puzzle answer should be entered on the form provided.

"To get all the action from start to finish I make Minolta my automatic choice."

—Bruce Jenner, world record holder, Olympic decathlon

XD-11

The ultimate automatic 35mm SLR. For virtually unlimited creative versatility, the XD-11 offers aperture or shutter-priority automation or metered manual operation. The electronic viewfinder shows what you've set and what the camera is setting automatically. It's easy to see why Modern Photography called the XD-11 "incredible."

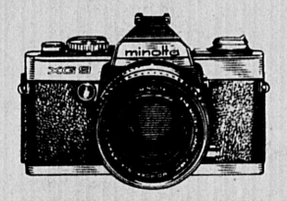
XD-5

The world's least expensive multi-mode automatic. Here's multi-mode automation at a surprisingly low price. Like the Minolta XD-11, the XD-5 features the brightest viewfinder in all 35mm SLR photography. And it has the same multi-mode exposure system. The XD-5 costs less because it has a few less conveniences.



minolta
XG-9

Point-focus-shoot simplicity with total electronic control. Use the XG-9 automatically or set it yourself for creative control. The bright electronic viewfinder shows what you've set and what the camera is setting automatically.

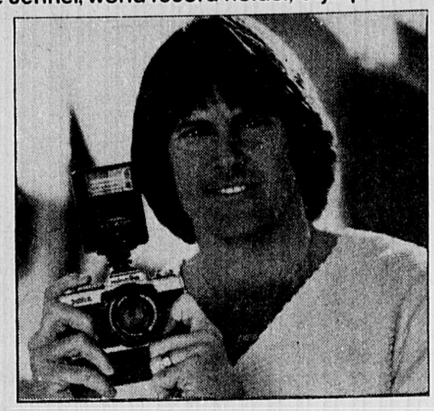
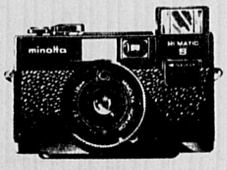
XG-1

The most economical automatic 35mm reflex Minolta has ever made. In its price class, only the Minolta XG-1 offers fully manual operation plus the simplicity of aperture-priority automation. It may be low priced, but the Minolta XG-1 has many of the features of the Minolta XG-9. The major difference: a simplified viewfinder display.



minolta

Hi-matic 35mm Cameras. They combine easy automatic exposure and Minolta lens quality for super-sharp prints and 35mm slides.



There are 6 Hi-matics, including the Hi-matic S, with built-in pop-up electronic flash, and the Hi-matic SD, with pop-up flash and a date-recording feature.

minolta

Auto Winders and Auto Electroflash Units. Auto Winders advance the film in single frames or sequences at about two frames per second. Auto Electroflash units can automatically set Minolta automatic 35mm SLR's for flash operation, cause a flash-ready signal to pulsate in the camera viewfinder, and operate in synch with Minolta auto winders.

minolta

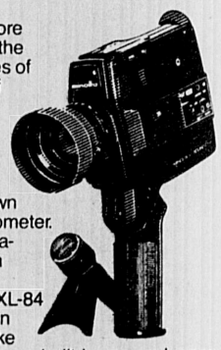
Pocket Autopak® Cameras. Point-focus-shoot cameras with easy 110 cartridge loading and Minolta quality. The economical Pocket Autopak 430E has a built-in electronic flash with Flashmatic exposure. The Autopak 460T adds a telephoto lens. The deluxe Autopak 470 features a clip-on electronic flash, close-up lens, completely automatic operation and shutter speeds up to an action-stopping 1/1000th of a second.

minolta

Interchangeable Lenses. There are more than forty, from fisheye to super-telephoto. The Minolta system has some of the most exciting optics available today, including the new 250mm mirror lens which is about the same size as a 50mm standard lens.

minolta

Movie Cameras. Get more interesting movies with the many automatic features of the Minolta XL series of available-light super-8 movie cameras. The XL-401 features a 4-to-1 power zoom, a built-in self-timer so you can get into your own movies and an intervalometer. The XL-601 has an extra-long 6-to-1 power zoom lens.



In XL-42, XL-64 and XL-84 sound cameras, you can choose from features like up to 8-to-1 power zooms, built-in macro lenses for extreme close-ups, through-the-lens viewing and focusing.

What's the Difference in Cameras

by John Black

35mm? 126? 110? So what's the difference, and what kind of camera should you have? The choice isn't as complex as it seems. Simply put, the camera owner should decide what results are wanted—photo album snapshots with fairly good definition, or pictures with consistently sharp definition and a flexibility in the type shots taken.

Most 110 cameras (the thin, pocket-sized ones in the $10 to $40 range) have a plastic lens, which limits their ability to transmit light. That means a lack of consistency, or less than with a 35mm camera, resulting in a sensitivity to fast movement and ghostly flares of light.

THE 110

The 110 camera is suitable, even perfect, for certain needs—taking along a camera on vacations, skiing or to the beach, when all that's wanted is a photographic record. Because of their compact size, the lens is usually 25mm or the equivalent, giving a prefixed (clear) focus ranging from 18 inches to infinity. And even these "point-and-shoot" cameras have sophisticated options like multi-coated glass lenses and a telephoto feature to bring subjects closer. Some have a built-in flash for those hard-to-get indoor shots, and some of the major 35mm-camera makers are now producing complete, semi-sophisticated 110 models.

Some 110s even have interchangeable lenses, automatic film winders, and automatic readout devices in the view finder to indicate whether there is sufficient light or not. And film makers now make available almost the same selection for 110s as for 35mm cameras—prints or slides, indoor or outdoor, black and white or color.

However, a major drawback with the 110 is in making enlargements. A small camera means small size film, which in turn means poor quality enlargements beyond five by seven inches. Any bigger than that and the picture becomes fuzzy and grainy.

THE 126

The 126 camera, on the other hand, allows for bigger enlargements while having most of the virtues of the 110. These are simple, while having most of the virtues of the 110. These are simple, direct-vision cameras (for example, athe Instamatic) which have fixed-focus lenses with a

OLYMPUS
NEW! OM10
So little money never bought so much SLR

Here's a 35mm SLR compact with features you'd expect from much higher priced cameras. Or never expect from an SLR at any price!

The fully automatic OM-10 features "off-the-film" direct light measurement (OTF). It measures the light that actually reaches the film surface during exposures from 2 seconds to 1/1000.

During self-timer operation it beeps and blinks, with super-bright LED.

A viewfinder LED signals full flash charge and confirms correct flash exposures.

Come in and find out about the many other features—including the OM System of over 300 lenses and accessories.

Take a good look at that price—we'll bet you're as surprised as we were!

Understanding Film Types

By Ellis Herwig

Gone are the days when you could ask for film and not be asked anything more than how many rolls you wanted. Nowadays you'll have to specify which of a dozen variations you want, depending on what the different films have to offer and what your picture-taking needs are.

Once you've determined what size of film your camera needs the first question you're likely to be asked is "What ASA?" What is an ASA? The acronym stands for the American Standards Association, and is expressed as a number which denotes the relative speed of the film. Speed? Well, the more light-sensitive a film is the "faster" it is said to be.

While many pictures are taken outdoors in sunlight, others are taken in dim light, and dim light requires a faster, higher-ASA film than bright light.

Let's try a few numbers. Kodacolor II film has an ASA of 80 and is referred to as a medium-speed film, meaning it's okay for bright light and slightly dim light (like late afternoon). Kodachrome 25, with an ASA of 25, is a slow film, suitable only for bright sunlight or for a camera with a "fast" lens. Tri-X, on the other hand, is a fast film, which can get pictures in fairly poor light, such as indoors or in early evening outdoors.

While certain special-purpose films have ASA speeds up into the thousands, ASA 400 is generally regarded as about as fast as a fast film needs to be.

A caveat about ASA speeds, though. While a fast film will give you pictures in poorer light than a slow film, it does it at the expense of poorer image quality, for fast films have nothing to offer but speed. In every other way, they're less accurate than slower films.

The next question you'll be asked when buying color film is "slides or prints?"

FOR SLIDES

Slide films, which produce positive color transparencies, are distinguished by their names, which always end in "chrome," as in Kodachrome, Ektachrome, Agfachrome or Fujichrome. Which do you need? Well, there are two considerations, the first one is ASA speed versus quality because, as ever, the faster a film is, the poorer the quality. Kodachrome, which comes in speeds of 25 and 64, is the highest-quality color slide film, but it's slow and must be sent back to Kodak for processing (as Agfachrome must be sent to Agfa). Ektachrome and Fujichrome can be processed by local color labs, in some cases within three hours. Ektachrome comes in ASA speeds of 64, 200, and 400, while Fujichrome has an ASA of 100, balanced for daylight.

"Balanced for daylight?" Yes. Very important. Slide films are designed to be used in light of a certain color only, if you want the results to look realistic. Kodachrome 25 and 64, Ektachrome 64, 200 and 400, Agfachrome and Fujichrome all are balanced for use in daylight, strobe flash or blue flashbulbs. Any other light, and the results won't be realistic. For work under incandescent lightbulbs, Kodak makes Kodachrome 40 and Ektachrome 50 and 160 (formerly referred to as Type B). If you want to use a slide film with a light source other than the one it was intended for, you'll have to use a special correction filter on your camera lens (check the instruction sheet packed with the film).

Slide films have one other liability: the exposure must be absolutely correct, for if it's off, there's no way to correct it later on. Thus a word to the wise—use slide films with care.

FOR PRINTS

Color print films, whose color negatives are used to make color prints, have names ending in "color," as in Kodacolor II. Unlike slide films, color negative films offer some leeway in the matter of precise exposure and/or color of light (color negative films are basically daylight-balanced. This is due to the additional step of color printing where corrections can be made within certain limits (for example, shooting under incandescent light or fluorescents). Bear in mind though that if you have your color prints made by a commercial photofinisher, you'll probably have to send them back for reprinting if the color is off, because the processing machines used in these mass-production labs are programmed to match the light source the film was designed for. For example, an incandescent-light shot will come back too yellow and should be returned for reprinting with the notation "reduce yellow cast." Therefore, be sure that your photofinisher is willing to reprint for free.

With black and white film, the choice is simpler because black and white films aren't concerned about the color of the light, only its intensity. Thus, go by the ASA—quality rule: No faster than necessary.

There are many types of film available because there are many types of pictures to be taken. By knowing what films have to offer, you can take advantage of the variations they cover, which makes for a greater opportunity for quality pictures. □

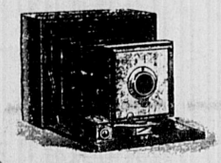
A Guide To Lenses and Filters

By Mark Wolff

One of the masters of modern photography, Henri Cartier-Bresson, once described the camera as "an extension of my eye." He was something of a purist, relying almost exclusively on a normal lens, one that captures a field of vision most similar to a person's normal scope of vision.

Today, the large variety of camera lenses made possible by modern optical technology given even the amateur a versatility formerly possessed only by professionals like Cartier-Bresson. Deciding which lens to use depends on how the photographer wants to treat a particular subject.



FOCAL LENGTH AND DEPTH OF FIELD

Photographing people is influenced by different approaches to focal length (the field of vision within a lens' scope). An average shot of a group of people is probably best taken with a normal lens for an outdoor shot; indoors, a wide-angle lens makes it easier to get everyone in the photo. If you're interested in singling one person out of a cluster of people, a longer lens (a telephoto), 85mm and larger narrows the field of vision and also throws the background out of focus, making that one person stand out even more. A wide-angle lens is most appropriate for photographing people at relatively close distances because its greater depth of field eliminates the need for constant focusing.

Depth of field, simply defined, means how much of a given picture, from near to far, is in sharp focus. The shorter the focal length of the lens (marked on the lens in millimeters), the greater the depth of field (most everything being in focus). Wide-angle lenses reproduce a greater portion of a scene in total focus, while longer lenses reproduce a smaller range of sharp detail. For all lenses, depth of field increases as the size of the aperature (lens opening) decreases and as the photographer stands farther away from the subject.

SPECIAL LENSES

If the thought of carrying around all these lenses isn't appealing, perhaps a zoom lens is for you. A zoom lens, a product of computerized design, is essentially a telephoto lens with movable elements that provide a range of focal length. This one lens may have the capabilities of a normal, wide-angle, and telephoto all rolled into one lens. It should be noted however, that zoom lenses tend to be on the hefty side, and when focal length and other qualities are compared to the individual lenses of set focal lengths, the individual lenses tend to be more precise.

Another type of lens is the fish-eye, an extremely wide-angle lens that gives an angle of view greater than 100 degrees and sometimes exceeding 180 degrees. The depth of field on these lenses in practically infinite so that everything in the viewfinder will be in focus; however, because of the extreme wide-angle nature of the lens, images will be distorted. (It's similar to what a person looks like through a peep-hole in a door.)

There are also special lenses that can be used for macrophotography, which produces an image larger than the original subject without the use of a microscope. These lenses allow one to get much closer to a subject and therefore such objects as flowers, insects, stamps, and many more small yet fascinating subjects can be photographed with relative ease.

Choose the lens you use on the basis of your subject as well as how you want the subject treated. Remember that special angles, close-ups, or panorama shots may all be accommodated by using the most appropriate lens.

Not everyone is a Henri Cartier-Bresson, the many and varied effects of lenses can show us things we probably didn't ever think we'd be able to see.

FILTERS

Filters are thin discs of plastic or polarizing material that are attached to the front of a lens and alter the transmission of light rays, thereby producing variations in tones in which colors or objects are recorded on film.

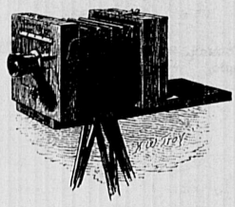
Filters are used to change the tones or the color balance of light creating of a photograph. Light consists of rays at different wavelengths which producde the phenomenon known as color. These light waves can be selectively blocked so that some tones stand out more, such as a darker sky, making a person's face seem tanned, or making certain colors in pattern stand out more.

Most filters are used in black and white photography, although they can also be used with color film, usually serving to balance tones in color photography.

To compensate for the light that is blocked while using a filter, it's necessary to increase aperture size (lens opening) or exposure time.

The most commonly used filter among beginning photographers is probably the medium-yellow or orange filter which blocks out blue light and makes up for the film's oversensitivity to that color. Without a filter, it's often difficult to distinguish the sky from the clouds. The medium-yellow and orange filters allow for some dramatic contrasts.

For portraits taken outdoors a natural-looking skin tone and sky can be assured by using a light-green filter. Indoor portraits where darker skin tones are desired, try a light-green filter, too. In both cases increase the aperture setting by two f-stops. A light-green filter can also be used for garden or pastoral scenes when slightly darker flowers and lighter leaves are desired.



A medium-yellow filter, the same one that's used to achieve the affect of darkening the sky and making clouds appear whiter, can also be used for indoor portraits when lighter skin tones are wanted, to cut down atmospheric haze in landscape shots, to lighten flowers and darken leaves in garden scenes, and to make for a more natural color rendition when photographing sand or snow in bright sunlight with a bright blue sky. In all of these cases, increase the aperture by one f-stop.

Orange filters darken the sky and lighten clouds and an increase in aperture of one-and-a-half f-stops is recommended. These same filters can be used to create unusual and unnatural-looking skin tones in portraits.

A red filter will also lighten clouds and darken the sky. When using a red filter add three f-stops to your setting.

And finally, the use of a clear polarizing filter will help to eliminate reflection and glare given off by glass or water. Increase your aperture by two f-stops.

Probably the best advice for using filters is to experiment. Try a number of different filters in the settings they're considered appropriate for: portraits, sky shots, and landscapes. Another tip is to bracket your exposures (shoot at an exposure setting one f-stop above and one below what is considered the correct exposure) and then compare the results.

Filters can do a lot to add interesting variations to your photographs, be they black and white or color. □

Sigma Interchangeable Lenses.

The super-system.

When you're considering an interchangeable lens system for your slr, consider these facts. The Sigma system:

- includes more than 24 of the world's finest lenses
- from 16mm F/2.8 fisheye wide angle to 500mm super-telephoto
- macro zooms cover the range of 39mm to 300mm
- super-fast 55mm F/2.8 macro for close, close-up photography
- multi-coating • compact and light weight design • built-in filters (16, 18 and 24mm lenses)
- double thread size for filters and accessories—much, much more.

Available in mounts for every popular 35mm slr camera.

THE PENTAX ME. VERY SMALL. VERY SMART. VERY REASONABLE.

The Pentax ME is the smallest and lightest 35mm SLR camera ever made. It's also one of the smartest.

It's fully automatic. An internal computer sets the shutter speed for you.

It takes over 40 interchangeable Pentax lenses, including 20 ultra-thin, ultra-light M-series lenses.

It accepts the Winder ME for action shots up to 2 frames-per-second.

What's the Difference in Cameras

depth of field of about four feet to infinity. They are considered excellent starter cameras for someone expected to be fairly serious about photography and who wants more than just snapshots for the album. They are still small enough to be easily carried and can be used with an electronic flash or cube. And they take all types of film-prints, slides, and black and white.

THE 35MM

The secret of the 35mm is in the film. It is only 35 millimeters wide. Allowing for a small camera body which offers from 20 to 36 pictures a roll, the 35mm camera is priced from the Instamatic range of $55 up to $1,000; some are as small as a pocket transister radio for convenience.

The 35mm is available in two models: the range-finder and the single lens reflex.

The range-finder model has a little window that helps focus the lens. The window you look through is lined up parallel with the picture-taking lens and shows more or less what the lens is seeing. With this type of camera you must be careful composing so as not to chop off a head or two. Once you are used to focusing with a 35mm range-finder camera it becomes simple and easy. This is a good camera for the beginning photographer. It has all the basic controls such as aperture and shutter speed, manual priority or fully automatic selection. All the beginner has to do is focus and shoot.

The only real downfall with most range-finder cameras is you can't inter-change lenses; however, there are a few attachments available for wide angle or telephoto conversion on a rangefinder camera. These cameras also accept the vast array of 35mm camera accessories such as screw-on filters, tripods and cable releases. Some are even equipped with built-in flash with automatic flash exposure to 20 feet with automatic focusing. If you are looking for terrific enlargements and you want to use a better camera than a 110 but not the cost of a single lens reflex system this camera could be the one.

The single lens reflex camera has the same advantages as the range-finder, and one big plus—a viewing and focusing system that lets you look through the same lens that you take the picture with. It's a camera that lets you translate your vision to film more readily than others. It allows you to control the focus, the aperture and shutter, and it is incomparable with simple cameras which you just aim and shoot.

Only adjustable cameras give you the latitude and control that is needed under a wide variety of lighting conditions whether they be a range-finder 35mm or a through-the-lens single lens reflex 35mm camera. The real beauty is the large selection of lenses and accessories available. For openers, there is the normal lens usually in the 50 to 58mm range or if you wish a 35mm or 20mm for a wide-angle effect. Or maybe a moderate 85 to 135 telephoto. If you are traveling, a zoom lens provides versatility in one package.

The latest trend is toward 35mm cameras with shutter and aperture priority combined in the same camera body, along with lightweight ultra-compact size. So, if you are shopping for an SLR don't buy one because of its name or flashiness. Be particular, feel all of them for the one that feels the best for you. A wise path to follow is to begin with good quality but a modest camera and trade up later after you've acquired some experience. If you think through your anticipated needs clearly and decide how much you can spend, do some basic research and find a helpful and reliable dealer. Then choosing your camera shouldn't be too difficult.

OLYMPUS NEW! OM10

So little money never bought so much SLR

Here's a 35mm SLR compact with features you'd expect from much higher priced cameras. Or never expect from an SLR at any price!

The fully automatic OM-10 features "off-the-film" direct light measurement (OTF). It measures the light that actually reaches the film surface during exposures from 2 seconds to 1/1000.

During self-timer operation it beeps and blinks, with super-bright LED.

A viewfinder LED signals full flash charge and confirms correct flash exposures.

Come in and find out about the many other features—including the OM System of over 300 lenses and accessories.

Deluxe 6-Piece Accessory Outfit for Minolta, Canon or Pentax Cameras just $99.97

Outfit includes: telephoto lens, filter, 2X tele-extender, electronic flash, batteries, and a gadget bag. (Gadget bag not pictured.)

Check your Christmas shopping list for any of your friends or relatives who may already own a Canon, Minolta or Pentax (k-mount) SLR camera. Because we've got a 6-piece accessory outfit that they're bound to love. The outfit includes a quality 135mm f2.8 telephoho lens that's ideal for sports, action, candids and portraits. A 2X "tele-extender" turns the 135mm telephoto into a 270mm f5.6 super-telephoto (as well as doubling the effective focal length of any other lenses he or she owns). We've also included a protective skylight filter for the telephoto . . . a compact electronic flash . . . batteries for the flash . . . and even a gadget bag—all for just $99.97! (Also available with a 28mm f2.8 wide angle lens in place of the telephoto for just $109.97).

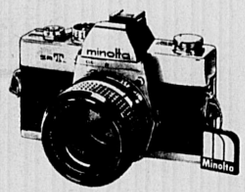
(50mm lens shown also available)



The Minolta "SR-T" series of match-needle metering SLR's set the standard for reliability, ease of use and value. And now you can own a great Minolta SR-T SCII Single Lens Reflex camera body for under a hundred dollars when you buy it in conjunction with the deluxe accessory outfit described above. (It's like getting a complete SLR outfit for under $200.)

Minolta 7SII with case, flash and bag — just $129.97

For high quality 35mm pictures without a hassle — it's hard to beat the Minolta 7SII. It combines easy rangefinder focusing with automatic exposure control, for consistantly excellent pictures. The outfit comes complete with a case, electronic flash and even a roomy gadget bag. It's ideal for Holiday picture-taking, and also makes a great gift.

Pentax MV Telephoto Outfit — just $249.97

Outfit includes: Pentax MV camera body, 135mm f2.8 telephoto lens, skylight filter, electronic flash, mini-pod, cable release, and gadget bag. (50mm lens shown also available)

The new Pentax MV was designed to make SLR photography simple enough for anyone! Little colored lights in the viewfinder tell you if there's not enough — or too much — light to get your picture. And the MV is one of the smallest and lightest 35mm SLR's around. This value-packed outfit also includes a quality telephoto lens with protective skylight filter, an electronic flash, a table top "mini-pod" for sharper pictures, a cable release and a roomy gadget bag.

Sunpak 321 Automatic Electronic Flash — just 49.97

The Sunpak 321 is one of the easiest electronic flashes we've ever seen! Its controls are designed to eliminate extraneous numbers that can confuse you (and lead to mistakes). What's more, the 321 is compact, lightweight, and lets you "bounce" the light in a variety of directions.
